

DR. O. S. CRISLER

A Former Burlington Boy Making Good In The "Show Me" State.

The following taken from the Evening Missourian, Columbia, Mo., pertains to the institution of which a former citizen of Burlington, Dr. O. S. Crisler, has charge:

"Do you know that the state serum farm on the hills near Columbia produces enough serum in one year to treat 50,000 hogs? This serum is sold to the farmers of Missouri and to veterinarians of the state who use it for vaccination purposes at cost of production, an allowance being made for overhead expenses."

In other words, the state serum farm is self-supporting. Not a cent has been appropriated by the legislature for operating expenses of the serum factory since the plant was built and put in operation about six years ago. The manager, Dr. O. S. Crisler, came here two years ago to take charge of the plant. Since that time he has increased the output to a production of 2,000,000 cubic centimeters of serum as compared to less than half that amount two years ago.

Why is this factory operated as a state owned and state operated concern? The Missouri Legislature wanted to provide Missouri farmers with anti-hog cholera serum at a fair cost and serum that was absolutely reliable. An appropriation of $50,000 was made so that the College of Agriculture could produce reliable serum for sale to farmers and at the same time demonstrate to them the value of vaccination for the dreadful malady.

The worst hog cholera epidemic in the recent history of Missouri, or of the United States, for that matter, was in 1913. If the state serum farm had been in full operation at that time, a great many hogs would have been saved.

The capacity of the state serum factory is about twenty to twenty-five times as large as it is now producing. Five men are employed regularly. Serum is produced at all months of the year, the October is the greatest month for vaccination, according to Doctor Crisler.

Such a plant requires about 200 to 300 head of hogs on the farm all the time. In the course of one year, with the production of the factory as it is now run, about 600 heavy hogs and 800 shoats, weighing about fifty pounds each, are killed. Last year, to be exact, 1,117 hogs were purchased for serum and virus purposes.

Only the shoats, or those animals used in producing the virus, are rendered unfit for meat. Three-fourths of the total number of hogs killed are sold for human consumption. So the expense of conducting a serum factory is not so great as might be supposed.

The state's plant now furnishes serum to the farmer or the veterinarian for 15 cents per cubic centimeter. It takes on the average of four cubic centimeters for treatment of one hog. All modern methods of serum making are being followed at this factory. Enough serum is being manufactured to meet the demand. The demand is constantly on the increase, due to education of the farmers about treatment for cholera. Equipment is being added all the time to keep the plant up-to-date in every respect.

The product of this factory goes to practically every county in Missouri and is used in the herd of at least 2,000 farmers every year. Missouri farmers are fortunate in having a state serum manufacturing plant at Columbia, which turns out serum at cost and automatically acts as a check on commercial manufacturers who otherwise might be tempted to boost their prices.

Likes His New Home

Renewing his subscription, G. W. Sandford, of Glendale, Mo., writes under date of Dec. 24th: "Am writing to let you know I am still living this Xmas eve. Would like to see all you folks back here but would rather see you in some other season of the year. We are having much nicer weather so far here than in last year. The roses are in bloom and the days are clear and warm. The Kentucky colony here are all well and happy. I have fattened up to such an extent that I am a dangerous factor at the beauty show at the State Fair."

"Please find enclosed a check for the Recorder for 1920, which seems like a letter from home. Best wishes to all our friends back East for a Merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year."

Badly Afflicted

J. W. Howe, of Hamilton, Ohio, writes the Recorder: "Cancer in one eye which affects sight of both. I'm under X-ray treatment now every week at the hospital here. In the meantime I suffer same kind of treatment last year. Can see to read but a few minutes at a time."

"I have had a host of friends in this country who sympathize with me in my affliction, and hope for an improvement in my condition."

Wisconsin's Shame.

It is not the unexpected that has occurred in the re-election of Victor Berger to Congress in the Fifth Wisconsin District.

When this man, a convict under penitentiary sentence for violation of the Espionage Act, denied a seat in the National House of Representatives by the vote of every member present with a single exception, returned to his Milwaukee constituents. He returned to the most notorious cesspool of democracy, pro-Germanism, LaFolletteism, in America; and it was almost a foregone conclusion, that, when after an astonishingly impudent denunciation of Americanism in the very face of the American Congress, he went back to Milwaukee and asked for a re-election as an expression of contempt and defiance of the American Congress, he would be elected.

He is quite right. The result in Milwaukee was a victory for an alliance of which Socialists form only a part. The disloyal foreign elements of a city in which, during the war, sympathy for Germany was more open and unabashed than anywhere else in America voted for Berger. Friends of the Kaiser marched to the polls arm in arm with followers of Karl Marx in Milwaukee on Friday, the result was the re-election of a man who was thrown out of Congress, not because he is a Socialist, but because he opposed the Government during the war.

If Milwaukee represented any considerable part of America, we would have to put a bad time on a matter of fact the anti-American triumph of Friday is one of those incidents which occur, inevitably, now and then, in a country which is not yet a democracy as we own with people of alien stock. Most of the newcomers have taken kindly to our institutions, but they have become thoroughly good Americans. But there are scattered over the country, are communities whose ideas of government have nothing in common with the American way. Fortunately these communities are not numerous enough or big enough to have an undesirable influence upon the attitude of the nation that they exist, however, is a fact that cannot be dodged—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Victor Berger says his re-election "can not be taken exactly a victory of the Socialist party."

Thrift The Slogan

For All the People.

Thrift and then, more thrift is the slogan that is being thrown forward in anticipation of the new year's program. The savings division of the U. S. Treasury Department is making plans for a National Thrift Week beginning January 17, 1920. The purpose of the week was Washington is to start the New Year with a sound financial program for every individual household. Wm. M. Lewis, director of the savings division, says: "We must refrain from unnecessary and extravagant spending if we are to bring prices down. Having saved money, it is essential that the individual invest it wisely. Continued investment in government securities, on which steady and good interest returns are assured, with full return of principal."

It is a duty put upon all citizens at this time to cut living costs as much as possible. Children should be taught a sense of money values by sharing to some extent in the family financial problems and acquiring a knowledge of the value of money. The slogan in the factory, the business house and on the farm. In the home and school, at the club and reaching even to all social relationships, extravagance should defer to economy, wastefulness to saving, consumption to production. It is a duty that each of us owes to the country and that all of us owe to society at large. Profiteering flourishes in the very presence of production, but it can not maintain its position in the presence of production re-enforced by personal restraint in the midst of plenty.

George W. Terrill has purchased the Moore farm of fifty acres in North Bend bottoms in Boone County. The place is part of the original Harrison tract.

FISCAL COURT DOINGS

Delinquent Poll-tax List Passed Upon, Several Claims Allowed, Etc., Etc.

The Fiscal Court was in special session last Saturday with the County Judge presiding and all the Justices of the Peace present except E. C. Charles A. Wilson, of Rabbit Hash.

Following is a synopsis of the business transacted: Howard Tanner was refunded $2.55 taxes paid on erroneous assessment.

L. A. Conner, Sheriff, allowed $62.50 for services as per bill rendered.

C. A. Fowler, Jailor, was allowed $6.98 as per bill rendered.

W. L. Riddell was allowed $89 for publishing settlement with Sheriff, etc.

C. J. Helm asked the county to reimburse him to the extent of $1.95 per yard for the crushed stone he had to ship from High Bridge for the construction of the Walton and Verona pike, the High Bridge stone costing him $2.25 much more per yard than the local stone he was able to secure. The court took time on the proposition.

The Sheriff submitted his delinquent poll tax list which was examined by the court which allowed him $52 delinquents.

Came A. Conner, sheriff, and presented his delinquent list of personal property, county and State, and it is ordered by the court that the same be released on county taxes on a valuation of $12,799 personal property, and from State taxes on a valuation of $10,438 personal property and three acres on a valuation of $4,870.

The road proposition applying to the county generally was under discussion at times, and it seemed to the court of opinion on the part of the justices is that it will be proper to let the more contracts for the construction of roads until they are complete. The Richmond and Beaver pike came in for a general discussion.

Farmers' Week at Lexington

Agriculture and live stock breeding are new conditions in 1920 and new conditions require new methods. The State Experiment Station the farmers of Kentucky and puts them directly in touch with the best agriculturalists and live stock breeders of the State and gives them directly the results of many important experiments conducted in the Experiment Station. It provides the opportunity for farmers and breeders to confer with one another so that the best methods of each part of the State can be put into practice in all parts.

The greatly increased land values now prevailing necessitates the adoption of better systems of farm management. The latest and most improved farm methods will be presented by well informed speakers. The farmer who attends this big farmers' convention will be in touch with the latest sources of information in the experiment stations and will come in contact with hundreds of farmers who are meeting the same problems that confront him.

Every farmer and his family is invited to attend these meetings which are the most important farm management methods of the year. Those in charge of the program expect between 1,000 and 1,500 farm men.

All the various live stock associations of the State are planning to hold meetings and the stock judging contests will be a feature of inestimable value to all attendees.

These are a few of the reasons why every farmer of Kentucky should attend Farmers' Week, at Lexington, January 28-30. There are many others. Think it over and ask yourself if you can afford to fail to obtain the information and suggestions for meeting problems of 1920 offered you at Kentucky Farmers' Week.

A SHORTAGE IN CATTLE

Chicago.—A shortage of 1,000,000 cattle in 1919 will cause high prices for beef and pork. The shortage at least seven years ago. F. Horne, statistician for the Union Stock Yards, declared in his annual report today, would be impossible to cover the shortage of 1919 before 1937, and that the Department of Agriculture's report concerning the number of cattle in the United States was "too optimistic."

An increase of 377,000 animals of all kinds received at the Union Stock Yards for 1919 over 1918 was reported by the markets in Kansas City, Omaha, St. Joseph and Sioux City.

Decreases in cattle slaughter also was reported by the markets in Kansas City, Omaha, St. Joseph and Sioux City.

The Kentucky Legislature will convene next Tuesday. In the House the Republicans have a safe majority, while in the Senate the Democrats have a majority of two.

Speedy Presswork in 1403

England and the United States share the distinction of owning the oldest set of metal type bearing Chinese figures in the world, a part of the set being in one country and a part in the other; and a recent description goes back into the ancient history of that much-talked about country, Korea, for there it was, at least as long ago as 1403, that separate types of metal were invented. In that early time the type was made of wood, and the surface was covered with ink, a sheet of paper laid across the upturned faces of the characters, and the printing done by brushing the paper lightly with a cloth. The printer, if he was efficient, could make as many as 1,500 impressions a day, but he doubtless worked more than eight hours, and his method certainly would not have gone far in getting out a modern newspaper. But the Korean invention was an improvement over the printing done by brushing the paper with a cloth. WALTON.

Jno. L. Vest and Barnett Franks spent Tuesday at Williamstown on business.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Williams and son, John, of Lexington, visited friends here a part of last week.

Cloyd Taylor, who is attending the State College at Lexington, spent the holidays here with home folks.

Geo. McElroy of Indianapolis, spent part of the holidays here, guest of his father, Thomas McElroy and family.

Mrs. H. C. Diers spent the holidays at Silver Grove, Campbell county, guest of her daughter, Mrs. Chas. T. Best.

Geo. Stephens, of Sharpburg, Bath county, spent part of the holidays here and in Lexington county with relatives and friends.

Rev. R. L. Shirley and Mrs. Shirley and children are enjoying the holiday vacation with friends and relatives in Garrard and Boyle counties.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Miller, Mrs. Addie Burrows, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Miller, all of Landing, spent Sunday here, guests of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Miller.

Mrs. W. E. Brown and three children left last week for their old home at Horse Cave, Hart county, to spend the holidays with her mother and other relatives.

Mrs. Roxie Cleek and Mrs. Lizzie Carpenter are enjoying a delightful visit to Huntington, West Va., where they are the guests of Mrs. Cleek's brother Kenneth M. Aylor and family.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Ault of Indianapolis, spent the holidays here with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Poor, who returned home with them to spend several weeks, making the trip in their automobile.

Mrs. D. B. Wallace left Tuesday for Indianapolis, Ind., to spend the week with her brother Dr. Guilford A. Mottier, and may visit her brother Prof. David M. Mottier at the State University at Bloomington.

E. H. Sipple and brother Floyd, who recently sold a farm, have bought a grocery store in Newport, and will move there in a short time. They had a delicacy for their Christmas feast, a fine watermelon raised by Estill Sipple on his farm on the Beaver road.

Rev. J. D. Waters has been called to take charge of a large Christian church in a good sized city in Texas at a salary of $1,800 per annum and will leave this week to enter his new work. Mrs. Waters and children will leave for their new home in a short time.

Rev. Geo. E. Owen of Lovington, Illinois, spent last week with members of the Christian church and preached to that congregation Sunday morning and evening, making a good impression, but it is doubtful if he will be employed as pastor to fill the present vacancy.

The W. C. T. U. was given a reception by the President Mrs. Jas. B. Allen Saturday in honor of Mrs. Alice Booth who had been unable to attend for more than a year. Refreshments were served and a delightful afternoon was spent by the ladies in discussion and social intercourse.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Chambers and daughters, Misses Aileen and Mary, entertained Sunday with a fine dinner, the guests being H. H. Huston of Anchorage, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Ransler, Misses Estelle, Mary and Lucia, Ransler, Benj. B. Allphin, John Lewis Williams and Wallace Grubbs.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilnot Kinslear of Louisville, spent part of the holidays here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. C. Miller. Mr. Kinslear has been promoted to the management of the office of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. at Memphis, Tenn., where he will move next week.

Jack Arnold Day of Falmouth and Miss Katherine Webb of Williamstown, were united in marriage at the residence of the officiating minister Rev. F. De Moisey of the Baptist church last Wednesday, and the young couple will make their home at Falmouth. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Webb and was the bookkeeper in the bank of Williamstown, and is a most lovable young lady.

Fred Miller came in from Bloomington, Indiana, Saturday, where he has been assisting in the management of the stores known as "The Fair" owned by him, C. Milton Richey and Raymond M. Renaker. They sold $10,000 in the first twenty-four days of the month and had had a wonderful success in the business, the store doing nearly double the business it did under previous management.

Mr. Miller left Wednesday to take up his territory in Arkansas as traveling salesman for the Mishawaka Woolen Mill Co. and Milton Richey of Colo. and New Mexico on a similar mission for the Mishawaka Co.

Deputy Sheriff B. B. Hume was here the first of the week on business and succeeded in arresting Beatley Craig, colored, who is charged with forgery, having signed the name of O. D. Williams to about twenty checks for various sums aggregating about $500.

It is also alleged that he signed the name of Walter Sleet to a note for $100 payable at the Equitable Real Estate Trust Co. on whom the checks were drawn. Craig was taken to Burlington and lodged in jail and will have a preliminary hearing Friday. He worked for Mr. W. Williams a couple of years ago and being on good terms with him it is supposed he took the liberty to sign his name to the checks.

and Craig insists that he did sign them. Craig is married and a young man who has been well connected heretofore.

RICHWOOD.

The entertainment at Richwood school house was splendid.

Mrs. S. T. Hill is visiting relatives in her old Virginia home.

Mr. Langer, of Lexington, Ohio, spent several days here the past week with friends.

Robert Stephens, who has been practicing dentistry in Tennessee, is at home for a few days.

William Carpenter, wife and son, Wayne, have returned to their home in Hamilton, Ohio.

C. D. Tanner and Albert Tanner and family spent last Sunday at Price Conner's in Independence.

We wish all those who are taking the Recorder and all those who should take it a happy New Year.

Stanley Carpenter, son of Wm. Carpenter and wife, of Hamilton, Ohio, was buried at Richwood last Sunday.

The oyster supper held at Kensington school house cleared $18.55 to help pay for the Sunday School organ.

Fowler Lodge elected the following officers: J. W. Criswell, N. G.; C. D. Tanner, V. G.; Walter Grubbs, Secretary; L. L. Weaver, Treasurer.

William Lancaster, 83, died at his home in Camp Washington, Ohio. He was born and raised in this neighborhood and moved to Ohio a few years ago. Burial at Highland.

Wiley Grubbs, of Middletown, O., spent the week end here with his parents. His children, who had been visiting their grandparents for two months, returned home with him.

BIG BONE.

Rev. C. L. Bohon, Jr., Presiding Elder, of the Frankfort District, will hold services at the Big Bone Methodist church Sunday afternoon, 2 o'clock.

The pastor Rev. D. E. Bedinger, of Walton, will preach at night. A cordial invitation is extended all to attend both services.

VISITED WALTON FOR NO GOOD.

Last Monday three strange men, one of them chauffeur, arrived in Walton in an automobile. They were inquiring for a man named Cooper, of whom none of the citizens of Walton had any knowledge. The machine was driven to the L. & N. depot, whence the chauffeur, heard him remark to his companion, "There is nothing doing tonight." This remark excited the suspicion of the chauffeur, who said nothing until he returned to Cincinnati with the men when he notified the police of what he had seen and heard while out with the men. The police soon had them in custody and found on each man a mask and a gun. They were lodged in the city jail and their trial set for Wednesday 2 o'clock.

The citizens of Walton are considerably excited over the visit of the strangers, believing that a big robbery had been planned for their town, but, fortunately was frustrated.

Deputy Sheriff Hume, who was at Walton, Tuesday, investigating the visit of the strangers, went to Cincinnati yesterday to be present at the trial of the two men who the police had under arrest.

H. Schanker & Son, the popular Erlanger merchants, remembered the Recorder force in a very handsome manner. Christmas has been their custom for several years. Schanker & Son are drawing on Boone county for a very handsome trade and is a good, reliable firm.

Rev. H. C. Thomas of Newport, will preach at the Petersburg M. E. church Sunday morning, Jan. 4, coming and evening, and everybody is cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Sadie Smith, wife of H. W. Smith, died at her home in Erlanger, Tuesday. Funeral services at Erlanger Baptist church at 1:45 Wednesday. Burial at Spring Grove cemetery.

The Recorder is in receipt of a lengthy obituary for Mrs. R. C. McNeely, but the writer failed to sign his or her name.

This week's sales of tobacco were somewhat off.

KENTUCKY NEWS.

Important Events Transpiring Throughout the State.

Mt. Olivet—Ezra Whight, of the Pinhook pike, found a skunk den near Chapel from which he took 23 of the varmints.

Lawrenceburg—Mrs. Fannie Saunders, 71, received fatal burns when her shoulder shawl caught fire as she was lighting a lamp.

Georgetown—J. M. Padgett, county assessor, planted eight vacant lots in tobacco and has sold the yield at a net profit of $1400.

Frankfort—Thousands of "No Smoking" placards being distributed from the insurance department will obtain lower rates for policy holders.

Vanceburg—Jack Hendrickson, in justice court, was fined $20 for making the fourth census he has taken.

Mt. Sterling—T. R. Mansfield, of the Howards Mill vicinity, killed a fox while hunting, and the next day caught a bass weighing six pounds.

Georgetown—William B. Jones, Stamping Ground, disabled in the war, has received $1200 in back allowances and will receive $100 per month pension.

Hopkinsville—Negroes took possession of a coal train near town, driving off the train crew. When a posse arrived several bushels had been thrown off. All escaped except one.

Carrollton—Pursuant to campaign pledges, the bipartisan council have cut their own pay from $8 to $3 per meeting and reduced the salary of the city treasurer to $500 a year.

Mt. Sterling—A posse who made a raid in Powell county found 14 mashbarrels and arrested John Myers, but were unable to locate a still reputed to be the largest in the mountains.

Clark County—Farmers are paying tobacco strippers from $3.50 to $4.00 per hundred pounds, but it is difficult to get them even at these prices. Very good prices. Very good prices have been paid for tobacco on our markets, the top being $1.20, the average was around 50 cents. Not enough attention has been given to the grading of tobacco, which is said to be due, partly, to having inexperienced strippers, and this of course, brings the average down.

Fayette County—The prices obtained for farm products, especially tobacco, has been echoed in an unusual amount of Christmas cheer and celebrations were more general, and Old Santa more liberal than for a number of years. Land for tobacco is already at a premium and prices seem to mount daily. Wheat and rye look well. The feeding of cattle is on in earnest. The snow covered up the grass and fodder was fed early this week. Much tobacco was baled down and stripping will be pushed wherever labor can be secured.

Bourbon County—With the closing of tobacco markets should come a rest period for the farmers, with only the necessary feed of stock, but the high prices of tobacco and other farm products have swelled the pocketbooks of our farmers and they have been as busy shopping as they were stripping and hauling tobacco a week ago. Whenever they have a spare minute from the business of shopping they are preparing tobacco for the early January sales. The planning for the crop of 1920 and the price at which the present crop should sell, gives the grower a topic for conversation that never ceases to prove interesting. It is now too early to venture at an estimate of the scope and extent of the 1920 crop, but farmers seem to be planning as great an acreage as last summer and many who have not grown tobacco heretofore to any extent, are taking of going about it in earnest this year, so from present indications, the acreage should equal if not exceed the 1919 acreage. Wheat and rye are in good condition.

BELLEVIEW.

Joe Maurer remains quite ill.

Mrs. Alice Cook spent Saturday at the home of Josiah Rice.

Sheldon Flick, of Lexington College, is home for the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Eugenia Clore was the guest of Mrs. Bell Cason, Sunday and Monday.

Chas. White and family, of Petersburg, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cook.

Mrs. A. Rogers and son spent last Sunday in Cincinnati with Mr. and Mrs. E. Stadenberg.

Ed. Maurer, of Pittsburg, Penn., was called here last week owing to the illness of his father.

Misses Laura Rogers and Miss Alice Walton of Georgetown College, are spending their Christmas vacation here.

The bazaar and supper given by the Christian church, last Saturday evening, was a decided success, the net proceeds were $130.00 and the members wish to express their thanks and appreciation to each and every one that contributed or assisted in any way to make it a success.

Hardly a distiller or wholesale liquor house in Louisville has escaped the ravages of whisky thieves. Thirty barrels of whisky have been stolen by thieves who use long augers to bore through floors of warehouses and grain barges of their contents, the loss being discovered only when revenue agents find the empty barrels or some one detects the smell of whisky.

R. B. Huey has bought of James Bruce the 73 acres of land which Mr. Bruce bought of Ira Kyle several weeks ago. Mr. Huey now owns again his original purchase from the J. J. Lillard estate, he having sold the 73 acres to Mr. Kyle about seven years ago.

L. A. Tanner, who resides out on Rural Route 2, was in Burlington last Monday, seeking places at which to spend his surplus 1919 earnings, and he selected the Recorder as one of the beneficiaries and had January 1, 1920, placed list.

In taking a retrospect of his past years work County Clerk Rogers finds that during 1919 he recorded 507 transfers of real estate, 215 mortgages and issued 42 marriage licenses, February was the only month in which he failed to issue a marriage license, altho in July he issued only one.

The public sale of A. D. Hunter near Hebron, last Saturday afternoon was attended by a large crowd of persons a large portion of whom were liberal buyers with the staying qualities. Auctioneer
M. Eddins was at his best and he disposed of animals and articles with a vim that brought the bidders to the scratch in a hurry. He reports cows selling from $100 to $200; one weanling calf, $85; horses brought as high as $160; corn, $1.70 a bushel. Mr.
Hunter's herd was noted for its milk qualities and there was a general demand for the animals.

Christmas J. B. Rouse dropped in one day last week and contributed the necessary amount for another year's Recorder.

E. L. Ralsbake, of Cincinnati, who has been dealing in Boone county real estate pretty extensively the past year, was a caller at this office, last Tuesday.

Edward Slayback and wife, of Gunsburg, Ohio, arrived here Tuesday with Mrs. Slayback's sister, Mrs. B. B. Hume, who has been very much indisposed for several days.

Earl T. Cropper, traveling salesman for the J. H. Hibbens Dry Goods Co., Cincinnati, spending the holidays with his parents, H.
G. Cropper and wife, of Bullittsville. Mr. Cropper travels mostly in Southern Kentucky.

Robert Aylor and little daughter, of East Bend, were callers at this office last Wednesday afternoon. They were on their way home from Walton, where they had spent several days with his mother, Mrs. J. H. Aylor.

R. H. Sandford, of Covington, who, 40 years ago, was one of Burlington's live wires, is the guest of his brother Timothy H.
Sandford. Mr. Sandford left Burlington about 30 years ago and his visits to his old home town have been few and far between. He is holding his own well.

Midshipman E. R. Duncan, who is attending the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, arrived at home last Thursday and spent the week's end with his parents,
Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Duncan. He does not expect to be able to go home again for quite a while.
He is in love with Academy and the Navy.

M. I. Baker, the Limaburg disciple, of Vulcan, was a caller at this office one day the past week. "Bud" has contracted the very commendable habit of paying for two Records every year and has determined that 1920 should not break the charm. Good for "Bud." May he never tire in well doing.

Henry Klaseener, of Constance, was a pleasant caller at this office and was transacting business in Burlington last Friday. He reported everything in good shape in his town, except the ferry, the large boat there having laid up on account of the ice that was running in the river. Mr. Klaseener and wife spent Christmas day with their daughter, Mrs. Benj.
Michels, of Erlanger neighborhood, where a big fat juicy turkey was part of the noonday menu.

H. L. Haberly, of Bromley, was among the Recorder's callers last Friday. Mr. Haberly is a carpenter and was in the Pullman shop man shops in Ludlow until they were destroyed by fire several months ago, having worked for the Pullman Company until he was on their pension roll. Mr. Haberly says the Pullman shops will be rebuilt in Ludlow and on a much greater scale than those destroyed by fire. For a time Ludlow thought the Pullman shops would be built elsewhere.

Have you tested the seed corn you expect to use this year?
Some say there are grave doubts as to the germinating qualities of last year's corn. By a little care you can avoid considerable trouble and anxiety as to your seed.
It is worth the while to apply the test.

Have your plows put in order so you will be ready to begin breaking land for this year's crops as soon as the opportunity offers. Nothing like getting a good start with your crops.

HEART TO HEART TALK

Rev. O. C. Peyton, D. D.

Here is an old and very precious book I have taken from my shelves. It tells of the deep things of our God, and these are growing dearer to my soul every passing day.
I believe the rich, soul-stirring, soul-strengthening truths of the Bible, and I dearly love to strive to bring them to the attention of God's believing people. My heart's desire and my prayer to God is that my ministry shall be chiefly, a soul-finding ministry.

While, for a time, absorbed in reading the pages of this old book my eyes caught these wonderful words: "All the attributes of God are engaged for the safety of believers."

I was startled by their amazing import. Think of it! "all the attributes of God!" The mind staggers in contemplating these wonderful words. The attributes of God are omnipotence, omniscience, om-nipresence, infinite love—infinite in all its characteristics. Not one of these is fully understood by the greatest intellect of earth. Who can fathom the vast import of all of them combined?

Sorrowing child of God, think of God's glorious, unspeakable attributes. Remember all of them are engaged for your safety as a believer.
Dry all of your tears. Your way may be rough and your trials bitter, painful and hard to bear. Your life is hid with Christ in God and all God's infinite attributes are pledged for your safety and comfort as a believer. Cast all your care on him.
He careth for you. These experiences of the passing hour are trivial. "All things are working together for your good." You need ask no more. Lean upon God's infinite attributes. They are engaged for your safety.

The National Association of Waste Material Dealers estimates that Americans throw away $700,000,000 worth of food each year. If only one ounce of food is wasted or spoiled in each of the 20,000,000 homes in America, the total loss is 1,500,000 pounds a day. As much coal is wasted annually as all the mines of the country could produce in two weeks.

Jennie Pearl Allen McNeely.

The death angel visited our community December 9th, 1919, and took from our midst one of our most useful young women, Jennie Pearl McNeely, aged 30 years, 11 months and two days.

She was a daughter of Robert and Elizabeth Allen. At the age of 20 she was united in marriage to Robert C. McNeely, March 15th, 1909, who is left with her father, brother, grandfather and many others to mourn her death.

At the age of 11 years she accepted Christ as her Savior and united with the Big Bone Baptist church, and was a faithful follower of her Savior from that time until God called her home.

Her life was always that of sunshine. She was one who could look on the bright side and bring light to those who were in darkness.

We can not understand why one so useful should be taken, but God in his wisdom knows best.
All we can say is "Thy will be done." Let us all be prepared to die for we know not at what hour he cometh.

If she had realized death was so near and could have left some parting words, I am sure they would have been, "Come where I am going."

At the time of her death she was a member of East Bend Baptist church, where her husband is pastor. She was a great help to him in his work, and will be sadly missed by all, but "Praise and glory to the dear who die in the Lord."

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Oscar Huey, of Louisville, at Big Bone Baptist church, December 11th, 1919.

Board Favors Workhouse.

Frankfort, Dec. 29.—The construction of large industrial buildings in which the inmates of the state hospitals for the insane and the feeble-minded can work will be recommended to the Legislature by the State Board of Control of the Penal and Charitable Institutions of this state.
The board met here today after each institution under their control had been visited by one member, and it was agreed that the most necessary improvement at these places is the construction of large workshops. An increased appropriation for the maintenance of the institutions will also be urged.

Bumper Corn Crop.

Five hundred thousand railway cars are needed immediately to take care of the bumper crop, a committee of the Chicago Board of Trade, appointed to investigate the situation, reported. Because of lack of transportation facilities country elevators are overflowing, banks are seriously hampered because of funds tied up in the crop and living costs remain high because of the lack of grain, the committee declares.

"We have the next to the biggest corn crop in history and the finest in point of quality, but the supply in distribution centers is so small as to cause alarm," said
John J. Stream.

WASN'T ASKING FOR MUCH

AN Old Wife Wanted of the Husband was Just "One of Those Regional Banks."

Stevenson, we believe it was—our memory isn't as good as it was before the income tax passed—tried to locate the greatest happiness in married life, remarks a writer in Life magazine. He said the greatest need of joy comes from recounting tales of courtship, didn't he? Or is the pinnacle of happiness found in social contact with others, whereby husband and wife are spurred by the law of contrast to love one another more dearly? We forget which was his conclusion.

Tenacity, both are wrong—and unworthy of so great a master of literature. One nation can be happy, is unimportant, and very probably you speak within the law when you say so. But to us the greatest joy comes in that mystic hour before the rising lamp, when the gray moss hangs from the nuptial tree, casting shadowy fantasies about the heart of the home. To sing to her, to write odes to her, to recount the day's work to her—all are pleasant occupations.

To read to her, though, is the very height of evening enjoyment; she is so attentive, hugs so interestingly upon every word, and then her refreshing woman's views on the way have been read! For example, last night, when he read two columns of comprehensive matter on the currency inflation, after which she snuggled, wound up the clock and said:

"I wish you would stop tomorrow and get one of those regional banks and bring it home. I have one of the A. M. & A. banks and a dime bank, too. But I think one of those regional banks would be so much more desirable for larger money."

BRITISH ADVANCE IN AFRICA

Plan to Open Country Which the Huns Had Picked as Worthy of Exploitation.

Railway development in Africa is evidently to be prosecuted with vigor. At any rate, preliminaries are under discussion for a branch railway into Ruanda from the trunk line that German engineers had but just completed from the Indian ocean to Lake Tanganyika. The new line will advance into a country where the war in Europe probably saved the natives from German attack. Ruanda had remained an undeveloped part of the German possession, but had been the scene of written down as particularly worth while to develop for the variety of its products. The new railway had brought German military force within striking distance, and the history of German management in Africa gives every reason to believe that the opening up of the Ruanda country would have been a disaster for the Watussi who inhabit it. From the British viewpoint, these natives are to be conciliated rather than antagonized. They are, in fact, one of the superior races of Africa, held to be related to the Egyptians, Assyrians, or some other ancient African people, and should be benefited rather than injured by the coming of the iron horse and the opening up of their country under British auspices.—Christian Science Monitor.

Appreciated American Spirit.

Here is an anecdote from Maj. Ian Hay Belth's "The Last Million," that shows the feeling of one British officer toward the American doughboy. "I like the young American's passion, affection for his country," said the officer, "and his fixed determination to boost everything connected with her. One day I was waiting in a village for an American staff car which was being sent for me from Clonau. I found one standing at the corner of the street, so I asked the chauffeur, thinking he might be from headquarters. 'Where are you from?' And he sat up and replied all in one breath, as if I had pressed a button. 'Sir, I am from Marion, Ohio, the greatest steam-shovel producing center in the world.' Just like that. That is what I call the right spirit."

New Kind of Construction.

Several exhibition halls and assembly rooms have been built in Norway by attaching to the uprights a "netting" fashioned from wooden rods about a third of an inch square in cross-section, which are bound together with thin-plated iron wire, and subsequently covered with a durable plaster. Structures of this sort, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, are easily and quickly constructed and are said to be useful in winter time.

Qualified.

He was applying for a position as attendant in an insane asylum. "Have you had any experience handling irrational persons?" he was asked.

"Some," was his response. "I was a motion-picture director for several years."

And he was hired forthwith.—Film Fun.

Proof. "My dear, I was one of the very first to leave," said a man, who, on returning from an evening party, was greeted reproachfully by his wife. "Oh, you always say that," she retorted.

"Well, I can prove it this time, anyhow," insisted the husband. "Look in the hall and see the gold-mounted umbrellas I've brought home."

FOR BETTER ROADS

CHANGE IDEAS ON HIGHWAYS

Non-Motoring Public No Longer Regards Good Roads as Speedways for Fortunate Neighbors.

The public's conception of "good roads" has undergone a radical change in the last two years.

Prior to the entry of the United States into the world war, the non-motoring American public, more often than not, thought good roads were advocated chiefly for the benefit of their more fortunate neighbors who owned and drove their own motor cars. Mr. E. A. Williams, Jr., president of a large motor truck company, they were inclined to regard good roads laws as class legislation and were unwilling for the most part to lend either financial or moral support to the construction and upkeep of something from which they derived no direct benefits so far as they could see.

The war merely hastened what leaders of the industry had foreseen for several years; it furnished the setting and the conditions which enabled the truck to establish itself as a factor in the economic life of the country.

The non-motoring public no longer looks upon good roads as "speedways" for the motoring "aristocracy." It has come to realize that motor trucks are essential as transportation factors, and that good roads are necessary to the efficient operation of trucks. Its vision has been broadened; it sees the advantages and benefits which accrue from a combination of these factors—benefits which have a direct bearing upon the economic conditions of the community.

It sees the farm brought, one might say, to the very table of the consumer; it sees an ultimate decrease in food prices; and, those who pause to consider the matter further, see the ever expanding range of possibilities of the truck and its ally, good roads.

With the universal recognition and adoption of the motor truck the public's conception of how roads should be built also has undergone a change. Heretofore there has been a vast difference between the average man's idea of good roads and that of the experienced engineer. The average man was content to build for the present; the engineer, as a result of past and not altogether satisfactory experience, hence, knows and has known the importance of building for the future as well as the present.

The first thing a railroad does after obtaining a right-of-way, as everyone knows, is to build a roadbed and lay tracks. That roadbed is put in to stay. The track, which corresponds to the surface of the highway, is built of the most substantial and practical material to be had.

The railroad officials, however, do not expect this roadbed and track to last forever without attention. Long ago they learned that the only way to assure safety and durability is to anticipate depreciation and make constant repairs. That is just what we are coming to in road building. For years it has been customary for county engineers to direct such operations but for the most part their work has been hampered by lack of funds, and inadequate force or by limited legislation and more or less red tape. There are some states in which farmers are still working out their road tax by the day, hauling gravel or stone in a more or less haphazard fashion for the construction of roads; upon their efforts and those of a limited force of hired workers depends the maintenance of the community's highways.

Great Loss In Kentucky's Wheat Crop.

Wheat growers in Kentucky lost $3,000,000 on 1919 crops, according to a report of the U. S. department of agriculture. The loss was due to a combination of factors, including a late start in the season, a severe drought, and a heavy loss of seedling wheat.

Mr. Morgan said a million acres was cultivated in wheat last year, and that the crop averaged but eleven bushels to the acre. Production cost was $25 an acre, and wheat was sold by farmers at $2 a bushel.

Mr. Morgan said he took the cost of production of an acre of wheat from figures submitted at an investigation of a Cincinnati High Cost of Living Commission, which was investigating alleged profiteering by farmers, but which dropped the investigation.

"I let the other fellow do the figuring," Mr. Morgan said, "but the farmer's figures were placed still higher."

Mr. Morgan did not stop at the figures, however. He said the miller bought four bushels of wheat for each barrel of flour; that the miller received $12.75, exclusive of by-products, for each barrel; that the baker received $38 for products of a barrel of flour, and that the grocer, restaurateur and confectioner realized $587 when it had been converted into bread, biscuits, cakes and pastry. The figure covering all ingredients, however,

Lack Solemnity.

A report comes from Louisville to the effect that steps are to be taken to have the next session of the Kentucky Legislature pass a law making it necessary to publish the applications for marriage licenses several days before the license can be issued.

These students of sociology say it is too easy for persons of tender age to obtain a license in Kentucky and aver something must be done to remedy the condition.

There is a movement afoot to take the right of marrying couples away from magistrates. It is these persons who are responsible for many young couples being married, it is said.

Under the Kentucky law, a magistrate, no matter what his qualifications might be, can perform a marriage ceremony. The ministers of Kentucky say records will show that more than 60 per cent of all divorce suits filed are by persons married by magistrates.

Magisterial ceremonies, it is claimed, lack the solemnity and are not as impressive as ones performed by an ordained minister.

Nelson County.—Tobacco on this market has been ranging from 16 cents to over $1.00 per pound. The bulk of the crop is yet to be sold on most farms. Early crops are grading out nicely but late crops are darker, but will weigh heavy. The average per acre is light, somewhat over half a crop. Judging from the present indications there will be a very large crop. The frequent rains caused much tobacco to be stripped from the trees. Some small crops were not hauled at all. Many have baled up and will work on the tobacco stripping all through the holidays in order to be ready for the early January market. Low grades have been off in price at the last few sales, but there has been no drop in the price of brighter grades.

A vast amount of work now remains to be done which the intervention of war has necessarily delayed and accumulated, and the result is that a very large capital expenditures ought to be made to make up for the interruption inevitably to the war, and to prepare the railroad to serve adequately the increased traffic throughout the country.

WALKER D. HINES,
Director General of Railroads.

Work more—Produce more—
Save more—

But we can't continue increasing our production unless we continue increasing our railroad facilities.

The farms, mines and factories cannot increase their output beyond the capacity of the railroads to haul their products.

Railroads are now near the peak of their carrying capacity.

Without railroad expansion—more engines, more cars, more tracks, more terminals—there can be little increase in production.

But this country of ours is going to keep right on growing—and the railroads must grow with it.

To command in the investment markets the flow of new capital to expand railroad facilities—and so increase production—there must be public confidence in the future earning power of railroads.

The nation's business can grow only as fast as the railroads grow.

DAMAGE DONE TO HIGHWAYS

Public Roads Bureau Experimenting With Matter of Impact on Various Surfaces.

A new series of experiments, which may have a far-reaching effect upon transportation on the highways and the regulation thereof, has been undertaken by the bureau of public roads, department of agriculture.

The work, which is being done by the division of road materials, test and research, is designed to demonstrate the damage done to highways by different forms of transportation units traveling under varying conditions. It is thought that the information so obtained will perhaps serve as a basis for scientific regulation of traffic on different types of pavements, incidentally indicating the types and designs of road which will best serve the needs of traffic.

It is also suggested that from this knowledge fair consideration will be assured in legislative charges against traffic, since an accurate measure of impact damage therefrom will be possible.

The experiments will cover a wide range, taking into account four factors—those of speed, height of fall, type of tire used and the weight of the transportation unit.

Under the last heading it will be necessary for the bureau to consider distribution of weight above and under springs and on back and front axles, a quantity which is decidedly variable on different makes of motor and horse-drawn vehicles. The bureau has called upon the national automobile chamber of commerce to assist in the collection of this data, much of which has not been generally tabulated. And a questionnaire has been sent to all motor truck manufacturers of America on this subject. Immediate attention to this has been requested in order to facilitate the experiments.

In the initial stages of the work the pack has been measured by the permanent deformation of one-half by one-half inch copper cylinders placed under a steel plunger subjected to the impact of traffic. A varying height of fall is arrived at by different take-offs for the machine. First experiments indicated a wide range in the force of impact as between units with solid tires and pneumatics.

Working from these first steps the bureau officials plan to perfect a machine which will take into account the factors mentioned and which will enable them to provide a constant succession of impacts on selected "slabs" or paving compositions. This will enable the experiments to proceed much more rapidly than would be possible under actual road conditions. Tests will be made on horse-drawn as well as motor-driven vehicles.

In addition to the above experiments another series is planned to determine the wearing qualities of different types of road surfaces when subjected to very heavy traffic.

SAVE TRANSPORTATION COSTS

Eight Cents Per Ton-Mile Can Be Effected When Road Is Lifted to Durable Class.

The report of the joint congressional committee which investigated highway economics in 1914 shows that a saving of eight cents per ton-mile can be effected in transportation costs when a road is lifted from the dirt to the durable class. This does not take into account increased real estate valuations or social advantages from the improvement.

Good Roads Approved.

The secretary of agriculture, up to May 1, had approved 1,067 project statements for federal aid roads, involving the improvement of 10,580 miles of highways at an estimated cost of $92,939,000.

Much for Trunk Highways.

It is proposed that Uncle Sam spend $400,000,000 for trunk highways, now that the success approaches when a road will have no further reason to travel principally with a suitcase.

POULTRY FACTS

KEEP ONLY PROFITABLE HENS

Emergency Agents Waging Successful Campaign Against Unprofitable Fowls in Flocks.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Practically all the southern Mississippi valley and middle Western states have effected satisfactory increases in their production of poultry products. The emergency agents are now waging a successful campaign against the unprofitable hens by getting owners to cull such fowls from their flocks. Hens which produce less than 75 eggs a year are better dead than alive, while fowls which yield from 75 to 100 eggs annually are only fair producers. Good layers produce 125 eggs and upward every 12 months. In some flocks of 200 hens, 75 of the low-producing fowls have been eliminated and still the normal production has been maintained. This results from more favorable conditions and surroundings for the hens left in the flock which are not so crowded and which consequently produce better.

POULTRY AND EGGS SUPPLY

Badly Needed to Help Feed the World—Nothing Else Costs So Little to Raise on Farm.

(By P. G. HOLDEN.)

The high price of feed and the high price of poultry have combined in causing farmers to greatly reduce their flocks, and as a result we are facing a serious shortage in poultry and eggs at a time when they are badly needed to help feed the world.

We must not forget that while feed is high and while poultry brings good prices, nothing else costs so little to raise on a farm as chickens, and that eggs are bringing such high prices we cannot afford to shut off the source of their supply.

Large flocks of poultry are needed on every farm, and every farmer should keep his young pullets, which will soon be his best layers. Get rid of the roosters. Avoid wasteful methods in handling poultry and in marketing eggs.

BLACKHEAD IS BAD DISEASE

Cases Are Infrequent Where Birds Are Permitted to Forage for Most of Their Feed.

Of the infectious diseases of turkeys, according to Andrew S. Welant, of the bureau of animal industry, department of agriculture, blackhead is the most destructive. It is notable that whenever the climate and range conditions are such as to permit of the turkey foraging for most of their feed from the time they are hatched until they are marketed, cases of blackhead are infrequent. Blackhead occasionally affects grown turkeys, but it mostly occurs among young turkeys between the ages of six weeks and four months. No positive cure for blackhead has been found. As in the case of all other infectious diseases, the sick bird should immediately be removed from the flock to prevent a further spread of the disease, and if very sick, it is best to kill it and burn the body.

HINTS ON SELECTING LAYERS

Pullets With Alert Eyes and Comb, Face and Wattles of Fine Texture Are Best.

Judging poultry is said to be a finer art than the selection of other farm animals, but the man or woman who picks pullets with a fine head, alert eyes and comb, face and wattles of fine texture, has taken the first step toward increased egg production. Good pullets should stand square on their feet, with legs wide apart, with the front and of the body slightly higher than the posterior end, and with a long back and tail carried rather high. The body should be wedge-shaped, yielding ample room for the reproduction and digestive organs.

DISHES FOR HOT DAYS.

The delicatessen stores are of great help to the business woman who has no time for cooking and can afford to pay the extra price demanded for ready-to-eat food. For the housewife, however, such food is not economical to buy except on occasions when a quick meal may be prepared after an afternoon's outing. The cost of the dishes when prepared at home will be found to be much less, as odds and ends will make these appetizing croquettes, deviled crabs, and potato salads. Further one has the assurance that the food is fresh and wholesome. All the advantages of the delicatessen food is offset by the possibility of a case of ptomaine poisoning, as in many stores perishable foods are not used and will spoil in a short time.

Ham Loaf.—This may be prepared from the bits of a leftover boiled ham or from a slice of broiled ham. Take three cupsful of finely minced ham, one small onion also minced, three sprigs of parsley, one tablespoonful of prepared mustard and two eggs. Put the ham, onion and parsley through the meat grinder, add the eggs and mustard, beating the eggs and mixing all the ingredients until well blended, adding salt and pepper to taste. Pack into a well greased bread pan and bake in a moderate oven for forty-five minutes. Serve hot or cold. Garnish with chopped egg white and serve in green pepper cups with tomato jelly.

Chicken or Ham Croquettes.—Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter or any sweet fat, add five tablespoonfuls of flour and when well blended add three-quarters of a cup of milk gradually and cook until thick; then add one cupful of chicken or ham finely minced and one egg yolk and seasoning of salt and pepper, one teaspoonful of lemon juice with a little celery salt. Pour into croquettes when cool. Beat the egg white and add a quarter of a cup of water, roll in crumbs and egg and let stand to become firm. Brown in hot fat. Reheat in a pan well covered in a hot oven twelve minutes.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY
W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.Entered at the Post Office in Burlington, Ky., as Second-class Mail.WHAT EVERYONE SHOULD KNOWThe Fourteenth Decennial
Census of the United States Is On.

Under the immediate direction of W. C. Elliott, Supervisor of the Sixth census district of Kentucky census enumerators will call at every dwelling house in this county to secure the information necessary to fill out the questions contained on the printed census schedule.

Questions covering the following points will be asked of every person in the United States:

- Sex;
- Color or race;
- Age at last birthday;
- Whether single, married, widowed or divorced;
- Birthplace of person enumerated and birthplaces of father and mother, giving names of both country and province if foreign born;
- Occupation, specifying trade or profession, also industry in which employed;
- Whether attending school;
- Whether able to read;
- Whether able to write;
- Whether able to speak English;
- Whether home is owned or rented, and if owned whether home is free of encumbrance or is mortgaged;
- Persons of foreign birth will be asked questions concerning these additional points:
- Year of immigration to the U. S.;
- Whether naturalized, and if so the year of naturalization;
- Mother tongue or native language.

EVERY FARM VISITED.
Census enumerators also will call at every farm in this community to secure the information necessary to fill out the questions contained on the agriculture schedule.

Each farmer will be asked questions concerning the acreage and value of his farm; whether he owns, rents or partly owns and partly rents the land he farms; the value of the buildings, machinery and implements belonging to his farm; the quantity of all crops raised on his farm during the year 1919; and many other questions which cover all possible farm operations.

An absolutely accurate and complete census vitally concerns the welfare of this community and of every person living in it. The official population for the next ten years will be determined by the census of 1920.

BE READY WITH YOUR ANSWERS WHEN THE CENSUS MAN CALLS AT YOUR HOUSE.

SPECIAL TERM.

Judge Gaines began a special term of the Boone Circuit Court last Tuesday for the purpose of trying of the suit to settle the estate of Benj. Cook, deceased. At the time of his death Benj. Cook owned 40 acres of land near Waterloo, this county, on which the Citizens Bank, of Grant, had a mortgage, and a suit was instituted by the administrator to settle the estate. The widow claimed a homestead in the land and opposed the selling of the entire tract and the court held a homestead of the value of $1,000 should be set off to her before the remainder of the tract was sold. The court appointed Thos. Rice and Jasper Sullivan commissioners to assist Master Commissioner Chas. Maurer to allot to the widow of Benj. Cook a thousand dollar homestead in the 40 acres.

Don't Delay.

Quite a number of subscriptions to the Recorder expires with this issue and it is very satisfactory to the publisher if they be renewed at once. Several have run over and should be attended to NOW to avoid a discontinuance. At the beginning of the year is the very best time to attend to this matter.

Green-White Christmas.

It was a green Xmas in this locality while a few miles north of here—in fact in the northern part of the county—it was a beautifully white Christmas, snow having been on the ground to the depth of three or four inches on several days previous to last Thursday.

In The Presence of Evil
Good Is Discerned.

Human greed is one of the discouraging phases of human life. Always present, but not always evident, it makes its most direful manifestation in periods of emergency in the matter of existence and ghoulishly preys upon its victims at a time when all that is best in human nature challenges to helpfulness because of an unusual state of helplessness. In the end there is revolt among the oppressed, and by revolution of righteousness society wins a recurrence of that regard for law, enforced through penalty, which it has never been able to compel through compassionate regard on the part of might for right.

Throughout the period of the war response to the world's cry for help in its time of great distress was generous and seemingly all-comprehending. All sorts and conditions of people, every class and branch of the social order, gave surface indications of a sincere, cordial spirit of helpfulness, even to the extremity of sacrifice. It seemed that the world, through suffering and sympathy therefor, was growing better just when it was at its worst. We rejoiced in the midst of anxiety and self-denial that good was overcoming evil and that through its baptism of blood humanity was attaining the soul's beautifying.

Then came deliverance, readjustment and revelation. The developments are at times disheartening. We have endured the transition period of profiteering with all its embroidery of evil motives and evil means, wrought in unnumbered wrongs by evil men, or the suddenly awakened evil in men. We have endured it until it has become commonplace. And now, day after day, we are hearing of uncovered scandals in nearly all departments of war work, governmental contracts State departmental agencies in war-time aid, without the wonder is, and still the wonder grows, that there can be such tendency to prey on human woes, and further yet the wonder as to where all honor goes.

"What is man that thou are mindful of him?" was an apostrophe of the Psalmist to the Eternal. In such circumstances as these we can easily adopt it in sheer despondency. But we don't. We simply fall back on that faith, always safe and ever saving, that relatively exploiters of human evil are few and exploiters of human good are many, very many more, and salvation is in the rule of the majority.—Commercial Tribune.

THE WOOD SUPPLY.

On too many farms there are dead trees, or stumps and posts and often an old unproductive orchard that may be worked up into stove wood to good advantage. There is no better place for rails that are worthless for fence than the wood pile and the same can be said of a worthless orchard. Apple tree wood does not burn well the first year after cutting, so if you have an old orchard to grub out this winter do not plan to burn it for fuel until the next fall. Some farmers are careless about working up the small limbs and the branches into wood. The time is here when every available piece of wood whether branch or stump is worth saving. The question of getting coal for fuel at anything like a reasonable price is likely to soon become a serious one. Hence, I would suggest that every farmer begin at once to use up more closely the wood that heretofore has gone to waste. It is rather slow work to cut a cord of small limb wood, but enough of this top and branch wood will do it and when the cook wants a good and quick fire on a hot summer day, she will have something with which to last through the busy season. It does not take very long after there is nearly enough cut to last a year to complete the job and have a little surplus.

A shelter of some kind is quite necessary to store wood and under most farmers have a wood house of some sort but those who have not will find it to their interest to construct one of some kind. A few posts set in the ground with poles on top covered with old boards will last several years and the pleasure and extra heat that you will get by not having to burn wet wood or that covered with snow will more than pay you for the cost of the shed.

It was stated years ago that too much could not be said to check against the wasteful methods of cutting off our timbered lands and yet in many sections this careless slashing goes on. Every care should be exercised to preserve the forest and make a cord of wood, as well as a ton of coal, go as far as possible.—C. N. Y.

James O. Blair, of Elizaville, claims the champion yearling steer of the county. Last week he shipped a yearling steer, bred and fed by him, which he sold for 18 cents on the Cincinnati market, weighing 1280 pounds, bringing $214.00, which is the highest price ever brought by a yearling sold for beef in the county.—Flemingsburg Democrat.

Weed Them Out.

If organized labor desires to convince this country of its absolute Americanism it can go far in that direction by weeding out of its organizations every alien member and by refusing to accept any alien member until these men come certified as citizens of the republic under the provisions of the law.

If the alien is not allowed to vote, why should he be made part of an organization which seeks to control, and dies in many instances, control, the political activities of the country? It is pointed out, and the contention seems amply sustained by facts, that the ranks of organized labor are honeycombed with aliens and that this element is increasingly antagonistic to this government; that it has no real desire to accept American citizenship, which requires loyalty and devotion to the country and its institutions—its schools, its churches, its ordered business, its Courts and rational social conventions. It is proved that the men and women are ripe fields in which the Anarchist, the Socialist, the agitators of sedition reap responsive and plentiful harvests of antagonism to democracy. Why should a person who is not a citizen of this country have place and vote in the labor organizations of this country?

We are at present attempting to deal with these ravers and ravishers of civilization, controlled by a strange and incomprehensible reluctance on the part of Congress to enact laws absolutely essential to the preservation of the nation. The threat of revolution is common, openly made, and made with impunity. The spirit back of the strikes in this country is not disguised. A leader of the Bolsheviks the other day proclaimed: "Strikes will be worked up. An effort will be made to reduce mine production and break up both rail and water production." He also proclaims the terrorist policy for the U. S.

What are we going to do about it? Is the loyal labor of the country going to associate with collaborators with, fraternize with elements which already are at work to destroy its sane and conservative policies and traditions? We cannot believe it.—Enquirer.

Cull Doubtful Hens.

When culling a flock of hens at the end of the laying season there are always a few individuals that may be classed as doubtful. Very often the owner of the birds allows sympathy to interfere with good business. According to G. W. Hervey, of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture, it is better to cull a bird that may lay five or six more eggs only this fall than to keep her all winter as an absolute expense.

A hen may show the characteristic body depth of three or more fingers and yet may have but a one finger spread between the pelvic bones. This means that the bird has stopped laying, but her period of non-production has not been long enough for the body depth to close up also. She has just reached the point where she will be kept at a loss.

Sometimes a bird may exhibit the desired characteristics of both good body depth and well-spread pelvic bones yet her skin under the fluff may feel tough and leathery. Such a hen will invariably have coarse pelvic bones and a coarse breast bone. She may have had a period of production during the summer but her total for the year would not justify retaining her another season.

In culling the American breeds, the Wyandotte, Plymouth Rock and Rhode Island Red, one is apt to be confused by the shank color test. The test is not so reliable with these heavier breeds as it is with Leghorns for the reason that when they become broody a certain amount of pigment is likely to return to the shank. One must make due allowance for this and if the bird is favorable in appearance otherwise it may be profitable to keep her over as a breeder for the spring season.

In general, then, the poultry keeper when culling must not be influenced by any single factor, but must consider all of them. The more rigid the culling the more capable is the flock management. It is usually safe to market at least half of the total number of hens at the end of the laying season, replacing them with pullets.

Wintering Noisily

Up to the present time livestock in this country is in fine condition and no great amount of food has been required so far feed could be handled in the most economical manner as the ground has been frozen for some time and the animals have consumed the food instead of trampling it into the ground as is the case during wet periods during the winter.

Thoroughbreds Are Sold At Fancy Figures

Fashionable Gatherings at Saratoga
When Aristocracy of Horse Family
Are Placed on the Block.

An astonishing expansion of the thoroughbred horse sales business and an amazing increase in thoroughbred values is revealed in the east up of the eastern traffic in running horse stock for the fiscal year ending August 31, by E. J. Tranter, president of the Fasig-Tipton Company, of New York. The Fasig-Tipton Company has undisputed control of the eastern sales business now. And the sales in so far as thoroughbred yearlings offered in the eastern market are concerned are held mainly in the month of August and conducted in a splendidly appointed establishment built by Mr. Tranter three or four seasons back after the best European models, but with certain American establishments. Everybody who is anything in the thoroughbred world, or ever hopes to be, backs to Saratoga in August. The thoroughbred yearling sales, and especially those held at night under the glare of electric arcs, have become social functions. Men never think of going out to the night sales from their palatial cottages and the great hotels save in evening dress. Women attend them invariably in evening dress, or undress, according to one's point of view.

The best appreciation of the expansion of the thoroughbred auction sales business and of the increase in the thoroughbred values is to be obtained by comparing the records of 1919 with the records of 1917 and 1918. Two hundred and seventy-three yearlings were led to the auction block in 1917 and they brought a total of $833,275, an average of $3,051 a head. Sixty-seven horses of racing age brought $110,100, an average of $1,732.83 a head. In 1918 two hundred and thirty-five thoroughbred yearlings brought a total of $248,620, an average of $1,057.96 a head; nine brood mares fetched $20,000, an average of $2,222.22 a head; and 132 horses of racing age fetched $200,810, an average of $1,521.21 a head.

Run Into Big Money.

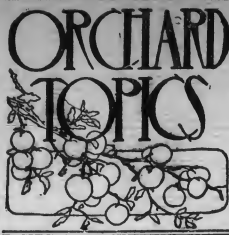

More than three-quarters of a million dollars—$750,210 to be exact—was realized at the auction block at Saratoga for the thoroughbreds the Tranter Company offered to bidders. Two hundred and twenty-seven yearlings brought $908,500, an average of $2,853.38 a head; thirteen broodmares fetched $136,300, an average of $1,738.89 a head; three stallions brought $21,800, an average of $7,267, and eighty-three horses in training fetched $117,010, an average of $1,417. These figures relate merely to the auction sales business. Many horses of various ages have been bought and sold privately. Montford Jones paid $100,000 in June for the 2-year-old Brookholt, a son of Ballot. S. C. Hildreth paid $17,500 for Dominque, a son of Peter Quince. Hildreth is said to have refused an offer of $150,000 for the three-year-old Purchase. Larry Waterbury, a successful New York broker, paid $200,000 for the three-year-old Sennings Park. Mr. Tranter, who keeps a close watch on the thoroughbred market, generally estimates that some two and a half million dollars will have changed hands in transactions in thoroughbred blood before the first of the year. Many horses of various ages will be sold in Kentucky this fall.

It was thought that the top limit of American buyers as regards auction sales prices was reached in the summer of 1918 when Mrs. Walter M. Jefferson, of Philadelphia, paid $150,000 for a French-bred yearling by Sweeper, out of Zanna, which won the Saratoga Special in August under the name of Golden Brook; when Commander J. K. L. Ross, of Montreal, paid $14,500 for a colt by Black Jester out of Phaulna; and Joseph E. Widener paid $14,000 for a son of Vulcan and Fairy Gold, which claims Fairy Rock, Fair Play and Flittergold for half brothers. But this theory has been badly shattered. Ten thousand dollars and $15,000 were common prices for good looking thoroughbreds last August. A breeder offering a youngster that looked like a thoroughbred and boasted of a fair pedigree who failed to get back $5,000 to $8,000 for his stuff went back to Kentucky or Virginia utterly disgusted.

A Few Big Prices.

W. V. Thraves, a Virginian, who is about to embark on a thoroughbred producing enterprise at Long Ridge Farm in Fayette county, Ky., paid $24,500 for a yearling son of Ulinus offered by John Oliver Keene. Commander Ross paid $25,000 for an imported son of Sunstar and Marlin Hood. Philip T. Chinn, acting for Mr. Waterbury, paid $22,500 for a son of Celt and Sand Dune that claims the Apollo the Boy for half brother, W. C. He paid $15,000 for a brown son of Celt and Patricia. IV. Commodore Ross paid $30,000 for Melody, a broodmare by Meddler out of Ballantrae that was offered at the dispersal sale of the Mackay stud.

The yearlings from Claiborne and other studs offered by Arthur B. Mackay brought the unexpected total of $1,000,000, an average from Claiborne of $1,000 a head and for Ellerslie of $5,000. Other breeders of American blood that is in vogue just now fared well—Adv.

MAKING WAR ON GRAPE PESTS

Most Destructive Insect Is Curculio, Which Feeds on Foliage From Spring to Fall.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In many localities in the eastern part of the United States the grape curculio, which feeds upon the leaves from spring to frost, is the most destructive insect attacking this fruit. It may be practically unknown in some places, but in nearly by districts may appear in such destructive numbers as to destroy each year from 35 to 100 per cent of fruit on all grape vines that do not receive protection.

Another insect pest that is a menace to many grape owners in the eastern part of the country is the root-borer, which burrows into the roots and causes injury similar to severe root pruning. The curculio can be successfully controlled by arsenical sprays, the bulletin says, but the only method of combating the borer now known is through cultivation, which destroys larvae and pupae in the cocoons, and the practice of such cultural methods as will induce vigorous and rapid growth of healthy vines.

The adult curculio is small and inconspicuous, and a grape grower will frequently lose within a short time an entire crop of fruit without being able to determine the nature of the enemy. The grapes will suddenly become wormy and will be ruined. At about the time Concord grapes begin to bloom the curculio beetles emerge from hibernation and appear upon the leaves. The pest feeds on the upper surface of the leaves throughout the season. Ants are their natural enemies, and some forms of ground-dwelling spiders feed upon them. A number of parasites aid in their destruction.

In several cases practically complete freedom from attack has been obtained by applying two sprays of lead arsenate, three pounds of the paste form to 50 gallons of water, the first just after the blossoms have dropped and the second three or four weeks later.

Like the curculio, the grape root-borer is inconspicuous in all of its stages. The borers rarely kill the vines, but cause infested plants to linger for years, making meager annual growth and bearing reduced crops of fruit, the owner often being unaware of the cause. The newly hatched larvae feed entirely on the roots, both large and small roots being attacked. The borer feeds over so wide an area that digging for the pest as a practicable method of destruction is out of the question, and even soil fumigants are, for the same reason, of doubtful value. The use of fertilizers and the application of other cultural methods which promote rapid, vigorous growth, offsetting the root pruning caused by the borer, are the best-known methods of controlling the pest.

PRUNING A NEGLECTED TREE

Good Plan to Leave Some of Water Sprouts for Year to Provide Food for Plant.

In pruning a badly neglected tree it is a good plan to leave some of the water sprouts for a year. This becomes of more importance as the pruning becomes more severe, for the water sprouts furnish more leaf surface to provide food for the entire plant. The second year water sprouts may be removed.

FARM TOPICS

REMOVE MALES FROM FLOCK

Infertile Eggs Are Best to Keep and Cost Less to Produce—Send the Roosters to Market.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Produce infertile eggs. They are worth more, as they keep better and they cost less to produce since there are no roosters to feed. No expense, education, ability, or labor other than catching and killing or selling the roosters are necessary. Remove the males at once.

While eggs are plentiful some should be preserved for the winter months, as they will be scarce and high priced. It costs but little in time, money and labor, and is so easily done that it is only common sense to do it. Use fresh, infertile eggs and let customers know that they can get such eggs for preserving. Those who have never preserved eggs should get in touch with the county or home demonstration agent, the state extension director, or the United States department of agriculture.

Now is the time to begin culling flocks. Send the roosters to the chopping block or the market. Eliminate all weaklings and deformed chicks. Get rid of the chick that stands along the side of the coop with its wings down, its feathers ruffled, eye shut, and head down. Do not keep a single chick that you are not sure it will pay to raise.

Shade, clean fresh water, clean coops, and colony houses, and good ventilation and plenty of room during the night are of the greatest importance in growing healthy, strong, vigorous birds, whether they are for meat, eggs, or breeding.

Growing chicks should have plenty of good, nourishing food. Bone meal should be fed liberally to those intended for layers or breeders.

Do not forget to continue the fight on mites and lice. They must be fought all the time in all sections and in all seasons.

MONEY MADE WITH CHICKENS

Tennessee Woman Cleared $379 in Five Years With Two Settings of Wyandotte Eggs.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Two settings of White Wyandotte eggs, costing $2, in five years netted $379 profit for a woman poultry club member in Madison county, Tenn.

The first two settings of eggs were bought in 1914. In 1915, nine hens and six cockerels were sold for $4; in 1916 43 hens and two cockerels brought $10; in 1917 $100 worth of eggs and birds were sold; in 1918 the value of the flock, both fowls kept and sold, was $315; a total of $425. Much of the feed was waste products of the farm and cost nothing.

The total cost of production was: Original settings, $2; two breeding pens, $30; feed, $10; advertising, three years, $8—a total of $50. The profit of $379 was made possible because of the smallness of the enterprise and the fact that most of the feed for the birds had no money value.

FOWLS YIELD $1.14 AN HOUR

Indiana Woman Has Demonstrated That This Amount Can Be Made by Keeping Chickens.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A side line for the farmer's wife which yields $1.14 for the consideration of every farm woman. A Wahash county (Indiana) woman has demonstrated that this amount can be made by keeping chickens. Last year the local county agent interested this woman in keeping a farm poultry flock, and she promptly produced a net profit of $1.14. She kept an accurate account of her work and found at the end of the season that she had received $1.14 an hour for the time she actually devoted to caring for her flock.

CHANDLER SIX

Famous For Its Marvelous Motor

Chandler Leads Where Performance Counts

WHEREVER men ask much of their automobiles the Chandler dominates. In the mountain countries it performs as many cars with larger motors do not perform. Climbing steep grades with the sharpest turns on high, creeping up and up at six or seven miles an hour on high without a miss or a skip or a sign of effort, where others shift, the Chandler holds for its driver the thrill of really satisfactory motoring.

In country roads of mud or sand, and in the congested traffic of crowded city streets, this same power and this same flexibility show their qualities.

The Chandler leads the whole six-cylinder group so distinctly because it is such a good car and so fairly priced.

Out They Go!

Silly city ward-healers like to kid themselves about "delivering the farmer vote." In Ontario they had notions like that last fall—and the farmers took the bit in their teeth, kicked the politicians out and elected a farmer government. Now, at the beginning of an election year, is a good time for our own politicians to take a leaf out of the Canadian notebook, says

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

For the farmers of America are united in thought and action as never before.

Consider the National Farm Bureau Federation—no politician can lead those men by the nose! Pulling together, they have determined, in effect, that the farmer shall no longer be the national goat. Acting together, they can prove that the farmer is not a profligate, and they can have about anything they want. Every farmer should know what the united farmers are doing these days. And so he should read the Great National Farm Weekly—THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN. A year's subscription will cost you only $1 and it will keep you up to date on every farm question. Miss Katie Powers of Verona, spent Tuesday here with friends. Miss Jennie May, of Covington, spent part of last week here with friends.

Charles L. Griffith has been quite ill the past week but is improving.

Robert W. Allen of Landing, spent part of last week here with his many friends.

Michael Dempsey, one of the best citizens of Verona neighborhood, spent Tuesday here with friends.

Judge and Mrs. Chas. Strother have been enjoying a delightful visit to their daughter, Mrs. Chas. Holman and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Holburn of Louisville, spent the first of the week here the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fullilove.

Mrs. Bruce Allen spent the past week at Leitchfield, Grayson-co., the guest of her former pastor, Rev. Ouis Hamilton and wife.

Prof. J. W. Dixon of New Castle, Henry county, spent part of last week with Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Davis on the farm near town.

Cal Neumeister, B. E. McElroy and Bluch Rich, Jr., spent Friday in Louisville relative to the tobacco there shipped from the Walton warehouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Percival and his sisters, Misses Anna, Ollie and Emm, of Covington, spent Sunday here, guests of the cousins, E. K. Stephens and wife.

Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Waters and children moved to Millesburg, O., the first of the week, where Mr. Waters has been engaged as pastor of the Christian church for the current year.

Mrs. Cynthia White was called to the bedside of her mother Mrs. Geo. L. Smith, near Big Bone Springs, last Saturday on account of her serious illness with pneumonia.

Miss Janie Dickey who has been indisposed for some time is much improved and is on the road to full recovery, but it will be some time before she will be able to resume her school work.

George T. Ryan, of Covington, was a visitor here last week. He recently returned from overseas, where he served Uncle Sam, and he is now back in the United States service as fireman on the C. O.

Jno. L. Vest spent the first of the week at Louisville attending to some of his law practice and also attending a meeting of the Chapter of Eastern Star, being the Associate Grand Worthy Patron of Kentucky.

The trial of Beartley Craig, charged with forgery, was continued last week by County Judge Riddell, and Craig was remanded to jail to await developments necessary to properly dispose of the case until the next term of court.

Walton Masonic Lodge elected and installed officers as follows: Worshipful Master, George J. Grubbs; Senior Warden, A. R. Johnson; Junior Warden, J. H. Hurt; Secretary, S. H. McCarth; Treasurer, Chas. W. Ransler; Tyler, Joseph Reed.

Foreman H. Arthur of Mayalick, Mason county, spent part of the past week here with his sister, Mrs. G. C. Rankins and family, and is arranging to move to the Chas. S. Boice farm near Richmond which was recently purchased by his father C. C. Arthur.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Dixon and children moved here last week from Greenville, Va., and have rented the residence opposite the Phoenix Hotel. Mr. Dixon and his brother own the Phoenix Garage and will manage it, succeeding A. M. Edwards.

The Town Council recently elected organized Monday night at the office of A. Ralph Edwards, who is the town clerk, and the following organization was perfected: Chairman, H. C. Diers; Treasurer, J. Cloyd Powers; the other members W. B. Johnson, B. E. Alphin and J. M. Arnold were appointed on various committees. Jno. L. Vest was elected Town Attorney, and A. R. Edwards, Town Clerk.

Miss Corinne Tomlin entertained a number of her young girl friends at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Sampson Tomlin last Friday in a most gracious manner and a fine day was spent together. Music was a most pleasing feature and a nice luncheon was enjoyed very much. The guests were Misses Mabel Johnson, Marie Vest, Margaret Ryan, Nellie Johnson, Anna Reiffitt and Gertrude Wells.

Wilford R. Rice of Walton, who has been employed in the office of the Fifth-Third National Bank, Cincinnati, has been elected cashier of the Postpaid Bank at Hebron, Boone county, and will take charge as soon as the bank opens for business which will be in about a month. Mr. Rice is a very fine young gentleman of ability and he will make the bank an excellent cashier.

Walton Lodge Knights of Pythias elected and installed officers for the ensuing term as follows: Chancellor Commander, Sam uel H. McCarth; Vice Chancellor, B. E. Powers; Master, A. M. Wm. C. Moxley; Keopor of Records and Seal, Thomas F. Curley; Master Exchequer, D. B. Wallace; Prelate, W. L. Kennedy; Inside Guard, H. C. Diers; Outside Guard Elmer Breeden; Deputy Grand Chancellor, Carl Neumeister; Representative Grand Lodge, D. B. Wallace.

The Farmers Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse had a great sale Monday with a fine floor of tobacco, making an average of $33.55 and have a big prospect for the market Thursday and Friday. Both of the loose leaf houses have about all they can handle, and quite a lot of tobacco sold on other markets has been brought here for sale as it is the general opinion of buyers and sellers who know, that the Walton market is from two to four cents better than any other loose leaf market in Kentucky or Indiana.

Walton Odd-Fellows lodge elected and installed officers for the ensuing term as follows: Noble Grand, L. T. Grubbs; Vice Grand, F. D. Moore; Secretary, D. B. Wallace; Treasurer, H. C. Diers; Host, Wm. C. Moxley; R. S. Noble Grand, J. G. Pennington; Left Supporter Noble Grand, A. H. Smith; R. S. Vice Grand, John Stamler; Left Supporter Vice Grand, A. S. Pennington; Conductor, Carl Neumeister; R. Scene Supporter, John H. Friend; L. S. S. B. C. Moore; Inside Guardian, W. O. Richey; Outside Guardian, R. D. Stamler; Finance Committee, W. T. Dudgeon, John Allen, Wm. C. Moxley; Widow's and Orphans Committee, N. T. Welsh, J. M. Bollington, A. H. Smith.

The market at the Walton Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse last Saturday was the best in average price this season. Nearly ninety thousand pounds were sold at an average of $34.00 per cwt. The banner sale was that of J. D. Vanlandingham's crop, raised in Kenton county, which was sold for several thousand pounds, averaging $71.63. The market was good on all grades because of the introduction of several new buyers from Louisville, and the prospects of an active market and big prices are very encouraging, and the balance of this month will be a fine time to get the best market of the season. Get your tobacco ready before March 1st, for in all probability the selling season will be about over by that time.

BELLEVIEW.

T. W. Cook and family spent New Year's day with J. Cook and family near Waterloo.

Mrs. Lena Buchner returned to her home in Newport, Monday, after several days' visit with relatives here.

Miss Laura Whitnack has returned from Harrodsburg, where she spent the holiday vacation with relatives. Ralph Cason and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Smith and son and Miss Kathryn Maurer were the Sunday guests of Mr. Belle Cason.

Mrs. W. W. Green and Mrs. Laura Botts entertained at dinner during the holidays, Mrs. Belle Cason and daughter, Miss Anna; Mrs. Carlos Cason and Miss Alma Lake.

Large Rural Mails.

The largest mail in the history of the local rural mails was that handled by the carriers last Friday: R. D. 1 handled 770 pieces; R. D. 2 handled 710 pieces; R. D. 3 handled 734 pieces.

The rural mail has been increasing in volume pretty rapidly for a year, and the carriers are wondering when the limit will be reached. M. L. Riddell closed out his store at auction last Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Riddell has not decided as to where he will locate, but at least he will leave the mercantile business has been conducted on the corner Mr. Riddell vacates. Before Conner & Rouse put up the present building the corner was the site of a one-story building in which Jno. Glenn and Joseph Hawes sold groceries. The corner already has a long and some look, and it is hoped that it will not be long until some business is opened up there.

It commenced raining and freezing Tuesday evening and by Wednesday morning there was a pretty good sleet on the ground and getting about as difficult. Some of the trucks that make daily trips to the city had to give up going Wednesday morning as they could not be kept on the road.

Hubert Rouse, mail carrier between Burlington and Covington, came as far as Florence with his truck Wednesday morning, by which time he had had enough excitement trying to keep his machine on the pike, when he called a mut and a buggy to bring the mail on to Burlington.

Remember that the sale of Walter Florence advertised for the 10th inst., has been called off. This sale was to have taken place on the farm recently purchased by Mr. Florence from Jno. Conrad, on the Burlington and Florence pike near the Hopel church.

John P. Duncan as sold his poultry farm immediately east of town to Leonard Kite, consideration not given. It is not known whether Mr. Kite expects to conduct a poultry farm or not. Carroll Croppers Ford runabout went off the Petersburg pike near one of the Woolper bridges last Tuesday night. The sleet was the cause of his trouble. He escaped without injury.

The rural carriers left town Wednesday morning with their hearts full of misgivings as to what would happen there before they got back.

LESS HOG-CHOLERA LOSSES

In 1918 Death Rate of Swine From Disease Was Placed at 42.1 Per Thousand.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Since 1913, when the United States department of agriculture began work to control hog cholera, the dreaded disease has become less and less destructive each year. A force averaging 105 federal veterinarians has been maintained, working in co-operation with state authorities in charge of quarantine and other regulatory measures necessary for the success of control work. During the fiscal year 1918 more than 5,500,000 hogs were inoculated with hog-cholera serum, and more than 2,200 farms, found to be infected with cholera, were cleaned and disinfected under supervision of the department veterinarians.

Altogether, representatives of the department visited more than 15,000 farms to investigate reported outbreaks, to apply preventive measures and to clean and disinfect premises. How great a menace hog cholera has been to the nation's swine industry may be judged from the accepted estimate that 60 per cent of hogs lost from all ailments die from cholera. In 1918 the death rate of swine from disease was placed at 42.1 per 1,000. Thus the loss was slightly above 4 per cent for the United States, the lowest on record, according to the department's figures.

HOG RAISING IN THE SOUTH

Many Southern Farmers Growing More Animals and of Larger Type—Noticeable in Georgia.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

An important result of hog-cholera control work which has resulted in a steady decline of the disease, has been the stimulus given the development of swine raising in the South. With other activities of the department in this line, the assurance given to Southern farmers that hogs can be produced without fear of losses from cholera has encouraged growing not only larger numbers of animals but also better types. This has been noticeable particularly in Georgia. A few years ago that state purchased about 40,000,000 pounds of pork more than it produced annually. But efforts for the control of hog cholera have gradually extended over the entire state, with resulting confidence in hog raising. By 1918 Georgia was producing pork enough to make shipments to outside points besides supplying a large number of hogs to local slaughtering establishments. Similar progress has been made in Mississippi, Alabama and Florida.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

There should be more calves on farms.

A satisfied cow is probably a satisfactory cow.

More cows should be kept on the average farm.

Cows without salt lose flesh and finally break down.

Comfort is as essential to a cow as to any other worker.

When buying a grade cow it pays to select one from a pure-bred bull.

A number of calves die every year on account of the disease known as scour.

In stormy weather, when mud is too frequent, the cows will take a great deal of scrubbing.

One hundred tons of silage will feed 25 cows 40 pounds of silage a day for 300 days.

Any man who keeps ten head or more cattle will find a silo an economic equipment on his farm.

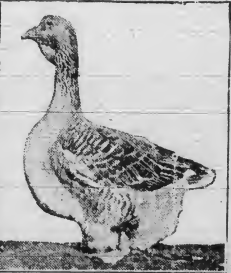

POULTRY

DIFFERENT BREEDS OF GEESSE

Toulouse, Embden, Chinese and African Are Easily the Most Popular in This Country.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Six breeds of geese have been admitted to the American standard of perfection, namely: Toulouse, Embden, Chinese, African, Wild or Canadian, and Egyptian. In addition to the standard breeds there is the so-called Mongrel goose, which is a hybrid made by crossing one of these varieties or the common goose with wild geese. Crosses of the varieties of geese, especially of the Toulouse and Embden, are occasionally made, but without any apparent gain. The Toulouse Gander.

Toulouse, Embden, Chinese, and African are easily the most popular breeds of geese in this country; the first two greatly leading the other breeds. All economic breeds of geese are kept primarily for the production of flesh and feathers, and although their uses are occasionally used for culinary purposes on the farm there is no demand for them for food purposes in the markets.

The Toulouse, the largest of the standard breeds of geese, is a good layer, producing from 20 to 35 eggs a year, is docile, grows rapidly, and makes a good market bird. However, its dark pinfeathers make it a slightly less attractive market goose than the Embden.

The Embden, a large, white goose, slightly smaller and with somewhat longer legs than the Toulouse, is only a fair layer and is usually less profitable than the Toulouse. This breed has white pinfeathers, is a rapid grower, and matures early.

The African, a gray goose with a distinct brown shade, about the size of the Embden, is a good layer and makes a good market goose, although it has the objectionable dark pinfeathers. It is a rapid grower and matures early.

There are two standard varieties of Chinese geese, the brown and the white. Both varieties mature early and are said to be prolific layers and rapid growers, but shy and rather difficult to handle.

The wild goose is bred to some extent in captivity, and the young are sold to hunters to use as decoys. The wild gander is used to cross with either the common or the purebred goose, producing the so-called Mongrel goose. This Mongrel goose is highly prized as a market goose, but is sterile and cannot be bred.

The Egyptian goose is a small, brightly-colored goose kept for ornamental purposes, and rarely seen in this country. It resembles the wild goose in shape and weighs two pounds less in each class.

POULTRY NOTES

Do not overcrowd the houses, brood coops, brooder or colony coops.

Everything must be kept clean in warm weather to keep vermin down.

Turkey hens usually lay about fifteen eggs before beginning to get broody.

Poultry can endure warm weather just as well as they can freezing weather.

In rainy cold weather young chicks should be kept where it is dry and warm.

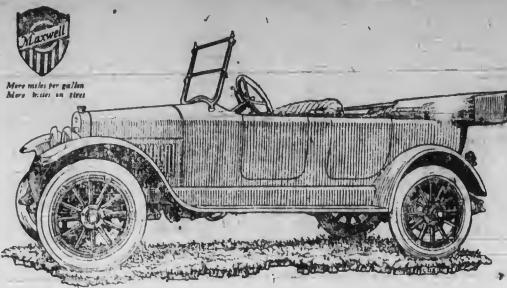

Put the brooder for early little chicks in a dry, sunny clean place where there are no lice or mites.

It doesn't pay to try to rear the very early chicks in out-door brooders unless those brooders are under a shed.

Soft-shelled eggs are often caused by the fowls being confined, becoming overfat, and from lack of mineral matter.

Be sure that the windows in the south side of the poultry house are wide open on all bright, sunny days to let in the health-giving pure air.

With the advent of warm spring weather, lice and mites are apt to be on the increase. Robust laying hens are generally under the care of people who do not recognize the presence of vermin.

Fine Metals Have Given Maxwell its Rank

THE very substance of which a car is made denotes its quality; and the use of fine and strong metals in the Maxwell has won it many, many friends.

It was necessary to make the Maxwell chassis of the very best materials. For its great mission was to transport—in an extremely economical way—as great a passenger load over the same road and at the same speed as the larger and heavier cars.

Thus it was obvious that the Maxwell had to be light. And to make it light the quality metals were used.

Metallurgists, the men who have made the study of metals a science, say that it compares favorably pound for pound with the highest priced cars the world has produced.

But you need not be a metallurgist to discover this "inner goodness" in a Maxwell. Three months will tell; six months will tell you more.

Otherwise Maxwell in five short years would never have grown from a production of 5,000 a year to 100,000 a year.

300,000 Maxwells on the highways of the world today answer most any question you can ask about this great car. Price, $985 f. o. b. Detroit.

Louisville—Three bandits raided a card game at the home of Harry Silberagle and secured $800 before escaping.

Bath County—While the tobacco crop is not as good as last year's, high prices are being received by the farmers of this section for their 1919 crops. Most of the crops are averaging from 40 to 60 cents per pound. Nothing but tobacco seems to interest the farmers, and while it is too early to talk 1920 acreage, the possibilities are that as large an acreage, if not a larger one, will be planted. Everyone who raised tobacco last summer is contemplating planting as large an acreage, and many are talking of increasing the acreage, while many new farms are being purchased for the purpose of raising a crop.

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. N. E. Verner, of Hixson, Tenn., writes: "I was passing through the... My back and sides were terrible, and my suffering indescribable. I can't tell just how and where I hurt, about all over, I think... I began Cardui, and my pains grew less and less, until I was cured. I am remarkably strong for a woman of 44 years of age. I do all my housework. Try Cardui, today. E-76"

WORLD NEEDS THE ELDERLY.

Their Ripened Experience and Developed Judgment Make Them of Value to the Community.

Hardly anyone, it indeed anyone at all, holds at 35 that he was wiser when he was 25, or says at 50 that he knew more, and had better judgment, when he was thirty-five. Yet young men are prone to look upon older men as being dispensable. If a man could live to be two hundred years old, retaining his mental faculties unimpaired, leading an active life as a member of a profession or a man in business, his ripened experience, his developed judgment, his vista, would make him worth as much as a dozen youngsters in many respects.

Dr. William Mayo of Minnesota, unlike Dr. Osler who retired discomfited and never really explained, when he made his famous declaration and gave to the English language the term "oslerized," says old men are the nation's greatest assets. Aboriginal savages said the same thing. The aged Indian at the council fire was worth a score of young bucks on the battle line.

One of the most valuable uses to which the experience of old men is put is in detecting the sophisticated agitators who urge perilous innovation.

Doctor Mayo believes 15 years added to the average life since the Civil war constitutes a task only half done. Another 15 years may be added by medical and surgical science plus education which will lead to wisely adoption of preserve health.

The slogan, "A short life and a merry one," shortens life. Doctor Mayo says and robs a race of a social element—bale and useful seniors—upon which a value too high cannot be set.

Assuredly, a sane life and a long one is desirable from the point of view of both the state and individual.

The man who believes at fifty, or sixty, or seventy, that his judgment is better than it formerly was is altogether right.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

CHEAP HOG FEED.

Cheap feeds sound attractive to any feeder and feed to cheap must be the kind that puts on weight, not just low in price. Soy beans and corn, hogged off, will be found one of the best and cheapest combinations and farmers should plan to grow them next season. Grow them in the same row at the same time, planting shallow with bean attachment spacing the beans about 8 inches and the corn 16 inches or the regular distance used with corn alone, which, of course, varies with the fertility of the soil. One of the feeders who used these together this year had one field that produced a thousand pounds of pork per acre.

The seed should be inoculated by spreading beans on the floor and sprinkling with a thin glue water and then dirt from soil that has grown beans, which has not been exposed to the rays then stir with a garden rake in such a manner as to attach a small quantity to each bean.

With early corn, use early beans with late corn use late beans. The two crops can be grown together at the cost of one alone and the beans do not reduce the yield of corn material on the soil and moisture conditions. It is said that the beans furnish more nitrogen for the corn plant and will increase fertility with the excessive crops of this combination that are hogged off. Weedy soils will require extra cultivation. If the planter is equipped with furrow opener and planter, the crops come through this will aid in keeping it clean; a round chunk of wood should be attached to drag over the planter, this is a good practice as is also the subsequent use of the weeder or harrow.

Begin picking soy beans when the pods begin to fill and feed to the pigs for a week or two before turning hogs into the field and feed old corn for a short time after turning in which tends to the utilization of the bean first producing growth and permitting the corn to mature more and pigs will not eat too much green corn then for best results.

In addition to corn and beans, all that is required are water and minerals. One hundred pounds of beans are more than equivalent to 50 pounds of cake at 600 pounds per acre and in low yields which at present prices figures a value of $15 per acre for the beans. However, you will find after trying this out, that this valuation is very low on account of the extra condition of the pigs. Some feeders report gains of two pounds per day with beans and corn. Rye following this crop produces fine.

Watch the Common Schools.

The leaders of the public schools of Kentucky had better keep up a good organization and have a legislative committee at Frankfort this winter. As has been the case every session for years the state institutions will maintain a lobby to put thru legislation to increase the yearly funds for the Normal schools and state university. The state is asking for $350,000, a like amount being given them at the last session. These large sums cut the common school funds and hold down the salaries of the teachers of the common schools. Unless we have more work done in the common schools we will have but little need of the university as but few will ever get that far.—Owen Co. Democrat.

The weather hinders attendance on all church services, now, but, pastor Snyder is earnestly and prayerfully striving to bring some cheering, upbuilding and strengthening truth to the attendance of New Year's.

Appreciative and responsive, and he trusts they may get a broad vision of our relation, as a church, to the upbuilding of the kingdom of Christ and be led to sincere devotion to his service.

Another Old Citizen Gone.

John Barnard, one of the oldest citizens in the northern part of the county died at his home on Garrison creek last Saturday. Mr. Barnard was over 80 years of age and had spent his long life in the neighborhood where he died. His father came to that locality in pioneer days and erected a grist mill which was operated by water not far from the mouth of Garrison creek. The mill drew custom for miles around and was noted for the quality of corn meal it produced. Mr. Barnard's funeral took place at Bullittsburg Baptist church Tuesday. Thus one by one the old landmarks disappear, and scarce are the men who helped to blaze the way for civilization in this part of the country.

Garrard County.—Farmers are changing hands rapidly in this county at extremely high prices. They have brought from $100 per acre to $1,000 for a two-acre farm. The majority seem to be being from $250 to $300 per acre.

TWO NEW ANIMAL PESTS.

Two animals not much spoken of previously have gained prominence as destructive rodents during the past year, reports the chief of the Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture. One is the mountain beaver or sewer rat, a curious rodent living in the humid regions of the northwest coast. It was formerly considered harmless, but with the development of agriculture in its region it has become increasingly injurious to crops, particularly small fruits and market produce. Control measures have been devised, and representatives of the department have given demonstrations in Oregon and Washington, where active measures were needed.

The other animal that has come into prominence as a destroyer is the cotton rat, a small rat-like rodent limited to the South Atlantic and Gulf States. Its devastations are principally in connection with sugar cane in Florida, where experimental plantings with the rat in the past two years gave promise of very profitable development. So serious has been the damage by cotton rats, however, that the principal company in the sugar cane industry in Florida has written the department that the success of the industry will be impossible unless some method can be found for successfully controlling the cotton rat. Losses of from 40 to 60 per cent. of the growing cane have been reported.

The Bureau of Biological Survey, however, announces the determination of successful poisoning methods, and it is believed, that through demonstrations and the use of grovers will be able to control the rats and reduce the losses to a negligible amount.

MILLIONS IN TOBACCO RAISED IN KENTUCKY.

Queen Nicotine has come "unto her own" as the leading product of Old Kentucky.

For years she was the running mate of the late John Barleycorn in importance in the Blue Grass. Now that J. B. has been securely and thoroughly laid away the fair miss is the undisputed champ.

Tobacco valued at more than $100,000,000 was raised in Kentucky during the year 1919.

The crop of 1919 is estimated at 411,000,000 pounds.

This compares with 427,000,000 pounds in 1918 and 435,000,000 pounds in 1917.

One-third of the United States crop of 1,389,85,000 pounds, the second largest on record, was grown in Kentucky. The United States crop, greatest in the world, has a money value of $3,517,900, the Department of Agriculture estimates. Last year the department figured the Kentucky crop as worth $98,000,000, based on an average price of 23¢ a pound prevailing December 1, 1919.

PRICES ARE SKY HIGH.

This year prices have soared tremendously. For instance, Lexington reported the second weeks of this year averaged 30¢ a pound, higher the same week in 1918 for the same week Mayville's average was 24¢ a hundred, again of 1¢ over the preceding like period, and Hopkinsville's average was $21.75, against $15.80 a year ago. On the Louisville market and on other markets exceptional new high records already have been established. On some of the loose leaf floors the weed has sold in basket quantity as high as $1.56 a pound.

It is likely that the average price of all kinds of leaf grown in Kentucky is more than 30¢ a pound. This would put a valuation of approximately $132,000,000 on Kentucky's tobacco crop in 1919.

ACRE AVERAGE LOW.

The record crop is attributed to the planting of the largest acreage on record, due to the high prices offered early last season, yield an acre was only 830 pounds, compared with 900 the three preceding years, and the quality was only 5¢ per cent, against 8¢ in 1918. Drought brought havoc to hopes of a tremendously large crop. The burley end of the crop is said to be shorter than usual.

READY MARKET FOUND.

Tobacco has created much excitement among farmers of the state than at any time since the famous night riding episodes of history. Farmers are delighted and buyers for big companies eager. It is believed that high prices rest upon the firm foundation of greatly increased use of the weed and high prices being obtained for it in its manufactured state. Some crops already sold have averaged as high as $1.05 a pound, and many around the 90 cent and 81 level.

Farmers who formerly merely rented their land from large plantation owners now are purchasing this acreage from the proceeds of this year's crop alone. Speculation in tobacco lands is rampant. Limousines are becoming common in the tobacco sections. One farmer is reported to have received as much for 30 acres of tobacco as his 220-acre farm cost in 1875, while another obtained $1000 more for a crop than he paid for the land on which the leaf was grown.

GROWERS ORGANIZED.

Agitation against the use of tobacco has resulted in an organization of broad scope, with branches throughout the state, of growers and the "antis." The money value of the crop each year is more than one-fourth the total value of all crops grown in the state. Tobacco yield per acre is worth five or six times as much as any other crop, but, of course, requires more care.

Louisville is the largest hog-head tobacco market in the world, and Lexington is the largest loose leaf market. There is more than 50 loose leaf markets in the state now, and more are springing up each year. Among the largest, other than Lexington are Owensboro, Maysville, Shelbyville, Paris, Hopkinsville, Henderson, Glasgow, Carrollton, Bowling Green, Carlisle and Cynthiana.

Louisville tobacco sales, which had been on the decline this year, have exceeded those of the preceding years, even the busy year of 1916. This market handles a lot of redried leaf during the summer months, while the loose leaf floors are closed. Later, also, it has obtained an unusually large amount of storage business, leaf sold on other markets being stored here until needed for manufacture.

Louisville's total sales for the year probably represent 80,000,000 pounds or more, figuring an average hoghead of 1000 pounds, which at 30¢ a pound of average quality, means a volume of about $24,000,000 of this business. This makes local bank deposits and creates prosperity in general, also bringing taxes to the city, county and state. This does not take into account the tobacco manufacturing business here, Louisville being one of the largest centers in the country in that respect.

Tobacco growers of Kentucky are receiving about 3.68 times as much for their crops as in 1913, according to an average arrived at by comparing prices prevailing on the loose market in 1919 and during 1913. Some growers have advanced nearly 100 per cent.

THE TOBACCO MARKET.

Aurora, Jan. 3.—The loose leaf tobacco market sold today 65,976 pounds at an average of 33¢, 57¢ per 100 lbs. Common grades were $2 to $3 higher, while bright tobaccos advanced from $10 to $15 per 100 pounds. Several baskets sold at $1 per pound.

Lexington, Jan. 4.—That tobacco is selling at a price highly remunerative to the grower is evidenced by the report of the Supervisor of Sales Ben Bosworth for the past week and for the season to date. Sales for the week were 3,799,149 pounds, for which the growers were paid an average of $18 a hundred pounds. Sales for the season to date from December 2, when the market opened, were 16,067,655 pounds which brought an average of $93.

Paris, Jan. 3.—The week's closing on the Paris tobacco market was the largest one of the season, with prices strong for good quality tobacco and a trade off on inferior grades. The independent house sold during the week 363,569 pounds for an average of $8.09. The Bourbon house for the week sold a total of 80,835 for an average of $49.12. The total sales on the Paris market for the season amount to $3,592,175 lbs., for an average of $55.91.

The Kenton Loose Leaf Tobacco House had a big sale last Monday and the management was highly pleased with the days work. Among the big sales of the day was a crop of 665 pounds raised on E. H. Blankenbaker's land by Ed. Borders. This crop brought an average of $95.85. The highest price for the day was $102 per 100 pounds. The Kenton Loose Leaf House is pleased with the patronage it is receiving on the part of the Boone county growers.

State News.

Lebanon—Local coal yards have been bare for a week, and the shortage has become a serious issue.

Whitesburg—Bates and Adams House, which clashed Christmas Day, appeared in court and made pledges to keep the peace.

Milton—Frank Thompson, 12 years old, died from a wound sustained when his gun was accidentally discharged while hunting rabbits.

LaGrange—Basement diggers at the high school building unearthed several skeletons, the site having been part of a burial ground for slaves.

Salvisa—Smith Haig, colored, merchant, could produce only 20 cents when held up, and the highwayman beat him into insensibility with a club.

Flemingsburg—The news reached here that a man from the mountains was coming to Flemingsburg with 10 gallons of "white whisky" he was met afar by persons who bought his stock for $600.

Lexington, Jan. 4.—Dean W. T. Lafferty, of the College of Law, University of Kentucky, is preparing a bill to make more stringent the divorce laws of this State, and the General Assembly will be asked to pass it.

Woodford county.—Wagons are beginning to fill the pikes that lead to the various sales rooms. All that have sold their tobacco are well pleased with the prices they have received. The high prices that have been paid for tobacco is causing the sales of many farms, and many others are being divided into small farms, which are bringing fancy prices.

Scott County.—Stripping tobacco, discussing the tobacco markets and making plans for the coming season is giving the farmers of this county plenty to talk about. Tobacco is a subject of which no one seems to tire. Hog killing occupied a prominent place on the cold days, and a large number of hogs have been slaughtered. Farmers are now feeding their stock. Small grains have done well were sown early, but those sown late in some places have not made their appearance. Most of the hogs have gone to market, and the farmers seem fairly well satisfied with the prices. When the European markets open up the farmers who have good brood sows will be glad they have not sent them to the markets.

Ohio County.—We have been having some freezing and thawing of the soil, which makes it very hard on wheat, of which there is a very small acreage in this section. Most of it is very late. Almost all the corn is in the crib. This crop is short, but with reasonable economy there will be enough to feed until a crop can be raised. There is much trading in real estate, and until about a year ago land has always been too cheap, but after it started upward it has kept going, until it seems that it has about reached the limit. In fact some land has sold for more than it is worth for farming purposes, but the oil people are getting active again, and it is quite possible that land has not sold for more than it is worth as an oil producer. No cattle are being fed for market in this section, and the hogs have about all been shipped out, and very few farmers are breeding extensively for spring farrow. The slump in hog prices will very materially curtail next year's hog crop.

Select your plant bed space on good rich close land. Use stable and fertilizer for early tobacco plants.

Geese are profitable on farms and many new, good pillows will be needed when the newlyweds go to housekeeping.

The acreage sown to wheat in ten of the best wheat producing states show a reduction of nearly 14 per cent, under last year.

The average farmer farms too slow, he is too long in getting his stock and crops to market. Lets whip up a little in 1920.

Sweet feeds are fine to hold flesh on your milk stock. Salt regularly and see that they get good fresh water each day.

The retired farmer who attempts to live without something to do as a rule is not satisfied. Better put a run down place put a good man or it and experiment a little even if you have moved to town.

MORROW URGES LEGISLATION.

Frankfort, Jan. 6.—Governor Edwin P. Morrow in his message to the General Assembly, which he delivered orally at the joint session in the House chamber Tuesday, laid down a preliminary program which he summed up as follows:

"The repeal of the law now providing for the control of our charitable and penal institutions, and the passage in its stead of a comprehensive law which shall properly provide for their operation under a system which shall increase efficiency in their management and forever divorce them from the evils of political control."

"The enactment of legislation for the benefit of the state's public schools and institutions of higher learning."

"The ratification of the federal amendment granting equal suffrage to women and for their enfranchisement in state and nation."

"The enforcement of nation and state-wide prohibition."

"The repeal or amendment of the present compulsory primary election law for state officers."

"The dismissal from office of any officer charged with the duty of protecting prisoners who shall surrender them to mobs."

"The development of our agricultural and natural resources, including the stimulation and production of our oil and gas industries."

tries, by making the production tax in lieu of all other and regulation of drilling.

"The creation of a more efficient and comprehensive department of labor."

"The construction and maintenance of a permanent system of highways."

"The correction and revision of the present tax law, so as to make assessments of every class of property just and equitable and to limit within reasonable bounds the arbitrary power of the state tax commission to increase assessments made by local boards."

"Minimum county school levy with increased salaries for teachers and an educational survey."

Morrow said he would oppose any measure seeking political advantage for his own party.

Joe Bosworth of Middleburg, Republican leader, was elected speaker of the House and the Democrats organized the Senate by re-electing Charles M. Harris, Versailles, president, pro tem, who, instead of Lieutenant Governor S. T. Ballard will name the committees.

William O'Connell, of Newport, was re-elected clerk of the Senate. The Republican House and Senate caucuses endorsed woman suffrage.

The high prices which turkeys brought this winter will stimulate the effort to increase the size of flocks for the next season. The women were about as much excited over the turkey market as the men are over the tobacco market.

AMERICAN HORSES MAKE BAD SHOWING

GREAT WAR FOUND US POORLY PREPARED IN ARTILLERY ANIMALS.

QUALITY OF BLOOD COUNTS

French Army Furnished the Thorough-breeds that Enabled Our Guns to Stop Ludendorff's Drive Toward Paris and Victory.

If, after seventy-two years of exhaustive and conclusive experimentation, a work that had cost the great military powers of Continental Europe —Russia, Austria, Hungary, the German Empire, France and Italy—in the aggregate a number of $100,000,000 or $500,000,000, additional proof of the superlative value of thoroughbred blood in the military horse and the comparative worthlessness of cold-blood that proof was supplied by the experience of the Second Division of the American Expeditionary Force in the summer of 1918. The Second Division was the division in which the famous Marine Corps was brigaded.
The Second was one of the best equipped of the American grand units in regards to horseflesh. The cream of the remount service was in its artillery and transport departments.

In June, 1918, the Second Division was ordered from a quiet sector of the western front near Verdun to the western angle of the great Marne salient.
The German offensive of March to June had created in the French line
Foch had sensed the impending Ludendorff thrust that was to win Paris and a victorious peace, and he was assembling all his available forces to meet it. The carrying out of this order by the Second Division involved a march of less than 100 miles, 97 to be exact. Yet 80 per cent of the cold-blooded horses of the artillery brigade succumbed to the rigors of this more-distant march without having come under gunfire. Upward of half the horses that dropped out of line were so completely done up they were unfit to be sent to base stations for recuperation with the ultimate object of returning to service.

The French divisions that accompanied the American divisions on this march lost no more than five per cent of their horses. But the French artillery, cavalry and transport horses were half and three-quarter breeds, the produce of a system of breeding that had been instituted by a far-sighted government sixty or seventy years before the outbreak of the great war.

Second Division Suffers.

Because of the collapse of its horse equipment and artillery brigade of the Second Division did not reach its objective until a day after the great struggle that was to terminate in the winning appeal of the German army for an armistice in October had begun.
The Second Division fought the first day without artillery protection and suffered outrageously in consequence.
The artillery brigade reached the zone of conflict late in the second day and was enabled to take part in the series of actions that completely demoralized Ludendorff's ambitious plan of conquest and put the great German army on the defensive only because American remount officers were able to re-equip it from the surplus horse supply of the French army with half and three-quarter breeds. The French were in a position to furnish these indispensable animals because up to the beginning of March the war had been a war of position rather than a war of movement and no hard demand had been made on the artillery and cavalry horse reserves of the French army.

When the great war came its unexpected finish the United States had under arms, at home and abroad, some $100,000,000 of horses, of which $60,000,000 were infantry, 30,000 were engineers, 380,000 were field and but only 20,000 were cavalry. The field artillery was horsed after a fashion.
So was the engineer contingent.
But the quality of the horses that served the field artillery and the engineer contingent generally was no better, if, indeed, it was as good, than that of the quality of the horses that failed the artillery brigade of the Second Division in the march from Verdun to the Marne salient.

Our Cavalry Not There.

For such masses of infantry and artillery there should have been 250, 000 to 350,000 cavalry, according to the most advanced military opinion in the United States and abroad. Yet only a insignificant fraction of the absence of such mounted contingents in the gigantic military establishment of the United States of November 1st, 1918—the second, third, sixth and fifteenth cavalry regiments—was in France.
Most of our 25,000 troopers were pe-trolling the Mexican frontier. Moreover only a motley of the so-called American cavalry forces in France was mounted. At no time was it possible to completely horse the second, third, sixth and fifteenth regiments.
The troopers of these regiments, when they were not serving with machine gun contingents, were guarding munition and quartermaster's stores. This condition was due to the disgraceful fact that the United States had no suitable mounts for its cavalry. France and Great Britain, to insure prompt and effective co-operation by the American grand units in the great counter offensive of Foch, made the serviceable artillery horses of the half and three-quarter bred types because, as had already been pointed out, the struggle for civilization up to the beginning of 1918 on the western front had been for the most part a war of position rather than one of maneuver.
Their reserves of artillery horses had not been exhausted. In other France nor Great Britain felt disposed to equip with horses the cavalry of an army that should have entered the conflict with the best mounted and best equipped cavalry to be found on the planet.—Advt.

ORCHARD CLEANINGS

WATCH FOR IMPORTED PESTS

Little Excuse for Passing Stock Infested With Egg Masses of Gipsy or Brown-Tail Moth.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The main arguments of objectors to plant quarantine No. 37, which will greatly restrict the entry of nursery stock and other plants and seeds, beginning June 1, 1919, are that either no pests are brought in on such imported stock or that thorough inspection abroad would eliminate any undesirable insects. There is no question but that the chief exporting foreign governments have given to their nursery stock the best inspection which human skill and science can afford.
Failures are due to the human equation and to conditions not subject to change, which make inspection and certification insufficient safeguards.

The inadequacy of such inspection since 1918, when it became operative, is shown by the findings resulting from reinspection of imported material at destination in this country. Data gathered by the United States department of agriculture show that there have been received from Holland 1,031 infested shipments, involving 148 kinds of insect pests; from Belgium 1,306 infested shipments, involving 64 kinds of insects; from France 347 infested shipments, involving 80 kinds of insects; from England 154 infested shipments, involving 62 kinds of insects; from Japan 291 infested shipments, involving 108 kinds of insects; from Germany 12 infested shipments, involving 15 kinds of insect pests. Many of these intercepted insects are not known to be established anywhere in this country, and numbers of them, if established, would undoubtedly become important pests.
Typical of the insects thus imported, some of which have come in on more than 1,000 shipments, are the records in relation to gipsy and brown-tail moths.

Under the system of inspection which has been established in the principal exporting countries there is little excuse for the passing and cer-tification of stock infested with the egg masses of the gipsy moth or with the large and rather conspicuous leafy winter nests of the larvae of the brown-tail moth. In point of fact, however, during the period in which the highest possible grade of inspection has been enforced no less than 52 different shipments of plants from foreign countries have been found to be infested with egg masses of the gipsy moth or larval nests of the brown-tail moth. Three of these were from Japan and the others were from France, Holland or Belgium.

Unfortunately these records do not necessarily comprise the total entry of these two pests. They represent merely the instances of infestation discovered by reinspection on this side. Under the law the inspection of imported nursery stock in this country is left to the inspectors of the states, and the finding of infestation there is entirely dependent on the efficiency of state inspection. In many states this inspection is of a high order, and probably most if not all instances of infestation are found. In other states the inspection service is inadequately provided for and insufficient, and in a few states the service has little support and little if any efficiency. There is therefore the possibility that one or both of these pests have already gained foothold at one point or another in the United States and have not yet been discovered and reported. In this connection it should be remembered that the gipsy moth was 20 years in Massachusetts before it was known.

Imported Stock Ready for Planting.

The establishment of these two insects in different parts of the United States would soon lead to their general spread throughout the country.
What this would mean in cost and damage and also in human suffering can hardly be estimated. Only a portion of the New England states have been invaded by these insects, and yet the expenditure in clean-up and control work alone amounts to more than a million dollars a year by the states concerned. In addition to an annual federal appropriation of upwards of $300,000 annually.

FARM COUNTRY

USE LABOR-SAVING METHODS

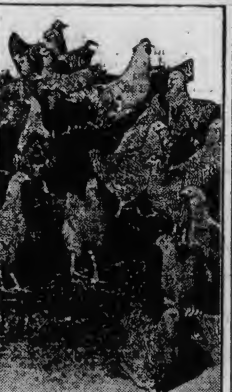

Expensive Equipment Rarely Pays
Even on Large Poultry Farms—
Some Practical Devices.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Labor-saving methods can be utilized to better advantage on commercial poultry farms by careful planning of the arrangement of the buildings and by installing simple labor-saving devices. An expensive labor-saving equipment rarely pays even on large poultry farms.

Some of the practical devices are large dry-mash hoppers in which all the mash is fed, the piping of water to be convenient to each house, and in a long house the installing of a simple trolley system to carry the feed and to be utilized in cleaning the house. If several houses are used they should be arranged to save steps. Sufficient yard space should be allowed to keep the ground in good condition.
It is a serious mistake to allow only a very small amount of yard space and thereby overstock the land and produce soil contamination.

A practical and comparatively inexpensive equipment consists of one or more long houses containing from 500 to 1,000 hens arranged with double yards and kept only for the production of market eggs. The yards should be from 100 to 150 feet deep and should be plowed and sowed frequently to quick-growing crops to keep the land fresh. Such a house can be fitted with two large yards, one on each side, which reduces the expenses of partitions in the yards and also greatly facilitates labor and cultivating the Barred Plymouth Rocks on Government Farm at Belleville.

yards. Considerable green feed can be grown incidentally in keeping these yards fresh and in good condition.

The use of mammoth incubators materially cuts down the labor necessary in hatching large numbers of chickens, and a brooding system of store brooding houses, or a small hot-water pipe system makes an economical brooding equipment and one which can be conducted successfully with a minimum amount of labor. The hatching stock under these conditions should be kept in colony houses scattered over a considerable area, and if possible allowed free range, using their eggs for hatching during the breeding season and keeping from 50 to 100 hens in each house.

On the average general farm the poultry does not receive sufficient care to produce the best results, but by better arrangement of buildings and better methods (the same amount of poultry could be kept with the labor now being used and better results obtained, while in many cases the size of the flocks could be increased and greater profits realized for the labor required.

On commercial poultry farms careful planning of equipment will greatly reduce labor, but a very intensive system is detrimental to profitable results with poultry. The danger is often too great intensification, which while temporarily reducing labor does not provide conditions under which poultry can be reproduced successfully with good results.

TABLE SCRAPS FOR CHICKENS

Poultry Flock Peculiarly Adapted for Converting Waste Into Nutritious Food.

There is a certain amount of table scraps and kitchen waste which has feeding value, but which if not fed finds its way into the garbage pail, inevitably, household, no matter how economical the housewife. Poultry is the only class of domestic animals which is suitable for converting this waste material, right where it is produced in the city, into wholesome and nutritious food in the form of eggs and poultry meat.

CHANDLER SIX Famous For Its Marvelous Motor

Chandler Strides into Full Leadership

If there has ever been any question as to Chandler leadership of the medium-priced fine car field, it is answered now. The great Chandler Six is sweeping its market. It displaces less efficient cars. It steps in to serve those who previously have chosen only high-priced cars. And it pleases everywhere.

From two thousand to three thousand discriminating Americans bought Chandler cars—open and closed—every month this fall. And at no time has the demand been fully met. Thousands have waited months for their new Chandlers, and have felt repaid for waiting.

Nothing could more clearly show the regard in which America holds the Chandler Six, than the patience with which these thousands waited for weeks and months for their Chandlers. They waited because they knew what they were waiting for—because they knew it was worth waiting for.

TRUST COMPANIES OF THE UNITED STATES

Resources for 1919 Show a Big Increase Over Last Year.

Kentucky Trust Co. resources at the close of business June 30 were in excess of $65,000,000, according to "Trust Companies of the United States," just published by the United States Mortgage & Trust Company, of New York. The total figures for the state are $35,198,611, a gain of $11,417,354, or about 21 per cent over last year.

The Trust Company resources of the United States increased nearly 19 per cent and aggregated $11,150,446,097, which is considerably in excess of the total banking strength of the country less than twenty years ago.

John W. Platten, President of the United States Mortgage & Trust Company, in reviewing the past year's activities, says:

"This, the 17th, edition of 'Trust Companies of the United States,' and the first to be issued for the close of the war, provides an appropriate medium for brief mention of the achievements of the Trust Companies in their relation to the great conflict.

"When this country actively entered upon hostilities the Trust Companies responded with prompt decision and patriotism to the needs of the hour. Contributing very largely on their own account to the success of the five great loans, they exerted a powerful influence upon their clients and friends to the further great assistance of the Government. Their support of other war measures was likewise of inestimable and immediate value, as was their cooperation in the distribution of War Savings Stamps and the encouragement of a policy of Thrift.

The representative total of $11,150,446,097 Trust Co. resources for 1919, a gain of $1,765,560,000 or 18.9 per cent over last year, is most gratifying evidence of growth, affording as it does, proof of the spirit with which the Trust Companies have met the increasing responsibilities placed upon them and assurance of continued healthy progress in strength and influence."

NATION OF HYPOCRITS?

National Dry Test Will Come in Submission to Law.

With the Supreme Court's decision upholding the constitutionality of the Volstead prohibition enforcement act, passage of the hope of those who had dreamed of again partaking of "beer, wine or other intoxicating liquors" in places other than the saloons or in the homes of friends. The decision was six to three. We agree with Justice McReynolds, and said that the 18th Amendment had not yet come into effect and that the Federal Government had no general power to prohibit the manufacture and sale of liquor, and that the war emergency under which national prohibition was made effective and passed. However, we also believe in the finality of the Supreme Court and the legality of the procedure by which the Eighteenth Amendment was accomplished. We do not believe that absolute prohibition was justified or that it represented the majority opinion.

But that is not the issue that is now involved. We have prohibition, and that prohibition is legal according to the highest court in the land. Now let us see what the results will be. The horrors of hard alcohol have increased upon the country. Now the question will be whether we are to become a nation of hypocrites and continue to take nips on the sly or whether the nation will submit. Tolerance of bootlegging will soon be worn out and the country will then take a stand—either for reasonably lenient prohibition or for a stringent enforcement.—Buffalo Express Record on Five Cows.

J. E. Yelton, of near Mt. Auburn, does not claim to be an expert dairyman, but he wishes to show our readers what is possible with five cows. From January 1, 1919, to January 1, 1920, he sold from five cows 7504.05 worth of cream, three calves for $60, and has two calves left which he values at $50. He raised nine shoats for his own meat, which were worth at feeding time $100. These cows are just common grade stuff. He is not boasting of what he has done, but he wants to show what any one can do with a herd of five cows. He is placing a low estimate on the milk he has produced. The lowest price he received for a 5-gallon can of cream was $9.85, and the highest price was $16.35. Who can beat this record?—Falmouth Outlook

The effort to raise ten thousand dollars with which to purchase a safe, erect and equip a town hall, is meeting with a liberal response in the matter of money subscribed. A good hall with lodge rooms above would be a great convenience that would add to the appearance of the town.

MARTIN C. WEAVER DEAD.

Martin C. Weaver, 66, a highly respected citizen of Sale Creek, died at his home, formerly of Boone county, Ky., died at his home Sunday night, Jan. 4th, 1920, at 11 o'clock, after a brief illness.

He was a trusted and valued employee of the C. N. O. & T. P. Railway Company as station agent and telegraph operator for a period of 33 years.

He is survived by his wife, one son and one daughter; Harry, of Soddy, and Mrs. Ernest Chaigne, of Sale Creek; two brothers, Lewis, of Georgetown, and Joe, of Union, Ky., and six grandchildren.

He was a loving, kind and affectionate husband and father and always had a pleasant word and smile for all whom he met.

He was a man to be admired for honor, uprightness and purity of character, and few people have had more friends.

He had been failing mentally and physically ever since his oldest daughter, Mrs. Annie Miller, died a year ago with him. Three months ago her husband, Dr. Miller was laid to rest, leaving four children to the care of grandfather and grandmother.

Martin Weaver had a great dread of a lingering illness, and becoming a care, so the Lord called him home just a few hours before he died.

The funeral services were held at the Welsh Union church at Sale Creek Tuesday morning, conducted by Rev. George A. Gay of the Universalist church, of Chattanooga. The body was laid to rest at the Buttrum cemetery near Dayton. The active pallbearers were T. C. Blackwell, O. A. W. H. Crow, Soddy, Dr. A. W. Gross, Sale Creek; W. A. McDonald, Soddy; Howell Davis, and Harry Kennerly, Sale Creek. Honorary pallbearers, J. B. Mahoney, W. M. Bevin, David Summers, T. W. Cardwell and F. L. Farmer.

Mrs. Dora Bannister, Chattanooga, Tenn.

DR. W. ED GRANT.

Louisville Evening Post.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon for Dr. W. Ed Grant, widely known physician, who died at 2:30 o'clock Saturday morning at his home, with his wife in his automobile. The services, which will be private, will be held from the residence, 2222 Douglas boulevard, and burial will be in Cave Hill cemetery.

The sudden death of Dr. Grant, which occurred on Third Street, near Arch, when he suffered a heart attack, closes a career of distinguished services to his profession and the community. His opportunity to be of special service to the latter was afforded as City Health Officer from 1909 to 1917.

As he collapsed at the wheel, near Arch, the car and he then summoned his brother, Dr. H. H. Grant, and the body was removed to the home on Douglas boulevard.

Dr. Grant was born in September, 1845, and came from Boone county to Louisville in 1885. His father, Dr. E. L. Grant, was a prominent physician. He was educated in medicine in Miami University and the Jefferson Medical College.

He was dean of the medical department of the University of Louisville from 1911 to 1914. For thirty years he was examiner for the New York Life Insurance Company, and was its chief local medical officer for fifteen years. He had served as president of the American Association of Medical Examiners.

He devoted a great deal of his time to productive study of the prevention and treatment of disease, winning recognition from many physicians and health officers in the country.

Dr. Grant was twice married, his first wife being Miss Anna Graves, of Boone county, who died in 1913. His marriage to Miss Mary Burnett was in 1913.

Dr. Henry E. Tuley, of the University of Louisville, announced his resignation in respect to the late Dr. W. Ed Grant, formerly dean of the medical department of the University of Louisville, there will be no lectures today.

Dr. Grant is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Burnett Grant, daughter of the late Judge Thos. L. Burnett; one brother, Dr. H. H. Grant; a nephew, Dr. Oswald Grant, of Louisville, and his nieces Miss Frances Grant, Boone county; Mrs. James L. Strother, Welch, W. Va.; and Mrs. Elvin Curry, Los Angeles.

E. K. Stephens and Jas. D. Acra each have a considerable sale of real property advertised this week. Mr. Acra will move about the first of March to the property in Burlington he purchased of C. C. Roberts.

The report of F. H. Rouse, Superintendent of the County Infirmary, shows that for 1919 there were 21 inmates, 21 inmates, which were cared for at a cost of $3,752.78, an average of $173.41 per inmate. January 1, 1920, there 19 inmates being cared for.

HEART TO HEART TALK

Rev. O. C. Peyton, D. D.

Draw your chair up very close to me now, for this is to be as never before, truly "a heart to heart talk." I want to talk to you, beloved, about the promises of our God. Peter calls them "the exceeding great and precious promises." Every reader of the Bible must mark how much of it is devoted to recording of many and varied promises of God. They are many and varied. They take a wide range and are suited to every class of needy and suffering beings. From childhood to old age, to the burdened and the tried, they are promises to the weak who may take refuge in the divine strength. All who seek alms are assured that they shall not seek him in vain. The promises are many. Let us recall some that are within our hearts and have been tested in our lives.

"I have said as good, 'I have said as good to Jacob.' It is a promise just as much for every child of God. It belongs to you. All things work together for good to them that love God, and have brought peace to hundreds of tried and perplexed souls. 'My grace is sufficient for thee,' has been a burden and distressed heart. 'Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee,' should keep us true and steadfast amid life's changing conditions. 'The joy of the Lord is your strength,' supports us in our weakness and need. 'Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither man thought, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him,' gives us a foretaste of the joys beyond life's fleeting day. Our sufferings it is sweet to remember that 'These light afflictions, which are but for a moment, are working out for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory.' Paul seeing the things beyond, could say: 'I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us.'

I have given you the merest glimpse of the promises of God. They are many and suited to every need. They are made sure to all who are in Christ Jesus. Study them, learn them by heart, and then, when you are in a time of peace and joy in them, God bless you.

Brings News From Old Homes.

Renewing her subscription, Mrs. Anna Daugherty, of Melvern, Kan., writes: "Your paper is like a letter from my Old Ky. Home. We had a month of cold weather but the rest of the winter has been pleasant. Plenty of feed this winter but water is scarce, most everywhere. I am hanging for stock. We have had showers but not enough to make water—haven't had a good rain since the 5th of last July. The price of land here is advancing fast. Mr. Daugherty and I send our best regards to all old Boone county friends and hope to make a visit back there in the future."

Renewing her subscription to the Recorder Mrs. J. W. Kelly, of Columbus, Ind., writes: "I enjoy reading the Recorder as I get the news from my Old Kentucky Home. I wish you all a prosperous New Year."

Mrs. R. N. Utz, of Valley Falls, Kansas, remitting for her Recorder, writes: "Sickness and death of the family caused me to neglect my correspondence. We had a white Christmas and have had very cold weather—the ground is white now."

Billy Sunday in Nashville.

Here are some things Billy Sunday said in Nashville the other day:

"Many women are perfectly satisfied only the old man is able to come across every time they want a new dress, and he abjects trade the old auto off for a new one. They wouldn't care if he died and we wouldn't care if he died. He left plenty of insurance money."

"We have got boys out of knee pants who know more about sin than Methuselah did at 900 years of age. And plenty of little frowny headed, gum-chewing, rag-time dancing girls, who can turn a flourish on the biker without spattering dough all over the kitchen, who know more of sin than their grandmothers did at eighty."

"Don't jimmy elbows with the other fellow to see how much you can get out of him! Help him!" "I was born in the backwoods. I wore a coonskin cap, drank coffee from my saucer, ate peas with a knife. I am a graduate of the school of poverty and hard knocks. I had no enlisted in the Union army before we were born and was killed in battle. The history of my home life is comprised in Gray's eight words—'The short and simple annals of the poor.'"

Most touchingly he described the death of his mother and the carrying of her body to the old family burying ground. "I was a little girl, and I had romped as a thoughtless boy," he confessed. "When I returned," he went on. "Once more I saw the scenes of my childhood. I heard mother call us to supper. I saw her perched on the old trunk. And the boy knelt and drew her knee with clasped hands and said: 'Now I lay me down to sleep.'"

"I forget her! Ay, when the flower forgets the sun that warms it, when the mariner forgets the star that guides him; when the heart forgets the love that is in the human mind, and I have wandered far in the ways of sin. I have stretched the elastic bands of that mother's love until it seemed as if they would break. But, thank God, I never took that step."

A Heavy Sleet.

About as heavy a sleet as is seen in this part of the country was that which fell on the face of the earth and buried trees, shrubbery and telephone wires last Friday morning. The sleet took the form of a heavy blanket, and was rough which did not interfere with the movements of pedestrians as some other sleet storms do. Many limbs were broken in the trees about town and the telephone service was hit hard in some places, the poles and lines being broken.

William Walton's fluffer turned turtle with him twice during one of the sleety days last week. Fortunately he escaped injury and the machine was damaged only slightly.

Present indications are several residences will be erected in Park Addition to the Lexington next spring.

EXCERPTS

From Speeches Made on Jackson Day By Prominent Democratic Leaders.

Excerpts from the Jackson Day speeches made by prominent Democratic leaders at the meeting held in Washington, D. C., on the 8th inst.

Cox, governor of Ohio: "A conspiring band of men seated in the United States Senate stood out as self-appointed spokesmen of this countrymen. The action they prevented held the affairs of nations everywhere disjointed and important. And why? In order that the sorrow of mankind could multiply and then be charged to the man whose chief offense is the service he has rendered and the gratitude he has won from mankind."

McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury: "Republican leaders, who have demonstrated startling incapacity to deal with the problem confronting America. We must keep up the fight for the prompt restoration of peace throughout the world."

Pomeroy, U. S. Senator from Ohio: "Altho there are provisions in the treaty I never lived. I am one of those who prefer ratification without amendment because of the necessity for prompt action. Personally I believe the American voters demand ratification and they are not going to split hairs about reservations."

Palmer, attorney general: "The part Republican leaders have chosen to play has been merely to criticize our methods, belittle our achievements, investigate our victories and rob America and the world of their fruits. Let them stand upon their record!"

Clark, Democratic leader of the House: "In the impending campaign we stand on our splendid and unimpeachable record in peace and war, in wisdom, progress, peace and patriotic life. In the last six years more constructive legislation was placed on the statute books than was put there in 24 years of Republican control."

Cornwell, governor of West Virginia: "As Democrats our chief ground of antagonism to the Republican party has been that it was a class party, a party of special privileges, dominated by business, it legislated exclusively and persistently in its interest."

Daniels, secretary of the navy: "It is a sure sign of the declaration of independence and Lincoln's emancipation proclamation glorify American statesmanship. The covenant of the League of Nations will bring the nations into such accord that reason, and not force, will rule among nations as among individuals."

Bitcheck, senator from Nebraska: "If Republican leaders desire to throw down the gauntlet for a fight on the League of Nations, before the American people, the Democrats are ready to take it up. If the test comes in this campaign on that issue we will win."

WILSON-BRYAN SPLIT.

President Wilson says: "I do not accept the action of the Senate of the United States as the decision of the nation. There can be no reasonable objection to interpretations accompanying the act of ratification itself. But when the treaty is acted upon I must know whether it means that we have ratified or rejected it."

"We cannot rewrite this treaty. We must take it without changes which alter its meaning, or leave it, and then, after the rest of the world has signed it, we must face the unthinkable task of making another and separate kind of treaty with Germany."

"The clear and single way out is to submit it for determination, at the next election, to the voters of the nation, to give to the next election the form of a great and solemn referendum."

Mr. Bryan says: "We cannot afford, either as citizens or as members of the party, to share with the Republican party responsibility for further delay (of peace); we cannot go before the country on the issue which such an appeal would present."

"The Republicans have a majority in the Senate, and therefore by right can dictate the Senate's course."

"The one fundamental principle of democracy is the right of the majority to rule. It applies to the Senate and to the House, as well as to the public."

"I assume that the party will accept prohibition as the permanent policy of the country."

"I assume that the party will accept woman suffrage also as an accepted fact. The women saved our party from defeat in the last election, and we need their aid to hasten the triumph of every righteous cause."

"We have become the world's teacher in the science of government."

ABOLISHED THE OFFICE

And C. W. Goodridge Will Go to Another Field.

The Fiscal Court in session Tuesday voted to abolish the office of County Road Engineer and C. W. Goodridge, who has been serving in that capacity since 1914, was left with his wife yesterday for his old home in Boone county. After spending a few days there, he will return to his post one of several positions that have been offered him by other counties in the State.

The court was almost unanimous in its action. Only one member, Magistrate P. C. Weatherford, of Bradfordsville, opposed abolishing the office.

Goodridge is said to be an unusually capable road man, having had some eight years or more experience. He received a salary from the county of $2,400 a year. There are many who think the court is making a serious error in dispensing with a road engineer. Few of the counties in the State that are making an effort to improve their road systems attempt the task without an engineer, and it is believed, that sooner or later the local court will recognize its mistake. Certainly some competent engineer, some one with practical experience, should direct the work on the roads. The present salaried position of the thousands of dollars that will go on the roads in the next year or two, will, to a great extent, be lost to the people.—Lebanon Enterprise, Jan. 9th.

Bad Day for Sale.

Hanna & Robinson struck about the worst day of the season for a public sale, but quite a good crowd was in attendance notwithstanding the inclement weather. Live stock did not bring high prices that have prevailed at other sales in this neighborhood the past two months. Mr. Robinson has moved to Louisville, where he has employment in a brokerage office where he worked heretofore. Messrs. Hanna & Robinson express themselves as very well satisfied with their sale.

Wont Give Him Up.

F. H. Rouse, who took charge of the County Infirmary the first of January, 1911, has had charge of that institution continuously ever since, and was reappointed by the county court as its session on Tuesday of last week. It is understood that there were two other applicants for the position this year, but Mr. Rouse's management of the infirmary was so satisfactory to the court that it would not turn him down, but rather give him a small increase in salary and retain him.

NOTICE—All members of the Florence Milk Producers' Association are hereby requested to be present at a meeting of the Association at Florence Town Hall, Saturday, January 17th, 1920, at 1:30 p. m. The election of officers and other important business will come before this meeting.

CLEM KENDALL, Secretary.

Russell Smith said his tobacco on the Walton market Wednesday at an average of something over $14 per 100. He reported it at a former sale by which proceeds were made over $200.

WALTON.

John E. Williams of Covington, was a visitor here and at his farm near Richwood Sunday.

J. W. Fitzgerald of Danville, was the guest of his daughter Mrs. R. L. Shirley and family a part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest DeMoisey and Mr. and Mrs. Steiner of Ludlow, were the guests of Mrs. Mary Fields Sunday.

J. S. Ballard of Charleston, W. Va., who has been here on a visit to his brother T. O. Ballard and wife, returned home last week.

Mrs. D. B. Wallace returned last Thursday from a very pleasant visit to her brother Dr. G. A. Mottier and wife of Indianapolis.

Rev. Dr. W. W. Evans who recently went to Oakland, Calif., writes that he arrived safely and is enjoying the delightful weather there.

Miss Jane Dickey who has been here a couple of months on account of illness was able to return to her school work at Fayetteville, Arkansas, this week.

Married—Paul W. Bowling of Pendleton county, and Miss Lillie May Norman at Jeffersonville, Indiana. The bride is a daughter of Wm. B. Norman of Walton.

Jesse Laws who recently returned from Australia where he has been the past seven years, spent last week here with his brother Dudley G. Laws and family.

Ernest W. McElroy, who has been employed in Cincinnati came home here last week to rest up as his physician directed that he would be benefitted and avoid a nervous breakdown.

Mrs. Bluford W. Aylor, of Grandia, North Dakota, spent last week here and left Saturday for Tampa, Florida, to spend the winter. Mr. Aylor is expected here in a couple of weeks on a visit.

McClure Chapter Royal Arch Masons will have its regular communication Friday night, Jan. 16, when there will be work in the degrees. All of the Companions are urged to be present.

Mrs. Gertrude Gard, who has been visiting here left Friday for Cincinnati on a visit to friends and will then return to her home at Newark, Ohio. Her cousin E. Bruce Wallace accompanied her to Cincinnati for a couple of days' visit.

R. A. Poland, of Owen-co., was here Monday consulting John L. West about some law business. His son has been very ill in Cincinnati and he came from his bedside. He was also arranging to have the Equitable Bank qualify as the guardian of his niece, Miss Poland of Glencoe.

Rev. J. D. Waters and family moved to Millersburg, Ohio, last Saturday where he has taken charge as pastor of the Christian church. Rev. Jas. C. Lawson was to have filled the Walton pulpit on Sunday but was obliged to defer his visit here until Thursday when he will hold a meeting for several days.

Wm. H. Senour, one of our old and highly esteemed citizens, died at his home near Walton Monday afternoon from pneumonia. He was in his 89th year and was born and reared where he died. He leaves a large estate, and had no family excepted an adopted daughter Miss Addie Ellis who cared for him in a most kindly manner during his latter years. The funeral will take place Wednesday.

The cold weather burst the steam pipes at the Baptist church last Saturday and as there were no other method of heating the building services had to be deferred, but the members of the Christian church most cordially invited the Pastor Rev. R. L. Shirley to hold his services in their auditorium and the kindly offer was accepted until the heating apparatus in the Baptist church can be repaired.

W. L. Whitehouse, of Covington, was here Monday and sold his farm of about 130 acres on Woolper creek to Wm. Mudman and son Earl, who recently acquired their farm to John Howe, the farm being in Kenton county and containing 50 acres. Mr. Whitehouse took as part payment the farm of C. H. Aige in Gallatin county, containing 53 acres. Mr. Aige is the son-in-law of Mr. Mudman, and was here with his wife Monday to close the trade.

James O. Pottenger died at his home on the Jos. C. Hughes farm last Wednesday from pneumonia after an illness of three days. Mr. Pottenger was born at Beaver Lick, June 6th, 1879, and was married to Miss Estelle Marsh, and to this union thirteen children were born all of whom are living. He was a good citizen, and a member of the Odd-Fellows and Modern Woodmen. The funeral took place at Hughes Chapel last Thursday.

Dr. E. A. Cram who left here about a year ago for Woodmen, Colorado, to take treatment for tuberculosis, and wrote to friends here several months ago that he had about recovered, died from the disease at Great Falls, Montana, Dec. 26th, aged 42 years. He was the son of Wm. H. and Emaleta Cram both of whom died within the past two years. The remains of Dr. Cram were brought back to his old home at Butler, Pendleton county, by his brothers Harley and Roy Cram. One daughter survives him.

Russell H. Campbell and Miss Mabel Mayhugh were united in the holy bonds of wedlock last Saturday evening at the residence of the officiating minister, Rev. H. C. Runyan, of Latonia. Christian church, the attendants being Clifford A. Youell and Miss Nellie Johnson. The bride's father, J. D. Mayhugh, and the groom is a fine young gentleman, son of Wm. H. Campbell of the L. and N. Railroad. The young couple returned to Walton and are making their home at the J. D. Mayhugh residence.

The Walton Loose Leaf Tobacco markets have been unusually high in selling price the past week and there have been very few rejections at either house. The crop of Hiram Long of Florence, averaged $99.37, and the crop of E. L. Mann and Ed. McDuffy of near Fliskburg, containing 1720 pounds averaged $83.66, both being sold at the Walton Warehouse. Several high priced crops of a similar type and price sold at the Farmers' Warehouse. The market is being pushed strongly so as to have the sales completed by March 1st, and it will be wise for the growers to market their tobacco as soon as they can as all of it should be disposed of by March 1st.

Messrs. Reynolds, Mengel and Eddy of Lima, Ohio, spent part of last week here arranging to drill for oil near Big Bone Springs. A small company is being organized and work will begin in a short time. About fourteen years ago three holes were drilled at that place, one to the depth of about 800 feet and a heavy flow of gas was struck. These men are of the opinion that there is oil in that locality in paying quantities and expect to drill three holes to a much greater depth, and in support of their opinion are putting up a dollar for every one subscribed by the local people and are putting the entire matter of finances in the hands of the local people as well as the general management. About forty home people have taken stock and subscribed about $200 each and feel that there is a good opportunity to develop oil producing wells in that locality.

Shelby Stephens died at the St. Elizabeth Hospital in Covington last Friday and his remains were brought here for interment Saturday, funeral services being held in Covington and a short service at the grave by Rev. Rivolette DeMoisey. The deceased had a room at the home of Wm. Ackman, and on Tuesday night of last week while in a delirium produced by blood poisoning wandered out about midnight barefooted and in only his underclothing, though the snow and ice were heavy on the ground. He was endeavoring to reach the home of John R. Feagan a couple of miles from town, and when near the home of Millard Allen the latter was attracted by his cries and took him in charge and hurried him to Mr. Feagan's, where he remained until the next morning when his uncle A. M. Edwards took Mr. Stephens to the hospital in Covington. In his unbalanced condition while on the road, he had bitten off the ends of two of his fingers, and these with another finger that was badly mutilated had to be amputated. Mr. Stephens was about 60 years old and was born and reared here.

"SMOKERS' AGE"

John E. Williams Advises The Growers of Tobacco to Produce Cigarette Tobacco as It Brings Highest Prices.

John E. Williams, who represents the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. of Winston-Salem, N. C., in the Burley tobacco district of Kentucky as a purchasing agent, has requested that attention be called to the fact that in the matter of the use of tobacco this is a "Smokers' Age" and there is only a certain kind of tobacco that will meet the requirements of the smoker, and that is the bright kind, and he advises the growers to grow the kind of tobacco the consumer likes the best if they want the price. In proof of the statement that the smoking tobacco is largely in the ascendancy attention is called to the U. S. Government report on tobacco, showing the sales of smoking tobacco to have increased 177 per cent in the last year. Attention is also called to the fact that the growers about Lexington and in the Blue Grass territory raise nothing but bright tobacco, chiefly Judy's Pride, and the Lexington market averages 65 to 75 cents per pound, while in the Walton territory and down to Carrollton where mostly the heavy red tobacco is raised, the market averages from 30 to 40 cents per pound. Mr. Williams gives his opinion that this is the reason for the difference in price. His firm to encourage the raising of bright tobacco, bought several thousand dollars' worth of the Judy's Pride seed to dispose of in the territory where the heavy red tobacco is being raised. This seed is all raised and matured under canvas and is tested by the Agricultural Experiment Station and has been shown to be 99 per cent germination. This tobacco should be planted early and about fifteen inches apart, and thinned to about four to five to eighteen leaves. This gives the lower leaves the proper shade and carries them up to cutting time without any injury. The Judy's Pride seed can be obtained from almost any loose leaf warehouse, or J. R. Williams, Walton, Ky., will furnish it at 82 cents per ounce, with guarantee. All of the big concerns handling cigarette and smoking tobacco are urging the increase in acreage of this bright tobacco seed, and that the big price is going to remain several years.

On the night of the 23rd Inst. Zimmer, Brown and Wingate will give another of those delightful dances at the Hebron hall, and who attend will have a grand time as is always the case on these occasions.

Prepare your tobacco plant beds for burning.
Ground hog day comes on Monday this year.

Have you noticed that the days are getting longer?
W. L. Kirkpatrick is remodeling the interior of his store.

The growing wheat has fared pretty well so far this winter.

Al Rogers, of Bellevue, was transacting business in Burlington, Tuesday.

Colonel Crisler is improving rapidly and expects to be in his shop in a few days.

The town of Walton has been overrun with wagons loaded with tobacco for several days.

The census enumerators have been having some pretty tough weather since they began work.

Judge Gaines went to Owenot. Owen court, last Monday to hold a two weeks' special term of circuit court.

The heating system was put in order in time for the school to resume work in the school building last Monday morning.

The boom in the price of tobacco last week started the weed towards the market pretty rapidly the first of this week.

It will not be long until there is a change in the operation of the Burlington garage. It is not known yet who will succeed Edna Bros.

Nice skating on the sidewalks in Burlington last Friday, and several of the boys and girls took advantage of the occasion to indulge in the sport.

The local truck men have been very busy the past week hauling tobacco and moving the personal effects of those who have purchased farms elsewhere.

W. L. Whitehouse, who owned the Charles Seebree farm down on Woolper creek a few years has sold it to a gentleman by the name of William Mudman.

Kenneth Stamper, 24, son of Bud Stamper, and Miss Nora Mae Mullins, 22, daughter of Frank Mullins, were married yesterday at Rev. C. E. Baker's in Bellevue.

John J. Moloney, Jr., a Pig Club Boy, of Erlanger, won third prize in the November Letter-Contest conducted by the Pig Club Department of The Durco Fulleton.

C. T. Claunch, the Erlanger Real Estate Agent, sold for W. H. Goord a farm of 125 acres on the Dixie Highway between Erlanger and Florence last week, to J. H. Sanders, for $22,000.

The telephone lines between Limburg and Hobson were hit hard by the big sleet that came last Thursday night, numerous poles being broken off at the top of the ground.

Simone E. House, the old political war horse from Union, was a business visitor to Burlington last Monday. He is staying this winter with John N. Crisler, of Long Branch, who is in poor health.

Renaker & Youell sold the small farm that Thomas Hensley bought of them to J. E. Arvin a few days ago at a nice profit. Mr. Arvin has rented the residence Mr. Hensley bought of J. W. Kelly in Burlington.

County Attorney B. H. Rife, and Atty. S. W. Tolin went to Raleigh, N. C., Tuesday, to try John Howell, charged with violating the compulsory educational law of the State. The trial resulted in the defendant being fined five dollars and costs.

The government is advertising for bids for carrying the U. S. Mail between Covington and Burlington for four years, commencing the first of next year. The present carrier, is going out the contract of John Brad, and his pay is $1,700 per annum.

The Recorder is in receipt of an article purporting to have been written in Lexington, this State, by John J. Howe as a candidate for Congress in this district, and why the writer failed to sign his name to the article is unaccountable as he certainly had no cause to be ashamed of the gentleman in whose interest he wrote.

THE TOBACCO MARKETS.

Aurora, Ind., Jan. 16.—The Aurora loose leaf tobacco warehouse sold today 62,155 lbs. of tobacco at average of $36.85. Market very strong on bright tobacco, with the common grades advanced $1 and $2 per 100 pounds. The high basket today sold for $1.02 per pound.

Shelbyville, Ky., Jan. 10.—During the past week 1,321,665 lbs. of tobacco were sold on this market for $435,228.11, an average of $32.93. The bids for the season aggregate 5,016,910 lbs. for $1,889,870.76, an average of $38.55.

Madison, Ind., Jan. 10.—Sales on the local tobacco breaks this week totaled 484,095 lbs. at an average of $31.71. Receipts have been heavy all week and the demand has been brisk. There was a slight slump in the market Wednesday and Thursday, but sales Friday showed a decided advance on almost all kinds of tobacco, with a basket of fancy lugs selling at $1.06, the high mark for the season. A number of growers with fancy crops received an average of $70 to $75.

Covington, January 12.—The first sale of the week in the Covington loose leaf burley tobacco market was held this morning at the Kenton Warehouse with a total offering of 75,410 pounds. It was stated after the sale that there was a large portion of low grades, which accounts for the comparatively low average for the day. Good to fine red leaf and lugs seemed fully as strong as last week, and all colors tobaccos were in good request at steady prices. Common amber stock was weak, though not notably lower in price. Rejections for the day were rather free, totaling 16,620 pounds, leaving an actual sale of 58,790 pounds, average $27.29 per 100 lbs. Select leaf ran as high as 96 cents per lb., while the common sorts ranged downward as low as $5.40.

Walton, Jan. 12.—The Farmers Loose Leaf house sold 93,755 lbs. of tobacco today at an average of $33.93. There were very few rejections. The high price for the day was $1.02 a pound. There is enough tobacco at this house now for two more sales.

Covington, Jan. 13.—Altho lighter offerings prevailed in the Covington loose leaf burley tobacco market today, the break as a whole was high in grade and the market displayed decidedly more animation than on Monday. Offerings totaled 47,535 pounds, of which only 3,000 lbs. were rejected, leaving an actual sale of 44,535 lbs.

Aurora, Ind., January 13.—The Aurora Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Company sold today 76,260 pounds of tobacco at an average of $33.93. The floor consisted principally of good tobacco, which sold high, while the common grades did not show any material change in price.

Boone Post Will Give a Dance.

The boys of the Boone Post American Legion will give a dance at the Boone Post, O. P. Hall, on Friday evening, Jan. 23rd, 1920. The committee is endeavoring to make this an ideal social gathering with cheerfulness in attendance and the best of music. They want it understood that it is not for members alone but for their friends as well.

William Satchell moved to his Indiana home last Monday going by way of Covington. Quite a good sized colony of Boone's most excellent people have gone to Manchester, Indiana, section in the last few years. They are all doing well and are pleased with their new homes and their neighbors. Joe Harty and one of Guiley & Pettit's trucks moved him.

A company is being organized for the purpose of sinking wells in the neighborhood of Big Bone Springs to ascertain if oil exists in that territory. Oil men have been making the claim that they can give it as their opinion that there will be found in paying quantities if those in search of it will go deep enough. The test made there several years ago was only a surface investigation and those who financed that work were never satisfied that oil would not have been found. It will be some time before the county will lay down another large sum of money for public works. The experience this county has had is worth the cost, and a different road system will have to prevail in her jurisdiction before many more miles of pike are built at the public expense.

So far Boone county has shown very little disposition to assist in the construction of the Federal Aid road from Louisville to Covington, and in so far as she is concerned the proposed highway will not come this way. It is stated that Boone is about the only county among the proposed route that has not made a heroic effort to raise its quota for the work. Boone has just spent the proceeds of a two hundred thousand dollar bond issue in roads and the results are not at all satisfactory. Consequently it will be some time before the county will lay down another large sum of money for public works. The experience this county has had is worth the cost, and a different road system will have to prevail in her jurisdiction before many more miles of pike are built at the public expense.

A strange disease has appeared in Oklahoma that is proving very fatal and baffling the efforts of the physicians. Some claim it is a new disease while others claim it is a follower of the flu in some cities the larger part of the population is stricken.

Tributes of Respect.

Harmony Lodge No. 123, I. O. O. F. Big Bone, Ky., Jan. 1, 1920.

Whereas, The Grand Master of the Universe has seen fit to His Infinite wisdom to call from labor on earth to refreshments in that Celestial Lodge on high our beloved brother, James O. Pottinger, who departed this life January 7th, 1920;

Whereas, Brother Pottinger was a member of Harmony Lodge No. 123, I. O. O. F., also the Modern Woodmen of America, and a devout member of the Methodist church;

Whereas, This funeral was held from the Hughes Chapel M. E. church almost in sight of where he lived a number of years, a great number of his sorrowing friends paying tribute to his going away; therefore be it Resolved, That the fraternity has lost one of its noblest character, the family, a loving husband and father, the community, one of its best citizens, and that we extend to the family our heartfelt sympathy in this their sad hour of bereavement, and commend them to Him who, doeth all things well.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy spread upon the record, and a copy be sent to the Boone County Recorder for publication.

WALTON.

John E. Williams of Covington, was a visitor here and at his farm near Richwood Sunday.

J. W. Fitzgerald of Danville, was the guest of his daughter Mrs. R. L. Shirley and family a-part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest DeMoisey and Mr. and Mrs. Steiner of Ludlow, were the guests of Mrs. Mary Fields Sunday.

J. S. Ballard of Charleston, W. Va. who has been here on a visit to his brother T. O. Ballard and wife, returned home last week.

Mrs. D. B. Wallace returned last Thursday from a very pleasant visit to her brother Dr. G. A. Mottier and wife of Indianapolis.

Rev. Dr. W. W. Evans who recently went to Oakland, Cal., writes that he arrived safely and is enjoying the delightful weather there.

Miss Jane Dickey who has been here a couple of months on account of illness was able to resume her school work at Fayetteville, Arkansas, this week.

Married—Paul W. Bowling of Pendleton county, and Miss Lillie May Norman at Jeffersonville, Indiana. The bride is a daughter of Wm. B. Norman of Walton.

Jease Laws who recently returned from Australia where he has been the past seven years, spent last week here with his brother Dudley G. Laws and family.

Ernest W. McElroy, who has been employed in Cincinnati came home here last week to rest as a physician directed that he would be benefited and avoid a nervous breakdown.

Mrs. Bluford W. Aylor, of Grandin, North Dakota, spent last week here and left Saturday for Tampa, Florida, to spend the winter. Mr. Aylor is expected here in a couple of weeks on a visit.

McClure Chapter Royal Arch Masons will have its regular communication Friday night, Jan. 16, when there will be work in the degrees. All of the Companions are urged to be present.

Mrs. Gertrude Gardt who has been visiting here left Friday for Cincinnati on a visit to friends and will then return to her home at Newark, Ohio. Her cousin E. Bruce Wallace accompanied her to Cincinnati for a couple of days' visit.

R. A. Poland, of Owen-co., was here Monday consulting John L. Vest about some law business. His son has been very ill in Cincinnati and he came from his bedside. He was also arranging to have the Equitable Bank quality as the guardian of his niece, Miss Poland of Glenoe.

Rev. J. D. Waters and family moved to Millersburg, Ohio, last Saturday where he has taken charge as pastor of the Christian church. Rev. Jas. C. Lawson was to have filled the Walton pulpit on Sunday but was obliged to defer his visit here until Thursday when he will hold a meeting for several days.

Wm. H. Senour, one of our old and highly esteemed citizens, died at his home near Walton Monday afternoon from pneumonia. He was in his 89th year and was born and reared where he died. He leaves a large estate, and had no family excepted an adopted daughter Miss Addie Ellis who cared for him in a most kindly manner during his latter years. The funeral will take place Wednesday.

The cold weather burst the steam pipes at the Baptist church last Saturday and as there were no other method of heating the building services had to be deferred, but the members of the Christian church most cordially invited the Pastor Rev. R. L. Shirley to hold his services in their auditorium and the kindly offer was accepted until the heating apparatus in the Baptist church can be repaired.

W. L. Whitehouse, of Covington, was here Monday and sold his farm of about 130 acres on Woolper creek to Wm. Mudman and son Earl, who recently sold their farm to John Howe, the farm being in Kenton county and containing 50 acres. Mr. Whitehouse took as part payment the farm of C. H. Aige in Gallatin county, containing 53 acres. Mr. Aige is the son-in-law of Mr. Mudman, and was here with his wife Monday to close the trade.

James O. Pottenger died at his home on the J. C. Hughes farm last Wednesday from pneumonia after an illness of three days. Mr. Pottenger was born at Beaver Lick, June 6th, 1870, and was married to Miss Estelle Marsh, and to this union thirteen children were born all of whom are living. He was a good citizen, and a member of the Odd-Fellows and Modern Woodmen. The funeral took place at Hughes Chapel last Thursday.

Dr. E. A. Cram who left here about a year ago for Woodmen, Colorado, to take treatment for tuberculosis, and wrote to friends here several months ago that he had about recovered, died from the disease at Gretna, Montana, Dec. 26th, aged 42 years. He was the son of Wm. H. and Emaleta Cram both of whom died within the past two years. The remains of Dr. Cram were brought back to his old home at Butler, Pendleton county and his brothers Harley and Roy Cram, one-daughter survives him.

Russell R. Campbell and Miss Mabel Mayhugh were united in the holy bonds of wedlock last Saturday evening at the residence of the officiating minister, Rev. H. C. Runyan, of Latonia Christian church, the attendants being Clifford A. Youell and Miss Nellie Johnson. The bride is the pretty daughter of J. B. Mayhugh, and the groom is a fine young gentleman, son of Wm. B. Campbell of the L. and N. Railroad. The young couple returned to Walton and are making their home at the J. D. Mayhugh residence.

The Walton Loose Leaf Tobacco markets have been unusually high in selling price the past week and there have been very few rejections at either house. The crop of Hiram Long of Florence, averaged $99.87, and the crop of E. L. Mann and Ed. McCurdy of near Fiskburg, containing 1720 pounds averaged $83.66, both being sold at the Walton Warehouse. Several high priced crops of a similar type and price sold at the Farmers' Warehouse. The market is being pushed strongly so as to have the tobacco completed by March 1st, and it will be wise for the growers to market their tobacco as soon as they can as all of it should be disposed of by March 1st.

Messrs. Reynolds, Mengel and Eddy of Lima, Ohio, spent part of last week here arranging to drill for oil near Big Bone Springs. A small company is being organized and work will begin in a short time. About fourteen years ago three holes were drilled at that place, one to the depth of about 800 feet and a heavy flow of gas was struck. These men are of the opinion that there is oil in that locality in paying quantities and expect to drill three holes to a much greater depth, and in support of their opinion are putting up a dollar for every one subscribed by the local people and are putting the entire matter of finances in the hands of the local people, as well as the general management. About forty home people have taken stock and subscribed about $200 each and feel that there is a good opportunity to develop oil producing wells in that locality.

Shelby Stephens died at the St. Elizabeth Hospital in Covington last Friday and his remains were brought here for interment Saturday, funeral services being held in Covington and a short service at the grave by Rev. Rivolette DeMoisey. The deceased had a room at the home of Wm. Ackman, and on Tuesday night of last week while in a delirium produced by blood poisoning wandered out about midnight barefooted and in only his underclothing, though the snow and ice were heavy on the ground. He was endeavoring to reach the home of John R. Feagan a couple of miles from town, and when near the home of Millard Allen the latter was attracted by his cries and took him to the hospital. He remained until the next morning when his uncle A. M. Edwards took him to the hospital in Covington. In his unbalanced condition while on the road, he had bitten off the ends of two of his fingers, and these with another finger the was badly mutilated had to be amputated. Mr. Stephens was about 60 years old and was born and reared here.

"SMOKERS' AGE"

John E. Williams Advises The Growers of Tobacco to Produce Cigarette Tobacco as It Brings Highest Prices.

John E. Williams, who represents the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. of Winston-Salem, N. C., in the Burley tobacco district of Kentucky as a purchasing agent, has requested that attention be called to the fact that in the matter of the use of tobacco this is a "Smokers' Age" and there is only a certain kind of tobacco that meets the requirements of the smoker, and that is the bright kind, and he advises the growers to grow the kind of tobacco the consumer likes the best if they want the price. In proof of the statement that the smoking tobacco is largely in the ascendancy attention is called to the U. S. Government report on tobacco, showing the sales of smoking tobacco to have increased 177 per cent. in the last year. Attention is also called to the fact that the growers about Lexington and in the Blue Grass territory raise nothing but bright tobacco, chiefly Judy's Pride, and the Lexington market averages 65 to 75 cents per pound, while in the Walton territory and down to Carrollton where mostly the heavy red tobaccos are raised, the market averages from 30 to 40 cents per pound. Mr. Williams gives his opinion that this is the reason for the difference in price. His firm to encourage the raising of bright tobacco bought several thousand dollars' worth of the Judy's Pride seed to dispose of in the territory where the heavy red tobacco is being raised. This seed is all raised and matured under canvas and is tested by the Ky. Agricultural Experiment Station and has been found to be 99 per cent. germination. This tobacco should be planted early and about fifteen inches apart, and topped high from mid-July to mid-August. This gives the lower leaves the proper shade and carries them up to cutting time without any injury. The Judy's Pride seed can be obtained from almost any loose leaf warehouse, or J. E. Williams, Walton, Ky., will furnish it at $2 per ounce, with guarantee. All the big concerns handling cigarette and smoking tobaccos are urging the increase acreage of this bright tobacco insisting that the big prices are going to remain several years.

On the night of the 23rd Inst. Zimmer, Brown and Wingate will give another of those delightful dances at the high school hall. All who attend will have a grand time as is always the case on these occasions.

Mayville—Dora Owens was indicted on the charge of having cashed both a check for $961 and another for $996, given to correct the first by Budde & Co., Cincinnati.

THE TOBACCO MARKETS.

Aurora, Ind., Jan. 15.—The Aurora loose leaf tobacco warehouse sold today 62,155 lbs. tobacco at average of $36.95. Market very strong on bright tobacco, with the common grades advanced $1 and $2 per 100 pounds.
The high basket today sold at $1.02 per pound.

Shelbyville, Ky., Jan. 10.—During the past week 1,321,665 lbs.
of tobacco were sold on this market for $45,522.11, an average of $33.93. The sale for the season aggregate 5,016,910 lbs. for $1,889, 870.76, an average of $38.55.

Madison, Ind., Jan. 10.—Sales on the local tobacco breaks this week totaled 484,195 lbs. at an average of $31.71. Receipts have been very light all week and the demand has been brisk. There was a slight slump in the market Wednesday and Thursday, but sales
Friday showed a decided advance on almost all kinds of tobacco, with a basket of fancy lugs selling at $1.06, the high mark for the season. A number of growers with fancy crops received an average of $70 to $75.

Covington, January 12.—The first sale of the week in the Covington loose leaf burley tobacco market was held this morning at the Kenton Warehouse with a total offering of 15,419 pounds. It was stated after the sale that there was a large portion of low grades, which accounts for the comparatively low average for the day. Good to fine red leaf and lugs seemed fully as strong as last week, and all colors tobaccos were in good request at steady prices. Common smoker stock was weak, though not notably lower in price. Rejections for the day were rather free, totaling 16,620 pounds, leaving an actual sale of 58,839 pounds. Average $27.29 per 100 lbs. Select leaf ran as high as 96 cents per lb., while the common sorts ranged downward as low as $5.40.

Walton, Jan. 12.—The Farmers'
Loose Leaf house sold 93,755 lbs. of tobacco today at an average of $33.93. There were very few rejections. The high price for the day was $1.02 a pound. There is enough tobacco at this house now for two more sales.

Covington, Jan. 13.—Altho lighter offerings prevailed in the Covington loose leaf burley tobacco market today the break as a whole was high in grade and the market displayed decidedly more animation than on Monday. Offerings totalled 47,585 pounds of which only 2,000 lbs. were rejected, leaving an actual sale of 45,585 lbs.

Aurora, Ind., January 13.—The Aurora Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Company sold today 76,289 pounds of tobacco at an average of $35.00 per 100 lbs. The floor consisted principally of good tobacco, which sold high, while the common grades did not show any material change in price.

Boone Post Will Give a Dance.

The boys of the Boone Post American Legion will give a dance at Florence, L. O. F. Hall, on Friday evening, Jan. 23rd, 1920.
The committee is endeavoring to make this an ideal social gathering with cheeriness in attendance and the best of music. They want it understood that it is not for members alone but for their friends as well.

William Satchell moved to his Iridiana home last Monday going by way of Covington. Quite a good sized colony of Boone's most excellent people have gone to the Manchester, Indiana, section in the last few years. They are all doing well and are pleased with their new home and their new neighbors. Joe Huey and one of Gulley & Pettit's trucks moved him.

A company is being organized for the purpose of sinking wells in the neighborhood of Big Bone Springs to ascertain if oil exists in that territory. Oil men have been coming to the Big Bone territory for some time, and they give it as their opinion that oil will be found in paying quantities if those in search of it will go deep enough. The test made there several years ago was only a surface investigation and those who flinched that work were never satisfied that oil would not have been found. It will be some time before the county will lay down another large sum of money for public roads. The experience this county had in laying the cost and a different road system will have to prevail in her jurisdiction before many more miles of pike are built at the public expense.

So far Boone county has shown very little disposition to assist in the construction of the Federal Aid road from Louisville to Covington, and in so far as she is concerned the proposed highway will not be built. It is stated that Boone is about the only county among the proposed route that has not made a heroic effort to raise its quota for the work.
Boone has the proceeds of a two hundred thousand dollar bond issue in bonds and the results are not at all satisfactory.
Consequently it will be some time before the county will lay down another large sum of money for public roads. The experience this county had in laying the cost and a different road system will have to prevail in her jurisdiction
before many more miles of pike
are built at the public expense.

A strange disease has appeared in Oklahoma that is proving very fatal and baffling the efforts of the physicians. Sometimes it is called the "snake bite" and it is a follower of the flu.
In some cities the larger part of the population is stricken.

ORGANIZE FOR BETTER HERDS

Farmers Forming Associations for Purpose of Introducing Bulls of Merit of Single Breed.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The co-operative bull association is an effective organization for freeing a community from the expensiveness of the scrub bull that roams at large. There is scarcely a breeder who has not experienced loss through unrestrained scrub bulls. In the territory covered by a co-operative bull association in one state only one scrub bull was found where, prior to the organization of the association, there had been 30 scrub bulls. The 30 scrubs have been replaced with five registered bulls. The organization of farmers into an association for the purpose of introducing bulls of merit of a single breed and the elimination of the scrub bull signifies that a definite plan for community herd improvement has been agreed upon.

There is at present a widespread interest on the part of individual farmers in herd improvement. The winter season affords an opportune time to discuss the subject with one's neighbors and to perfect the organization of such an association. Farmers' Bulletin 903, "Co-operative Bull Associations," which may be secured through application to the United States department of agriculture, gives information regarding these associations and practical methods of forming one.

TO PRODUCE BETTER HEIFERS

Carefully Select From Herd Profitable Producing Cows and Use Purebred Sire.

Proper feeding of balanced rations, elimination of unprofitable animals in the herd and increasing production by use of purebred dairy sires to produce better dairy heifers are three important things that will decrease the cost and increase the production of dairy products, says the dairy husbandry extension man at Iowa State college.

The easiest and most practical way of obtaining cows of better dairy qualities is to select carefully from the herd those cows which are good by record to be profitable producers and use on these a purebred dairy sire. If the profitableness is selected, then the dairymen will be able to make a profit while he is building up a dairy herd.

It pays to select and breed better animals because it means more pay for the amount of labor and feed used and also an increased production of a food which is absolutely essential.

INDICATIONS OF GOOD COW

Best Dairy Animal Has Large Middle Body, Strong Constitution and Perfect Health.

The best dairy cow has a large middle body, a strong constitution and perfect health. A large middle and good sized teats, large milk veins and prominent veins are indications of a good milker. There are many other points to be taken into consideration when breeding for results, but in addition to milk tests, if the cow is wellbodied and built for a milker, as may be judged from a common sense view, that ought to be sufficient evidence of dairy value.

SEPARATOR SHOULD BE CLEAN

Only Way to Secure Highest Efficiency of Machine and Best Quality of Product.

The cream separator should be kept clean if the highest efficiency of the machine and the best product is to be obtained. After each separation the bowl should be flushed out by pouring into the supply can about two quarts of lukewarm water. The parts should then be washed with warm water and rinsed in scalding water, after which they should be allowed to dry in the sun.

Control Texture of Butter. The grain or texture of the butter is affected and controlled largely by the treatment which the butter receives during the washing and working processes.

POULTRY FACTS

CARE OF BACK-YARD POULTRY

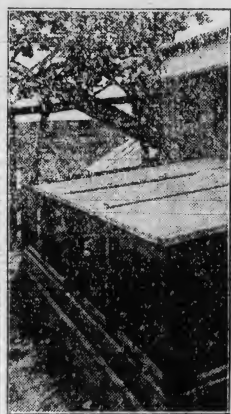

Phase of Home Production That Should Be Considered by Those Desiring Eggs and Meat.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The keeping of fowls on a town lot or in the back yard is a phase of home production that should be considered by all who desire to supply the table with eggs and meat at a cost considerably below the usual market price. Ordinarily, the keeping of from 12 to 25 hens is sufficient to provide the average family with eggs and meat. For a flock of 25 hens a space of from 20 to 20 square feet per bird should be allowed, and the yard so divided as to permit them to be alternated from one yard to the other. Thus, a lot of 25 by 30 feet, which is even smaller than the average town lot, should be the minimum space for a flock of this size. By having the yard divided over crops, such as wheat, oats, rape, or rye, can be growing in the unused yard and when sufficiently grown the fowls be allowed to pasture it.

For a yard 25 by 30 feet, or 750 square feet in size, the above-mentioned grains may be sown in the following amounts: Wheat, 2½ pounds; oats, 1½ pounds; rye, 3½ pounds; rape, 2½ pounds. When available, lawn clippings make excellent green feed for fowls.

In this way the contamination of the soil and the possibility of disease are reduced to a minimum, and at the same time green food is provided. The actual selection of the breed should not be a difficult matter when one considers that more depends upon the way fowls are managed than on the breed itself. Purebred fowls of the general-purpose or egg type purchased for a reasonable figure are well suited for backyard poultry plans. However, when purebred fowls can not be obtained, grades properly cared for and fed will usually produce sufficient eggs and meat for the table of the average family.

SENSIBLE TREATMENT OF HEN

Indispensable Requirements for Success Are Comfortable Quarters and Good Feed.

It makes no difference to a hen whether it is kept in a cage that cost $10 or 10 cents, or whether it has its feed and drink in china or earthen dishes; but it makes an immense difference whether it has good care or is neglected, and whether or not its needs are properly supplied. These things are equally true of a hen. Sensible treatment is of far greater importance than stylish quarters.

A fine equipment should not be despised. It can be so used as to be of great value. Still it is not one of the vital things. The indispensable requirements for success in the poultry business are good stock, comfortable and healthful quarters; feed and drink of good quality, in proper quantity and at suitable times; and full protection from diseases and enemies.

AVOID SOUR OR MUSTY FOOD

Covered Loaves With Result From Use of Poor Feed During Hot Days of Summer.

During hot weather sour or musty food is more apt to be used for poultry feed than in the winter. Several fowls will result from the use of poor food. It pays to know the exact condition of the grain in the bins which may have been there for a long time. Never allow portions of the stock to remain in the troughs for long days. It may become contaminated with dirt and then be eaten by the poultry flock.

PATIENCE IS CHIEF DEMAND.

Wild Animal Tamer Must Proceed Slowly in His Mastery of Naturally Savage Spirit.

The tamer of wild beasts uses no secret methods of magic spells. In fact such a tamer proceeds very much as a child would in taming a wild kitten. If a lion is to be taught to ride on horse back, for instance, it is necessary to be very patient at first and take a great deal of time. If possible, it is best to begin when the beast is young—less than a year old. He was born in captivity; he is already accustomed to seeing persons outside his cage, but not inside. All his instincts are fierce.

When the trainer first opens the cage door and steps inside the younger at once displays fear. He will probably jump at the trainer, snarling savagely, for that is his way of showing alarm. The only course that can be pursued is to wait until the lion is a little calmer, but the first lesson for him to learn is that it is not safe for him to attack men.

The trainer does not follow him, but sits quietly down on a box or a chair inside the cage, paying no particular attention to the beast. He sits there for an hour or two—sometimes three hours—at a stretch. This is done to accustom the lion to the presence of a man in its cage and to wear out the beast's natural fear and fierceness. The first lesson is repeated on the following day, and is continued for a month.

Next the trainer takes a piece of meat into the cage and waiting until the lion is hungry, offers it on the end of a long stick. Very likely the lion will not touch it at first, but perhaps after many days; or, if he seizes it, his manner will not be such as to indicate thankfulness. But by patience and perseverance he will be induced by and by to come and take his food from the stick, and eventually from the trainer's hand. Not infrequently he will try to bite the hand that offers the meat, but, generally speaking, it is deemed a decided victory when a young lion will voluntarily approach and take his food from the keeper's hand.

Soon after this he will allow the trainer to stroke his head. Toward a stranger he may exhibit much of the same ferocity as at first. The next step is to put a chain around the young fellow's neck and lead him about the cage; and most trainers deem it necessary to bind a lion down to the bottom of the cage once or twice to instill into his naturally intractable mind the fact that human bonds are irresistible and that chains cannot be broken.

The various feats constituting a performing lion's act are afterward taken up by one, and taught gradually. The only secrets that the lion tamer knows are endless patience and oft-repeated lessons. Needless cruelty is always avoided; nevertheless, it is necessary that lions as well as tigers, leopards and most other wild beasts, should be in fear of their keepers.

There is almost or quite as much difference in young lions as in boys. Some are much more docile and intelligent than others. Some develop good and trustworthy traits; others prove refractory and can never be fully trusted.

PESTILENCE CAUSED BY WAR.

Generally Understood That the Influenza Epidemic Was a Direct Result of Great Conflict.

Sufficient time has not yet elapsed to determine the indirect effects of the recent eruption of Mount Kilauea in Java which wiped out over a score of villages and killed thousands of the natives, but recollections of Krakatoa's volcanic outburst in 1883 which within six weeks sprinkled its fine lava dust over the whole world, has given an interesting suggestion to certain members of the medical profession. During the closing year of the year of the war an influenza epidemic raged in many parts of the world. The manner of its outbreak in different countries indicated that the germs of the disease had been conveyed by the wind in every direction, causing the influenza outbreak in Spain, Germany, England, France, South America, Australia, Africa, Asia, as well as in the United States and some of the Central American countries. That the influenza is a corollary of the war is undoubtedly. Any similar gigantic conflict, is a great deal, would be attended with similar widespread pestilence—another reason why every effort should be made to avert wars in the future.—Leslies and cuts down costs by investment in labor-saving machinery.

The Successful Farmer Raises Bigger Crops

Good prices for the farmers' crops encourage new investment, more production and greater prosperity.

But the success of agriculture depends on the growth of railroads—the modern beasts of burden that haul the crops to the world's markets.

The railroads—like the farms—increase their output and cut down unit costs by the constant investment of new capital.

With fair prices for the work they do, the railroads are able to attract new capital for expanding their facilities.

Rates high enough to yield a fair return will insure railroad growth, and prevent costly traffic congestion, which invariably results in poorer service at higher cost.

National wealth can increase only as our railroads grow.

Poor railroad service is dear at any price. No growing country can long pay the price of inadequate transportation facilities.

NEVER SAW THE SUWANEE

Writer of Popular Song Used Name Because Rhythmic Sound of It Appealed to Him.

The song, "Old Folks at Home," made the name of "Swanee River" famous, but few people, except those of Florida and Georgia, connect the Swanee of the song with the Suwannee that flows from the southern swamps of Georgia down through the woodlands of Florida to empty into the Gulf of Mexico.

"Way down upon the Swanee river" suggests vaguely the South of the antebellum days with its cotton plantations, its mansions and negro cabins. None of these things are found along the Suwannee. Yet Floridians claim that the song was written in honor of their favorite stream, and boatmen even point out a tree under which Stephen Foster is supposed to have penned the memorable lines. Reports less picturesque, but more generally accepted, say that Foster never saw Suwannee river, but that he used the name because of the rhythmic sound, dropping the "n" to perfect the meter.

While the Suwannee river may not be what its name suggests to most of us, it is a beautiful stream, flowing through a semi-tropical country where live-oaks and cypresses are mirrored in its clear depths. Heavy forests of cedar also grow in its valley, but these have been reduced in recent years, as the wood is in great demand for pencil making.

The Suwannee figured largely in early American history, for it was a favorite haunt of the Indians, and many battles with the red men were fought in its valleys.

The name Suwannee has an Indian sound, but it is said to be a corruption of San Juan—a name given the river by early Spanish explorers.

CHINA NOT LAND OF HUSTLE

Traveler in That Country Must Possess a Generous Amount of Patience and Tact.

Sooner or later, writes E. H. Wilson in "A Naturalist in Western China," the traveler in China must dispense with the comforts and luxuries of modern occidental methods of travel and adapt himself to those more primitive and decidedly less comfortable of the orientals.

In the regions with which we have to deal there is nothing in the nature of wheeled vehicular traffic save only the rude wheelbarrows in use on the Chengtu plain. There are no mule caravans, and scarcely riding ponies to be found. For overland travel there is the native sedan-chair and one's own legs; for river travel the native boat. Patience, tact and abundance of time are necessary and the would-be traveler lacking any of these essentials should seek lands where less primitive methods obtain. Endowed with the virtues mentioned, and having unlimited time at his disposal, he may travel anywhere and everywhere in China in safety, with considerable pleasure and abundant profit in knowledge. With her industries tolling millions, her old, old civilization, her enormous natural wealth and wondrous scenery, China alternately charms and fascinates, irritates and plunges into despair, all who sojourn long within her borders.

Elephants' Picnic.

An act not down on the program was given without charge the other day in the old seaport town of Marblehead, Mass., when four elephants of a small circus, named with the allied patriotism General Puch, General Pershing, General Hale and Tripes Pot, jumped a stone wall, escaped the circus and took to the woods. The personnel of the circus, acrobats, riders, clowns and canvasmen, followed, and so did many of the townspeople and half a dozen policemen, but the elephants made the woods first, and there they spent the day with "a large and appreciative audience" watching on the outskirts. Peanuts and bananas, usually a temptation to elephants, failed to entice them from their New England jungle; but as twilight fell, and habit suggested feeding time, the big beasts came peacefully out of the woods and allowed the trainer and assistants to lead them back to the circus grounds. And all Marblehead went home to bed.

Germany Seeks Wool Substitutes.

Search for wool substitutes will doubtless continue in Germany, where sheep rearing is not likely to increase materially. Dogs' hair, and even human hair have been tried, as felt material of limited supply, and the long hair of women found military use during the war. A possible new industry is to be based on the white, silken-haired rabbit. The hair may be spun into very fine soft threads, suitable for weaving certain fabrics, and plans are said to have been made for breeding several millions of the animals.

Oil in Mexico.

Recent investigations which have been made on the Pacific coast of Mexico reveal the existence of rich deposits of petroleum. These discoveries are of great importance, because they will ultimately serve to intensify maritime traffic and open to prospect for some of the western ports of Mexico a future as promising as that of Tampico or Tuxtepec.

BEST SOIL FOR STRAWBERRY

Good Drainage is Important and Abundant Humus is Essential to Profitable Yields.

Strawberry shortcake would soon become a thing of the past if all strawberry plants were set in poorly drained soil. While strawberries can be grown successfully on a wide variety of soil types, good drainage is necessary. Where abundant humus is essential to good yields. Methods of growing and handling strawberries in the South Atlantic and Gulf Coast regions, where the climate is mild and the plants grow during nearly the entire year are different in many respects from those in other parts of the country. These regions ship over 7,500 carloads annually.

Soil must be selected that is especially well drained. This is particularly important in the South, where much of the land is low and often poorly drained. Leaf, root, and fruit diseases are favored by poorly drained soils. There is no particular type of soil to which strawberries are best adapted. Fine sandy to heavy gumbo soils are used. Preparation of the land for planting should be thorough. If sufficient manure is not already present, heavy applications of manure should be made, or, if this is not available, some green-manure crop should be grown on the land for a season and then turned under before setting the plants.

Nematodes, also called gallworms and eelworms, are a serious menace to southern strawberry growers. They are most abundant where the soil rarely or never freezes to considerable depth, and are more injurious in sandy than in heavy soils. Where available, new land or that known to be free from nematodes should be used for strawberries. Common crops and plants known to be immune or very resistant to this parasite, such as corn, sorghum, winter oats, rye, pearl millet, velvet beans, peanuts, and a few others should be planted in rotation with strawberries. Many growers find it to their advantage in combating nematodes to secure plants from northern nurseries each year, and set them in their plantations during the winter months about every four feet apart in the rows.

The manner of handling these plants, sometimes called "mother plants," is to set them in January, February, or March. They will start growing at once, and by June will develop enough runner plants to cover a considerably increased area. By August these runner plants are ready for setting in a more extended area, and by October or November they in turn will have developed other runners which should be enough to form a main fruiting plantation. The exact time for making the original planting and the several transplantings of the runner plants varies in different localities and with weather conditions. Generally two planting systems are used in the South—the hill system and the matted-row system. Under the hill system the plants are commonly set in late summer or autumn, and the crop is harvested in the winter or the following spring. Usually plants set at that time make no runners, but if any do appear they are removed. When this system is used the plants are set in single, double, or triple rows.

Whatever method is used two things are of special importance: Setting the plants at the right depth and making the soil very firm about the roots. The plants should be set so that the crowns will be even with the surface of the ground after the soil has been packed about the roots. If set too deep the plant will smother, and if the crown is exposed above the surface it may dry out and die. Flower stems usually appear soon on the winter-set or spring-set plants, but the production of fruit is a severe drain on the plant's vitality, and the blossoms should be removed as they appear until the plants are well established.

The KITCHEN CABINET

A clear soup, a bit of fish, a couple of entrées and a nice little roast. That's my kind of a dinner—Thank-ersay.

WARM WEATHER FOODS.

Today with markets teeming with all kinds of fruit and vegetables and housewives efficient in canning greens from their gardens, one may expect to be as healthy in the spring as at any other time of the year, for our blood tones are taken in the form of fruit and vegetables.

However, when the warm days of summer come, they bring a muscular relaxation which reacts upon the digestive tract as well as upon the whole body and it needs to have its task lightened, so we lessen the amount of food or serve the lighter forms of food. Foods rich in fat such as pastries, cakes and various sauces, should be partaken of in moderation. Protein foods which furnish the heat should be cut down and more of the succulent fruits and vegetables form the main bulk of the food.

In the warm weather the housewife must plan more accurately not to have much leftover food, for spoilage will occur in a few hours in protein food, making it unfit to serve.

When very warm a cold drink in the form of a plain soda or phosphate is much less harmful than a soda or a sundae.

Ice creams and sundaes taken at the end of a meal will not chill the stomach unduly.

In planning food for hot days it is wise, because of the habit, to serve one hot dish, even a drink, as a too radical change in meals cannot always be borne.

If one's dinner is eaten at noon the supper should have at least one hot dish, simple but wholesome—a creamed meat on buttered toast, milk toast, macaroni and cheese, or bread and cheese custard made by spreading slices of bread with butter, putting them into a baking dish and covering with one egg to each cup of milk, the amount depending upon the number to be served. Over each slice of bread as it is placed, put a generous layer of rich finely diced cheese, baked in a moderate oven until the custard is set.

FIRST CLEAN UP THE MESS

British Major's Attitude on the War Typical of Most of the Soldiers "Over There."

Generalship, I heard a chief of staff at the front once say, is three-quarters a knowledge of the mood, the condition and the character of your men. For a week I traveled the British front with a grizzled major of a Highland regiment, who had been in the game since 1914. We lunched one day with a mingled group of field and intelligence officers, a Belgian on Halson work, and a visiting French captain. The talk, which was chiefly upon specialties beyond the range of war, made one fact evident—the world of civilian life was more interesting than ever before to these men. They were passionately desirous to get back, to "clean up the mess" there, to go on with their broken careers.

"How do you stay so keen on your job here," I asked the major, afterward, "when you are more weary of war than they are at home?"

He dashed a little, British fashion. "Have to clean up this mess, first," he answered.

A week later one of the most lovable boys I have ever known (he was killed a week later) stood by his lieutenant on the American front, talking to me before a fight.

"I don't think much of the danger," he said, "though I don't forget it. It's all part of the game."—Harper's Magazine.

THREE MEALS A DAY.

To plan meals three times a day for a family, trying to serve the food that is pleasing, keeping one's bills within the limit and providing a variety, and having the day's food well balanced, is the task of 30,000,000 cooks in this land of ours; a task which takes real training and practice to be successful.

Cream Peach Cake.—Bake a layer cake and for the filling add a cupful of very ripe peaches put through a ricer to sweetened whipped cream that is flavored with almond.

Coffee Junket.—For a dessert which is wholesome and easy to prepare as well as dainty to serve, junket stands at the head. Take one junket tablet, crush and dissolve in a tablespoonful of water, then add in a quart of lukewarm milk. Reserve half a cupful of the milk and pour boiling hot over two tablespoonfuls of coffee, let stand until well infused, then strain and cool before adding to the milk. If the milk is heated too hot the junket will not thicken the milk. Serve with whipped cream on the top of the glass.

Lamb Cutlets.—Cook eight lamb chops on one side until well browned; turn and on the cooked side place a teaspoonful of seasoned cooked macaroni. Cover with buttered crumbs and let cook in the oven about eight minutes. Creamed peas served in a thick white sauce may be used instead of the macaroni, which will make a most tasty dish.

Ice Cream in Case.—Bake an angel cake in a round deep tin and when cold, cut out the center leaving a thick shell to hold vanilla ice cream and serve at once.

Chefry Ice Cream.—This is both good to look at and better to eat. Use a cupful of rich cherry juice and a pint of cream with a few drops of almond extract. Sweeten to taste and freeze as usual. Serve in sherbet cups and garnish with a cherry or a spoonful of minced cherries with some of the syrup.

A whipped cream filling with a half cupful of chopped preserved pineapple, makes a fine filling for a cake to serve at once.

JOIN THE FARM BUREAU.

Membership Drive January 26 and 27--Meetings to Be Held at Various Points in The County.

During next week, beginning, Monday, 19th, a publicity campaign will be held in the county. Meetings will be held at various points in the county to acquaint the farmers in every section with the Farm Bureau and the work it can do for the betterment of agriculture in this county. Local leaders in all the communities will be assisted by Messrs. Geoffrey Morgan and Morgan Hughes, two of the ablest men on the Agricultural Extension force in the state. You must plan to attend at least one of the meetings and get a definite understanding as to what the Farm Bureau is. Be a booster for your county. Meetings have been arranged as follows:

Burlington--Monday, 4:00 p. m., January 19th.

Hebron--Monday, 8:00 p. m., January 19th.

Florence--Tuesday, 7:30 p. m., January 20th.

Beaver Lick--Wednesday, 7:30 p. m., January 21st.

Rabbit Hash--Thursday, 1:00 p. m., January 22nd.

Petersburg--Thursday, 7:30 p. m., January 22nd.

Walton--Friday, 7:30 p. m., Jan. 23rd.

Organization on the part of the farmers will stabilize the business and assure cost of production. The farmer has the same right to returns on capital invested as the bank or factory. This organization needs you.

By January 26th and 27th you will be asked to help with this great business. You will be given an opportunity for the first time to join hands with the farmers of Kentucky and the other states in perfecting an organization so strong that the farmer will receive the best of all.

Personal Mention

Miss Elizabeth Kelly has gone to Georgetown to attend college.

Miss Maude Hume, of Covington, was the guest of her mother last Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davrainville, of Newport, spent Sunday with his brother, W. R. Davrainville and family.

Rev. and Mrs. D. E. Bedinger, of Walton, have gone to Orlando, Florida, to take the remainder of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Furnish Penna, of Covington, spent Saturday night and Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Penna.

Mrs. C. C. Roberts and daughter, Miss Sheila and Mrs. Martin were quite ill several days the past week of colds.

C. Scott Chambers, a Walton undertaker, was in Burlington, last Sunday, and left quite a number of his calendars as evidence of his visit.

Chas. Miller and mother, of Big Bone, were guests of Mrs. Miller's sister, Mrs. B. Hume, last Sunday. Mrs. Miller remained for a visit of several days.

Mauley Gully, who is in the government service at Camp Reed, Washington, D. C., arrived at home last Sunday on a fifteen days furlough. Mr. Gully is connected with the medical corps and expected to be discharged in a month or so.

C. W. Goodridge and wife arrived from Lebanon last Monday evening, the office of County Road Engineer which Mr. Goodridge had been filling in Marion county having been abolished by the Fiscal Court at a recent term. Mr. Goodridge has an option on the like office in two or three other counties in the state.

Mrs. Hal Presser, of Latonia; Miss Bess Hall, of Newport, and William Ryle, of Los Angeles, California, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hall, last Saturday. Mr. Ryle was on his way home from New York where he had represented his firm at a large convention of dictaphone people. Mr. Ryle is a son of the late O. F. Ryle and is a fine looking, sprightly young gentleman. He says California is the only place to live.

Recalls Coin Harvey.

Back in 1896 Coin Harvey knew more about money than all the bankers and financiers in the United States put together. In those memorable days there were corner store loafers in every village who, with Coin Harvey's help, could tie the town bankers up into such a knotty argument about gold and silver in five minutes that he wouldn't extricate himself in a week. Mocking with currency theories has always been a fad and so far we can remember there never was a solution that couldn't be proved absolutely wrong and would be an English financier that the allied nations issue universal currency to hold an international commodity list at a constant level and stabilize exchange sounds like the first gun in the great currency debate in all history--Toledo Blade.

KENTUCKY CULLINGS

Kernels Culled From Events of Moment in All Parts of The State.

Somers--A movement has been started among business men to establish a $100,000 sanitarium for the treatment of cancer here.

Mt. Sterling--When a rooster, owned by Mrs. E. E. Jones, was called at feeding time it was found he was covering a flock of English sparrows which had taken shelter from the cold.

Georgetown--Raymond Hewson bought 12 acres of land near Georgetown from C. P. Davenport at $1500 per acre.

Frankfort--The adjutant general will propose to the General Assembly that medals be struck for all Kentuckians who served in the world war.

Cattletown--Miss Famine Roussau, 21, who came from Paris, France, was married here to Jesse P. Brown, 40, who met her while overseas.

Cynthiana--The fiscal court appropriated $1000 with which to establish quarters for the local post of the American Legion.

Let us forget that a man may be "dry" without being a prohibitionist--New York Telegraph.

Peace probably isn't really worse than war, but only seems so because it's here now.--Ohio State Journal.

E. G. Cox, one of the bustling farmer and truck growers in Petersburg precinct, was a business visitor to Burlington, Tuesday. Mr. Cox says there will be a strong protest filed before the county judge on the part of the patrons of the Aurora ferry in opposition to the proposition of the new owner of the property to increase the rate of ferrage.

Lewis Sullivan, who sold his farm, the old H. P. Crider homestead, about a year ago, thought it back a few days ago, paying $500 more than he sold it for. The fact was that Mr. Sullivan sold, had sold to Bill White, of whom Mr. Sullivan made his purchase. Mr. White has bought George W. Terrell's farm near Lawrenceburg ferry.

FEED, SUNSHINE AND EXERCISE FOR THE YOUNGSTERS.

Three essentials for success with young pigs are feed, sunshine and exercise. The fastest and cheapest gains are made on a pig before weaning time so it follows that it will pay to keep the small pig growing as rapidly as possible. The sow should be fed to her full capacity on some good milk-producing feed as soon as the pigs are old enough to take all the milk she will give. It is poor economy to limit the feed at this time since pigs make the most economical gains from feed fed through the sow. When about a month old, the pigs will be able to use more feed than that obtained from the sow, even though the sow has been properly fed and is a good milker. The pigs will usually eat at the age of four or five months and as soon as they will eat, they should be fed separately from their dam. Make a creep so they may have access to a small pen where the sow cannot get to their feed. A very good feed for them is skim milk in a shallow pan. Teach the pigs to run into the creep for feed by allowing them some shelled or soaked corn when they begin to eat well, make a slop of milk, some shorts, a little bran, and some linned oil meal or tankage fed along with the corn. This makes a ration which, with proper exercise, will not cause thumps or scours.

Corn, four parts, shorts, four parts, bran, one part, and tankage one part, will be found a good ration for young pigs. Make these proportions by weight. Corn in the ration may be gradually increased as the pigs grow older until the amount has been doubled.

Scours or thumps is perhaps the most common trouble caused by improper feeding and care of young pigs and is usually caused by changing the feed of the sow, by over-feeding, by dirty pens or troughs, or by exposure of either the sow or pigs or both to cold rain or cold weather. Just the use of a little common sense will prevent any one of these conditions. Changing from sweet to sour milk or feeding too much high protein feeds, such as tankage or linned oil meal when the animals are not accustomed to it may also cause the trouble. Just another chance to use a little common sense and prevent trouble.

If the sow is fed too much her milk flow will be greatly stimulated and the young pigs will receive more than they can utilize, thus causing scours, all of which can be avoided by the use of judgment or common sense. Lack of exercise and sunshine, together with excess feeding, is said to cause thumps. Cut down the mother's feed and force the pigs to exercise in the sunshine. With a little experience, it will be found just as easy to supply the right kind and the right quantities of feed as it is to get them out in the sunshine and to get them to take the proper exercise, the last two being the easiest to supply but none the less essential to the health and development of the pig.

Germany's Economic Situation.

While laborers of this country are enjoying numerous vacations the workers of Germany are bending their energies toward the hope of Germany's commercial leadership. Speaking in Berlin Herr Schmidt, Minister of Food and Economics, says that "the economic situation in Germany had recently improved to an astonishing extent." His official statistics show that production in the mines, ship yards and general industries had reached a level approaching the pre-war basis. Some exceptions were noted, but these were attributed to a lack of raw material.

The military defeat of Germany in the eyes of most people, removing Germany from the forefront of industrial competition. This same defeat, with its revealing helplessness has impressed all Germany with the need of immediate work.

Germany appears to have gone to work not because her laborers are less inclined to strike, but because her laborers are less inclined to strike, but because her outlook held no prospect of gain, and even small hope of existence, unless production began at once.

Consequently her laborers went to work to get their country back. In other countries without this compelling necessity, the laborers stop to dream and strike to gain. By so doing they are helping German industry to conquer the world. If American labor and capital continue their present antagonism long enough the trade prospect of their country will fade away and no glorious opportunity will be surrendered--Vanceburg Sun.

Hauling Boose in Hearses.

Wednesday morning two drab colored hearses and a large auto said to be from Plaquemine, La., and headed for Ashland, Ky., passed thru town. Now this was a somewhat roundabout way to get from that place to Ashland, crossing the river three times. Many folks had a well defined idea that the double funeral was that of John Harwood and his sister, partner Jimmy Ben White, who crossed the river here on the ferry that corpses were so heavy that a team had to be secured to pull the hearses up the hill.

We were informed that the hearses contained small boxes instead of the customary coffins, so we were led to believe that the bodies had been put up and no doubt embalmed in booze to keep them from rotting. This idea of transporting booze in the guise of a funeral procession is not new and in some places the abuses are rudely interrupted by the authorities--Vanceburg Sun.

LUNCH FREE.

Sale to begin at 9 a. m. sharp.

Bernard Sebree, of Plattsburg, Missouri, was calling on friends and relatives in Burlington, last Monday. Mr. Sebree has a crop of about three thousand pounds of very fine tobacco which he sold to "Pepper" Smith, of Bellevue, at 50 cents a pound, from the ground up. He says he would have liked to put it over the loose leaf floor, but is very well satisfied with the price he got.

A. B. Ingram, of Marshall, Saline county, Missouri, was calling on friends and relatives in Burlington, last Monday. Mr. Ingram had come to Cincinnati on business for his firm, and could not miss the opportunity to take a swing around through the part of Boone county to meet his relatives and old friends. He left for his western home Monday night.

At Marco Riddell's closing out auction, a Texas Steers horn was discovered that was presented to his father, James A. Riddell, many years ago by Capt. Milton Campbell, of Cincinnati, while he was a member of a company of the Cincinnati Fire Department. If the old horn could talk it could tell of many an exciting fox chase which its owner had carried it through as far back as 40 years ago. Many a bound has the old "tooter" summoned to the chase.

It seems that the town of Verona will not be allowed to pass off the map without a further effort to prevent such action, and the County Attorney has been instructed by the fiscal court to attack an appeal from the judgment of the circuit court annulling the town's incorporation, and he is having the record prepared for that purpose.

The elect that came last Thursday night remained until Monday afternoon, when it began dispersing before the persuasive rays of Old Sol. Friday, Saturday and Sunday all creation was bedecked with diamonds as it were, the some being supremely grand.

County Clerk Rogers and his deputy, his sister, Miss Lissie, have been very busy for several days making up the recapitulation sheet from the Tax Commission's book. Rogers' total amount of taxable property has increased 40 percent in the past few years.

BIG BONE CHURCH News

It gives us joy to note the good tidings that our beloved Brother, Jim Taylor, is improving in health. He has long been one of the faithful stand-bys of this church and all love to do him reverence. Sisters G. L. Smith and Fannie Sullivan are improving too. Both are being cared for by loving and attentive hands and these with the skillful services of Dr. Ryle and the blessings of God, we trust, will bring about a restoration to health and strength.

Our people here are much scattered, roads are bad and weather conditions hindering. So, we will decide to omit our Sunday evening services for several weeks. Then, when spring comes, we hope to have an enthusiastic "any day" and all fall in line again for a better Sunday school, richer and more spiritually helpful church services and the speedy completion of our Sunday school annex.

An efficient committee--J. T. Edwards, J. W. Aylor and Robert W. Alton has in charge the building. The Sunday school annex. The foundation is laid and material contracted for. It is hoped that all our people will heartily cooperate, contribute as generously as is possible and pay their subscriptions as the committee requests.

New Year greetings and best wishes to the editor and to all the readers of the Recorder.

GAMBLE WITH RUIN.

Documents made public by the Department of Justice, prove that one of the objectives of the revolutionists has been to obtain control of the American Federation of Labor.

Samuel Gompers is quoted as saying "we must have rights for those of other men. If we do not, what is to become of the labor movement?"

It is a popular pastime to paint Gompers and his following as great conservatives, and to excuse the placing in their hands of extraordinary power by averting that so only can the triumph of radicalism be averted.

But what will happen to the country if it wakes up some mornign to find that it has conferred a great immunity on the Federation of Labor and the Federation of Labor has passed into the control of the revolutionists?

Already the great union oligarchy has announced that every union member must be legally immune from deportation. What if all the revolutionists become union members and are authorized by law to do what they please without molestation?

No wonder the Reds see in the Federation of Labor the medium through which to overflow the Government. Its triumphs in the field of special legislation cause the crying of the Bolsheviks. They see being built up a vast and invincible inner Government, and they rejoice because they appreciate that all they have to do later is to seize that inner Government and the legal Government will be theirs.

The very fact that the incendiaries seek control of the American Federation of Labor proves that to clothe the Federation with special and extraordinary powers is to gamble with ruin. Manufacturers' Record.

SERVICE IS REMEDY FOR INDUSTRIAL CHAOS

Apply Democracy to Industry Is Advice of American Economic Society.

An attitude of service is the only remedy for the present industrial chaos. This was the dominant theme of the convention of the American Economic Society at Chicago last week, as reported by Walter J. Matherly, head of the Department of Economics at the Georgetown College.

Four great industrial problems confront creative thinkers in 1920. Prof. Matherly said, Internationalism must be established, the high cost of living reduced, and the railroad problem solved. These questions were discussed fully by the economists and business men at Chicago.

Foreign money is at the lowest rate since the beginning of foreign exchange. The English pound sterling, which in normal times sells for $4.87, is now worth only $3.74. The French franc has dropped from 16 cents to 10 cents. The German reichsmark, formerly worth 24 cents, is hardly worth 2 cents now in United States money. This condition of foreign exchange means that the United States will be forced to accept payment for all exports in foreign goods. It means also that America will have to make all foreign accounts of long duration.

There are three forces to be taken into consideration, the Kentucky economist said in discussing industrial problems. The first is dissatisfaction on the part of workers with the nature of industry, dissatisfaction with the management of industry, and dissatisfaction with the worker's share in industry. Democratic principles must be applied to industry as well as government. Prof. Matherly believes, and the absentee owner must be eliminated as far as possible.

There are three remedies, he said, for the high cost of living. An increase in production is the principal remedy. During 1919 production in the U. S. actually decreased while in other countries it increased. Second remedy is to deflate currency. There is too great an inflation of currency at present, and this brings about speculation. Third remedy for the high cost of living.

The railroad problem is perplexing, the Kentuckian declared. The plan to increase the freight rate contains many good points. Mr. Glenn E. Plum was present at the convention and made a very sane and effective plea for the solution of the railroad problem.

Marshall-Huey.

The marriage of Miss Louise Marshall of Detroit, Michigan, and Mr. George W. Huey of Louisville, was solemnized January 3, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Marshall, in Detroit. The bride, Miss Louise Marshall, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Marshall. The groom, Mr. George W. Huey, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Huey. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. W. Huey. The bride wore a white satin dress with a court train. Her veil was caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Helen Bicknell of Findlay, Ohio, the bridesmaid, wore a white dress and carried a bouquet of white roses. The wedding reception was given at the home of the bride's parents. After a trip East Mr. and Mrs. Huey will be at home, February 1, at the Courtland. The Rev. and Mrs. O. M. Huey and Mrs. Lloyd Huey of Louisville, attended the wedding. — Louisville Times, 10th inst.

Think About It.

The question is being asked by tobacco growers from all sections of the Burley belt why is that a higher average for tobacco is recorded at Lexington than any other market. This is plain when the facts are known. The territory surrounding Lexington raises the best quality of tobacco in the world and this year, especially, the quality is much superior than elsewhere. Another good reason is the fact that many growers in the hill counties who have excellent crops are shipping them to Lexington, believing that they can get more for their tobacco there, which is not true when the facts are known. This leaves a poor quality of tobacco on the smaller markets and of course cuts the general average down at least 20 per cent on the hundred pound. Visit any of the loose leaf houses in Falmouth and you will see that the same grade of tobacco brings as much here as it does at Lexington. — Falmouth Outlook.

They Are Beginning to See It.

There is evidence that people off the farms are beginning to estimate the people on the farms at a bit nearer their true value, and that business, professional and laboring men are beginning to see that the farmer, too, is a factor to be considered in any adjustment of industrial relations. The epidemic of strikes, being deliberately laid out, has not been without some by-products of good. It has, for one thing, led the farmer to protest. "Capitalists" and "laborers" alike have been brought to the point of asking what would happen if the farmer should strike and fair-minded city people have been brought to the point of seeing that the farmer is a laborer—the country's most important laborer for the work he does—as well as a businessman—the business man on whom the burden of price readjustment is being deliberately laid out.

These things city people are beginning to understand. It is our duty as farmers to see that they are made fully to understand them. We must keep on explaining and protesting until only the wilfully ignorant can imagine that all a farmer gets out of his crops is pure gain and until only the wilfully thoughtless are willing to see production lessened by inadequate pay to the producer. — Southern Agriculturist.

HEART TO HEART TALK

Rev. O. C. Peyton, D. D.

I have asked it of him and God is giving it to me, in ever-increasing measure. THE SPIRITUAL HEADLINE of the loftiest position a mortal can hold is mine—that of being the spiritual leader of a band of Gods believing people. I tremble and think of the vast responsibility of my position, and, yet, it thrills me as I try to measure, to some extent, the opportunities and the privileges that are mine. So long as I have the strength of mind, heart and body to bring to the attention of my beloved people the rich, deep things of our God, I would not exchange places with an archangel among the thrown on high. I love God's truth. I love God's people and I love God's world. I want God to seek to be the channel of spiritual blessings unto the people I serve. My deep, abiding interest in the highest things of our God leads me to give myself to much of fervent, intercessory prayer for them, and, one thing has deeply impressed me. As I call one by one the names and faces of my people, there is not one who does not need the Lord's favor and blessing. In every single home, there is a need for prayer, for another, that call loudly for prayer before God—the saved children, unconverted lives, worldliness, selfishness of God, affliction, and the endless and distressing story of human need everywhere. To stand before the king of kings as a commoner, a privilege and a responsibility. As I can not see and be with my people as much as I desire, I find a sweet joy and restfulness in pleading for them by name before God's throne. Perhaps, many of them do not realize their own need. Alas! that is one of the most painful phases of this world's situation. The things of the world engross the affections and attentions and the just estimate of values is lost. So, there is in every home in all the land need for prayer to God for light, knowledge and blessing. Every hour the pastor, with the shepherd heart, finds occasion for prayer for his flock, for his people and their need of his favor and blessing. — Union, Ky.

Water the Cows.

In every one hundred pounds of milk there is 37 pounds of water. Therefore, that the cow shall be supplied with liberal quantities of water. The more milk the cow produces the more water she will require. Ordinarily a cow needs about two and one-half pounds of water for each pound of milk given. The only safe rule to follow is to furnish the cow all the water she will drink at least twice a day, and preferably often. It is important that this water should be pure and of a temperature which will make certain that the cow will drink her fill.

FEDERAL ROAD MAY BE BUILT.

There is yet hope for the Federal Aid Highway coming through Gallatin county from Louisville to Cincinnati. Two weeks ago the road was deemed impossible on account of Carroll and Boone counties falling down on the proposition, but recent assurances from Col. W. B. Belknap, of Louisville, as given in a letter to Ben Mylor, chairman of the road commission in this county, indicate that there is yet a chance for the road being built.

Mr. Belknap has all along been one of the staunchest advocates of the road and has given both his time and money in the interest of the proposed highway. There is no doubt that he wants the road to be built, for he has given the most convincing proof of his interest all through.

He realizes the advantage the road will be to Louisville, as well as to the great advantage and convenience it will be to the people of the counties through which it will pass, and is not at all loath to give up the proposition. If the same perseverance in the face of apparent difficulties in manifested by all people living along the route, the road will yet be built.

Mr. Belknap, in his letter to Mr. Mylor, stated that the road must go through, and that he would give liberally to the amount desired.

The statement that emanated from one of the counties, Boone or Carroll, it is not clear just which, that Gallatin had fallen down on the proposition was palpably false, and was evidently circulated with the malicious intention of shifting the blame for the road falling through from the delinquent counties to Gallatin. At the time that the project was regarded as hopeless and was abandoned, it was a failure on account of the delinquency of Carroll and Boone counties, Gallatin county was within less than $20,000 of the goal, and there was sufficient assurance to warrant that this amount could be easily raised from sources that it was known would produce the money.

If Carroll and Boone counties will prove as responsive to this proposition as Gallatin the road will be built. The aid of Col. Belknap and other interests of Louisville and Cincinnati, built, and every effort should be made to that end. The Federal Aid Highway through Gallatin, Carroll and Boone counties is the path of progress, and every citizen of the three counties mentioned should be progressive enough to realize that and act accordingly. — Warsaw Independent.

LOSS PLACED AT $38,400

When 16 Barrels of Whisky Are Stolen at Covington.

C. E. Quick, proprietor of Quick's distillery on the Madison Pike at the foot of Independence Hill, reported to J. C. DeMoss, agent in charge of the internal revenue office at Covington, that 16 barrels of whisky had been stolen from his warehouse, which adjoins the distillery.

The loss was disclosed when the liquor was taken to the warehouse yesterday to take an inventory. The warehouse had been entered from an adjoining building and a rear door unlocked. The stolen liquor was supposed to have contained forty gallons, making a total of 640 gallons, which, estimated at the bootleg price of $60 a gallon, would be worth $38,400.

It is believed the liquor was carried away in a truck, although no traces of a vehicle could be found.

Keep An Eye on Your Flock.

Persons who own sheep should keep a close watch on their flocks as dogs have been attacking flocks recently in some parts of the county. Sheep are very valuable animals just now, and a worthless dog can do a great deal of damage in a very short time by frightening the others. The lambing season is close at hand and it is hard to estimate the value of a good ewe at this time. The sheep industry has increased materially in this county in the last few years and many very fine animals have been brought in by flock owners for the purpose of breeding up their stock, and the presence of a strange dog in places where sheep are kept justifies the use of a gun that can be relied on to bring death to the intruder and destroyer of sheep. Protect your sheep.

County to Receive Kelly Truck.

County Judge R. H. received word today that another truck, a 1919 model, will be waiting in Boone county's order on and after the 22nd inst. The truck will be sent to the county and upon its reception the county road department will be equipped with four good trucks. The truck is a four door model.

Send The Poor Individuals To The Pork Barrel.

Hogs may have the same blood lines and may be of the same litter, yet they will not be uniform either in size or quality, no matter what the breed. There is usually one unusually good one, with one following closely to him and then several two or three degrees below them in quality and then there may be one inferior runt who has had the same parents as the others.

As a rule the pork barrel is the final destination of the runt, as the runt usually graduates into the breeder is not in the business to produce runts. There are, however, exceptions to this rule and many runts have had the making of good pigs and have taken the coveted prizes in the show ring and brought the top in the sale ring. A big litter, the small pig has to fight its way to the test, and afterwards to the trough and has been kept beneath the others on account of its size, but which has responded wonderfully for good feeding and has made good and come to the front surprising its owners. Give the runt a chance by having them from the large pigs in the litter and starting them off with good feed and the chance to eat it without being crowded out by pigs larger than it, then if it does not respond to the extra care and still remains a runt, it and the other poor individuals should be culled and it pays to cull close.

To Make Sure of Binder Twine

For much of its supply of binder twine or henequen, the United States has long depended upon Yucatan. During the past several years, the uncertainty of this supply has caused serious anxiety lest there should not be enough binder twine to harvest the increasing crops of grain in this country. The U. S. Department of Agriculture has been making diligent efforts to find new sources of supply.

It has been found that binder twine fibers may be produced and the chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry reports very encouraging results. A considerable area in the extreme southern Florida and on the larger keys, are regarded as suitable for the production of sisal and henequen. The cost of the cost of land and of labor is not too high to permit successful competition. For several years, henequen has been successfully raised in Cuba and the plantations are being increased, but thus far, they produce scarcely enough fiber to supply the cordage mills on the large islands. The introduction of modern fiber-cleaning machines has resulted in increased plantings of sisal and henequen. The thought and installed machines to develop the industry on a large scale.

Dairy Interests Awake.

The dairy interests of Kentucky seem to have awakened at last to the great possibilities of the dairy business in this state. The Agricultural College and the Extension Service are doing a great work in demonstrating the wonderful natural advantages enjoyed by Kentucky and this has resulted in more real interest in dairying than has ever been known before.

The wonder is that Kentuckians have been so slow in taking advantage of such wonderful soil and climatic conditions. It is making Kentucky the greatest dairying state in the Union.

While it is true that we have some good dairies in the state, as a general business proposition Kentucky is still far behind other states that have nothing like the natural advantages that obtain here. Kentuckians have heretofore attempted nothing but the sale of whole milk and cream, little thought having been given to the by-products of cheese making, has not played a part in the industry.

Those in charge of the big dairy meeting and show to be held at Lexington, Jan. 23, are well pleased with the interest that is being manifested by dairymen all over the state. As prominent speakers from other states will participate in the show, several hundred dollars in premiums are offered for best samples of milk, cream, butter and cottage cheese. It is anticipated that a large number of the largest attendees ever known at a like meeting in the state.

Plenty of Booze in Kentucky.

Louisville, Jan. 16. — Kentucky distillers are revealing a million gallons of liquor today, the last day before constitutional prohibition comes into full force and effect, notwithstanding their attempts to export it. The latest official figures estimated that 33,000,000 gallons of whisky, valued at approximately $400,000,000, remained on bonded warehouse, as was evidenced by the government. It was said, much of it probably will be sold for medicinal purposes.

GONE TO HIS REWARD.

Former Resident of Boone Co. Died at His Home at Mt. Washington, Ohio.

William Lancaster died at his home in Mt. Washington, O., last Christmas day, after an illness of about four months, resulting from his breaking one of his legs while visiting his son at Williamstown, Ky., his misfortune developing pneumonia.

He was born at Richmond, Boone county, Ky., Sept. 13th, 1838. He was married to Mary A. Tanner, November 15th, 1858, and they spent together 61 years of married life. Six children were born in the home, three of whom, Mr. Lee and Edith, with the mother, and eleven grandchildren survive.

He was a member of Venus Lodge of Old-Fellows, of Florence for nearly forty years, and at the age of 81 he was converted and joined the M. E. church and showed by his life he had made his peace with God and left a splendid Christian testimony of his acceptance with the Heavenly Father.

He was a kind and loving husband, indulgent father and a good neighbor.

If he were to talk to you in scripture verses, he would say:

"In such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh."

"Make your calling and election sure."

"Not everyone that saith Lord! Lord! shall enter into the Kingdom of Heaven, but he that does the will of my father who art in Heaven."

"Ask and ye shall receive."

"For as the east is from the west, so hath He removed our transgressions from us."

"Thou shalt be as scarlet, they shall be white as snow. Thou shalt be as crimson, they shall be as wool."

"Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life."

A FRIEND.

Members of the family wish to thank the Florence I. O. O. F. Lodge members who took part in the beautiful and impressive ceremony at the cemetery on the day of his burial.

USELESS OFFICES HIT.

Abolition Planned in Bills Before the Legislature.

Frankfort, Jan. 18. — Convening tomorrow for the third year of the session, the Legislature will begin consideration of bills, the most important of which will be measures designed to reduce the appropriations for state hospitals for insane and feeble minded. Next in order will be bills abolishing useless offices, principally the forestry and the motor vehicle departments.

Governor Edwin P. Morrow is gathering data for his message to the Legislature concerning state financial condition. No radical changes will be urged.

Adjutant General Dewese has prepared for introduction a measure designed to increase the efficiency of the State Military Department and to remove it from politics. It provides for reduction of the office force of 13 to 8, a saving of something like $5,000 annually.

The measure seeks to increase the salary of the Adjutant General from $2,000 annually to $3,000, and the Assistant Adjutant General from $1,200 to $2,000. The other officer provided for in the bill is that of supply officer, at an annual salary of $1,000. The bill makes the supply officer responsible for equipment at Frankfort belonging to the state and to the War Department.

Senator Burton declared in a fort belonging to the state and he will not return for the remainder of the session is denied by him. He wired that he will be here tomorrow.

Breeding Fine Hampshires.

Hubert Ryle and son, of Rabbit Hash precinct, were business visitors to Burlington last Saturday afternoon, and while in town called at this office and made arrangements for advertising their herd of thoroughbred Hampshire hogs. They are among the county's best breeders of hogs and are recognized the country over as producers of the very best strains of the Hampshire. This is a pretty good farmer besides being a breeder of fine hogs and only a few days ago he sold a crop of 2,600 pounds of tobacco on the auction block for $1,000.00. He is a market at 65 cents a pound all round.

Signs by Governor Morrow.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 16. — The resolution ratifying the woman's suffrage amendment to the constitution, passed on the opening day of the Legislature, was signed today by Gov. Morrow. He signed also the resolution calling on Congress to pass a bill now pending to make Mammoth Cave a national park. The pen with which Gov. Morrow signed the suffrage resolution will be presented to Mrs. John H. South, of this city, former President of the State Equal Rights Association. She is a cousin of Gov. Morrow.

Chas. H. Gordon, of Hebron, was in Burlington last Monday.

Value to Kentucky Farmers.

The value to Kentucky farmers of thirteen of their principal crops in 1919 was $400,751,000, which is $84,650,000 more than in 1918, or approximately 16 per cent greater than the $316,583,000 produced in 1918, altho the total quantity of production of all these crops in 1919 was about four per cent less than in 1918, according to the annual revised estimates of Kentucky issued by the U. S. Bureau of Crop Estimates. This valuation includes corn, wheat, oats, rye, barley, potatoes, sweet potatoes, tobacco, hay, sorghum, sirup, clover seed, peaches and apples.

The leading crops in value were, tobacco, $17,381,000, corn, $17,873,000, hay, $34,619,000, wheat $25,321,000, and potatoes $10,518,000. If apples and peaches be excluded, the total crop shows approximately 3 per cent decrease in quantity of production under 1918, but the total value of 1919 crops shows an increase of about 16 per cent over 1918, altho corn, wheat, rye and barley were less than in 1918.

This increase in value is almost entirely due to increased prices of tobacco, the total value of the 1919 tobacco crop being estimated at $17,381,000 compared to $12,715,000 in 1918. This is based on an estimated average price of 38.2 cents per pound for all types of tobacco grown in Kentucky. This estimate of the value of the States tobacco crop may prove too high or too high depending on the prices at which the remainder of the crop is sold.

TONS OF PAPER WASTED.

Examples Show How Government Contributes to Shortage.

So much has been said by Government officials about the shortage of paper and the necessity of conserving wood pulp and other materials of which paper is made that it is difficult to account for the wastefulness of Government bureaus to use paper only for necessary business. The Interstate Commerce Commission is classed among the most conspicuous wasteful of paper and how say that are spoiled every year in the making out of worthless reports no one knows, but any one familiar with the bureau's position is in a position to say that the drain on the paper mills is heavy.

The statement that the Pennsylvania Railroad sends 110,000 reports to Washington for the lines east of Pittsburgh is an idea of the quantities of paper consumed annually on the railroad systems of the country, and another example of the waste of paper. Reports a year would meet all reasonable requirements of the eastern part of the Pennsylvania lines is probably not far from being correct.

The asking of "food questions" is one explanation of the abnormally large number of reports required. Duplication of reports is another. Railroad reports that they are continually being called upon for detailed reports and statistics already on file in Washington. It is most easily explained by the fact that the inquiry then to look on the files to see whether the same question has not already been answered. The result is the making of paper and loss of time in the railroad offices. And who ever reads the mass of worthless stuff stored in basements and in the cluttered-the-way places in Washington?

Yet the accumulations call for large expenditures of money at a time when the need of conservation is pressing. A pressing A. R. of the prices of the Interstate Commerce Commission and other Federal bureaus is evidently desirable. — Providence Journal.

Changing Business.

Jack Eddins, of the firm of Eddins Bros. and Wallace Rice will enter the realm of the farmers about the first of next month when the latter will resign his position as assistant Bank Examiner. Mr. Ker, the road man, has rented the garage in Burlington from which the two Eddins Bros. will retire, and it is said that Stanley Eddins will also take up farming. The firm of Eddins & Rice, will take charge of Edward Rice's fine 100 acre farm on the river hill a short distance above Lawrenceburg ferry.

Jno. L. Vest spent Monday at Warsaw attending county court of Gallatin county in relation to the appointment of the Equitable Bank and Trust Co. as guardian of Miss Garvey of Covington, and as attorney of the estate of Thompson Craig, deceased.

Rev. Eversole of Covington, the presiding elder of the Methodist church who was to have held services here Sunday was unable to attend on account of illness. Mrs. Eloise Reed of Brainerd attended the services and rendered some beautiful selections on the violin in an artistic manner.

Married.—Geo. Sebree and Miss Beatrice Sayler, both of Dry Ridge, were united in marriage at the residence of the officiating minister Rev. R. F. DeMoisey at Walton Jan. 14th, at 1:30 p. m., and left for Carrollton that afternoon to visit friends. They will make their home at Dry Ridge.

Rev. Jas. G. Lawson of St. Louis, preached at the Walton Christian church several nights last week and filled the pulpit Sunday, delivering some very impressive sermons. The church would do well to secure him as its pastor, and in all probability he will be employed to fill the present vacancy.

Died.—Joseph Colston aged 65 years, at his home on High street last Wednesday from pneumonia. The funeral took place Friday and was conducted by Rev. W. H. Whittaker at Goshen where the remains were interred. He leaves a wife and several grown children. C. Scott Chambers had charge of the funeral.

Leslie C. Colby, of Covington, was here last week in the interest of the Booth Memorial Hospital, soliciting funds to help it do greater and better service, and the present source of support being inadequate to properly care for the institution. Mr. Colby received a very liberal donation from our citizens, which was gratefully appreciated.

W. E. Brown, who officiates as the auctioneer at the Loose Leaf markets at Gloucester, Sanders and Campbellburg, spent Sunday here with his family who returned home from Horse Cave, Hart county, last week. Mr. Brown reports a good tobacco market at all these points on good tobacco but says the prices on the low grades of tobacco show a decline.

Judge Theo. F. Curley, the Keeper of Records and Seal of Walton Lodge Knights of Pythias, has received a letter from the Grand Chancellor John J. Howe of Carrollton, announcing that a District Meeting of the Knights of Pythias would be held at Walton, Friday, February 8th. The lodge here is not in a condition and the meeting can not be cared for like the members would like.

Married.—Samuel B. Sleet, of Beaver Lick, and Miss Jane Hance of Walton, were united in the bonds of holy wedlock at Cincinnati Saturday in the presence of a few friends. The groom is son of John B. Sleet and one of the best young men in Boone county. His bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hance and a most lovable and charming young lady. They will make their home on his beautiful farm near Beaver Lick.

The raising of bright tobacco as indicated in these columns last week is meeting with popular favor among the tobacco growers, and the improvement in the quality will increase the general selling average in the local markets next year, as the low average in this market has been produced by the offerings of so much dark, heavy tobacco that can be used for chewing purposes alone, and the demand is chiefly for bright smoking tobacco.

Undertaker C. Scott Chambers was called Thursday to Grange Hall to take charge of the remains of Thomas Stephens who died from pneumonia, aged seventy-four years. The funeral took place at Big Bone Baptist church Thursday. Mr. Chambers was also called to take charge of the funeral of Mrs. J. W. Berkshire at Petersburg, who died from old age, the funeral taking place Tuesday. She was a widow of the late Senator John W. Berkshire.

Winston C. Brown of Crittenden, who has been in the coal business at Bracht and Walton, mysteriously disappeared last Friday, and his absence from home has given his family and friends considerable worry. Mr. Brown was last seen in Covington Friday afternoon. It is believed that worry over financial matters has caused him to go to other parts pending his temporary embarrassment, so there was no occasion for it, as his obligations were not so very extensive. He had ordered a large amount of coal early last fall and had arranged for a big trade, but was unable to get deliveries of the coal until recently, and the trade was then supplied, and the obligations for the large amount of coal was what caused him to desert his business.

Saturday evening at 6:30 Miss Helen DeMoisey and James L. Kirby of Covington, were united in the bonds of holy wedlock at the residence of her uncle Rev. R. F. DeMoisey who performed the ceremony. Miss Mary J. Huston, a cousin of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and Clayton Roberts as the best man. Miss Lula Edwards, another cousin of the bride, presided at the piano and played the wedding march. Other presences were Mrs. E. P. DeMoisey, mother of the bride, Miss Alice Carpenter, of Richmond, Wilford Rice and Miss Grace Dudgeon and Adolphus Edwards, Jr., following the ceremony the wedding party were escorted to the dining room where a splendid dinner was served. The young couple remained as guests of their uncle until Sunday evening when they left for Covington where they will make their home.

The Loose Leaf tobacco markets at Walton continue to hold up in fine shape though there is a falling off in prices on the common classes of tobacco, but the fancy qualities are holding up to the general average. The Walton loose leaf had 120,000 pounds on sale Wednesday and about the same amount on Saturday, and the Farmers loose leaf Warehouse had about all it could handle. On the market at the Walton warehouse Wednesday, Jesse Delahunty sold 2,530 lbs., at an average of $67.70. Several small crops sold as high as $108.00 per cwt., the floors of both warehouses will be filled for the sales this week to their utmost capacity. It is expected the market will practically be over by March 1st, so all of the growers should remember this and get their tobacco on sale by that time. About two million lbs. of tobacco have been sold at Walton this season at an average of about $34.00 per cwt.

Ready for Business.

The Hebron Theater advertises to open to the public on the night of the 28th inst., with two excellent reels. See advertisement in another column. The Amusement Co. has lost no time in the construction of its building and equipping it for business. Rah for Hebron.

L. S. Beemon is feasting on the meat of a fine opossum he captured in his hen house a few nights since. The 'possum got away with a few fat hens before it was captured.

Walter Huey has been in hard luck with his father's truck the last week. It has run off the road three times but fortunately the damage resulting was slight.

It looks like enough tobacco for two crops has been trucked through Huntington since the beginning of the new year.

Mrs. Chas. Birkle is very ill, and Mr. Birkle has not been in his shop for several days.

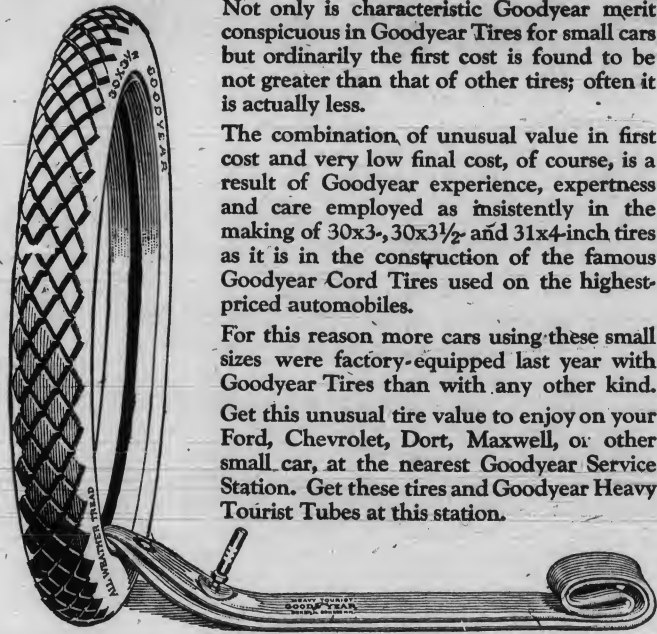

B. C. Gaines bought four very fine sheep at the sale of C. W. Lassing.

Colonel Crisler is able to do some light work in his shop.

Judge Gaines is now the owner of a new Dodge car.

Unusual Value-In Tires for Small Cars

Not only is characteristic Goodyear merit conspicuous in Goodyear Tires for small cars but ordinarily the first cost is found to be not greater than that of other tires; often it is actually less.

The combination of unusual value in first cost and very low final cost, of course, is a result of Goodyear experience, expertness and care employed as insistently in the making of 30x3-, 30x3½- and 31x4-inch tires as it is in the construction of the famous Goodyear Cord Tires used on the highest-priced automobiles.

For this reason more cars using these small sizes were factory-equipped last year with Goodyear Tires than with any other kind.

Get this unusual tire value to enjoy on your Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell, or other small car, at the nearest Goodyear Service Station. Get these tires and Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes at this station.

30x3½ Goodyear Double-Cure Fabric, All-Weather Tread.....$20.00
30x3½ Goodyear Single-Cure Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread.....$17.65

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are thick, strong tubes that reinforce casings properly. Why risk a good casing with a cheap tube? Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost little more than tubes of less merit. 30x3½ size in water—$3.90 proof bag.

Colonel Crisler made his first appearance up in town last Saturday following an attack of the shingles.

Mrs. Dudley Blyth was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Botts, of Petersburg, a few days last week.

Youell & Jones sold the Riggs farm of 85 acres in Pt. Pleasant neighborhood, one day last week to C. H. Beck. Consideration not known.

Ephraim Tanner, who had a sale a few days ago has moved to the home of his son-in-law Thomas Dinn, between Burlington and Bullittsville.

Because of the tendency among farmers to hold grain and because of the weather and bad roads, very little grain is going to market in South Dakota.

H. L. Tanner, of Point Pleasant neighborhood, and Clem Kendall, of Florence precinct, were among those transacting business in Burlington, last Monday.

SALESMEN WANTED to solicit orders for lubricating oils, greases and paints. Salary or Commission. Address THE T.O.D. OIL & PAINT CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

Judge Gaines was not held in Owenston as long as he expected and returned home last Sunday. Instead of two weeks he completed the work of the special term in one.

Having recovered from his severe spell of illness Denzel Carpenter, son of Wm. Carpenter, of Locust Grove neighborhood, returned to school in Georgetown last Monday.

R. J. Akin, from over on Double Lake, Wm. Carpenter, of Locust Grove neighborhood, Owen Ross, of Hopeful neighborhood, and J. Waite Cross, of near town, were callers at this office last Monday.

Warren Lassing had a very bad day for his sale last Friday, but a good sized crowd was in attendance and every thing sold brought good prices. He had high classed stock and there was a demand for the animals.

Census Enumerator Garnett Huey, came in last Monday to get the Recorder's list and stated that he had only two more lists to take when his work would be completed, and these parties were in sight. He has made quick work of his territory.

Preston West sold and delivered to Albert Conner, last Thursday, his crop of 2,500 or 3,000 pounds of tobacco at 60 cents all round. The tobacco was raised on the land of J. B. Pope on the headwaters of Middle creek, and is a very fine crop.

Mrs. Fred Morris, from out on the East Bend road, was a caller last Monday to get an estimate as to cost of advertising an entertainment to be given by the local High School on February 14th. Get ready for something unusually entertaining.

Timothy Sanford reports the sale of two young roosters, Monday morning for $2.88. Only a few years ago he says he would have been glad to sell them for 15 cents a piece. He considers the poultry business as much safer than the rearing of sheep.

A. B. Renaker & Co., sold one day last week for W. L. Tipton his arm of 310 acres in the Bullittsville neighborhood, to R. H. Herrington for $30,000, possession to be given March 1st. This is the farm Mr. Tipton bought of Mrs. Mary Ott Gaines about three years ago for $15,000.

Ledy & Brothers is the style of the new firm that now owns the Limaburg store. They expect to make considerable alteration and improvement in the building, incorporating in it a residence. Limaburg has always been a good point for a country store, and everyone who has done business there has made good.

A new high mark was made in the Covington market last Thursday when a sale for $1.95 a pound was made. The same day M. H. Wilson, of Bullittsville neighborhood, sold a crop of 3,885 pounds of tobacco that was raised on two acres, measured land, that averaged him 98.5 per 100 pounds.

DIRECT DEALING PAYS BEST.

When cream is ready to sell, the hard work has been done and you should not permit any outsider to make an extra profit off your efforts.

You can ship your cream DIRECT to the Tri-State and save from 3 to 5 cts. per lb. of butterfat. It is just as easy to deliver the cream to a railroad station as to a buying station. The Tri-State pays the freight and guarantees your cream against loss in transit.

Mrs. Theo. Daulton, Peebles, O., writes on Nov. 25, 1919—"I have shipped cream to the Tri-State Butter Co. for three years and have been satisfied. I have sold cream to cream stations in order to return the empty can with me, as I live 9 miles from the railroad and always lost from $1.50 to $2.00 on every can of cream sold to agents."

Elsmere Man Commits Suicide

("Suicide while temporarily insane," was the verdict rendered Tuesday by Coroner David W. Stephens of Kenton county in the case of Charles Mohr, 39, former saloonkeeper whose body was discovered hanging late Monday, in his home on Harvey Ave., Elsmere. Mohr hanged himself with a sewing machine belt, which was attached to the upper hinge on a door.

The average price on the Covington tobacco market Tuesday was $3.91. At Aurora, $3.81. Burris & Youell sold a crop on the Covington market at an average of $6.30. Low grades on each market showed a decided improvement.

Mrs. Geo. Baker, of Limaburg, sold 80 acres of land on the Limaburg and Anderson Ferry pike to Fred Gross. Consideration said to be something near $3,000.

DAIRY FACTS

TO ELIMINATE SCRUB BULLS

Campaign Started by Wisconsin Farmers to Use Only Purebred Sires—Record in One County.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Wisconsin dairymen and farmers, desirous of increasing their profits and adding still greater honors to their already famous dairy state, have joined in a state-wide campaign to eliminate the scrub bull and use only purebred sires. The record made last year in the Brown County Cow-Testing association typifies the merits of purebred bulls and illustrates why farmers and dairymen will not tolerate the scrub. In this association 12 cows qualified for the register of production. All of these cows were daughters of purebred sires, six of them being daughters of one sire. The five best herds in the association are headed by purebred sires, while the five poorest herds are all headed by grade or scrub sires. The herds of those farmers who used purebred sires averaged 85 pounds more fat a cow than those using grades or scrubs. Last year eight of the members purchased purebred sires of known breeding to replace their scrubs.

KEEP DAIRY COWS ON FARM

For Farmer Who Has Good Market for Products Dairying Is Most Profitable Business.

Keeping dairy cows will help the average farmer to overcome three main drawbacks to the one-crop system of farming: A cash income but once a year, a depleted soil, and unequal distribution of labor, according to C. H. Staples, dairy specialist, extension division, Louisiana State university.

"For the farmer who does not have a ready and accessible market for dairy products, a few dairy cows will provide the cheapest and best of human food for the family," says Mr. Staples. "The cows will consume much of the rough feeds that usually go to waste and the expense of keeping them is almost negligible."

"For the farmer who has a good market for dairy products dairying is a most profitable business, is always a safe and sound line of farming, is least affected by sudden changes of weather and seasons, gives a steady cash income, builds up the soil, and provides employment for labor at all seasons."

MAKE BETTER FARM BUTTER

Trouble Incident to Home Production May Be Decreased by Using More Careful Methods.

The adoption of more careful methods of handling milk and cream and improved practices in the making of farm butter will reduce rather than increase the trouble incident to home production of this food, say dairy specialists, and will result in a superior product which can be sold more easily and for a better price than the average farm butter.

DAIRY HERD IS FOUNDATION

Not Hard to Raise Calves, Pigs and Lambs if Skimmed Milk Is Easily Available.

The dairy herd is the foundation for the stock farmer or even for the general farmer who keeps several kinds of stock. With skimmed milk it is easy to raise calves, pigs and lambs, but without it one may find a substitute rather expensive and unsatisfactory. Keep the dairy cows and then these others may be added.

FEED DAIRY COWS ROUGHAGE

Outline Given of Two Grain Rations to Be Fed With Clover, or Alfalfa Hay.

When the roughage for dairy cows is clover or alfalfa hay, the grain rations may be 200 pounds corn-and-cob meal, 100 pounds ground oats and 100 pounds gluten feed; or 250 pounds corn-and-cob meal, 100 pounds wheat bran and 100 pounds gluten feed.

Consideration of Package. The package in which butter is marketed demands careful consideration.

FARM POULTRY

PURPOSE OF A SMALL FLOCK

It is Primarily for Eggs and Therefore Fowls Should Be Fed With This End in View.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The actual purpose of keeping a small flock of fowls is primarily for egg production. Consequently they should be fed with this end in view. Practically every housewife has a quantity of table scraps, vegetable peelings and "leftovers" that can be utilized by feeding to hens. Supplementary to such feed, however, a grain and dry mash should be provided in order to produce the best results. By supplying the fowls with all available table scraps it will usually cost from 50 to 75 cents a year per fowl for grain and other feeds. A good egg laying ration should consist of the following: Three parts corn meal and one part beef scrap mixed together and fed in a dry-mash hopper to which the fowls will have access at all times. In addition to this a scratch ration consisting of equal parts cracked corn and oats should be fed twice daily. When no table scraps are available it will take about one quart of scratch grain daily for twelve to fourteen fowls. However, this can be reduced when table scraps are fed and a certain amount of natural green feed, such as grass, is available.

In providing the fowls with a suitable house it should be remembered that the essentials of such a building are fresh air, dryness, sunlight and sufficient space so that the fowls will not be crowded. Usually each fowl should be allowed four square feet of floor space. If available, scrap lumber from dry-goods boxes, etc., can be utilized to construct such a house. The cost will be considerably less than when lumber is purchased. If sufficient lumber is not available for the entire house a rough framework well covered with ordinary roofing or tar paper will answer the immediate needs.

When the heavier fowls (Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds, etc.) are kept all females should be disposed of at the end of their second year, inasmuch as in most cases they will cease to be profitable at the end of that time. The lighter breeds (Leghorns, etc.), however, can be profitably kept as long as three years. By disposing of the hens in this way a part of the flock must be renewed each year. Consequently, considering that the percentage of cockerels and pullets is usually about the same, and that a certain percentage will die before reaching maturity, it is customary to hatch more chicks each year than there are hens in the flock.

POULTRY

Overfeeding kills more chicks than underfeeding.

Little and often is a good feeding rule for newly hatched chicks.

Eggs for incubator hatching should be fresh, the fresher the better.

This is one time of year when poultry quarters need to be made safe from rats.

Ducklings should be ready for the green duck market at from ten to fourteen weeks of age.

A good, well-regulated incubator will hatch eggs with far more certainty and do it more cheaply than can be done with hens.

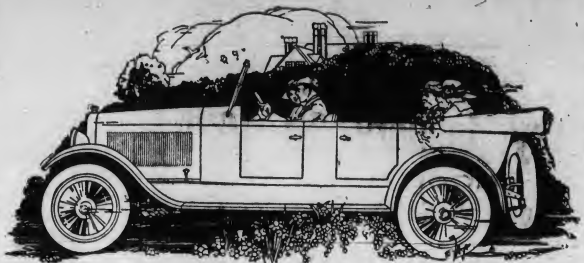

Much of the trouble often found in brooding chicks is due alone to feeding too early, or in excess during the first few days.

Scalds on chickens' legs are caused by a mite. This mite can best be controlled and disposed of by the use of heavy black crude oil.

In the location of the poultry house, it is impossible to select a soil that is naturally dry it should be made dry by thorough underdrainage.

CHANDLER SIX

This world is a pretty good sort of a world. Taking it all together, in spite of the grief and sorrow we meet, in spite of the gloomy weather. There are friends to love and hopes to cheer. And plenty of compensation for every ache, for those who make The best of the situation.

CAKES AND FROSTINGS.

A tender, fine grained, well-baked and goodly cake is a work of art.

Old Fashioned Pound Cake.—Cream one cupful of butter and add gradually one and two-thirds cupfuls of granulated sugar, beating constantly; then add five eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly between the addition of each. When the mixture is creamy fold in two cupfuls of pastry flour sifted once. Bake in a slow oven for one hour.

Six Months' Cake.—Mix one-half cup of butter and lard until creamy, then add one cup of sugar gradually, beating constantly, two eggs well beaten and one-half cupful of molasses. Mix and sift two and one-half cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoonful of cloves, and the same of mace. Add alternately with one cup of milk to the mixture. Cure half hour vigorously; then add one cupful of raisins seeded and cut in small pieces and dredged with two tablespoonfuls of flour. Turn into two bread pans and bake in a moderate oven forty-five minutes.

White Fruit Cake.—Cream two-thirds of a cup of butter until creamy and add gradually, beating constantly, seven-eighths of a cupful of pastry flour sifted with one-fourth of a teaspoonful of soda, then add one-half tablespoonful of lemon juice. Beat the whites of six eggs until stiff, using an egg whip, and gradually one and one-fourth cupfuls of powdered sugar. Combine mixtures and when well blended add two-thirds of a cupful of candied cherries and one-third of a cupful of minced and shredded almonds, one-half cup of citron and one teaspoonful of almond extract. Turn into a cake pan and bake in a moderate oven one hour.

COULD HARDLY STAND ALONE

Terrible Suffering From Headache, Stitches, Backache, and Weakness, Relieved by Cardui, Says This Texas Lady.

Gonzales, Tex.—Mrs. Minnie Philpot, of this place, writes: "Five years ago I was taken with a pain in my left side. It was right under my left rib. It would commence with an aching and extend up into my left shoulder and on down into my back. By that time the pain would be so severe I would have to take to bed, and suffered usually about three days. I suffered this way for three years, and got to be a mere skeleton and was so weak I could hardly stand alone. Was not able to go anywhere and had to let my house work go. I suffered awful with a pain in my back and I had the headache all the time. I just was unable to do a thing. My life was a misery, my stomach got in an awful condition, caused from taking so much medicine. I suffered so much pain. I had just about given up all hopes of our getting anything to help me."

One day a Birthday Almanac was thrown in my yard. After reading its testimonials I decided to try Cardui, and am so thankful that I did, for I began to improve when on the second bottle. I am now a well woman and feeling fine and the cure has been permanent for it has been two years since my awful bad health. I will always praise and recommend Cardui." Try Cardui today. R 78

POWER TO VETO PEACE.

Defects in Treaty Making Brought Out By Controversy.

Washington Post.

The constitution provides a way to enact laws despite the veto of the President. But there is no way to make a treaty against the veto of the President. If there should be in the White House a President who did not wish to make peace after his treaty had been changed by the Senate, it might happen that the United States would be unable to reach a state of peace, except on terms laid down by a single individual and in defiance of Congress. There might be a President so wedded to his own plan, so entangled by promises to foreign Governments or so jealous of the rights of the Senate that he would refuse to exchange ratifications of a peace treaty if the Senate had made reservations in behalf of this nation. The reservations might be desirable and warmly approved by the people, but such a President could say, "I do not accept the action of the Senate as the will of the people, and I refuse to approve the Senate's work." He would be within his constitutional powers and could not be compelled to exchange ratifications of the treaty.

By a two thirds vote Congress can repeal a bill over a President's veto and it becomes a law. The same provision should be made in case of a treaty, after it has been approved by the Senate by the required two thirds vote. Having reached that stage it should not be pigeonholed by the President, and he should not have the power to pigeonhole it. If he should refuse to proceed with exchange of ratifications, Congress should have power to make the treaty effective by a two thirds vote, as in case of a vetoed bill. A treaty is a law, so far as it affects American citizens it is nothing but a law. Congress can abrogate a treaty by passing a law with or without the President's consent, and this has been done several times. If a treaty and a law are in conflict the Supreme Court takes the last expression as the law which it is the treaty or a simple act of Congress.

It is conceivable that a President of the United States might be elected who would misuse his power to pigeonhole a peace treaty, and thus keep the nation in a state of war. A treaty is a contract between nations, and usually a peace treaty is a complicated bargain, the making of which required confidential exchanges between the parties, often leading to the making of secret pledges which must be kept from the knowledge of the people. In such a case the completed draft is apt to conceal as much as it reveals. It is also apt to be obscure, ambiguous, or even purposely misleading on important matters which have been disposed of secretly, or which are to be handled privately by the Governments, in a manner which would arouse antagonism, or even war, if known to the people. In that case the Senate would demand information, and would not obtain it, or it would learn some thing indirectly which would cause it to make amendments or reservations, for the sake of national security.

The present controversy over the treaty of Versailles has been valuable in bringing out the defect in the treaty-making power which is herein described. The truth is that the treaty-making power is not equally divided between the President and the Senate, since the President has an absolute veto. This lacuna should not be permitted to exist, for the reason that peace is usually reached by means of treaties, and it is unwise to leave to one man the power to continue a state of war against the will of the people and Congress.

Congress can declare war with or without the President's consent, but it cannot make peace by treaty without the President's consent. Surely, if the constitution makers found it desirable to empower Congress to overrule the President in making war it would seem desirable that Congress should have power to overrule him in making peace by a treaty which he himself would have submitted.

Cow Testing in Dearborn County, Ind.

Dearborn County Cow Testing Association will complete its year's work this month. The members have received a wonderful benefit from the work. They have a complete record of their respective herds. They know without doubt their boarder cows and also the good or bad of the animals able to make a wise selection of calves to build up the future herd. A large number of boarder cows have been disposed of and a large number of pure bred animals put in their places. They have also bought several car loads of stock feed and made a large saving. In Iowa corn crop is excellent in quality. For some time there has been a free movement of corn to market because of the exceptionally early snow storm and scarcity of labor and a considerable quantity of corn remains in the field.

MAXWELL

Has Won Its Following Through Its Quality

POUND for pound, the metals used in the Maxwell chassis compare favorably with those in the best cars that the world has produced, according to metallurgists.

There is a deep seated reason for this quality in a Maxwell.

For the fundamental purpose of the Maxwell is to carry the same passenger load over the same roads and at the same speeds as larger and more expensive cars.

Its particular mission is to carry this passenger load in an extremely economical way.

Therefore the Maxwell had to be light. But to make it strong as well as light only the very best of materials could be employed.

Hence, the quality metals.

And it was through the quality of its metals that Maxwell developed its following.

This is a following that began five years ago with a foundation of 5,000 and now reaches a mark of 100,000 in 1920.

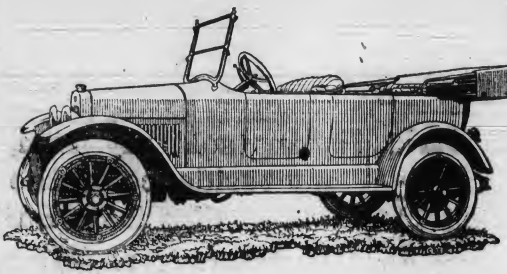

300,000 Maxwells now on the highways of two continents are a daily endorsement of the merit of this great car.

Aurora, Jan. 17 — The Aurora Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Company sold today 58,303 lbs. of tobacco at an average of $35.33 per 100 pounds. Rejections were heavy on account of the inferior tobacco on sale, which grades sold at a low ebb.

Lexington, Jan. 18.—During the sixth week of the local tobacco market, which closed Friday, 5,661, 650 lbs. of tobacco was sold for an average of $23.06 per 100 lbs. This average is $1.05 per 100 lbs. better than the average for the preceding week and $4.12 per 100 better than the average of the first week of sales following the holidays. The market is the strongest in history on good and high class offerings, but tips and mean tobacco are slowly settling to lower levels.

Lexington, Jan. 18.—Police today are looking for the sale of loose leaf tobacco was broken on the Lexington market today when a crop of 3,000 pounds grown by Webb Offutt and O. D. Hildis, near county, sold as Fayette No. 1 for an average of $16.37 per 100. The high basket sold at $21 a pound.

WOMAN AND BABE ABANDONED IN STOLEN AUTO.

Following a wild ride of six miles through the hills of two counties, a stolen automobile occupied by two men, two women and a six-month-old baby, was found abandoned with one of the women and the baby. The firing of a bullet which imbedded itself in the fender of the machine, caused the other occupants of the car to flee to the hills. About 7:30 p. m., Sunday G. A. Seifer, Covington garage owner, reported to the police that his five-passenger automobile had been stolen from in front of his residence at 2204 Scott street. A short time later a machine stopped at a garage owned by George Wayman, Walton, to get gasoline. Wayman recognized the machine as the property of Seifer. He tried to stop the machine by jumping onto the running board, but the driver, putting on more speed got away. Wayman then started in pursuit. He chased the stolen car for six miles to Crittenden. Near Crittenden Wayman fired at the fleeing car. When questioned by Detectives Higgins and Goodson, the woman said that she was the mother of the baby and that she did not know the machine was stolen. She told the detectives that the two men and the woman stopped at her house and asked her to witness a wedding which was to have taken place at Lexington. She said that it was her belief that they were to go to Lexington on a train. Detective Higgins found a revolver in a field near the machine. The woman gave the police the names of others she said were in the auto. The woman with the baby was allowed to return to her home in Covington. The machine was returned to Covington. — Monday's Times-Star.

SOLD $10,000 WORTH
OF CREAM TO THE TRI-STATE BUTTER CO.

Harrison, Ohio, Man Says He Never Received a Cream Check But That He Felt He Had Been Given Right Weight and Test.

"After 7 years' dealings we feel it your due to have a word of appreciation for your square dealing in that time," writes Chas. Bonham, a well known and respected farmer of Harrison, Ohio. Mr. Bonham is well known in his community and takes an active part in all activities for the betterment of the agricultural interests. He has a herd of 21 Jerseys and he considers them best for cream production. "We sold a few cans of cream to the local stations to try them out," continued Mr. Bonham, "but always went back to The Tri State." Mr. Bonham received over $10,000.00 in Tri State checks during the past 7 years and buttermilk was considerable cheaper 7 years ago than it is today. He is a new cream buyer that opened up shop, tried to buy Bonham's cream—he was coaxed to give them each a trial order. Even the station buyers did their best, it was useless for Mr. Bonham to sell his cream to a commission buyer, for when one handles a herd of 21 cows, the hard work is done before the cream is brought to town and when the cream is in town, Mr. Bonham couldn't see use in taking from 1 cent to 5 cents per pound less for his cream in order to favor a cream buyer, especially when he knew his check would come from The Tri State in a few days after shipping, bringing the FULL price for the cream. The Tri State Butter Company only buys from the producer and every shipment is received in the patron's own can and over 35,000 of the largest cream producers find it a big advantage to ship DIRECT, as it gives the creamery so much better quality of cream and consequently a better price to the producer compared to the mixing of all kinds together. We will gladly send Free Trial Cans for 30 days to any one needing cans to give us a trial. If you have cans, write for shipping tags. The Tri State Butter Company, Cash Capital, $250,000, 930 Kemper Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio, Adv.

Don't let the big prices tobacco is bringing draw your mind from the necessity of testing the corn which you expect to use as seed next spring. Corn is bringing some price also and it will not pay to be considerably to cultivate land that should be but is not producing a hill or two missing in each row in a large field amounts to a considerable area of non-producing land which can be reduced to the minimum by using a high per cent germinating seed corn. The very best seed that you can obtain will be none too good for planting next spring, so ascertain the reliability of your seedsmen's corn by giving it a thorough test.

Great Things Planned For Famous Old Transylvania

College of Bible and Hamilton College Included in Kentucky Disciples' Forward Step to Enlarge the Equipment of these Noted Institutions of Learning at Lexington

For the maintenance of its rightful place, so long occupied among America's leading educational institutions, historic Transylvania, Lexington, Ky., is to unite with the Disciples of Christ of the State, and its thousands of friends throughout the country, in a vigorous campaign for the imperative enlargement of its equipment and for an adequate compensation of its faculty.

Main Building.

The College of the Bible, for the training of men and women for the ministry and mission field, and Hamilton College, the Junior College for Women, will share in this campaign, which is to be conducted as a part of the Interchurch World Movement.

Up to the time of the starting of the Interchurch World Movement financial drive, Transylvania and its friends will conduct a campaign of education, in order that the urgent needs of these institutions may be so well understood that everyone will be glad of the opportunity of sharing in their support.

One of the first needs of the institution is a fire-proof building to house its priceless library, worth more than a hundred thousand dollars, and which if destroyed, by fire could not be replaced. Another aim is the increase of the salaries of the professors to a living standard, making it possible to hold its present faculty, and to cumulated the very best available material for increasing its teaching force. Another aim is the continuance of the progressive policies so long maintained by this historic college.

Many other first rank colleges throughout the country have already taken steps to avert a crisis in educational affairs. With the increased cost of everything, it is absolutely impossible for institutions of learning to exist on the basis of former support.

There is also a widespread conviction of the necessity of the maintenance of the college under distinctive Christian influences. An investigation made a few years ago revealed these significant facts:

Eight of the nine Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States were college men; seven of the eight were educated in Christian colleges. Eighteen of the twenty-six Presidents of the United States were college men; sixteen of the eighteen were from Christian colleges.

Eighteen of the twenty-six recognized masters in American Letters were college men; seventeen of the eighteen were from Christian colleges. Of the members of Congress in 1905 who had received a college education, and who, as a result of their achievements gave them a place in "Who's Who in America," two-thirds were graduates of church colleges.

Transylvania and the College of the Bible have educated one president, two vice-presidents, the president of the Southern Confederacy; also secretaries of state, treasury, post master-general, attorney general; scores of United States senators and congressmen; a Speaker of the House; and many foreign countries; governors of a large number of states; mayors of large cities; authors of national and international reputation; physicians and surgeons of world-wide fame, and thousands of ministers and missionaries of the Christian religion.

Dr. Richard H. Collins, the historian of Kentucky, characterizes its graduates "as statesmen, jurists, orators, surgeons and divines among the greatest in the world's history—men of mark in all the professions and callings of life."

John Fox Jr., noted writer, author Transylvania man.

VERONA

Thermometer dropped Saturday night to near zero.

A great deal of sickness in the neighborhood. Colds, mumps and measles.

R. H. Walker delivered his tobacco to the Covington loose leaf last week, receiving an average of 55 cents per pound.

Mrs. Willis Hensley and little daughter, Roberta Lucille, spent a few days the last week with Mr. and Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Sr.

BIG BONE CHURCH News

Brother James Henry Stephens, son of Thomas P. and Elizabeth Stephens, was an esteemed member of this church for nearly twenty years. He was called home on January 14th, aged 71 years, 7 months and 13 days. He was married to Joanna Kyle, August 31st, 1876. To this union were born six children. Three of these survive him, with the widow. Funeral services were held at the Big Bone church, Thursday, Jan. 15th. Pastor O. C. Peyton spoke a few words appropriate and helpful, suggested by Rev. 14:13. Truly blessed are the dead who die in the Lord.

Brother Stephens was held in high esteem in this community. His life was one of faith in God and he was interested in the cause of the Master. So, we place his body to rest confidently assured that it is well with his soul. He was buried under the shade of the old "Woodmen" of which he was a member.

Remember the Dance.

Remember the dance to be given at Florence tomorrow, Friday night by Boone Post No. 4 American Legion. The committee is sparing no effort to make it an ideal social affair, and every accommodation possible on a like occasion will be provided. If you desire having a real good time you should attend this dance. The best of music has been secured and those who delight in tripping the light fantastic will have an opportunity to go the limit. Everybody is invited to attend and help the members of the post make merry.

Went Over the Dump.

One of the horses worked on the dump at the stone quarry on the Constance hill went over the dump last Monday and went down an almost perpendicular incline for about 100 feet. When the horse and cart landed the horse was under the cart and a block and ropes had to be used to get him out. The horse was pretty badly bruised, and those who saw the accident do not understand how it happened he was not killed.

Dogs Kill Sheep.

Dogs made a raid on the sheep of Mr. Geo. Penn near town one day last week and killed one and crippled one. The one killed was appraised at $35, and Mr. Penn says he would not have taken $50 for it. The dogs made a second raid last Monday morning, killing one and wounding one. The dogs were seen but made good their escape. One is a light and the other a dark shepherd dog.

Bought Fine Bull.

A few days since S. B. Ryle, of Waterloo neighborhood, bought of Scranton & Dugle, of Rising Sun, a very fine eleven months old Jersey bull, said to be a decidedly handsome individual. His sire captured two gold medals at the annual international stock show at Chicago. Mr. Ryle paid $500 for the animal.

Having Delightful Weather.

Remitting for his Recorder W. T. Davis, of River View, Fla., writes: "We are having fine weather here now. Last week we had a killing frost and it was almost cold enough for ice, but this week it is simply grand—warm and sun shining with flowers in bloom and the birds are singing."

Houpe-Swinn.

Geo. Swinn, 32, machinist, Covington, and Miss Emma Houpe, 20, of High Bridge, were granted a marriage license by County Clerk Rogers last Saturday.

Pig Bone Oil Co. Organized.

Mr. C. R. Slater, Jr., of Erlanger, has been instrumental in obtaining leases on a large number of acres of land in the Big Bone neighborhood for the purpose of drilling for oil. He has organized a company, which has been incorporated for the purpose of developing this territory, and has elected the following officers and directors of the company, I. H. Berkshire, E. H. Ferrell, E. Nelson High, C. Scott Chambers and N. E. Kiddell. A complete list of the names and addresses of their leasees they want to find out. The stock of this company will be offered in a short time and every dollar reserved for this stock will be expended for drilling purposes.

WALTON.

Mrs. Hattie E. Metcalfe spent Sunday at Lexington and Cincinnati with friends.

Chas. L. Griffith left Saturday for a business trip thru Eastern Kentucky and Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Reeves and children spent Saturday and Sunday in Louisville with friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morris of Warsaw, are spending the week here with their daughter, Mrs. Hugh Arnold.

Mrs. Chas. Denady of Erlanger, spent part of the week here the guest of her sister Mrs. J. Cloyd Powers and husband.

Miss Janie Dickey left last week for Fayetteville, Arkansas, to resume her work in charge of a department in the college.

V. P. Kerns was on the sick list several days the past week caused by a strain in lifting a wagon at the tobacco warehouse.

Arthur Dean spent last week with relatives and friends at his old home at Moores Hill and Aurora, Indiana. Mrs. Dean who has been quite ill is much improved.

Rev. and Mrs. Howard W. Whitaker and baby spent the first of the week at Erlanger, where Rev. Whitaker is pastor of the M. E. church and held services Sunday.

Nathan E. Northcutt has bought a beautiful $1,000 player piano from the Baldon Piano Co. thru their salesman Wm. C. Readnor, who is doing a fine business for the firm.

Mrs. C. Milton Richey and Mrs. E. L. Arnold, of Bloomington, Indiana, arrived here last Friday on a visit to friends and relatives. They are delighted with their new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brittenhelm who are spending the winter at St. Petersburg, Florida, write that the weather is ideal and they are enjoying their sojourn in Fla. to the greatest degree.

Earl Mudman has bought a Ford truck with which to do general work when he moves with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Mudman to the farm on Woolper creek which they recently purchased from Wm. L. Whitehouse.

Judge B. F. Menefee and Winston C. Brown of Crittenden, spent Tuesday here with friends and on business. Mr. Brown who was reported missing came back home Monday, having been away on a business trip.

R. W. Carpenter spent Monday in Louisville on the tobacco market and looking up some shipments of old tobacco made by the Walton Loose Leaf Warehouse Co. sold here in November which the purchasers rejected.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Rogers are called to Erlanger Tuesday by the death of his sister Mrs. Elizabeth Utz, who died suddenly at her home there Monday night. She was nearly 70 years old. The funeral took place from her late home Wednesday afternoon.

W. B. Johnson returned home last week from Council Bluffs, Iowa, where he was called to attend the funeral of his sister Mrs. Benj. Vest who died Jan. 14, from hernia, after a short illness. The deceased was 45 years old and was a daughter of Mrs. Jane Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett H. Price who reside on the Denady farm near Richmond, spent part of the past week at Lair Station, Harrison county, attending the funeral of her mother Mrs. Susan Ann Morrison who died suddenly last Sunday from heart disease, aged 61 years.

The tobacco market at Walton has shown a drabby condition on account of the offerings being chiefly of the commoner kinds of tobacco. The Walton Warehouse averaged $31.00 per cwt. at the sale Saturday and the Farmers Warehouse about the same Monday, though the offerings were very poor in quality.

Capt. Elijah J. Green spent part of last week here the guest of his brother Robert C. Green, President of the Walton Bank and Trust Co., and visited his many friends. Capt. Green was in the army service and when the war was closed located at St. Louis where he was given a splendid position at the head of a large motor company.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bedinger of the Richmond neighborhood, who went to Florida a couple of weeks ago to spend the balance of the winter, are now located at Jensen, St. Lucie County, Fla., and send their best wishes to their many friends here, adding "We are having ideal winter weather; thermometer ranging from 40 to 80 degrees, with a pleasant breeze, though raining today."

Earl Beach who has been suffering with tuberculosis the past year died at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. John Beach, Dec. 20th, aged 27 years. He was born in Grant county, and leaves a wife, sister Miss Ruth Beach and his parents. The funeral took place Thursday. The deceased was examined for service in the late war and was passed as physically fit, and shortly afterward showed a decline that continued until his death.

Edward F. Neumeister, T. J. Layart and T. J. Gentry shipped a lot of their tobacco to Lexington and sold it there Monday, one crop averaging 14 cents and the other 16 cents. Some of the same quality of tobacco out of the same crop sold at the Walton Loose Leaf Warehouse last week at 36 cents and some of the same crop sold at the beginning of the season at 30 cents. There is no question but that the Walton market is from two to four cents better than any other market in the State and especially on red tobacco. It takes the bright tobacco of the best type to reach the top prices on the Lexington market.

The administrator of the estate of James H. Aylor settled with the L. & N. Railroad Co. last week through their attorney John L. Vest by accepting $4,000 from the railroad company in settlement of the claim of Ezra C. Aylor, administrator of J. H. Aylor vs. L. & N. Railway Co. for damages sustained by the death of his father James H. Aylor who was killed by the railroad at the regular railroad crossing in Walton several months ago. The matter was considered by the widow and children who disliked the idea of litigation and on the recommendation of their attorney the amount was accepted as a compromise of the matter.

BIG BONE CHURCH News

We are glad to report improvement in all the cases of sickness in our community. We trust this improvement may continue and that soon the "shut-ins" may be seen among the regular worshippers at our church services.

Owing to hindering weather and other conditions our quarterly observance of the ordinance of the Lord's Supper was postponed and, now, it is probable, we will defer its observance until the regular quarterly day—the 4th Sunday in March.

Our Big Bone Secondary School is, this season, under the efficient management, as teacher, of Miss Bertha Gardner, of Erlanger.

It is gratifying to learn that everything has moved on smoothly and to the entire satisfaction of all the patrons. This is well! Helpful co-operating parents can do much to assist the teacher to make the school a success. The task of the teacher is arduous and trying. Let everybody help, as occasion offers, by words and deeds of sympathy and counsel. Talk your school up!

Our Woman's Missionary Society is making progress. So far, the offerings in three months have gone far beyond the entire amount contributed in the entire association year of 1919. This is very encouraging as the needs are great and the calls most insistent.

Baldon & Hewett have been trying for several days to locate someone to dress the burs in their mill at Limaburg, and had about given up the search, when, by chance they learned that one of their near neighbors was an expert at that very business. W. R. Davrainville, of Burlington, has served his time at that work and by some means Baldon & Hewett discovered that he is the very man they were looking for. No doubt Mr. Davrainville is the only man in this county who can dress a pair of burs properly.

The weather during the month of January has not allowed the farmers an opportunity to dispose of any of the work that has to be done before they can begin preparing their lands for this year's crops. It now looks like they are going to be behind with their work when favorable weather comes.

It is surprising the amount of mill feeds that are being brought to Burlington by the city trucks. Scarcely a day passes that one or more truck loads do not arrive, and the farmers are the parties who buy it of the local dealers.

Several persons who had not heard that Jas. D. Acra's sale advertised for last Wednesday had been called off, started to attend it. Mr. Acra is sick and has not decided when he will have his sale.

John Clore and Wilson Gaines, of Hebron neighborhood, were among the callers at this office Tuesday. They had started to Jas. Acra's sale but learned that it had been postponed.

Hubert Rouse, mail carrier between Covington and Burlington, missed only one delivery on account of the dangerous condition of the roads.

Those who take a pleasure in attending public sale will have about all they can do next week if they make the round of sales.

Ommie Rouse shipped three veal calves to market one day last week that brought him a few cents over $100.

The local trucks began moving tobacco again as soon as the ice left the roads. They were now dangerous.

None of the Cincinnati daily papers reached Burlington postoffice in Tuesday morning's mail.

The Constance school has been discontinued on account of the appearance of diphtheria.

The weather the past few weeks has been of no benefit to the small grain.

Livestock in this county seem to be in pretty good condition.

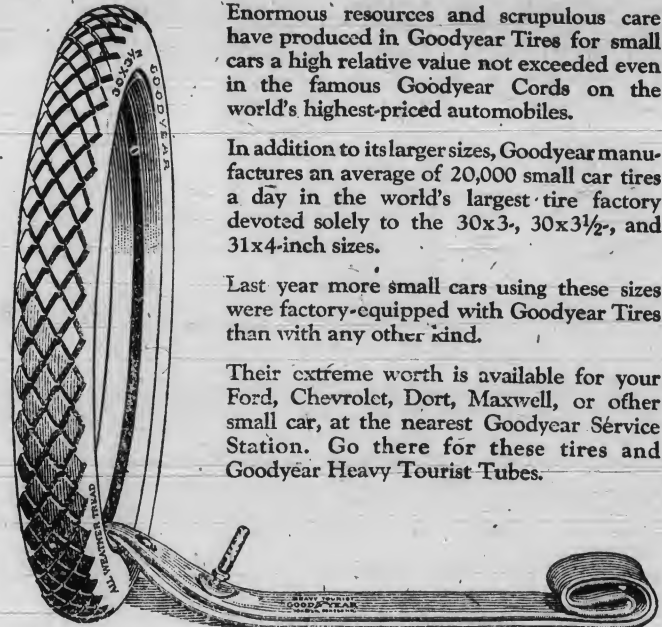

Frank Rouse sent 23 fat hogs to market Wednesday morning.

There are said to be several cases of flu in this county.

Although very much improved B. H. Hume and wife had not returned home Wednesday at noon. They were stopping at a Cincinnati hotel the first of this week.

The dance that was to have been given by Boone Post No. 4, American Legion, at Florence, last Friday night, was called off indefinitely on account of the bad weather.

Goodyear Leadership— and Tires for Small Cars

Enormous resources and scrupulous care have produced in Goodyear Tires for small cars a high relative value not exceeded even in the famous Goodyear Cords on the world's highest-priced automobiles.

In addition to its larger sizes, Goodyear manufactures an average of 20,000 small car tires a day in the world's largest tire factory devoted solely to the 30x3, 30x3½, and 31x4-inch sizes.

Last year more small cars using these sizes were factory-equipped with Goodyear Tires than with any other kind.

Their extreme worth is available for your Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell, or other small car, at the nearest Goodyear Service Station. Go there for these tires and Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, It has pleased God in His infinite wisdom to call home on December 28th, 1919, the beloved wife of our pastor, R. O. McNeely, therefore be it Resolved by the members of the East Bend Baptist Church, That in the death of Sister McNeely we have suffered a great loss, and her cheerful presence and helpful counsel are sadly missed.

That we extend to Rev. McNeely our heartfelt sympathy in his great bereavement, the loss of his faithful companion.

That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Church, a copy be sent to Bro. McNeely, and one furnished for publication in the Boone Co. Recorder and Western Recorder.

It will soon be moving day with a good many citizens of the county.

Rev. B. F. Swindler will preach at Sand Run next Sunday morning and night.

Clyde Akin and family, of Bellevue, will move to Indiana in the next few days.

Wallace Rice spent last Saturday and Sunday in Burlington with his parents.

The ice began melting about noon last Monday, but it disappeared very slowly.

By reference to the RECORDER this week it will be seen that there is a riot of sales on again.

Learning to skate is about the best recreation possible, as it surely brings into action every muscle in the body.

There will be no services at the local Methodist church while the pastor, Rev. Redinger, is spending the winter in Florida.

C. C. Hughes gave his chickens food in which there was too much salt and as a result lost quite a number of very fine fowls.

Mrs. Samuel Adams, of Bullittsville neighborhood, was taken to a Cincinnati hospital one day last week to undergo an operation.

Very few machines took a chance on the ice last Friday. The trucks that have been kept on the move all winter knocked off for the day.

Last week gave the fire-side farmers a fine chance to cultivate their winter crops, and a considerable acreage of tobacco was grown.

Quite a number of persons in Burlington have gotten bad falls on the ice the last week, but, fortunately, no one was hurt seriously.

These Boone county people who are basking in Florida's warm sun shine have no idea how much fun they are missing in the way of delightful skating.

Charles Bickle has been having a serious time with an attack of rheumatism in his right arm. It began in the elbow and is now in his wrist and hand. He has suffered greatly at times.

Thomas N. Coons sold his 300-acre farm in Clark county, to E. L. Fasset, for $225 an acre, making a clear profit of $10,000 in two months time. This farm is said to contain a large percentage of real tobacco land.

Harold Gaines arrived from Camp Knox, last Tuesday night with the large Kelly truck the Government donated to the county to be used in its road work. The Kelly is said to be about the best truck made.

Mrs. M. L. Riddell and Clifton Roberts will leave next Saturday for Washington, D. C., where they have been appointed to positions in the pension office. Mr. Riddell expects to go to Washington also in a month or two.

The flu is epidemic in many of the large cities in this country, and there is no telling how soon it will become prevalent in this country, consequently it behooves everybody to take good care of themselves, and avoid the disease if possible.

The tenders on one side of County Farm Agent Sutton's river against something during the week. One of the lamps was put out of commission also. It takes something more dangerous than the recent sleep to stop Sutton when he has an appointment to meet.

Ira Ryle, who will move to his Indiana farm in the next few weeks was a caller at this office one day the last week. He is anxious to get located on his new possession but is apprehensive that he will not get there before the first of March. Mr. Ryle's neighbors will be sorry to lose him from their midst but what will be their loss will be some other community's gain.

DIRECT DEALING PAYS BEST.

When cream is ready to sell, the hard work has been done and you should not permit any outsider to make an extra profit off your efforts.

You can ship your cream DIRECT to the Tri-State and save from 3 to 5 cts. per lb. of butter-fat. It is just as easy to deliver the cream to a railroad station as to a buying station. The Tri-State pays the freight and guarantees your cream against loss in transit.

Mrs. Thos. Daulton, Peebles, O., writes on Nov. 25, 1919—"I have shipped cream to the Tri-State Butter Co. for three years and have been satisfied. I have sold cream to cream stations in order to return the empty can with me, as I live 9 miles from the railroad, and always lost from $1.50 to $2.00 on every can of cream sold to agents."

There is some opposition to the reelection of Congressman A. B. Rouse, and an effort is being made to organize it for the next campaign with Charlton B. Thompson, of Covington, as his opponent. The most recent development along that line is the declaration of Hon. John J. Howe, Commonwealth's Attorney in this District, favoring the candidacy of Mr. Thompson. Claims are being made that Mr. Rouse has been showing a decline of strength in his recent campaigns, from which it is desired to leave the impression that he is (liable to lose the district to the Republican candidate at the next election. The Recorder may be away off in its bearings, but it believes that Mr. Rouse will make a stronger canvass in Kenton and Campbell counties than Mr. Thompson will, and when it comes to the country portion of the district Mr. Rouse will doubly distance him. Rouse's popularity is the result of the unremitting attention he has given the requests of his constituents, having proven himself a representative whom they can approach at any time with the assurance that they will be given proper treatment, and they want that kind of a man at Washington and are not apt to exchange a certainty for an uncertainty.

Quite a number of farmers attended the meeting held in Burlington last Tuesday in the interest of the Farmers' Bureau, and the plans and preparation for the organization was gone over pretty thoroughly. Nearly every precinct in the county was represented in the meeting and the several reports from the canvassers showed that something over 400 have pledged themselves to the organization. Another meeting will be held on the 7th of February to further discuss plans, etc. There is every indication that the Bureau for membership will result in more than one thousand members being secured in this county.

It seems that the organization of Farmers Bureau is going forward with a rush in many states and numerous benefits are expected to be derived therefrom.

Please PASTE this in your HAT. When requesting your Recorder changed from one postoffice to another do not fail to say from what office to what office, if you desire the change made. You will thus often save considerable trouble at this end of the line, in sending in money please state whether it is a new subscription or for renewal.

BURIED EMPIRES.

Recent wonderful archaeological discoveries in Africa once more seek to impress us with the majesty of civilization's antiquity. Here, it is said, is clear evidence of a civilization which antedates that of Egypt, one which makes of the civilizations of Babylon and Tyre comparatively recent events. The world will await with interest the story of its records. These tales of monuments and tombs, of strange writings, deciphered by the scientists, have put us in touch with the life of hoary centuries; have galvanized, so to speak, the men and women of the ancient days until they move and speak, love and strive, then pass to their appointed places.

It is interesting in this connection to learn from a distinguished professor of Assyriology, of Oxford, England, that a new tablet places the blame for the fall of man on the sturdy shoulders of Noah. According to the tablet Noah was ordered by the Lord not to eat of the fruit of the cedar tree—as though anything would want to!—and because he objected to prohibition, and did eat, the curse of ill health fell upon him, and instead of living to the ripe old age of 50,000 years, he died after having lived a paltry few centuries.

The scientist insists that this tablet was written 5,000 years ago, and that it evidently records a tradition which goes back to the very early history of man. We cannot dispute this authority. As a matter of fact we do not wish to do so. We are glad that we have this belated exoneration of our slandered first parents. Adam may have been a gentleman after all; and we always have contended that Eve was everything a glorious first creation should have been.

Noah's reputation justifies the suspicion at least that he may have been the first sinner.

However, we are inclined to believe, notwithstanding the evidence of the Assyrian tablet, that man has been falling upward ever since God placed him here on earth. The best man of today is a better man than ever was any dream-Adam. Animation, guided by love and mercy, has been lifting man through all the ages since he rose from groveling before the dark shapes of fear and superstition and felt in his burgeoning soul the divine impulse to prayer and faith.

The Case of Mr. Weinstein.

It is well-known that the Soviet government of Russia is demanding large sums of money in this country in the openly expressed hope of overturning our Government.

Gregory Weinstein, chief lieutenant to Marten, Soviet "ambassador," was arrested the other day as a result of the effort of the Department of Justice to clean up "red" plotters in the U. S. The worst that could have happened to Weinstein would have been to be sent back to Russia.

But the worst did not happen. Weinstein appealed to the courts for protection and was released on bail. And now he is to testify with much pomp and circumstance, we suppose, before a committee of the Senate.

In Russia, under Soviet rule, they have a different way of handling things. In that country, during the past two years, tens of thousands of persons have been shot on the charge of counter-revolutionary activity. Some of them really were counter-revolutionaries. More were innocent of any action against the Soviet authorities. The long list of victims of "mass terror" includes aristocrats, professional men, manufacturers, small shopkeepers and peasants. A clear majority of the entire number, however, were not representatives of the "bourgeois" classes at all, but Socialists who belonged to other schools of socialism than that supported by the present dictators of Russia.

In Russia those who oppose the government, passively or actively, are deprived of food, political rights, personal liberty. Those against whom there arises even the faintest suspicion of active hostility are deprived of life. In this country those who plot against the Government in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred are not interfered with. If they are arrested, they have an appeal to the courts and usually manage to be released on one ground or another.

It must all seem very amusing to Mr. Weinstein.

The "Matter With" America.

What's the matter with America these days?
Too many diamonds, not enough alarm clocks.
Too many silk shirts, not enough blue flannel ones.
Too many pointed-toed shoes, and not enough squared-toed ones.
Too many serge suits and not enough overalls.
Too much décolleté and not enough aprons.
Too many satin-upholstered limousines and not enough cows.
Too many consumers and not enough producers.
Too much oil stock—and not enough savings accounts.
Too much envy of the results of hard work and too little desire to emulate it.
Too many desiring short cuts to wealth and too few willing to pay the price.
Too much of the spirit of "get while the getting is good" and not enough of the old-fashioned Christanity.
Too much despatch that vests itself in mere complaining and too little real effort to remedy conditions.
Too much fuss consciousness and too little common democracy and love of humanity—Fargo & D. Forum.

Advantages and Profits in Sheep.

In the right hands and under proper management, sheep are today very profitable stock to keep, and profit is the important point of any industry. Farmers are not carrying on their work for health or pleasure.

It has been found and fully proven that sheep will weaken the soil least and improve it more by pasturing of any farm stock. They are great enemies of weeds, and robbing the soil of this pest, they do not rob it of its fertility, but rather add thereto.

Like other farm animals, they must have some care, but of all stock on the farm they require as little attention and at a time when other work is quiet. There is another point in favor of the sheep business that is quite a factor with some, and that is the comparatively small amount of capital required to start the business. At this time prices are higher than usual, but even at that several sheep can be purchased for the cost of one cow. The returns are quick and large. Lambs, wool and mutton are the products of the flock, giving three chances for success, and sheep are the quietest and easiest to handle of any farm animals if the work is done in the proper way. Good fences are one special requirement which some farmers do not have.

There is another advantage in the management of sheep not to be found in any other stock, and that is, they are usually kept with the aid of very little grain. They will do well on good pasture through the summer and on plenty of the right kind of hay during the winter, while other farm animals require a considerable amount of grain during the cold weather and some in warmer weather. The profits in keeping sheep, are, of course, governed by the cost of production, by the use of fodder and straw, the coarse food which will bring practically nothing in the market. The manure produced from sheep, both summer and winter, is far more valuable than that of the cow or the horse. Hence this is no small item. Another point that determines the profits on the flock, and this is the kind of farm on which they are kept. Some farms are hilly, stony and rocky, much of the land being covered with bushes and small woods, making it especially adapted to keeping sheep on, hardly suitable for any other kind of farming. So while there is profit in keeping sheep on the ordinary farm, there are extra large profits in keeping them on a rough, hilly farm, considering the amount invested.

After 20 Years New

Small boats loaded with goods belonging to other people should keep close to shore and in no case should they be manned by an untrained crew. After two decades, during which two special commissions composed of men of brains and experience, studied the tax laws of other states a revenue law was framed and passed by a special session of the legislature after months of deliberation and careful thought by the members of this body, whose ability was far above the average, and with the advice of the brains of the best business men and financiers of the state, we have the present revenue laws, which are being copied by legislative bodies of other states, and laws, which if allowed to stay upon the statutes of Kentucky, will cause her to blossom as the rose, her roads to be rebuilt and her schools to be revised and her state tax rate to diminish gradually to nothing. Just why a law that is producing such good results should be tampered with we fail to see. We will say this that the body that repeals this law will sign its own death warrant. Now is the time, during this special Court day, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 8 o'clock p. m. at the Court House door, in the town of Burlington, Boone County, Ky., expose to public sale for cash in hand, the following property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay State, County and School tax due thereon and unpaid for the year 1919, and the penalty, interest and costs thereon. For a complete description of property see Assessors Book for the assessment for 1919, at the County Clerk's Office:

Landmarks of Holland Rapidly Passing.

Amsterdam, Jan. 4.—Holland is slowly but surely losing the characteristic of its landscape made famous in art and known to every schoolboy—the squat, fat, lazy looking windmills that for centuries have stood out all over the country's flat service. These quaint structures are gradually giving way to highly practical but ugly steel and electric plants, and Dutch technical men at the wind mill is doomed. Now and then a large group of them is replaced by one electric plant, and in the course of each year, a number are destroyed by fire—presenting a spectacular blaze with the big burning wings wheeling around like fiery arms. They are never reconstructed. The existing type of Dutch windmill was invented about the year 1600. The great advantage of the windmill, of course, is its absolute dependence on weather conditions. For this reason they are being replaced when possible, by modern machinery. The Dutch windmill, ever much, it may look in pictures to be a toy, is far from that. It is a sturdy structure, as big as a good sized house and the machinery inside is extremely powerful. Naturally, a great many of them remain, but the number becomes less year by year and so far as can be ascertained, the destruction of a new one is seldom undertaken.

A FAMILY MEDICINE

In Her Mother's Home, Says This Georgia Lady, Regarding Black-Draught: Relief From Headache, Malaria, Chills, Etc.

Ringold, Ga.—Mrs. Chas. Gaston, of this place, writes: "I am a user of Theodore's Black-Draught; in fact, it was one of our family medicines. Also in my mother's home, and she was a child. When any of us children complained of headache, usually caused by constipation, she gave us a dose of Black-Draught, which would rectify the trouble. Often in the Spring, we would have malaria and chills, or troubles of this kind, we would take Black-Draught pretty regularly until the liver acted well, and we would soon be up and around again. We would not be without it, for it certainly has saved us lots of doctor bills. Just a dose of Black-Draught when not so well saves a lot of days in bed."
Theodore's Black-Draught has been in use for many years in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles, and the popularity which it now enjoys is proof of its merit.
If your liver is not doing its duty, you will suffer from such disagreeable symptoms as headache, biliousness, constipation, indigestion, etc., and unless something is done, serious trouble may result.
Theodore's Black-Draught has been found a valuable remedy for these troubles. It is purely vegetable, and acts in a prompt and natural way, regulating the liver to its proper functions and cleansing the bowels of impurities. Try it. Insist on Theodore's the original and genuine. W. T.

Livestock has been entirely helpless in this section the past two weeks on account of the sleet that covered the ground and made it dangerous for animals as well as for man to get about. Animals had to be waited on like babies almost.

Vice Admiral William S. Sims has a rather uncomfortable faculty of ones in so often blowing an entire administration out of the water. He did it the first time when Theodore Roosevelt was President, and Sims called attention to certain unimproved conditions in the American navy. Let it be known that the gunners couldn't shoot for beans and that battleship construction was so shamefully obsolete a pattern that the very arms of vulnerability had been attained. Whereupon Theodore Roosevelt, after the fashion that characterized him, threw a duckfit and began to turn things upside down. Sims at that time took his happy chances on drawing a high prize in a coupon lottery, but he got away with it, and the shake-up that followed in the Navy Department was altogether of a different kind. It brought the Sims party down to the fore and in one way or another they kept pretty well toward the fore until the Daniels regime.

The World's Debt to Britain.

Without minimizing in the least degree the credit due heroic France for her part in the late war, or that of brave Belgium, steadfast Italy, or unselfish America, it should be remembered that Britain's Grand Fleet made impossible Germany's dream of conquest and expansion. Well indeed has this mighty force, which operated to insure the perpetuity of civilization, been called "the keystone of the arch of the alliance of the allies."

The story of the Grand Fleet is an epic romance. It patrolled by day and by night the seas which Germany insolently and confidently declared - the allies would not dare to face. By this grim ocean empy 79,000 ships were safely conveyed. Because of it the blockade was made effective, and it was the blockade rather than bayonets and bullets, mighty guns and averaging millions of armed men, which brought imperial Germany to her knees a broken nation.

From Cape Wrath to Greenland rode these gray guardians over the wildest seas, ever ready, ever watchful, and like satellites attendant upon major planets, small craft of all kinds patrolled 21,000,000 miles a year and killed the boasted pride of ruthless Germany, the submarine. According to recently published authority, mine sweepers operated over 500,000 square miles each year of the war. Dull statistics can never tell the tale of heroism and sacrifice included in the activities of the Grand Fleet for five perilous years of war.

While the English fleet rode the waves the fate of civilization was in the balance. Had storm or accident or treachery destroyed its efficiency Germany would have won her heart's desire, the world would have become subject to the rule of the Teuton. It was not to be. The Master of storm and wave and human hearts willed that liberty should not go down under the heel of brutal despotism. England's Grand Fleet rode the waves and to that fleet chiefly does the world today owe its salvation. -Enquirer.

Sickness among children and bad weather during the winter months make very much against the progress of the country schools and are a strong argument in favor of substituting a winter vacation for the summer vacation. Instead of having no schools during the months of June, July and August there should be none during the months of December, January and February, thereby escaping the bad weather of the winter as well as the sickly season. The months of June, July and August furnish good weather and there is no sickness of any kind among children. But some say the weather is too hot to have the children confined in the school room during the summer weather, but the hot weather of the summer is not as objectionable as such weather as has prevailed here the past month--rain, snow and sleet making it almost impossible for teachers or pupils to reach the school room. Winter conditions cripple the schools in the country to such an extent as to discourage teachers, pupils and parents. This trouble can, and should, be remedied by changing the vacation months to winter months.

The past week was a good time for stripping tobacco when a good stripping room was at hand.

A Man Shall Reap as He Sows

It's poor judgment to put low grade seed into the ground and expect to get a great big bumper crop.

The chaff and inert matter of such seed fall in a place where good seed might well have fallen, and money, land, time and energy are wasted.

Plant Only the Best of Seed.

Give your land at least a square deal in the matter.

BOONE CO. RECORDER

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.Entered at the Post Office in Burlington, Ky., as Second-class Mail.SOLD $10,000 WORTH
OF CREAM TO THE
TRI-STATE BUTTER CO.Harrison, Ohio, Man Says He Never Received a Cream Check But That
He Felt He Had Been Given Right
Weight and Test.

"After 7 years' dealings we feel it your due to have a word of appreciation for your square dealings in that time," writes Chas. Bonham, a well known and respected farmer of Harrison, Ohio. Mr. Bonham is well known in his community and takes an active part in all activities for the betterment of the agricultural interests. He has a herd of 21 Jerseys and he considers them best for cream production.

"We sold a few cans of cream to the local stations to try them out," continued Mr. Bonham, "but always went back to The Tri-State." Mr. Bonham received over $10,000.00 in Tri State checks during the past 7 years and butterfat was considerable cheaper 7 years ago than it is today. Every new cream buyer that opened up shop, tried to buy Bonham's cream—he was coaxed to give them each a trial, but even the station buyers did their best. It was useless for Mr. Bonham to sell his cream to a commission buyer, for when one handles a herd of 21 cows, the hard work is done before the cream is brought to town and when the cream is in town, Mr. Bonham couldn't see any use in taking from 3 cents to 5 cents per pound less for his cream in order to favor a commission buyer, especially when he knew his check would come along from The Tri State in a few days after shipping, bringing the FULL price for the cream.

The Tri State Butter Company only buys from the producer and every shipment is received in the patron's own can and over 25¢ of the largest cream producers find it a big advantage to ship DIRECT, as it gives the creamery so much better quality of cream and consequently a better price to the producer compared to the mixing of all kinds together.

We will gladly send Free Trial Cans for 30 days to anyone needing cans to give us a trial. If you have cans, write for shipping tags. The Tri State Butter Company, Cash Capital, $25,000.00; 932 Kenyon Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio—Adv.

PLANS READY.

Plans and specifications have been received by the County Clerk for the construction of the Covington and Lexington pike from the railroad crossing in Covington to the south corporate limits of the town of Florence. This road is a Federal aid road. That part within the town of Florence, 2900 feet, is to be 20 feet of concrete and macadam to the gutters; from the corporation line of Florence to the Kenton county line, 2600 feet, it is to be concrete 18 feet wide, and the same width to the corporate limits of Erlanger, and through Erlanger the concrete is to extend from gutter to gutter. The Federal Government pays 50 per cent of the cost of the construction of this road and the citizens of Erlanger and Florence pay 45 per cent of the construction of the road through these towns, the remaining 5 per cent to be paid by the State of Kentucky. Boone and Kenton pay 45 per cent of the cost of construction, through these counties, the Federal and State Government paying the balance of the cost of construction. When completed this will make a stretch of concrete from the southern limits of Erlanger to Covington, a distance of 19 miles. This will be a very expensive piece of road for the towns of Erlanger and Florence but those towns can not keep in repair that part of the road within their limits on account of the heavy truck and automobile travel. Roads constructed of concrete with good foundations, are the only class of roads that will stand the present day travel. This is the most expensive construction but the cheapest in the end. Bids for the work will be received at Frankfort on a date to be fixed.

Federal Aid for State Schools.

Kentucky is to receive federal aid in the construction of certain branches of the educational system of the state.

The Federal Board of Vocational Education at Washington has decided to certify the amount of $70,769.31 to the secretary of the treasury for use in Kentucky. This amount will be divided: $35,146.98 for agricultural training; $13,133.40 for trade industry, home economics and $22,489.93 for teachers' training.

The government has set aside a monster fund for vocational education, and each state will receive aid according to population. Persons interested in vocational education are interested in the announcement from Washington that government funds will be sold at auction to educational institutions providing they are sold to students at cost.

Mrs. Elizabeth Utz died of pneumonia at her home in Erlanger last Monday night. She is a sister of Mrs. R. H. Uts of near Burlington, and of Johnson Rogers, of Wallace neighborhood. Her first husband was the late Noah Uts, and her second husband being the late R. E. Uts, both of whom have been dead many years.

GRANT, - KY.

INVASION OF HOLLAND.

Washington, January 25.—Unless Great Britain actually invades Holland and takes the army Kaiser by force, William, of Hohenzollern will never be brought to trial, is the opinion of officials and diplomats here.

These officials discount the report that the former Kaiser will be tried in his absence for the reason he has already been tried and found guilty by all the allied nations. It is regarded here as conclusive that Holland has so rebuffed the allied nations that the Kaiser has already been tried and found guilty by all the allied nations. It is regarded here as conclusive that Holland has so rebuffed the allied nations that the Kaiser has already been tried and found guilty by all the allied nations.

In addition, it was pointed out here, today, the allies, even before the dispatch of the note demanding the former Kaiser, knew that Holland in all its history had never surrendered a political prisoner. Therefore, the diplomatic opinion here is that Lord George simply pressed for the surrender of the former monarch to square him self with the British electorate and with the treaty which he himself had framed.

He now will be in a position to say that he tried by every available method to bring about the surrender of the one-time German monarch, and that Holland has practically declared that the only way to get him out is for Germany to make the request.

ATTENTION!

To All Veterans of the World War Soldiers, Sailors and Marines:

The American Legion is about to make its first effort to induce all the men and women who served in the late war to acquaint themselves with the principles, purposes and accomplishments of this organization.

We want them in, and an opportunity is also to be given the mothers, sisters, daughters and wives of veterans to associate themselves and form an Auxiliary to this Post of the American Legion.

The Membership Drive starts February 1st and ends February 22nd. The regular meeting of Boone Post will be held in Burlington, Tuesday, Feb. 2nd, at 7:30 p. m., and each member is urged to be present and to bring an applicant. Each member will be given on his membership card, on this occasion, and plans generally will be discussed. Remember the "chow" Committee will serve lunch after the meeting.

Earl Smith was out on the war path last Friday morning notwithstanding it was very dangerous. He was being followed by a pack of wild dogs and he armed himself with a never failing shot gun and came to town in search of some of the militia. He carried but failed to locate any of them.

Hebron Amusement Co. will give another good show next Saturday night. It is evident that the company has struck a regular cord in its community and already its success is assured. Good order and first-class shows are assured the patrons, and all the people in the northern part of the county are pulling for the success of the Amusement Company.

MRS. J. A. ROGERS, 6101 Brookville, Mo.

Webster county tobacco growers met and adopted resolutions not to sell their crops over loose leaf floors. It is estimated that two million pounds will be effected. Growers then say buyers have offered from 20 to 25 cents a pound for crops. Although no action has been taken in that county to pool the crop it is believed pooling papers will be circulated this spring which will tie up this year's crop. Henderson and Union county growers have taken no action toward holding crops from the market. High prices prevented similar action there. Barn buyers have purchased many crops in the Sebree, Dixon and Slaughter sections.

Don't grow old tobacco this year Mr. Farmer because it is high. Grow more potatoes, as they are high and will be for many years yet. They are the easiest crop grown on the farm.

For a farmer who is engaged raising fine stock or poultry with which he desires supplying his county people, there is no better way of letting them know the fact than by running an advertisement in the county paper, as Hubert Ryle & Son have decided to do. About every person in the county who takes pride in fine hogs will know in a few weeks just where they can secure a pure bred Hampshire hog, male or female, information that will be no wise be to Mr. Ryle's disadvantage.

Circuit Clerk Maurer carries life insurance but he could not see his way clear to take his chances to make the policy collectible by trying to come from his suburban home to his office last Friday.

The local fur dealer, Herbert Kirkpatrick, has handled a large amount of high priced furs this winter, and many of the trappers in this county made a nice little sum with their traps. A large number of persons engage in trapping every winter and in a few years every farm will be a private reservation for some trapper if the owner does not engage in the sport and pastime himself.

The sale of E. K. Stephens, of Bullittville neighborhood, advertised for last Friday, tomorrow, on account of the bad weather because of the snow it would have been dangerous for a person to have tried to reach Mr. Stephens' residence last Friday.

RABBIT HASIL.

Mrs. Sallie Stephens, 67, widow of the late Richard Stephens, died at her home in Rabbit Hash Friday morning, of pneumonia. She was a daughter of the late Marion and Elizabeth Hawkins Stephens and a member of a pioneer family of this county and was a most estimable lady. She is survived by two sons, John Q. and Hugh Stephens, one daughter, Mrs. Frank Scott, one sister, 8 brothers and numerous other relatives and a host of friends. She was a member of East Bend Methodist church and of the Pythian Sisters Lodge at Rabbit Hash. Funeral services were held at the residence Monday morning, Rev. Mr. Hart, of Rising Sun M. E. church officiating. She was buried beside her husband in the old Stephens cemetery near Gunpowder.

HUME.

Henry Binder, who has been ill, is getting better.
Miss Kate Baker is visiting relatives in Louisville.
Mrs. G. W. Baker, who has tonsillitis, is some better.
Miss Rose Krause was a guest at John Binder's last Sunday.

VERONA.

Robert Orr, Jr., has measles. Ray Stewart is recovering from mumps.

Prospects for a wheat crop are not very flattering.
Those who have ice houses to fill find they have a good supply.

O. K. Powers' little boy, Rickman, who has diphtheria, is reported improving.

As usual there will be considerable moving in this neighborhood the first of March.

A. C. Roberts was transacting business in Walton last Monday and attending the loose leaf tobacco market.

Farmers generally are not very well pleased with the present prices of tobacco, which will have an effect on the planting of another crop.

We are experiencing the most disagreeable spell of weather of the winter. A thick coat of ice covers the ground and trees are breaking down with their load of ice.

BEAVER LICK.

Mr. Howe Henry, of Beaver, has mumps.
Mrs. Jane Hance Sleet has resigned as teacher in the Beaver school.

This is the worst alect we have had in many years in this neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Oseman spent last Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Cleek.

POULTRY FACTS

MORE AND BETTER CHICKENS
Owner of Common Mongrel Flock Will Soon Apologize for Its Existence—Keep Pure-Breds.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It will not be long before the owner of a common mongrel flock will apologize for its existence. This is the opinion of the poultry-extension worker of the United States department of agriculture who is a leader in the campaign for more and better poultry on farms in south and southwestern Arkansas. In many parts of Arkansas the importance of better poultry and more efficient management is being recognized by progressive business men, commercial organizations, bankers and others and they are active in their moral and financial support in co-operating with the government and state extension forces in their efforts to convince the farmer that standard-bred poultry property managed is a paying industry, and that the old barnyard mongrel hen must get out of the way for standard-bred, uniform flocks.

The county agent of Drew county has placed 50 pens of one male and four females each of pure-bred Barred Plymouth Rock and Rhode Island Reds on 50 farms, in charge of a boy and girl poultry-club member. The Monticello Chamber of Commerce and the banks of Monticello have advanced the money to purchase these pure-bred fowls and have assisted in their distribution. In addition to the 50 pens of chickens, over 100 sets of pure-bred hatching eggs have been secured for the club boys and girls. The farm and home demonstration agents of Ashley, Union and Desha counties are busy with poultry-club work on farms and in the organization of poultry clubs. In each of these counties an effort is being made to double last year's poultry-club enrollment.

On March 12 the Southwestern Arkansas poultry association was organized at Magnolia with 15 charter members. It is reported that practically every business man in the town will become a member and lend his influence and support for more and better poultry. Plans have been made to hold the state poultry show at Magnolia November 25 to 27, where the finest aristocrats of the barnyard will be on display competing for the coveted American Poultry association gold medal offered to only one association in each state.

KEEPING POULTRY IN TOWNS

Especially in Suburbs of Large Cities Families Should Keep Small Flocks of Hens.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When conditions render it feasible small flocks of poultry should be kept in villages, towns and cities, especially in the suburbs of large cities. The need for this extension of poultry raising is particularly great where consumption exceeds production, as in the northeastern states. Through utilization of table waste, scraps and other refuse as poultry feed much wholesome food in the form of eggs and poultry for home use may be produced at relatively low cost.

STRONG BIRDS FOR BREEDING

Comb, Face and Wattles Should Be Bright Red—Eyes Bright and Prominent.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Powls for breeding purposes should be strong, healthy, vigorous birds. The comb, face and wattles should be of a bright red color, eyes bright and fairly prominent, head comparatively broad and short and not long or cross-shaped, legs well apart and straight, plumage clean and smooth.

CHURCHES TO SPEND MILLION DOLLARS IN AN ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN.

An Associated Press Dispatch from Atlantic City the past week stated that The Interchurch World Movement had decided upon a newspaper advertising campaign in connection with its program of evangelizing the world. It was stated that leaders of the movement had given their approval to this plan, which will start with the church press about February 1, and include practically every medium of publicity, including the rural newspapers of the country in an effort to bring the world evangelization plan directly to all the people.

The decision followed a three-day conference at Atlantic City, in which Dr. R. H. Crossfield, president of Transylvania College at Lexington, represented the institution. One of the aims of the Interchurch World Movement is to avoid duplication of work among the churches in the raising of the amount needed for the evangelization work of the Christian denominations.

TOBACCO MARKET.

Covington, Jan. 24.—Total sales $7,810 pounds, average, $20.43. Prices ranged from $90 down as low as $5 per 100.

Carrollton, Jan. 23.—124,190 lbs. sold, average $33.43.

Falmouth, Jan. 23.—57,810 pounds sold, average of $39.01.

There is a decided slump in the price of tobacco and especially on the lowest grades, which are selling one hundred per cent lower than last year. The crop in Pennsylvania this year is the worst in the history of the country, and the prices are very disappointing to the growers, as every thing they are buying is climbing higher every day. To sell their product low and pay high prices for what they buy is very discouraging to say the least. We expect the market to grow stronger, but this is not much consolation for the farmers who are selling now. The tobacco market is the most treacherous of all, and it is impossible to tell from day to day what it is going to be.—(Galmouth Outlook.)

Monument to Delinquents of Fort

Georgetown.—A monument to McClelland and his men, who, in 1776, defended McClelland's Fort which was situated at the head of the Big Spring in Georgetown, will be erected shortly by the Big Spring chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. At the dedication on Monday the 26th day of February, the monument will be dedicated by Major Samuel Wilson of Lexington, who is writing a history of the fort. Major Wilson has been successful in finding the names of thirty men who were in the fort and is trying to get in touch with all descendants of these men in order to learn more of their history.

WALTON.

Forest Brown of Grant, attend ed the tobacco sales here last week having some on the market from his farm.

Joseph Rich, aged 89 years, died at his home near Piner, Jan. 20th. Mrs. Carl Neumeister of near this place in his daughter.

Robert L. Hayes who has been employed by Brittenhelm Bros, the past year left last week for Los Angeles, Cal., to make his home.

Edward E. Fry, of the firm of Franks & Fry, spent part of last week in Louisville attending the annual meeting of the State Hardware Association.

Miss Anna Hudson has accepted a position with the clerical force of the Walton Bank and Trust Company, and will make a valuable addition to that institution.

H. H. Huston of Anchorage, spent Sunday here with his many friends. He is still traveling for the L. and N. Railroad in the capacity of auditor and is giving the best of satisfaction.

The announcement of the K. of P. expecting to hold a district meeting at Walton, on Thursday, Feb. 5th, has been withdrawn as the lodge here felt that it could not properly the meeting at this time.

Kirby West who has been located at Constantinople, Turkey, with the American Expeditionary force in the capacity of civil engineer, spent part of last week here visiting his mother Mrs. Julia West. He is married and his wife resides in New Jersey.

Wilford M. Rice who has been employed in the clerical force of the Fifth-Third National Bank, in Cincinnati, will open the bank at Hebron, Boone county, about the first of March, and is now learning the ropes of how to handle the business at the Equitable Bank and Trust Co.

Miss Melva White has demonstrated that good lemons can be raised in this climate tho' perhaps not on such an extensive scale as in Florida. Last week she took one from a lemon tree that she was growing at her residence that weighed 1 1/2 ounces, and is a fine specimen of that fruit.

Boone Fennell, a life long resident of Walton, was stricken with paralysis last Saturday morning near the L. and N. Railroad depot where he was going to get some freight for H. K. Watson. He fell to the ground but was soon carried into the depot afterwards taken to the residence of his sister Mrs. A. R. Hance where he died a short time afterwards. Dr. G. C. Rankins was called but could do nothing for him as he was past human aid. Mr. Fennell was 61 years old and was born and reared here. The funeral took place Sunday afternoon the remains being interred at Old Salem cemetery near Walton.

The tobacco market the past week has been dull and in price all over the State and at Walton the average in price went away down in comparison to what has been paid the earlier part of the season. This was largely due to the very inferior quality of tobacco being offered, as most of the good quality has been marketed and the superior grades are what made the high averages. Each of the Walton warehouses had about 100,000 pounds on sale at each sale the past week. On Wednesday the Walton warehouse sold nearly 100,000 pounds at an average of nearly 25 cents, and the Farmers had about the same kind of a sale on Thursday. The rejections have been very heavy on account of the low prices and some have decided to hold their crops for a while as the market has been overcrowded and there is about 400,000 pounds at the Walton warehouses awaiting a sale. About two million pounds of tobacco have been sold at Walton by the two warehouses this season since the opening of the market in December. The prospect for an increase in price for the common grades and especially the short tobacco is not very promising.

M. L. Kelley, the proprietor of the Walton Electric Plant, has been offered a fine position in an electrical concern at Vincennes, Indiana, and contemplating closing out his plant at Walton and accepting the position at Vincennes.

as he says he is hardly making a living here. He is a very valuable man in a community and gives the public fine service with his electric plant, but the trouble is he does not charge enough for his service. The town of Walton gives him only $80.00 a month for the street lighting and it is worth double that, and his charge of 15 cents per kilowatt for house lighting is not enough considering the way everything has advanced covering fuel and gasoline. He has a good patronage but he complains that there are a great many who can afford electric lighting but have not put it in their residences and the patronage should be given the plant. If the electric plant was discontinued at Walton the property values would depreciate at least 25 per cent. inside of three months. Every effort should be made to retain Mr. Kelley and the electric light plant, and it is up to the people to do it.

DIRECT DEALING PAYS BEST.

When cream is ready to sell, the hard work has been done and you should not permit any outsider to make an extra profit off your efforts.

You can ship your cream DIRECT to the Tri-State and save from 3 to 5 cts. per lb. of butter-fat. It is just as easy to deliver the cream to a railroad station as to a buying station. The Tri-State pays the freight and guarantees your cream against loss in transit.

Mrs. Thos. Daulton, Pesbles, O., writes on Nov. 25, 1919—"I have shipped cream to the Tri-State Butter Co. for three years and have been satisfied.
I have sold cream to cream stations in order to return the empty can with me, as I live 9 miles from the railroad and always lost from $1.50 to $2.00 on every can of cream sold to agents."

BIRTH RATE SLUMP.

Decrease is Attributed To the High Cost of Living.

Philadelphia Press.

The very poor, and the very rich, about it is customary to lecture the wealthier classes as slackers, have children. The poor have the larger families, often, but the deliberately childless are oftener of what was until recently the financial middle class than of the other classes mentioned. It may be that the reported decrease of the birth rate in the state of New York, attributed to the high cost of living, is reflective of increased unwillingness of that class to assume new burdens in a period of difficulty and uncertainty. Inasmuch as merchants assert that the most liberal buyers nowadays are the wage-earners it is improbable that the thrift of a class charged with unthrifty devotes itself to limitations of offspring. Yet the improbable is not the impossible. The rich, of course, are not striking babies from the list of luxuries.

Complaints have been made by advocates of what its advocates terms voluntary motherhood that the class most able to bring up children is that which practices limitation of births, and that the humbler classes should be instructed in voluntary motherhood. The complaint was lodged when circumstances and conditions were not as they now are. Unless it is assumed that the suddenly rich wage earner has become devoted to show going, motorizing, golfing and other pastimes and sees children in a new light, as obstacles to the care-free, going as you please and go when you please life, it must be assumed that what was the financial middle class is, even more than in antebellum days, thinking twice before increasing domestic burdens, and thinking twice alike should it be discovered that the slump is due to new attitude upon the part of classes newly accustomed to the roving, pleasure seeking life, the Sangerites might be delighted with the spread of the knowledge, and the disposition they have regarding as necessary to race betterment. Others might repeat the appeal of Clemenceau to masses made frivolous, and selfish, by sudden acquisition of comparative wealth.

Is the wage-earner's wife who wears furs and dines out less inclined toward multiple motherhood than was the wage-earner's wife who wore gingham and devoted herself to an exacting domestic routine?

Defense By Enlistment.

The National House has passed a bill increasing by one third the minimum pay of enlisted men in the navy and coast guards in order to retain their services which are valuable for the training these men have had, and for the additional, even weightier, reason that the ships of our navy, from the lack of man power, are like "painted ships upon a painted ocean."

It is to be hoped that the bill will bring the necessary relief, but it is not assured. High wages exercise their seductive powers on all public employments, and it has been a hard task to obtain full complements even under normal conditions. The patriotism of youth is not at fault, but he does not understand the requirements of military preparation in times of peace. His idea is that it is time enough to rush to the guns when the enemy is in sight, and that coincides with another view—that to maintain armies and navies when the horizon is clear of war-clouds, savors of militarism. It is the military philosophy of a peaceful nation that is not eager for war, but does not fear it.

While such sentiments may be readily appreciated, they do not meet the requirements of national safety. Our navy is our first second and third line of defense. When we have overcome the enemy at sea, he cannot land on our soil. When we have blown him out of the water we have blown him out of existence, and that we may be sure of such a result, we must be sure of men adequately trained to give battle under modern conditions. With raw recruits it would be madness to expect victory.

Such a state of affairs invites serious reflection. The country must be protected, and if this protection cannot be obtained by enlistment, other methods and measures must be resorted to.—Enquirer.

Health Fund for Scott County.

Ten thousand dollars is now available in Scott county as a Health Fund. The Fiscal Court Saturday voted to appropriate $5,000 to supplement a similar amount donated by the Rockefeller Foundation for the furtherance of sanitation and the prevention of disease in the county. The appropriation was passed following an address by Dr. Covington of the Rockefeller Foundation and the reading of petitions by the Scott Medical Association and various civic organizations.

A County Health Bureau will be established under the joint supervision of the Rockefeller Foundation and the State Board of Health. Dr. Covington of the Rockefeller Foundation, assisted by a corps of nurses and sanitary engineers and inspectors will be in charge of the work.

Following the announcement of the unanimous decision of the Commissioners, addresses were made by Doctors F. W. Eberhard, H. H. Townsend, R. Leigh, M. R. W. H. Coffman, Mrs. Edna Baldwin, and Prof. L. J. Wesley. All the speakers commended the action of the court and predicted a new health era for Scott county.—Times.

The people of Petersburg and vicinity celebrated last week when the Petersburg Coal Co. landed a large cargo of coal.

"WE TOLD YOU SO."

If the Democrats of the Kentucky Senate had accepted the advice of this great family and political journal they would be in a more comfortable position than they are at present, their temper would be sweeter and they could proudly point to a record of abnegation and patriotism that is well to be able to point to whether deserved or not. It will be remembered this great journal advised them on the eve of the organization of the General Assembly to play fair with the Republicans by allowing the Lieutenant Governor to name the committee (his undoubted right), and by not insisting on confirming the recess appointments of Governor Stanley and Gov. Black. It was pointed out that the people had by a overwhelming majority recorded their desire that the State government be turned over to the Republicans, and this could not be done unless Gov. Morrow was given the appointment of members of the various boards having in charge the execution of his plans and platform pledges. It would be political blunder to attempt to thwart him.

The Democrats of the Senate did not see it in that light. Under the leadership of Stanley appointed and favored, they determined to proceed in the old Stanley political way, which, by the by, is not the most approved in higher political circles of the present day. Accordingly, they stripped the Lieut. Governor of the power to name the committees and proceeded to name them themselves—that is, a committee of the old regime Democrats was appointed to name them. They did show some flicker of political intelligence by giving the Republicans the majority of chairmanships, important ones among the number, then reserved a majority of memberships of each committee for themselves. They also appointed a committee on rules, made up entirely of Democrats, which was manifestly unfair in the light of the fact that the Democrats had a majority of only two in the Senate. In justification of this they cited the fact that the United States Senate, where the Republicans have a majority of only one, had set the example by reserving all the chairmanships for themselves. That was an example all right, but it was a poor one, and in no sense a justification for like action on the part of the Kentucky Senate. Now as always, "two wrongs do not make a right."

So things were in this shape when the Senate convened Monday of last week and Senator Burton, a Democratic hold-over from the Grant-Pendleton-Bracken district "flew the coop." He voted with the Republicans against the Democratic rules, voted with the Republicans for the confirmation of Gov. Morrow's appointees, and kept on voting with the Republicans until he went home Thursday night. The Democrats had made it hot for him, likening him to Judas Iscariot, Benedict Arnold and a few other choice spirits, none of whom, however, seemed to make a dent in the Senators' cranial globe.

There is no sympathy for the recalcitrant Senator's action. No Democrat can condone the repudiation of his pledge in the party caucus. He should have made his fight there if dissatisfied; once accepting the dictum of the caucus he should have been man enough to stand by it. But he didn't stand by it. His reasons are trivial. His explanation is ludicrous. Sifted to the bottom, the real reason he deserted his political associates seems founded on the defeat of a nephew who was a candidate for page. Of such stuff are statesmen made!

But that is neither here nor there. What we started out to show was that the Democrats erred in not accepting the advice of this great newspaper. If they had done what it advised them to do, they would have just as much power in the Senate as they have now, or more; they would be enjoying the reputation of being patriots; rather than politicians; they could go before the people with a just plea that they put no obstacle in the way of the Republicans; they could with better grace hold the Republican responsible for the conduct of affairs; and they would have saved their honor and been a whole lot happier than they can be during the remainder of this session.

"We told you so" is a poor plea. But didn't we,—Cynthiana Democrat.

GENERAL STARTLES 'EM.

Sir David Watson Admits His Knees Shook At Ypres.

It is well known that major generals, relating their battle adventures, almost never recall their teeth ever chattered and their knees never gave out, but there was a division commander who admitted to the Canadian Society at the Biltmore last night that he could make neither his teeth nor his knees believe when the Germans launched the second battle at Ypres. He is Major Gen. Sir David Watson, who went over with the first Canadian contingent, who was wounded and gassed, who organized the forward movement that stopped the broken line and channel, who was knighted for it and who wears, or could wear, more orders and decorations than most generals ever heard of. These facts gave extra piquancy to his confession.—From the New York Sun.

L. R. McNeely is now an ex-rail and carrier, having given up his $1,400 a year job as carrier on the Burlington R. D. to engage in farming on the Cooper farm in Waterloo neighborhood, the farm having been purchased recently by his father, John D. McNeely.

Europe Welcomes The Chandler Six

NOW and then you read something about "French style and line" in automobiles, or perhaps it's "the newest English idea." And some folks have gone across to get the newest suggestions.

Europe hasn't built automobiles for five years and Europe is crying for new cars and good cars.

America's style is Europe's style now.

The Chandler Six, popular in many other countries for years but kept out of Europe the past three years because of war-time prohibition of shipments, is welcomed everywhere in Europe now—welcomed for the excellence of its performance, and quite as much for the beauty of its styles of body.

The Chandler, represented in the British Isles by Messrs. H. G. Burford & Company, Ltd., of London, was exhibited by that old established English automotive house, at the great Olympia Motor Show.

and was "quite the sensation of the show," says a London cable.

"Three hundred and seventy Chandlers were sold in two days."

Apparently England is greatly pleased with America's best style in motor cars.

FUTURE OF AVIATION.

Need of Developing America's Air Forces is Pointed Out.

Washington Post.

Those deluded persons who imagine that the League of Nations will be endowed with some magic art to make all wars cease will receive an unpleasant jolt if they peruse the article entitled "Our Future in the Air," contributed to a London newspaper by Gen. Seely, who was until recently Undersecretary for Air in the British government. His opinion is that the League will not be able to prevent a Power from involving the world in well-nigh universal destruction, but that it will tend to make the attempt less probable. His theory is that air development will alter completely all our conceptions of strategy and international relationships, and he points out that France and Germany, realizing this important fact, are retaining the designing staffs of the great aviation companies and are spending millions of money in producing newer and better types of air machines.

This information is supplemented by the report sent out to the air service by the U. S. army by Colonel William C. Hensley, who is at present in Germany studying dirigibles. Commenting on the Bodensee, the commercial air liner built since the armistice, which, regardless of weather conditions, makes a regular daily flight of 300 miles, Colonel Hensley says that her design is so far advanced that her design is so far advanced that he is led to express the opinion that in "airship" construction all other countries are mere "babes in the wood" compared to the Germans.

General Seely stresses what he calls the "uncomfortable fact" that the conversion of peace machines into war machines in the air is an affair of a few hours, or even even of a few minutes, affording a complete contrast in this respect with ships on the sea. His whole argument is conditioned by a great coming war, which he clearly envisages, and in which victory must, in his judgment, inevitably lie with the Power which gains initial command of the air. The picture he draws of the possibility of the destruction within a few weeks of the enemy's merchant ships, of his armed fleet, of his railroad stations, of his large cities and of his seat of government by a modern air fleet is gloomy and depressing in the extreme.

The moral, of course, is that land must at all costs develop aviation, that moral, has, however, a wider application. The report of the Colonel and the article of the General bring home a great truth to the people of the U. S. In fact, they touch us on the raw. Let us hug no delusions, but let us be prepared for every eventuality. All along the line, but especially in the field of aviation, the watchword should be, Wake up, America!

W. A. Gaines, who has been visiting his son, Lieutenant R. W. Gaines, Paris Island, S. C., has moved on to Florida. He says Lieutenant Gaines and wife are very comfortably located but are awfully tired of army duties and army life. He says the weather has been good there but not so good as in Florida. He wants the Recorder to visit him at St. Petersburg, Florida, to which city he expected to start January 19th.

A W. C. C. has bought residence property in Erlanger.

BOONE CO. RECORDER

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY
W. L. KIDDELL, Publisher.Printed at the Postoffice in Burlington, Ky., as Second-class MailSOLD $10,000 WORTH
OF CREAM TO THE
TRI-STATE BUTTER COHarrison, Ohio, Man Says He Never Received a Cream Check But That
He Felt He Had Been Given Right
Weight and Test.

"After 7 years' dealings we feel it your due to have a word of appreciation for your square dealings in that the Tri-State Butter Co. has bought a well known and respected farmer of Harrison, Ohio."

Mr. Bonham is well known in his community and takes an active part in all activities for the betterment of the agricultural interests. He has a herd of 21 Jerseys and he considers them best for cream production.

"We sold a few cans of cream to the local stations to try them out," continued Mr. Bonham, "but always went back to the Tri-State." Mr. Bonham received over $10,000.00 in Tri-State checks during the past 7 years and butterfat was considerable cheaper 7 years ago than it is today. Every new cream buyer that opened up shop, tried to buy Bonham's cream—he was coaxed to give them each a trial, but when the station buyers did their best, it was useless for Mr. Bonham to sell his cream to a commission buyer, for when one handles a herd of 21 cows, the hard work is done before the cream is brought to town and when the cream is in town, Mr. Bonham couldn't see any use in taking from 3 cents to 5 cents per pound less for his cream in order to favor a cream buyer, especially when he knew his check would come along from the Tri State, in a few days after shipping, bringing the FULL price for the cream.

The Tri State Butter Company only buys from the producer and every shipment is received in the patron's own can and over 35,000 of the largest cream producers find it a big advantage to ship DIRECT, as it gives the creamery so much better quality of cream and consequently a better price to the producer compared to the mixing of all kinds together.

We will gladly send Free Trial Cans for 30 days to anyone needing cans to give us a trial. If you have cans, write for shipping tags. The Tri State Butter Company, Cash Capital, $250,000.00; 950 Kenyon Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio—Adv.

COUNTY COURT DOINGS.

Master Commissioner Maurer sold real estate as follows last Monday:

In the case of W. E. Walton, &c., against Eleanor Walton, 32½ acres on road between Limaburg and Constance to N. G. Harrison for $3,000.

In the case of T. W. Cook, Executor, of Ben Cook against Leta Cook, &c., 29.97 acres near Waterloo to John Portwood for $1,400. The widow, Leta Cook, bought the dower right for $100.

In the case of Margaret Eshman on petition 16½ acres of the old R. H. Botts farm in Bellevue bottoms, sold to John Rogers, for $1,500.

In the case of Eliza Close against Agnes Spacy, 15 acres Middle Creek bottom in neighborhood of Bellevue sold for $3,275 to Wm. Rogers and 9.94 acres adjoining the town of Bellevue was sold to Isaac Plick for $2,650.

In the case of Hattie Tilly Burns against Susan Tilly the heirs of E. C. Riley for $215.

FISCAL COURT.

The Fiscal Court was in session Tuesday and disposed of considerable business, the following being about all of general importance:

Ernest M. Arnold was appointed county road engineer until the first of next January at a salary of $1,800 and expenses not to exceed $50 a month.

County road bonds were sold as follows:

Each bond was for $500 and W. A. Price got 6; R. O. Ryle, 1; E. H. Blankenbaker, 2; J. L. Stephens, 4; Wm. S. Stephens, 2; R. H. Tanner, 1; Boone Co. Deposit Bank, 7; Peoples Deposit Bank 7.

John Sidney Gaines Dead.

John Sidney Gaines, 67, died at his home in Denver, Colo., Jan. 27, after an illness of three days of jaundice followed by dropsy. He is survived by his wife, one son, one daughter and one brother, James T. Gaines, of the Idlewild neighborhood. His wife was Miss Fannie Stephens, daughter of the late John Stephens, of Bullittsville neighborhood. The remains were buried at Denver.

Offered a Good Profit.

The last report is Jas. D. Acra has been offered nine thousand dollars for the property he purchased a few weeks ago of C. C. Roberts for $6,500. There is no question about the Burlington property being in demand but no one has anticipated fabulous prices being offered or paid for it.

Sheriff Conner did not have to make a sale last Monday on account of delinquent taxes every lot he advertised having been sold. His action "delinquent" tax payers is causing them to make up and take out licenses.

HEBRON.

J. S. Lodge continues about the same.

Herbert Conner has been sick for several days.

Lester Aylor and wife entertained relatives Sunday.

Large crowds have been attending the Hebron Theatre.

A. D. Hunter, who recently sold his farm to Mr. Hollis moved to the Davis farm last week.

Walter Hater is teaching in the Intermediate room while Miss Maud Tanner is sick.

Elmer Goodridge and family and Luther Rowan and family spent Sunday at Henry Cerkers.

Mrs. Chester Utz was called to the bedside of her husband in Cincinnati, one night last week.

Mrs. Laura Conner has returned after a three week's visit with her daughter in Francesville neighborhood.

Robt. McGlas-on and wife, O. C. Hater, Benj. Padback and Herbert Conner were at Lexington several days last week.

The funeral service of Mike Stahl, of Francesville neighborhood, were held here Saturday afternoon at 1:30, Rev. Royer, of Florence, conducting the services.

John Dye and wife had as guests last Sunday, Listen Hoppling and family, of near Taylorport, Harbort, and family, Jack Chase and wife and Frank Boasman, Jr., and wife.

The usually small crowd attended about last Monday but everybody seemed to have business of one kind or other to look after.

THE EARLY ROAD.

Up and out early; an hour's exercise in the home garden, or a brisk walk before a moderately light breakfast, and then—if business isn't too far removed from home—walk to it. That's a spring and summer prescription which will go far toward keeping the doctor at a distance. "Catch the sun in bed" is time for the revivification of the birds, summoning him to rise and "make up" the morning. How many city people see the sun rise? Yet they could easily be on hand to hail its earliest light where the view is not obstructed by skyscrapers. On hand to drink in the freshness of the awakened day. You don't need any other stimulant for the day's work; it's the best in the world! It stays with us, giving heart and hope for the tasks before us; tasks that lead to home and happiness, under the twilight stars. Make the early start, and take the road with Morning! It's the time of year when birds and flowers will give greeting on the way.

The worst menace of this country at present is, in our judgment, the unbalanced "parlor bolshevik," whose delight in preaching class hatred is comparable with the delight of children playing with matches. With what probably seem to the cult the most laudable intentions in the world, there is danger that a fire be started which cannot be controlled. The inequalities of social strata are admitted, of course, for any fool can see that they are there, says Lowell Courier-Citizen. The thing needed is sanity in dealing with them—and sanity is about the last characteristic that can be predicted to the average "parlor bolshevik." If only a few of our male and female agitators could be isolated in psychopathic wards, where they clearly belong, the world would be infinitely better off.

There is hope dawning in Russia that in Admiral Kolchak the hour has come the man. The rescue of that unhappy nation from tyranny, anarchy, the riot of bloodshed and starvation is a matter in which the whole civilized world is deeply concerned, and if a strong man has arisen who can bring out of chaos some stabilized government, that world will stand back of him and help the people to such national freedom and prosperity as under their archaic government they have never known.

A New Jersey judge refused the application of an applicant for citizenship because the man had evaded military service on the ground of being an alien. Taking the stand that a man who will not fight for the country is not worth anything to it as a citizen, is one worth wide imitation. The alien who sees nothing in American citizenship but its business advantages to himself ought by that fact to be barred from it.

The commander of the American army in Coblenz occupies the town suite in the largest hotel of the town, an indication of the fact that in that part of the world kings are no longer trumps and that the deuce has taken the German trick.

A United States marine, twenty-two years old, holds the medal for being the best shot with a rifle. A man somewhat older, who looks down a barrel of flour and provides what is put over the kitchen range, holds the record of being the best hit.

Another investment... be necessary to throw light on a situation which finds so many people looking for employment and so many other people protesting that they cannot secure help.

Incidentally, something worth while will have been accomplished when gardening science has progressed to the point of making one dandelion grow where two grew before.

The price of alarm clocks is up. We suppose, however, there are people in the world who feel that alarm clocks are essential to happiness, and will stand the raise.

That's right. Deport the foreign-born trouble-breeders. If they want to break up governments they can return and operate on the ones they were born under.

Bolshevism begins to turn pale in the region of the gills when it becomes tangled up with about two gallons of cabbage and corned beef.

Berlin is said to be taking up the fox trot. It is several years behind, as usual, but at that the fox trot beats the goose step.

The country is said to be short 1,000,000 houses. So here is a chance for supply to shake hands with demand.

There might be something worse in government than a soviet but it has not yet been discovered.

RED CROSS GETS CALL FOR MORE NURSES

THREE calls for nurses have come to the Lake Division Department of Nursing in the past week. The opportunities offered are several—overseas, in the navy, and in the United States Public Health Service. Applications of enrolled Red Cross nurses are being received at the Department of Nursing, 22nd and Prospect ave., Cleveland, O., Plymouth Bld. Patriotic service is still open to women who are training to be nurses in schools in the country. The director of nursing at Lake Division headquarters, says: "From the moment a student enters the training school, little or no financial outlay is necessary. When she graduates the nurse enters a field where the demand has always been greater than the supply."

LAKE DIVISION FINANCIER ATTENDS GENEVA COUNCIL OF THE RED CROSS LEAGUE

APPOINTMENT of five American delegates to the first meeting of the General Council, League of the Red Cross Societies, at Geneva, was announced by the American Red Cross today. The delegates are: Willoughby G. Walling, of Chicago, vice-chairman of the Central Committee of the American Red Cross; Otis H. Cutler, of New York, former manager of the Insular and Foreign Division; Mrs. Wm. K. Draper, vice-chairman of New York County Chapter and formerly chairman of the Women's Advisory Committee; Samuel Mather, of Cleveland, former member of the Central Committee; and Elliot Wadsworth, of Boston, member of the Central Committee.

Henry F. Davison, formerly chairman of the War Council of the American Red Cross, chairman of the Board of Governors of the League of Red Cross Societies, will accompany the delegates when they sail on the Mauretania next Wednesday. Mr. Davison was named chairman of the board when the League of Red Cross Societies was formed at a meeting of delegates from America and four principal Allied nations last spring.

The meeting, which will open in Geneva March 2 and will continue one week, is expected to prove of far-reaching importance in international health promotion.

World problem concerning improvement of health and prevention of disease; means of increasing the membership, resources and effectiveness of national Red Cross Societies and methods of organizing and using these for peace-time service will be discussed.

Delegates from the following national Red Crosses, members of the League, have been invited, along with those of the United States: Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, China, Cuba, Denmark, England, France, Greece, Holland, India, Japan, Italy, New Zealand, Norway, Peru, Poland, Portugal, Roumania, Serbia, South Africa, Spain, Switzerland, Sweden, Venezuela, Uruguay and Czechoslovakia.

The creation of the League of Red Cross Societies was the direct result of the universal desire to preserve for the benefit of all mankind the spirit and effectiveness developed by the Red Cross during the World War.

RED CROSS JUNIORS WORK TO HELP OTHER CHILDREN

CHILD relief work this year is to be the activity of the American Junior Red Cross—now organized in almost 75 per cent of the schools of America. "February 22nd is the last day for enrolling Junior auxiliaries in the current school year in your county," says Mrs. Harrison W. Ewing, Lake Division Director of Junior Membership.

The year's work of the children will bring help to children suffering in this country or overseas. Friendliness between children of America and other nations is being promoted by Junior Red Cross international service for the children.

Equip Your Small Car With Goodyear Tires

If you own a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell or any other car using 30x3, 30x3 1/2, or 31x4 inch tires, you can well take advantage of the high relative value built into all Goodyear Tires.

You can well do so because you can secure in the small Goodyear Tires the results of such skill and care as have made Goodyear Tires the preferred equipment on the highest-priced automobiles of the day.

You can well do so because these small Goodyear Tires are easy to obtain, being produced at the rate of 20,000 a day, and because their first cost usually is as low or lower than that of other tires in the same types and sizes.

Go to the nearest Goodyear Service Station Dealer for these tires, and for Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes. He supplies many other local owners of small cars.

30x3 1/2 Goodyear Double-Cure $20.00
Fabric, All-Weather Tread
30x3 1/2 Goodyear Single-Cure $17.65
Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are thick, strong tubes that reinforce casings properly. Why risk a good casing with a cheap tube? Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost little more than tubes of less merit. 30x3 1/2 size in outer proof bag $3.90

WALTON.

Jas. J. Leary and J. M. Atha of Zion Station, spent Monday here with friends.

Chas. L. Griffith returned Saturday from a business trip to Cleveland, Virginia.

Little Alma Riley, daughter of the late Grover Riley, is dangerously ill at her home in Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Jno. L. Vest and son Walter spent Monday at Independence and in Cincinnati with friends.

Otis G. Bates of Elliston, was here Monday, having sold a lot of mules to E. P. Jones of Cleveland, Georgia.

Rev. Shepherd of Independence, will preach at the Walton Christian church Sunday, Feb. 15th, the church is yet without a pastor.

Mrs. E. E. Fry has been very ill with measles and was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Franks so she could be properly cared for.

Miss Lena Bolington who has been very ill with pneumonia at the home of her sister, J. H. Cunningham at Detroit, Michigan, is much improved.

Kenneth Johnson, the son of J. B. Johnson, is preparing to enter the ministry of the Baptist church and is now taking the preliminary work for the purpose.

R. L. Hayes who recently went to Los Angeles, Cal., writes that he is very pleasantly situated and has found a good position as there is plenty of work for all who desire it.

John McCoy and S. R. McCall of Dry Ridge, were here Monday on business. Mr. McCoy is now Commissioner of the Grant Circuit Court and is also the cashier of the Bank of Equity of Dry Ridge.

L. M. Gross of Elwood, Indiana, spent part of last week here the guest of his brother-in-law Geo. F. James and family. Mr. Gross formerly resided at Williamstown, and is now in charge of one of the largest banks at Elwood.

Mrs. Katie B. Rice of Georgetown, was here last week, and through Attorney John L. Vest sold her farm near town, comprising 279 acres, for $21,500, the purchasers being D. K. Johnson, Russell Ryan, J. G. Pennington and Arthur Dean, who get possession by March 1st.

T. W. Byrd of Alexandria, Campbell county, and Robert Shaw of Kenton county, were here last Friday looking up the estate of the late Dr. E. A. Cram who died at Great Falls, Montana, a short time ago. Mr. Byrd is an uncle of Dr. Cram and was the administrator of the Cram estate.

Miss Emma Snow has resumed the position of operator in the Walton exchange of the Consolidated Telephone Co., a position she filled in a very capable manner a couple of years ago. Miss Graham Roberts, one of the operators, has been quite ill the past week.

Walton Masonic Lodge had a fine meeting Friday night when the Master's degree was conferred on Wendell Rouse and L. D. James. A nice lunch was spread at the close of the work, and this followed by cigars and a jovial social hour made the evening a very pleasant one. Among the visitors were Bro. J. F. Blackstock, of Saskatchewan, Canada, and Fred Harrison of Carrollton.

Mrs. Wm. Mudman died very suddenly last Friday at her home on the farm in Kenton county from a heart disease. She had eaten her breakfast, and shortly afterwards complained of feeling badly and in a short time expired. She was a splendid woman. She leaves a husband, one son Earl Mudman, and a daughter Mrs. Carl Aige, all of whom were home at the time.

Geo. L. Smith, of Landing, spent part of last week here, and bought the residence property of Mrs. Jane Johnson on Main street for his daughter Mrs. Cynthia White, paying two thousand dollars for the property. Mrs. White and her daughters will move from the Equitable Bank building to the Johnson cottage, her daughters having resigned as operators in the telephone exchange located in the bank building.

C. C. Bedinger and wife of Richwood, who are spending the winter at Jensen, Florida, with her relatives Geo. T. Gaines and family, write that they are enjoying the sojourn in the Land of Flowers as the climate is fine for this time of year. They are on the Dixie and Indian river, and right across the river a specialty is being made of the cultivation of beans which are now being picked and shipped to New York, getting $8 per bushel. There is also a great many oranges, grape fruit, limes and guavas growing there.

J. F. Blackstock, of Saskatoon, Canada, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Vest part of last week. Mr. Blackstock is one of the foremost progressive business men of that thrifty section of Canada, and represents the interest of the late Judge J. G. Tomlin, Jno. L. Vest and D. B. Wallace in Canada, and a very warm attachment for him is held by these gentlemen because of his high class methods in business and his charming personality, as he has handled hundreds of thousands of dollars of their money in business without any cause for a single dispute or difference, and nearly all of the business has been closed up, and that with a handsome profit to all.

Sheriff L. A. Conner and son Harold, of Burlington, spent last Saturday here on business. Harold Conner is the Chairman of the Boone County and is arranging the program for the Memorial Services to be held at the Walton Baptist church Sunday, Feb. 23, at 2 o'clock when a fine program will be presented. Rev. R. L. Shirley of the Baptist church and Rev. W. H. Whittaker of the M. R. church have promised to take part. The memorials from the U. S. Government will be presented to the relatives of those who lost their lives in the service of their country during the recent war as a tribute of the appreciation of the government of the loyalty and patriotism of these soldiers.

Our community was greatly distressed by the sudden death of Wm. F. Hance who died very suddenly from heart disease at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hance, Sunday evening. The deceased was employed in the office of the Walton Advertiser and had been to the office that afternoon and had returned home and was sitting by the fire when his father heard him breathing heavily, and looking at him found him unconscious. Dr. G. C. Rankins was called but the young man was dead before he arrived. When he was a little child Dr. Bagby said he had a weak heart and it was doubtful if he would live to be a man. However he passed the examination for the U. S. Navy and was in the service during the recent war. Mr. Hance was in his 23d year, and was one of the finest young men in the town, being moral, upright, and of a most companionable nature he was loved by everybody. The funeral took place Tuesday morning and was taken to Gallatin county for interment in the Hance family cemetery.

County Clerk Rogers has issued 77 dog licenses to date. At this time last year he had issued close to 1,400. The Tax Commissioner's book does not show any such decrease in the number of dogs since 1918, consequently it is time some of the owners of dogs be getting busy and securing their licenses.

A Cincinnati party was in Burlington the first of the week and rented Library Hall in which he will start a moving picture show in a few weeks.

There has not been enough snow this winter to make a good grain, but fortunately the weather has not been very hard on it.

Three big truck loads of tobacco left Burlington Wednesday morning for the loose leaf market at Walton.

Several car loads of stone have been received from High Bridge to be used in repairs on the Lexington pike.

Sue, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Jr., has been critically ill for three or four days.

Old Sol with the assistance of the wind settles the ground very rapidly at this time of the year.

Mrs. Eliza Rouse, of Erlanger, was visiting relatives and friends in Burlington, Wednesday.

Mrs. G. L. Allford, of Bondville, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. W. L. Riddell.

James D. Acra had a good day for his sale.

Burlington is badly in need of more houses.

Local Happenings.

Another rush of public sales this week.

Burlington is surely in the mud zone.

W. R. Davrainville spent last week in Newport.

The pikes in Boone county are in a bad condition.

Howard Taylor is visiting relatives in Huntington, West Va.

Read all the sales in this issue. There are quite a number of them.

Everybody is selling out who can and those who can't want to sell.

Mentor Martin has rented Judge Gaines' residence and will move to it shortly.

Dr. E. W. Duncan is home from the hospital where he spent two or three weeks.

Is everybody going to sell out? Is the question that is being asked on all sides.

There have been three sudden deaths in Walton and vicinity in the past ten days.

Mrs. Elmer Goodridge was taken to a Cincinnati hospital one day last week for treatment.

The many friends of James E. Smith will be pleased to hear that he continues to improve.

Kentucky wheat growers are not very much encouraged by the outlook for the coming crop.

W. E. Glacken, of Richmond, dropped in to see the Recorder while in town last Saturday.

The Farmers' Bureau headquarters will be in the store building until recently occupied by M. L. Riddell.

The flu in a mild form got a late start this winter, but there has been a great deal of it over the country.

E. M. Arnold and wife were called to Falmouth last Friday on account of the serious illness of his sister.

There will be services at Florence Baptist church every Sunday night by the pastor until further notice.

Heavy trucks are said to have begun breaking through the Lexington pike in the neighborhood of Richmond.

Mr. Kerr will take charge of Eddins Bros. garage in a few weeks. He has had considerable experience along that line.

The legislature has been in session since the first of the year but has not turned the State topsy-turvy as was expected.

The local school was dismissed indefinitely Monday morning because of some of the pupils having been exposed to the flu.

At the point where Washington and Jefferson streets cross a dangerous mud hole threatens to develop. It looks like a good place to apply some town tax.

Farmers A. W. Corn, Courtney Walton and R. C. Gaines, of Erlanger, came over last Saturday and assisted in the organization of the Boone County Farmers' Bureau.

If all the buildings are built in Park edition to Burlington this year that are now being talked about that section will be quite a lively appearance the coming summer.

Half the property in Burlington has changed hands in the last two years and in several instances some of it has changed as many as three times, and the changes are going on.

Mrs. Alice Snyder returned last Friday from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Cecil Gaines, where she went to assist Mrs. Gaines while her husband fought it out with the mumps.

Judge Gaines will have a sale of some household furniture on Saturday, March 6th, in the afternoon. He desired to have his sale this month but every day was taken ahead of him.

Judge Gaines came home from Williamstown last Saturday and remained until Monday afternoon when he returned. Monday was county court day in Williamstown and it always sidetracks the circuit court.

Don't say anything about it, but the streets in Burlington are in about the worst shape they were ever known to be. The system of good sidewalks and a few good street crossings help out wonderfully though.

M. L. Riddell sold his residence property in Burlington to Stanley Eddins one day the past week for $3,000. Mr. Eddins sells frequently and buys often. Mr. Eddins is now planning to build one or two new residences this year.

If C. Norman, of Florence, was over last Friday, looking after business Mr. Norman has a sale of personal property advertised for the 26th inst., shortly after which he will move to the city where he will engage in business.

DIRECT DEALING PAYS BEST.

When cream is ready to sell, the hard work has been done and you should not permit any outsider to make an extra profit off your efforts.

You can ship your cream DIRECT to the Tri-State and save from 3 to 5 cts. per lb. of butter-fat. It is just as easy to deliver the cream to a railroad station as to a buying station. The Tri-State pays the freight and guarantees your cream against loss in transit.

Mrs. Thos. Daulton, Peebles, O., writes on Nov. 25, 1919: "I have shipped cream to the Tri-State Butter Co. for three years and have been satisfied. I have sold cream to cream stations in order to return the empty cans with me as I live 9 miles from the railroad and always lost from $1.50 to $2.00 on every can of cream sold to agents."

We Pay the Freight and 65c per pound for butter fat week Feb. 9th to Feb. 15th, inclusive.

The Tri-State Butter Co
CASH CAPITAL $250,000.00. CINCINNATI, O.

If you need cans, write for Free Trial Cans.

35,000 cream producers find it most profitable to ship direct.

BULLITTSVILLE.

Mr. W. L. Acra had a tobacco stripping one day the past week.

Henry Snyder has been visiting at Thos. Watts' for several days. Wilson and Ray Ratliff each had sales last week and expect to move soon.

Mrs. Ida Balsly spent several days with Mrs. Anna Gaines the past week.

Miss Ida Stephens of Petersburg is visiting her brother, C. E. Stephens and family.

Miss Maggie Masters and mother have been quite ill with flu for several days, but are better.

Joseph Birkle sent a very fine four weeks old calf to market one day last week which realized him $34.

Milton Souther, of the Idlewild neighborhood, has been confined to the house for a week with a severe cold.

Our mail man Mr. Elijah Stephens, has quite a time getting over his route now as the roads are getting very bad.

The weather the past week has been good, only for planning the year's crop, tending the stock and smoking meat.

Miss Alene Stephens, accompanied her aunt, Mrs. B. L. Stephens, to Delhi, for several days' visit with her uncle, Ed Stephens.

Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Stephens entertained last Wednesday Mrs. B. L. Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Cropper, Miss Ida Stephens and Mrs. C. E. Stephens.

There is a great deal of sickness especially in the North Bend bottom, where the flu is raging.

Dr. R. B. Nunnally has been on the jump for several weeks. The many friends of John Stney Gaines were deeply grieved to hear of his death. Every one who knew him loved him and his memory will be cherished in the hearts of many.

W. L. Tipton expects to have a sale of his farming implements and stock in the near future, after which he will leave for Georgetown to make his home. We all hate to see Mr. Tipton and wife leave our neighborhood.

Mrs. B. L. Stephens left Friday morning to spend several days with Ed. Stephens and family in Delhi, going by the way of Hannibal, Mo., to visit Willis Arnold and family for several weeks, then on to her home in Ashland, Kansas. Her many friends and relatives hated to see her leave, although she was with them three months.

W. L. Tipton, of Bullittsville neighborhood, came in one afternoon a few days since and left his car for advertising a big sale of personal property on the 19th inst. See the advertisement in another column. Mr. Tipton will move to Georgetown to make his future home.

NOTICE TO FARMERS—A good way to make some easy money is to come to my sale on Friday the 20th of this month, and buy some of the fine SHEEP, and some brood SOWS, and some young MULBES.

You can raise two or three litters of pigs and about two crops of lambs and wool before you have to pay for them as they are sold on 12 months time.

I have also a lot of fine hay and a lot of farming implements. Take notice to see bill.

Will Grow Finer Tobacco.

Indications are the growers in this part of the county will seek to grow a tobacco very light of color this year, it appearing that color above all other else is what governs the market. Color and not pounds brings the money, but they must bear in mind that proper handling makes the color show to the best advantage.

BALD HEADS.

They held a banquet in Connecticut, and 150 sat down to tables covered with flowers and the best things to eat. There never was a more lively company assembled. A shining prize is the index of a smiling mind. Some fool people think a bald head is a tender subject, not to be referred to, especially in the company of ladies, but that is an unmitigated falsehood, says Ohio State Journal. We know a man who cultivated a long lock of hair, which he combed over his dome to hide his baldness, and that habit he kept up for a while, and all this time he seemed to have a miserable little sorrow on his mind. But one day he whacked off that lock and appeared with burnished dome before the world. From that time he was happy. His bald head made him so. We sometimes think that men with great sheaves of hair are peculiarly miserable. But they should not despair, for some day they will be bolder and wiser than they are now.

The red carnation or the white? The white for us, with its freight of memories stealing over the winding trail of almost fifty years—rich memories of love and faith and truth and tenderness; memories that bless and strengthen, memories full of reconstruction and inspiration; memories that moisten the eyelashes as they recall a quiet spot upon the brow of a hill in the pines, and memories which are the vesture of an immortal presence that remains fresh and sweet and constant amid all the changing scenes of the onward journey, writes George M. Bentley in Houston Post. God bless the boys and girls who today rejoice in the crimson blossoms they wear—the crimson of life—and God bless the boys and girls who wear the white carnations—the white not of death but of immortality!

We are astonished to learn, when we take the pains to look the matter up, that the twenty Latin-American republics embrace a population of nearly 90,000,000 people; that these people write books and paint pictures; that they have built some of the most magnificent boulevards in some of the most beautiful and best-lighted cities in the world. We learn that the better families have been in the habit of educating their young men in the capitals of Europe, and that they are much more familiar with London, Paris and Berlin than they are with New York. Isn't it about time we turned our eyes southward?

A generation ago people were laughing heartily at Darius Green and his flying machine. Before the end of this summer somebody will jump the Atlantic ocean, Jokes, like dreams, come true. The jest of yesterday is the need of today. Even the mother-in-law, the noiseless soup spoon, the flat pen and the milk man's pump will become necessities in time.

A youthful prodigy who was graduated from Harvard at the age of fifteen is now in jail for assaulting policemen, and the country will sit up in glad thankfulness to take notice that youthful precocity is now getting what has been too long coming to it.

Intoxication in Russia will keep on fooling around until the rest of the world will find it necessary to organize a downtown party for it and its victims to keep them from starving to death.

Gradually the secrets of how the Bolshevik operated in Russia are coming out. A late dispatch says that the insane asylums were opened and the inmates liberated.

Another war secret is out; they used trees for radio towers. A present rate they will find by and by that they won't need anything at all for wireless communication.

After the Loan Shark.

The Anti-Loan Shark Bill introduced in the General Assembly by the Kentucky Conference of Social Work and known as Senate bill No. 16 and House bill No. 26, is a bill drawn up by the Russell Sage Foundation and has already passed some sixteen states, among which are Indiana, Illinois and Ohio.

The Kentucky Conference of Social Work, in sponsoring the bill and working for it, has opened offices in the Inter-Southern Bldg. in Louisville, to receive those who have become victims of the "loan sharks." At that office they may tell of their experiences and receive free of expense from the elches of these lenders.

Two million of dollars are being loaned annually in Kentucky by the Loan Sharks at a rate of from one hundred and sixty per cent a year. According to the stories told at the Conference offices a majority of the borrowers prefer to pay this extortion rather than pay the cost of a court trial.

The bill now before the Legislature protects the small money borrower. Every lender must take out a license with the Banking Commissioner of Kentucky. Every lender may charge on loans under $500 not to exceed 35 per cent a month, which is equivalent to a charge of 35 cents on $100; 88 cents on $25 and so on. To charge more than this is made a crime, punishable by fine or imprisonment.

The Division on Remedial Loans of the Kentucky Conference of Social Work, the committee directly in charge of the bill is composed of C. C. Stoll, of Louisville, who is Chairman; Robert Vaughn, also of Louisville, who is secretary; A. T. Hert, of Louisville; Dr. Frank L. McVey, of Lexington; Theodore Ahrens, of Louisville; and James G. Wheeler, of Paducah.

COUNTY COURT NEWS.

The following business has been transacted by the county court this month:

Feb. 2.—Will of W. H. Senour probated. J. M. Leasing and Dr. G. C. Rankins subscribing witnesses. G. C. Rankins named in will as executor. Executors' bond fixed at $65,000, and executor given until February 6th to execute bond.

Feb. 5.—Henrietta Stahl appointed administratrix of the estate of Mike Stahl, deceased. Administratrix executed bond and Clint Ridgell, E. J. Aylor and Chas. Scott were appointed appraisers of the estate.

G. C. Rankins named in will of W. H. Senour as executor, appeared in court and executed bond as such executor with J. D. Mayhugh and Calvert Arthur as sureties. J. C. Bedinger, B. B. Allphin and J. Scott Chambers were appointed to appraise the estate.

The time was when the girl always had her eye on the fellow who had a good driving horse, but the fellow who has an automobile holds over the fellow with a horse so far now that there is no comparison. A girl could tell her fellow by the way he drove up to the door, or by the sound of his buggy, but now she simply listens for the "honk" of his horn. There is one handicap yet running an auto, and that requires both hands, but this may be obviated later on. The tandem bicycle was not a howling success as a means of locomotion for the young people although it was touted to the skies first, and there may be brighter days yet for the old sorrel and top buggy if the girls of today are any row as anything like their mothers of yesterday.

The mob which attempted to take the negro murderer from the authorities at Lexington last Monday when several persons were killed and others wounded, had full warning as to what to expect and the soldiers who dispersed the mob did their exact duty. It is strange in what foolish undertakings people will engage under excitement, but in this case there was no excuse for any undue excitement. It was a foregone conclusion that the negro would get to the law, and the mob was only a collection of law-breakers seeking to destroy another violator of law.

Geo. Blyth has rented his store room on the corner of Washington and Jefferson streets to the Farmers Bureau which will take possession next Saturday. The Bureau is advertising for a man to take charge of its office work, a good job for the right man.

For several days Dr. Yelton has been unable to answer all his calls they came so fast. From reports there is as much or more sickness in this county as there was last winter during the epidemic of influenza.

Richard Marshall, who resided in Indiana last year has moved to the Scott place on the Burlington and Bellevue pike.

Johnnie Bark, who farmed on a T. O'Connell land last year, has moved to Lexington, Indiana, where he has a good job.

Chas. Moore of Louisville, R. D. 1, was a recent visitor to Burlington.

PT. PLEASANT

Howard Tanner is very ill of late. He is suffering from a severe cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Stearns have sold their farm to a party named Story.

Mrs. B. H. Tanner fell during the night and sprained one of her wrists quite seriously.

Mrs. Sallie Southern entertained with a turkey dinner last Sunday for her children and grandchildren.

Point Pleasant school is progressing nicely with Miss Romona Carpenter as teacher. She is boarding with Mrs. Howard Tanner.

Members of Pt. Pleasant church are pleased to hear that the Christian parsonage has been purchased and all agree in thinking that Hebron will be a desirable location for a minister.

James Tate died very suddenly at his home Jan. 31st. He was 86 years old and is survived by three grown children and a host of friends to mourn his loss. Funeral services were conducted by Bro. Runyan at Highland Chapel. Interment at Highland cemetery.

RABBIT HASH.

Mrs. Frank Hodges is very sick. Leo Stephens spent several days at Cincinnati last week.

Dr. Kenneth Ryel, of Burlington, spent Sunday in this neighborhood.

Jeff Eddins and Wallace Rice, of Burlington, were business visitors here Monday.

A farm bureau meeting was held at K. of P. Hall last Thursday afternoon. Cultivators Agt. Sutton and R. B. Huey made speeches.

Richard Marshall and wife moved through here last week from near Enterprise, Indiana, to the Scott place on the Burlington and Bellevue pike.

The sale of the household goods of the late Mrs. Sallie Stephens, Saturday, was well attended in spite of bad weather and satisfactory prices prevailed.

Charlie Craig is making alterations in the building he recently purchased. One part will be used by Fred Birkles blacksmith shop. The remainder will be used for a feed store and truck house.

QUIET AT LEXINGTON.

Lexington, Feb. 10.—Under martial law, with United States soldiers, the majority of them overseas veterans, supplying the policemen as traffic directors, Lexington today and tonight was quiet, notwithstanding the riotous condition of the city yesterday, when five men were killed when state militiamen were compelled to fire in resistance of a mob that had undertaken to free Will Lockett, a negro murderer of 11-year old Geneva Hardman, almost at the moment of the jury's determination that he should execute his crime in the electric chair in Eddyville prison.

It is and was during the day a matter of comment that the arrival of the Federal troops was most timely.

It has been determined, police say, that quantities of high explosives are in possession of persons in the vicinity of the court house, in addition to hundreds of small arms, rifles and ammunition.

The impression is general that the spirit of the mob was such at that time that it, under cover of darkness would have made another attack upon the fatigued state militiamen, Deputy Sheriffs and policemen, and, if necessary, to seize the negro, would have demolished the court house and probably have set fire to other buildings in the city.

Officers of the Covington Company of state guards, before their departure today for home by way of Frankfort, where they were praised by Gov. Edwin P. Morrow for their defense of the law, stated that the coming of Federal troops saved the situation.

Some of the truck owners who are laughing about how they tear up the pikes with their overloaded trucks will laugh out of the other side of their mouths if the legislature passes a law requiring them to pay a license of from $30 to $75 a year to operate a truck and make them responsible for the damages done to the roads of hauling heavy loads.

With the new census switching the center of population slightly farther east and a trifle farther south, the outlook is extremely bright for Covington becoming the real hub of the United States so far as population is concerned.

County Clerk W. R. Rogers and sisters, Misses Lizzie and Sallie went to Walton Tuesday to attend the funeral of their kinsman, William Hance, who died suddenly last Sunday.

Final Report.

Final report of women's work in the Baptist 75 million campaign. Quota for Women of North Kentucky Association $20,000.00

Amount pledged and reported 57,067.00

Amount credited to W. M. 80,759.05

As superintendent of Women's Work and Associational organizer during the campaign, I desire to express my appreciation of the hearty cooperation and loyal support extended by church directors, team workers and all who in any way had a part in helping to achieve the great victory. Respectfully, MRS. E. R. SAYER.

LETTER CARRIERS QUIT.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Rural mail carriers are resigning at the rate of 50 a day, W. D. Brown, representing the National Rural Mail Carriers Association, told the Senate Postal Committee today, adding that the service would face serious difficulties unless financial relief soon were accorded to the employees.

He asked for a permanent increase of approximately 60 per cent over the present base pay of $1,200 a year, with a minimum base of $1,920. The increased annual expense would be approximately $78,000,000, he said.

State News.

—Chesterfield

A REAL pal—that's Chesterfield. Look at its record. Three million smokers—less than five years on the market! Two words explain it—"They Satisfy."

Our expert buyers in the Orient select for Chesterfields only the finest grade of the four choicest varieties of Turkish tobacco. To these are added the best of mild but full-bodied Domestic leaf.

But, in the end, it's the blend that makes Chesterfield "satisfy." And the blend—our private formula—cannot be copied.

Ligarette Company, Ltd., London

A Regrettable Affair.

Tuesday's Cincinnati Enquirer carried the following editorial in regard to the mob that attempted to override law and order at Lexington last Monday. It will be endorsed by all who believe in the majesty of the law.

"It was not the spirit of Kentucky—a state of true sportsmen and chivalrous gentlemen—that moved the mob in the streets of Lexington. It was the spirit of Bolshevism, which seeks to rule by violence and in defiance of law and the mandates for its orderly execution. But it was the true spirit of Kentucky that faced the mob and in fearlessness, and with dispatch, stopped the disorderly defiance of the dignified progress of justice."

"The movement of the mob was the expression of uncontrolled passion. Horrible as was the offense against which it was a protest, that protest was lawful and warranted. The movement of justice was swift and sure. Conviction of the perpetrator of the heinous crime was secured in the shortest possible time, and his execution set for a near-by day."

"Officials had pleaded with the mob; it had been warned, and had been resisted hand-to-hand by the soldiery summoned to protect the authorities in the performance of their duties under the law. Until the first shot was fired the mob was unreasoning, offensive and defiant. It was in no sense typical of the people of Kentucky, for whom it pretended to act."

"Regrettable as it is that so many lives should have been sacrificed, and so many wounded left to suffer, the repulse of the mob was justified. The law must be enforced. The processes for the administration of justice must be respected."

"There can be no approval of the mob, no sympathy with the spirit that moved it. Its leaders should be brought to justice. They have defied and sought to frustrate."

"For the officials who stood bravely to their duty, and with patience, there must be commendation. For the soldiers who executed the orders given to them, after all persuasion had been shown to be ineffective, there is praise for the effect and way in which they stayed the wave of lawlessness. They spoke the true spirit of Kentucky."

Legion News

This space will be devoted to the interest of the American Legion and its members. It has been contributed by the editor. And the news of the Legion and its members will be published weekly. Any items from members or friends will be appreciated and should be addressed to the Publicity Committee, Burlington, Ky., to arrive not later than Saturday of each week.

On Sunday February the 22, the Legion is planning to hold Memorial services at three different churches in the county. At this time the French Government will present a "Memorial Diploma" to the next of kin of all Boone county boys who lost their lives in the Service. We consider it a privilege to have this honor conferred upon us by our Ally in the recent great war. Announcement of programs and places will be made later.

The dance postponed from January 23, on account of the heavy sleet, will be given Friday February 12th, at I. O. O. F., Hall, Florence, Ky. This will be our initial social event and depending upon the individual efforts of the members to make this a success. Friends of the members are cordially invited to attend.

The department of Kentucky is conducting a State wide membership campaign at this time. All ex-service men are urged to join now. Dues are only $2.00 per year, including American Legion Weekly. Make checks payable to the Post Finance Officer.

A self-acting sofa just large enough for two, has been invented. If properly wound up, it will begin to ring a warning bell just before ten o'clock. At one minute past ten, it splits apart, and while one-half carries the daughter upstairs, the other half kicks the young man out the door. They will come high, nevertheless several parties in this city feel that one of these will be a household necessity in the near future.

The stockholders of the Farmers Canning Co., Bellevue, will meet in Bellevue, Ky., at 2 o'clock, p. m., to arrange for the sale of the company's property. All the stockholders are requested to attend the meeting.

WILLIAM ROGERS.

James Beemon and family will move to near Morrow O., in the next few days. He has purchased a farm in that neighborhood. All wish Mr. Beemon and his family well in their new home.

It was intended to publish the bank reports this week but they had to be held up in order to handle the continued rush of public sales.

Today is the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln and is a day when the banks will be closed.

Commissioner's Sale.

Boone Circuit Court, Kentucky. Mabel B. Atwood, &c., plaintiffs, against J. D. Mayhugh, &c., defendants.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the December term 1919, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House door in the town of Burlington, Boone county, Ky., to the highest bidder at public sale, on Monday, the 1st day of March, 1920, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabouts, being County Court day, upon a credit of 6 months the following property, to-wit:

Consist of three separate tracts or parcels, situated in Boone County, Kentucky, and described as Lots Nos. 1, 2 and 3.

Lot No. 1 is described as follows: A parcel of land situated in Boone County, Kentucky in and adjoining the town of Walton, being the same on which the Walton Loose Leaf Tobacco Company house stands and bounded as follows:—On the west by the Covington and Lexington Turnpike Road; on the north by the J. D. Mayhugh Mfg. Co., on the east by the right of way of the Southern Railway Company, and on the south by the property of the Walton Loose Leaf Tobacco Company, that same lot fronts on the Covington and Lexington pike, one hundred feet, and extends in parallel lines about two hundred (200) feet to the Southern Railway, which lot was owned by the said J. D. Mayhugh Mfg. Co.

Lot No. 2 is situated in said town of Walton, Ky., and County of Boone being the same lot upon which the J. D. Mayhugh Tobacco plant now stands and said lot is bounded as follows to-wit: On the north by the lands of B. F. Bentz, on the east by the right of way of the Louisville and Nashville R. R. Company, On south by the lot of J. G. Tomlin estate and on the west by the Covington and Lexington Turnpike.

Lot No. 3 is situated in Walton Boone County, Kentucky and is bounded as follows to-wit: On the south by the Walton Loose Leaf Tobacco Company's property, on the west by the Covington and Lexington Turnpike Road; on the east by the right of way of the Southern R. R. Co. and on the North by the land of Charles Whitson and containing four acres more or less.

In making sale of Lot No. 1 I will expressly reserve the improvements on said lot and will publicly announce at the sale that said lot No. 1 will be sold free from all improvements of every kind and description and sold as unimproved real estate.

And the share going to the Imbecile Clarence Bagby is not to be paid to him but his interest shall remain a lien on said lot and shall be executed by the Guardian of said ward.

For the purchase price the purchaser, with approved security or securities, must execute bonds bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment, with a lien retained therein until all the purchase money is paid. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

CHAS. MAURER, Master Commissioner.

Big Value in Tires for Small Cars

Back of the manufacture of Goodyear Tires for small cars is the same purpose to supply high value in the product that is behind the manufacture of the Goodyear Tires that equip the most expensive automobiles built.

This purpose is expressed by the enormous resources, extraordinary skill and scrupulous care applied to the manufacture of Goodyear Tires in the largest tire factory in the world devoted solely to the 30x3, 30x3 1/2, and 31x4-inch sizes.

The effect of this endeavor is noted in the fact that last year more cars using these sizes were factory-equipped with Goodyear Tires than with any other kind.

It is also noted in the fact that, if you own a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell or other car requiring the sizes mentioned, you can secure Goodyear Tires and Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes at the nearest Goodyear Service Station.

30x 3 1/2 Goodyear Double-Cure $20.00

Fabric, All-Weather Tread

30x 3 1/2 Goodyear Single-Cure $17.65

Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are made, according to the latest and best practice, to give a longer life than any other tubes. They are made of a special rubber compound, which is more resistant to wear than tubes of less merit. 30x3 1/2 size in water—$3.90 proof bag.

First Time in 35 Years.

Washington, Feb. 14.—For the first time in 35 years, American Catholic Archbishops and Bishops are issuing a personal letter to their clergy and the laity. The message will be read in every Catholic church in the U. S. Sunday, February 23. It was prepared by Cardinal Gibbons and Cardinal O'Connell and Rector Thomas J. Shahan.

It reviews the world situation, and insists that reconstruction shall proceed on sound principles and not along the lines of expediency. It emphasizes the heed of justice and charity and their application to the practical solution of the pressing problems that confront all civilized nations. It discusses marriage and divorce, industrial relations, national conditions and international affairs. It places stress on education, as a means to reconstruction and points to Christianity as an absolute necessity for human welfare.

John M. Palmer Dead.
The body of John M. Palmer was brought from the soldiers' home near Dayton, Ohio, for burial in Greendale cemetery Friday morning. Mr. Palmer was eighty-two. He formerly was a resident of Lawrenceburg and conducted a blacksmith shop for many years. Later he conducted the Fitch House on High Street. At the time of his death he was night lieutenant at the soldiers' home.

Descendent is survived by five children, Ephriam Palmer of Norwood, Ohio; Mrs. Phil Bevis, St. Louis, Mo.; Manly Palmer, Mrs. Ed. Zitter and Miss Augusta Palmer, of Dayton, Ohio.

The above is from the Lawrenceburg Register of last week.

Mr. Palmer was well known here where he conducted a blacksmith shop and kept a boarding house many years ago.

From New Jersey.
Somerville, N. J., Feby. 13,
Editor Boone Co. Recorder,
Dear Mr. Editor—I take this plan through the medium of the Recorder to send greetings and best wishes to my many partioners and friends who are readers of the Recorder. We came to Somerville to visit our daughter Mrs. Geo. V. N. Davis. On our way we encountered the blizzard that swept the Atlantic coast. There is fine sleighing and we have been taking advantage of it. So severe was the blizzard that all freight and express out of New York was tied up, resulting in a shortage of sugar and other groceries. The pastor hopes his dear friends of Boone are well and happy and is praying that they enjoy life's richest blessings.

In the association of four years we have learned to esteem them highly and to love them as true soldiers of the Cross. With best regards to you, Mr. Editor, and to the Recorder we remain yours sincerely.

WALTON.

Wm. Francis of near Burlington, spent part of last week here with friends.

Jao. L. Vest spent part of last week at Williamstown attending to some law cases he has in Grant county.

Mrs. H. C. Diers spent the past week at Silver Grove, Campbell county, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Chas. T. Best.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Boles and family are arranging to move to Wayne, Pa., where he has purchased property and will go in business.

Ernest W. McElroy of Covington, spent part of last week here with home folks. He is still sick and has not been able to be at work for several weeks.

Chas. Griffith, who spent several weeks in Virginia, returned there last week in the interest of his oil business, expecting to be gone several weeks.

Mrs. Kate Jones of Ludlow, spent part of last week here arranging about the transfer of her house and lot to Judge C. C. Roberts recently sold him.

John R. Readnor who purchased a farm near Lovell, Ohio, is arranging to move there next week, having had a sale of his personal property and his farm near Banklick.

Miss Jessie Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Johnson, has been awarded the scholarship to the State University at Lexington, and will enter on her studies with the next session.

Roy McCubbin who is in the U. S. Army, stationed at Ft. Funston, Kansas, arrived home here last week on a months furlough which he will spend with his parents Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McCubbin.

E. C. Rector of Harrison county, spent part of last week on his farm, the Jerry Carpenter place near Richmond. His brother will move to the farm this year, the tenant W. R. Barnes having arranged to move elsewhere.

Rev. and Mrs. Wayne Byland were presented with a daughter last week at their home at Dexter, Mo. Mrs. Byland will be remembered as Miss Maymo Northcutt, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Northcutt.

E. J. Eddy and H. L. Reynolds of Toledo, Ohio, spent part of last week here and at Big Bone Springs in relation to the drilling of several wells at Big Bone for oil, believing the prospects are very good. A company will be organized before long and the work of drilling will begin as soon as the weather will justify.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Aylor, of Grandin, North Dakota, and her father R. W. Botts of Colchester, Illinois, spent last week here with relatives and friends. Mr. Aylor and his wife spent part of the month in Florida, and returned home after their visit here. He is very much interested in the oil development at his home at Big Bone Springs, and is one of its most liberal subscribers.

The remains of Alonzo Crawford who died at Ashville, North Carolina, Feb. 12th, from pneumonia, were brought here Saturday, and taken in charge by Undertaker C. Scott Chambers, who took the remains to Williamstown for interment. Mr. Crawford was about 35 years old and was a brother of Mrs. J. C. M. Calendar of Walton, and was a native of Grant county.

The loose leaf tobacco market has been off in price the past week owing to the heavy offerings of low grade tobacco and the apathy of the buyers of that quality because of their inability to handle the tobacco on account of the redrying plants being overcrowded and not able to receive the tobacco. There was a full sale of tobacco at both the Walton houses and there is still a large quantity awaiting an opportunity to get on the sales floor. Over one hundred thousand lbs. were sold at each house every sales day last week. The prices ranged from three cents to ninety cents per pound, and the average was from 15 to 25 cents at the respective sales. The market would be much better if the redriers could handle the tobacco and there is no good reason why the tobacco should sell at the quotations the past week. Several dealers are buying liberally with the expectation to hang their purchases to redry, and get the good price which is sure to come a little later.

Reasons!

Why you should use Cardui, for the women's troubles, have been shown in thousands of letters from actual users of this medicine, who speak from personal experience. If the results obtained by other women for so many years have been so uniformly good, why not give Cardui a trial?

VICTORIAN ERA WORTH WHILE

Deserved Rebuke for Those Who Smile at Epoch Which Had Many Good Points.

Why do the henthens rage against the Victorian epoch? Men who lived through a great part of it found it exciting, interesting, amusing and sometimes terrific. Tallyrand once said that nobody could understand the real delights of society unless he had lived before the French revolution. Similarly, what young person, or near-young person, of today can experience the delights of the time when it was possible to begin at ease the first chapter of a volume of Dickens or Thackeray, to wait impatiently for George Eliot's new novel or even to bear the shock of Robert Buchanan's famous review of Swinburne? There were, too, the terrors occasioned by Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe when her fierce Puritan friendship induced her to print the confidences of Lady Byron! Our eyes were turned towards England. It is true, yet Hawthorne and Emerson were not only discussed, but read. Among the lesser lights there were Gail Hamilton and James Fields, whose very satisfying literary essays were great features of the Atlantic Monthly. People really did not spend their time in slandering "Jinnah" or in reading "Quixote" on the sly, nor did all the women dress in the magentas and solerinas in which contemporary satirists clothed the ladies of the middle periods of Victorian and Eugene. The Crimean and Civil wars, so microscopic to the careless young, the Franco-Prussian struggle which preluded the chaos of 1914, were events that kept our minds from stagnating; and there were doers and thinkers in Europe worth our constant consideration.—Maurice Francis Egan in Yale Review.

FORGOT PROMISE TO CLIENT

Eminent Lawyer Talked Altogether Too Freely Over His Whisky and Soda at the Club.

Mr. Thomas Lipton spoke in a Y. M. C. A. address in New York about honor among business men.

"Too many business men," he said, "fall from honor thoughtlessly. They are like an eminent divorce lawyer whom I overheard one night prattling over his whisky and soda at the club."

"Yes," said the eminent lawyer, "she's a very beautiful woman. Nervous, of course, of course very nervous just now. So I said to her gently, as soon as I'd sent my secretary out of the room: 'Now, my dear lady, I know in these cases there are many little details which a woman of your position and refinement is most reluctant to divulge. But it is necessary, if our case is to succeed, that I be acquainted with all you have had to suffer. Of course you will understand that what you tell me will never go beyond the four walls of this room. I shall regard your confidence as absolutely sacred, and you need have no hesitation in revealing all, for you may be sure that no other human being will ever learn from me the details of your troubles.' Well, that gave her more confidence, of course, and, gentlemen, this is what she told me."

London and the Birds.

After the news from Strasbourg that the stricks have returned with the end of the war to the old Alsatian city, and are to be seen daily, as in time past, pluming themselves in the Place de Broglie, comes the news from London that one of the unusual features of this first spring after the war is the presence of the beautiful larger birds in the English capital. So writes a correspondent of the Observer, of London. "On the fringes," he says, "kestrels are now quite common, and in many places you may see their wonderful flight. The handsome jays betray their presence in many wooded gardens; they know them not, by their screech, or the white flash of their wings; sparrow-hawks and carrion crows are coming to be common; and even the magpie has been seen where for years he has been unknown." And now that they have come, no doubt some way will be found of so convincing them of their welcome that they will come again.

The Claim of Runymede.

Every now and again, it is given to some man somewhere to utter a "benign-sent phrase," which brings with it instant and almost startling illumination on a question, where long columns of explanation and long moments of eloquence might utterly fail. Such a phrase came from Joseph Daniels, the secretary of the United States navy, the other day, in the course of one of his speeches in England. "No Englishman," declared Mr. Daniels, "has more claim to Runymede than I."—Christian Science Monitor.

Tunnel Through the Pyrenees.

The rigors of mountain weather, opposition from the national ministries of war, and a difference in gauge have all united in the past to prevent an effective joining of French and Spanish railways, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Work on the project has been carried on since 1914, however, and it is now announced that a new tunnel from Ax, in France, to Puigcerda, on the Spanish side, has been broken through, and will cement this desirable union more firmly.

Not So Equal.

"Don't you like to get back to nature, where all men are equal?" "You, but it doesn't always work out that way. Summer outsiders are inclined to sand the campers."

BEAR WITH US

The readers will please bear with as this week. With a crippled fever and a rush of advertising we are doing the best we can. We were compelled to omit all the classified ads.

POSTPONED.

On account of the illness of his family P. B. Riddell's sale advertised for the 21st inst. has been postponed to March 4th. See the advertisement.

Circuit Clerk Maurer's family all have flu and has not been in his office for several days.

At last accounts G. G. Hughes, who had been quite ill, was improving. He is with his daughter, Mrs. Earl Walton, of Petersburg.

Burlington has about twenty cases of flu.

Baldon & Hewett are busy now these days at their mill at Limburg.

It will soon be moving day for quite a number of citizens in Burlington.

Dr. Yelton has been a busy man for several weeks.

BEAVER LICK.

Ben Hodges has a new Ford. Several cases of mumps in this neighborhood. James Allen has moved to W. C. Johnson's farm. Mrs. R. E. Moore has been ill for several days. Two degrees below zero here last Monday morning. John Delchuntz sold 2,000 lbs. of tobacco on the Walton market at an average of 25¢ last week. J. W. Conkey, County Surveyor was doing some surveying in the East Bend neighborhood last week. Bro. Criswell and wife have flu. There are numerous cases of the disease in this neighborhood and Dr. Kyle is kept on the go day and night.

The Recorder carries a number of new sale advertisements this week. Read all of them.

W. L. Kickpatrick and family were quite indisposed for several days last week.

L. M. House, of Florence, was transacting business in Burlington last Thursday.

The farmers will be a busy set when the weather will permit them to plow.

CHANDLER SIX

Famous For Its Marvelous Motor

If You Don't Want to Wait
Next Spring, Order Now

LAST year's production of the Chandler Six was of record volume and this year's production will double it; but if you don't want to wait for your new Chandler next spring, we would suggest that you order it now.

This year's automobile shows have attracted crowds greater than ever before, partly because hundreds of thousands of Americans were unable to secure new cars last year. And these great crowds of motor enthusiasts have found no better value in the whole exhibit of six cylinder cars than that which Chandler offers.

Chandler leads so distinctly in the medium-priced fine car field because it does offer such splendid value; because of its really marvelous motor developed through seven years of production in the Chandler plant and seven years' service on the road in the hands of a host of owners; because of its sturdy, dependable mechanical construction throughout the entire chassis; and because of its attractive and comfortable body.

Compare them all, all the sizes, then pick out yours. It will be a Chandler if you ask Chandler owners.

Why : Pay : More?

Consider carefully the following prices and make it your pleasure as well as profit to make your purchases while present stocks are available and our present prices possible.

Don't lose time waiting for lower prices—they will be higher. It's a fact—two years after the Civil War prices were higher than they were during the War. (That was a war with only one nation involved. Can we reasonably, even, hope for prices to be normal as soon after a WORLD WAR?

We tell you frankly, there is not a price here quoted that is not lower than we could make today if we were compelled to buy these goods on today's market. We will do our best for you, but when we PAY MORE we MUST ASK MORE.

A comparison of these prices with the spring catalogues of mail-order houses will convince you of our earnest efforts to make our store of REAL VALUABLE SERVICE TO YOU.

Add to the mail order house price, the freight and charges, and consider the danger of long delays in shipping these days, and you will readily see a FURTHER SAVING by BUYING NOW AT OUR STORE. DELAY MAY CAUSE YOU TO MISS THIS OPPORTUNITY.

PRICES QUOTED are on stocks now on hand, and we reserve the right to limit the amount any one customer may buy, also to change prices where we buy new stocks and pay more.

Prices Quoted are for February Only:

As usual the little fellow with small means will pay the income tax. The big business men and corporations are distributing their profits as bonuses and otherwise rather than pay it to the government.

Leonard L. Kirby, of this city, has a paying little side line that he works after banking hours. He has sixteen Buff Orpington pullets with the following record for the past three months. The pullets laid 502 eggs.

Edward Cooper, through a mistake Monday night, gave his cow a pail of water that was diluted with denatured alcohol. After milking the next morning he found that the milk had a pretty good kick in it.—Berlin Correspondent in the Bracken Chronicle.

Real estate agent are growing more numerous each week, and all are burning much gasoline on joy riders, who are hard to distinguish from the ones who mean business. This, however, goes with the business. But one of the local real estate men had one put over on him that would ordinarily tax the patience of Job. A fine looking young couple came to this city from Ohio, looked up the real estate agent that had the best automobile, and indicated that they were in the market to buy a farm. They seemed to be interested and took a long spin looking at a number of farms, but did not buy. It was learned that the couple had married the day before and was only seeking a free honeymoon.

Judge Chas. Kerr, of Lexington, is receiving just commendation from all parts of the State in his prompt action in bringing criminals to justice. On Wednesday of last week a degenerate negro, Will Lockett, murdered a fit school girl, Geneva Hardman, after he had failed to an attempt to ravish her. The negro was arrested Wednesday afternoon, and on Thursday afternoon an indictment was brought against him in Judge Kerr's court, and the negro was tried and sentenced to the electric chair Monday. The negro made a full confession of the horrible crime. The action of the law in dealing with criminals is nearly always a dragging process, and the great popular demand is to get quicker action on all such cases in the courts. When a case is continued from court to court people become impatient and every hour of delay gives the criminal a better chance of escaping justice. It is expensive both to the Commonwealth and to the people interested in the case. This is the direct cause of the tendency of people to take the law in their own hands. We commend Judge Kerr upon his prompt action in this as well as other cases, and jurists of the State and Nation would do well to strive to emulate his example.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the December term 1919, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House doore in the town of Burlington, Boone county, Ky., to the highest bidder at public sale, on Monday, the 1st day of March, 1920, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabouts, being County Court day, upon a credit of 6 months the following property, to-wit: Consist of three separate parcels, situated in Boone County, Kentucky, and described as Lots Nos. 1, 2 and 3.

Lot No. 1 is described as follows: A parcel of land situated in Boone County, Kentucky, in and adjoining the town of Walton, being the same on which the Walton Loose Leaf Tobacco Company house stands and bounded as follows:—On the west by the Covington and Lexington Turnpike Road; on the north by the J. D. Mayhugh Mfg. Co., on the east by the right of way of the Southern Railway Company, and on the south by the property of the Walton Loose Leaf Tobacco Company, that same lot fronts on the Covington and Lexington pike, one hundred feet, and extends in parallel lines about two hundred (200) feet to the Southern Railway, which lot was owned by the said J. D. Mayhugh Mfg. Co.

Lot No. 2 is situated in said town of Walton, Ky., and County of Boone, being the same lot upon which the J. D. Mayhugh Company's plant now stands and said lot is bounded as follows to-wit: On the north by the lands of B. F. Bentz, on the east by the right of way of the Louisville and Nashville R. R. Company, on south by the lot of J. G. Tomlin estate and on the west by the Covington and Lexington Turnpike.

Lot No. 3 is situated in Walton Boone County, Kentucky and is bounded as follows to-wit: On the south by the Walton Loose Leaf Tobacco Company's property; on the west by the Covington and Lexington Turnpike Road; on the east by the right of way of the Southern R. R. Co. and on the North by the land of Charles Whitson and containing four acres more or less.

In making sale of Lot No. 1 I will expressly reserve the improvements on said lot and will publicly announce at the sale that said lot No. 1 will be sold free from all improvements of every kind and description and sold as unimproved real estate.

And the share going to the imbecile Clarence Berry is not to be paid to him but his interest shall remain a lien on said land until a bond is executed by the Guardian of said ward. For the purchase price the purchaser, with approved security or securities, must execute bonds bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment, with a lien retained therein until all the purchase money is paid. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Why More Small Cars Come Equipped With Goodyear Tires

Last year, more small cars, using 30 x 3, 30 x 3 1/2, or 31 x 4-inch tires, were factory-equipped with Goodyear Tires than with any other kind.

This is plainly a result of the high relative value produced in these small-car tires by Goodyear's enormous resources and scrupulous care.

They represent the same intense endeavor to supply utmost satisfaction in tires that has laid the basis for the marked preference which exists everywhere for Goodyear Tires in the larger sizes.

This real Goodyear value in tires is available for your Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell, or other small car, at our nearest Service Station. Go there for these tires and Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes.

30 x 3 1/2 Goodyear Double-Cure Fabric, All-Weather Tread. $20.00
30 x 3 1/2 Goodyear Single-Cure Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread. $17.65

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are thick, strong tubes that reinforce casings properly. Why risk a good casing with a cheap tube? Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost little more than tubes of less merit. 30 x 3 1/2 size in water—$3.90 proof bag.

WALTON.

John H. Leary of Zion Station, ex-shepherd of Grant county, was here Wednesday marketing some of his tobacco on the local leaf market.

Thos. Atha of near Napoleon, Gallatin county, spent Monday here closing up the purchase of the J. A. Loomis farm of 162 acres near Beaver Lick to which he will move in a short time.

William Rankin, of Chattanooga, Tenn., spent part of last week here with relatives and friends, and attending to some business in connection with the settlement of the J. Eddie Ransom estate.

Rev. J. A. Lee of Poplar Grove, Owen county, spent last Saturday here on the loose leaf tobacco market and bought a good lot. He has purchased about a quarter of a million pounds this season.

H. C. Diers spent part of the week at Troy, Ohio, arranging for the spring shipment of the nursery stock sold by him the past season comprising several car loads, his nursery being located at Troy.

Mrs. Geo. J. Grubbs has been very ill this week with something on the influenza order, the general opinion is that there is no influenza here, tho there are many ill with severe colds of the grip order.

Mrs. Eugenia B. Powers and daughter Miss Blanche, of Covington, spent last week at their old home near Verona, the guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Powers and wife. They like their new home in Covington very much.

John Mylor of Waraaw, was here last Friday and Saturday looking for some good mules. He bought six good ones at Hugh McManahan's sale on Saturday. Mr. Mylor is a liberal buyer of mules and horses and is in the market all the year around.

Last Friday night week the residence of F. E. Fisher on the J. W. Cluster farm near town was destroyed by fire, catching from a spark on the roof. The entire structure and most of the contents were destroyed. Loss about $1,000 with an insurance of only $150.

Riley Chandler and J. R. Maxey of near Owingville, Bath county, were the guests of the former's son Oscar Chandler and family. Mr. Maxey bought a farm from Oscar Chandler and W. E. Knox in Kenton county, and then as he surveyed he and his family will move here.

Howard Elmore, the beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. James Elmore, died at their home at Kington Tuesday morning after a lingering illness from consumption. Howard was twenty-four years old and was born in Harrison county Ky., and was a splendid man in every respect, and his death is a sad blow to many friends outside of his family, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmore have the heartfelt sympathy of all in their sad bereavement.

Thos. Powers, who is one of the prominent breeders of the Big Type Poland China hogs, spent part of the week at Louisville attending a state convention of the breeding association. Mr. Powers lost his fine hog last week by death. He has not been absent from home on a business trip and on his return found the hog dead. Mr. Powers valued the hog at $1,000 and was unable to ascertain the cause of its death.

Wm. Holder, one of our old and esteemed citizens, died at the home of his daughter Mrs. I. T. Grubbs last Tuesday from paralysis. He was born and reared in Kenton county and was 69 years old at the time of his death. His wife died twenty-two years ago from burns sustained while lighting a fire. The funeral services were conducted by L. A. Koehler at the Christian church, Thursday, last, being his former pastor.

Mrs. E. B. Hall who formerly resided here and was more familiarly known as Mrs. W. M. Hudson, afterwards marrying, is now very pleasantly located at Meridian, Mississippi, where she has bought a fine plantation on which is situated a mansion of sixteen rooms, and writes that there are some wonderful opportunities there for investment as the soil is rich, and very cheap in price, and the climate is very salubrious, and conditions there generally are excellent.

The Walton Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouses have been enjoying very good sales the past week and the market is considerably improved. The market at the Walton House last Saturday ranged from four cents to 89 cents per pound, and at the Farmers House on Monday several crops averaged thirty-five cents, with a general average of $17.95. Some of the crops brought fancy prices at this house, J. J. Peebles 42 cents, D. E. Plak, 35 cents, R. Elliott 43 cents, Johnson Rogers 42 cents, Steve Alexander 280 pounds at an average of 40 cents. There has been a very large percentage of low grades which holds down the general average. The Walton market is conceded to be better than any other loose leaf market in the State. The two warehouses expect to have three more sales each to close the season and those who have tobacco on hand should get their tobacco on the market without any delay.

E. L. Kelley, proprietor of the Walton Electric Light Plant, has gone to Vincennes, Ind., where he has conditionally accepted a position in charge of large electrical concerns. Mr. Kelley speaks of giving up the Walton plant because he has not made any money out of the investment and is constantly getting deeper in debt. He has an ideal plant and the service is as good as can be obtained anywhere. He owes considerable money on the plant and says he can dismantle the plant and the machinery will pay him out of debt and this he contemplated doing, selling the machinery to outside parties. One of the complaints he makes of part of the patrons of the Walton plant, is that as soon as they use a dollar's worth of electric current they consider that their limit, and bring out the coal oil lamps for the balance of the month. He says the majority of his patrons are fair and liberal. It is a very plain proposition that if the electric light plant was discontinued at Walton the property of the town would depreciate at least one half and a dozen good citizens would move to some more enterprising place. The town council at its regular meeting last Friday night, with commendable enterprise, called Mr. Kelley before them, and after he had explained that he was only receiving $60 per month for the lighting of the street lights, the same as he had received years ago when his oil cost him seven cents per gallon, and now he has to pay twenty cents per gallon, and has been losing $25.00 every month on the contract, they instructed Mr. Kelley to charge $100 per month for the street lighting and to add fifty cents to the bill of every patron whether he used much or little. Mr. Kelley was encouraged to continue the Walton plant and has engaged W. H. Preston to manage it until April, by which time he will be able to adjust his other affairs in a satisfactory way.

County Judge Riddell was able to be in his office last Tuesday the first time for a week.

Stanley Eddins has begun repairing the residence he purchased of M. L. Riddell recently.

Old Sol has done very little business in this part of the country during the month of February.

Edgar C. Riley, of Petersburg neighborhood, was a business visitor to Burlington last Monday.

At last accounts, Mrs. Crawford, mother of Mrs. J. A. Caywood, was very ill. Mrs. Caywood is at her bedside yet.

Wm. C. Hughes is arranging to move to his new home out on the Bellevue pike.

James A. Duncan, of Idlewild neighborhood, was the guest of his brother, Dr. E. W. Duncan and wife last Monday.

After a tussle of several days with the flu-Elmer Kelly has resumed his work as clerk in W. L. Kirkpatrick's store, Tuesday.

Edward Cloud and mother, living about two miles west of Burlington, have been considerably indisposed for several weeks.

There is said to be a very bad place in the pike near the toll gate house near Bellevue on the Burlington and Bellevue pike.

Benjamin Stephens, of Florence neighborhood, will move to the Daniel Bedinger farm in Richmond neighborhood, in a week or two.

The Recorder has received a copy of the first issue of the Petersburg High News, a very interesting little sheet, on good paper and well printed.

When it comes to ascertaining who have tobacco on hand yet it is soon discovered that there is considerable of the weed yet in the barn in this vicinity.

Jacob Utzinger will move to Kelso, Indiana, the first of next month, and, of course, he has made arrangements to have the Recorder as a weekly visitor.

Charles Scothorn, of Francesville, will have a public sale of horses, cows, hogs and farm implements next Monday afternoon. For list of property and terms, see this.

G. T. Gaines has about recovered from the injuries he received when he fell on the ice a few weeks ago. He was confined to the house for some time following the accident.

What to do with the Seventh Street Market building in question that is agitating Covington. Some want it repaired while others are in favor of replacing it with a new building.

F. H. Rouse, Supt. of the county Infirmary, has not been seen about town for several days for a very good reason—he and his wife and about a dozen of his wards have been ill of flu.

Ann McMullen was among those who called in last Tuesday and had his subscription moved up a notch. He is one of those who think he has committed a grave offense if he gets behind a paper or two with his paper.

It used to be at this time of the year the old fashioned sugar camp was in operation every day when the weather was warm enough to permit the water to "run," and how the boys had to work, the best days usually falling on Sunday, if you remember.

Winter before last was noted for extreme cold, but this winter has been more uncomfortable on account of the frequent changes in the temperature and the numerous dark, gloomy, wet days. Dry, cold weather is also much the healthier, and the weather most of the time has been fit only to foster illness, of which there has been a great deal in this county the last three months.

Don't forget Charles Scothorn's sale next Monday afternoon.

On account of the condition of the dirt road it is impossible for the carrier on Burlington R. D. 3 to visit all the boxes.

Dudley Blythe's truck moved L. C. Beemon from the Habbah neighborhood to Burlington, Tuesday, and had a strenuous trip.

A period of several days nice weather would be enjoyed by the farmers that they may make some progress with their spring work.

Not so many big land deals are being pulled off in this county as there were a few weeks ago. It may be the storm will break again in the near future and the trading in land will be rushed.

Charles Scothorn, John Baker and J. S. Eggleston, of Francesville neighborhood, were transacting business in the city last Tuesday. Mr. Eggleston has sold his farm to Emmet Kilgour and bought Mr. Scothorn's farm, and all hands are arranging to move.

John Utzinger, one of the new Kentucky colony in Dearborn-co., Indiana, was a caller at this office last Tuesday. He says the Boone county people are doing well in their new home. He reports O. P. Phipps and family as having about recovered from the mumps.

Elijah Stephens, carrier on R. D. No. 3 out of Burlington was too ill to make his rounds last Tuesday and may not be able to go over his route again in several days. Geo. Porter is subbing for him, having been shown over the route Tuesday by L. C. McNeely, former carrier on route 2.

Of the sixty road projects considered by the road bill now before the legislature, Boone county is interested in two. One from Covington by way of Williams-town to Lexington on the Tennessee line. The other is from Louisville to Florence by the way of Bedford, Carroll and Warsaw.

Some of the doctors in the county broke down under the increased work caused by the flu the past two weeks and in some localities there are without the services of their local physician and were very much inconvenienced thereby, it often being many hours before a doctor was needed before one could answer the call.

Monday being observed as a hot day caused a delay of the mails and much of the matter intended for this issue did not reach the office in time to be handled. Last week a race with the flu caused several communications to have to be laid over, and very little of them was usable this week. The Recorder hopes to be back on feet properly again shortly. Holidays and illness can not be avoided.

Mrs. Harriett Fishback, nee Jones, widow of the late William G. Fishback, passed away Sunday evening, Feb. 15th, and was buried at Walton on Tuesday morning, Feb. 17th. Mrs. Fishback was a former resident of Walton, moving to Erlanger in 1908. She is survived by one son, F. J. Fishback and one granddaughter, Miss Frances Fishback, both of Erlanger. Philip Tallafiero had charge of the funeral.

Mrs. Bedelia Loeblin, aged 81, widow of the late Frank Loeblin, passed away Feb. 21st, at the residence of her son-in-law, Fred Schram, in Florence. Funeral services at his residence at 2 p. m., Feb. 23rd, by Rev. H. C. Runyan, interment being in Florence cemetery. Mrs. Loeblin had been a member of the Florence Christian church for forty years. Undertaker Philip Tallafiero had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Legion News

The memorial services announced for Sunday, Feb. 22, were postponed to a later date on account of the prevalence of the influenza epidemic. We regret to have been compelled to do this but planning to hold them later with the same speakers as announced last week.

A part of the memorial certificates were received from the French Government and have been mailed to the nearest relatives of those who died in service. We regret that we did not receive all of the certificates but will send them out as soon as we receive them.

The next regular meeting of Boone Post will be held March 2d, at headquarters at Burlington. At this time the question of a fifty dollar per month bonus for each month in which you can win a membership card will be given out to members attending the meeting or calling for them.

The Legion needs the support of all members and especially of service men who have not enrolled as members. An usual chow will be served and the business session. Come out and help make the local post one of the best in the State and enjoy a social hour with the rest of the boys.

GOOD EATS FOR HOT WEATHER.

During the summer the wise house-mother serves plenty of vegetables and fruits, cutting down on meats, rich pastries and puddings, thus saving herself and the digestion of her family.

As most people like a touch of sweet to end the dinner, why not prepare a plate of stuffed dates or a dish of homemade candy to substitute on the days that fruit is not served as a dessert?

Pastry shells filled with fresh fruit or with various gelatin mixtures are both pleasing to the eye and palate. The fruit may be crushed, sweetened and mixed with or garnished with sweetened whipped cream. The shell of course is baked, and when used with fruit which will soak its delicate texture should not be filled until ready to serve. With the gelatin, however, that may be put into the shell as soon as it is stiff enough. Make the gelatin mixture and when it begins to set, beat it well with a Dover beater, then let chill and fold in the stiffly beaten whites or whipped cream or serve it plain. High in the crust with a border of whipped cream and berries. One will find many new and pretty ways of serving these dainty pies.

Ceylon Tomato Salad.—Peel three solid tomatoes, cut them into halves and press out the seeds. Chop the tomatoes and put into a bowl, add a tablespoonful of lemon juice, a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of chopped onion and the same of green pepper, with half a teaspoonful of paprika. Mix and turn into a dish in which it is to be served. Add four tablespoonfuls of coconut cream and serve at once.

Coconut Cream.—To prepare coconut cream, use one good sized coconut and pour a pint of boiling water over it. Wash and stir until all the flavor has been washed from the fiber. Turn into a cheesecloth and press firmly. Stand the milk thus obtained in a cool place over night, when a thick cream will have formed on the surface. Remove this and set aside for various dishes.

FLORENCE.

Fred Schram is very ill. Mrs. A. M. Yealey is very sick. There is a great deal of grip in this community.

Cliff Norman is recovering from an attack of the flu. Miss Bridget Carey entertained her sister, Alice, of Covington, last Sunday.

Mrs. Will Lee is the guest of her sisters, Misses Eva and Christine Renaker.

C. W. Myers is able to be back in his store after an illness of several days of grip.

Benj. Stephens, a well known citizen died at his home near here last Wednesday morning in his 86th year. Funeral from the Christian church Friday. Burial in the family cemetery on the old Stephens homestead above Florence.

Mrs. Bedelia Lowine was born in Ireland, January 1, 1838, died at her home in Florence aged 82 years, 1 month and 20 days. She is survived by one sister, three daughters, three sons, 17 grandchildren and two great grandchildren and a host of friends to mourn her death. She spent the greater part of her life in this vicinity, where she will be missed by all.

A very pleasing entertainment under the auspices of the Holy Name Society of St. Pauls church was given last Thursday evening. Mr. Richard Ryan sang Mavourneen and Gems of Ireland, Anthony Frickie rendered some selections from the bank, and Rev. Francis Walsh of Mt. Washington, O., spoke on the Freedom of Ireland. A fine reel tragedy Colleen Bawn closed the entertainment.

DEVON.
A letter received from Miss Edna Connolly brings the sad news of the serious illness of her aunt, Miss Emma Connolly at their home near San Francisco, California. Until about seven years ago Miss Emma was a citizen of Kenton county, near Devon, and her many friends here hope she will have a speedy recovery.

It was with much sorrow that the many friends here of Mrs. Walter Jickett, of Latonia, learned of her death of pneumonia. She is survived by her parents, a devoted husband and two small children.

Conrad Schadler had a very narrow escape from death a few days ago. Climbing from a tree he fell and struck him, knocking him to the ground where it pinned him. His son, Gus, was with him and called assistance and released him. Fortunately no bones were broken but the injuries will confine him to his house for several days.

Why the Hot Spot Chalmers is two years ahead of the Time.

A great many motor cars to-day are not behaving the way they once did. They are slow to start, often make a fuss over an insignificant hill sputter and back fire, use up a lot of fuel and deliver abbreviated mileage.

The temptation is natural to blame the fault on the car, but this is unfair. The trouble is not with the car, but with the gas you feed it. The fuel it was designed to digest can be purchased now at only isolated points and at drugstore prices, for gas has gone down and down in grade and engines have not been redesigned to take care of the inferior quality. You can imagine the difficulties you would experience with your own digestive apparatus if you had lived all your life on a diet of fine food and then of a sudden been forced to eat low grade, coarse food. That is exactly what happens with an automobile gas engine nowadays, and there has been only one engine designed which meets successfully this condition. That engine is found in the HOT SPOT CHALMERS.

No doubt you have heard much about the HOT SPOT. Certainly, if you live near a HOT SPOT CHALMER'S owner, you have received a pleasant impression about this wonderful car. It possesses two devices, both ingenious in results they provide, that have lifted the Chalmers far above its price field.

First of all, HOT SPOT takes the gas that comes from the carburetor, and, in order to get out the power that nature put in "cracks up" the gas into a fine vapor. So fine, as a matter of fact, that engineers term it "dry" gas. You know there is as much power in low grade gas as in a high grade gas if the engine can ever get it out. The heavy-weight gas striking HOT SPOT is affected the same as a drop of water thrown on a hot stove.

This refined mixture is then delivered to each of the six cylinders in equal volume through the Ram's Horn, the most efficient manifold yet devised. Its efficiency is due to its "easy air bends"—absence of sharp corners, and the fact that it provides a direct route from HOT SPOT to each of the six cylinders.

Now, Ram's Horn not only feeds the "pulverized" gas to the cylinders in the most direct route known to a gas engine, but also the quickest route.

Do not place your order until you see the motor in the Chalmers, aun.

Give me a chance and I will prove these words to you.

HOW TO GROW STRAWBERRIES

They are Most Popular of Small Fruits and Particularly Adapted to Home Garden.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many home gardens in the Eastern United States have a patch of strawberries. They are the most popular of small fruits, the most widely grown of any, and are particularly adapted to the home garden, as they require less than other cultivated fruits, and enough to supply an ordinary family can be grown on a small area.

In value the strawberry crop in the United States is surpassed among fruits only by the apple, peach and grape. The value of the crop, according to the last census, was $125 an acre, as compared with an average value of about $15 an acre for wheat and corn. It is a much more lucrative crop than the grains and should be treated as such.

When raised in the home garden, varieties which have the best dessert quality and ripen during a long season or in succession, without reference to their ability to stand long shipments, are desired. Market gardeners also raise strawberries under intensive methods of culture, and since they are located near the markets in which their crops are sold, they are not interested primarily in the shipping quality of the varieties. Truck growers who are more interested in shipping to distant markets should give consideration to the shipping as well as the dessert quality of the varieties they grow.

In localities subject to late spring frost a site for strawberries should be somewhat elevated, as cold air settles in low places and frosts occur there more frequently than on the elevated spots. Strawberries thrive best on soil which is naturally moist, but not wet. Plants on wet soil usually make very little growth in the summer and are likely to be killed when the ground freezes in the winter. Therefore the site chosen for strawberries should be well drained. Ordinarily a site having a gradual rather than a steep slope should be selected. By choosing different slopes it is possible to vary the period of ripening several days, as the berries having a southern exposure will ripen earlier than those located on a cooler northern slope.

Strawberries not only have a wide climatic adaptation but may be grown successfully upon almost any type of soil, from coarse sand to heavy clay, provided it is well supplied with moisture and at the same time well drained. When early fruit is desired sandy soil is often chosen, since the berries ripen somewhat earlier than on clay soil, other conditions being the same, though heavy yields can be secured on either type of soil. All soils for strawberries should be supplied with humus.

The preparation of the soil for strawberries should begin usually at least two years before the plants are to be set, or the plants should be set in soil which has received preparation in growing other cultivated crops. Newly plowed soil should not be used, because the grass roots may prove objectionable, and because of the danger of injury to the plants from white grubs. The land must also be freed of quack grass and any other seriously persistent weeds. If the soil is deficient in humus a green-manure crop, preferably a legume, should be grown, or stable manure should be applied.

Setting the plants so that the crowns are even with the surface of the ground after the soil has been worked about the roots, and making the soil very firm about the plant are important. If the soil is not properly firmed about the roots, air gets to them and they are likely to dry out, resulting in a feeble growth or none at all. Two systems of training strawberries are in general use, the hill system and the matted-row system. Under the former, the plants are set six to twenty-four inches apart in rows from three to one-half feet apart. The Chesapeake, Clark and Marshall are more frequently grown under this system. Under the matted-row system the plants are set in rows from three to five feet apart and the runners are allowed to fill a space a few inches on either side of the row, thus making a solid mass of plants. The Dunlap, Gandy and Arona varieties which make a large number of runners, are rarely grown in other than matted rows.

Flower stems usually appear on strawberry plants soon after they are set.

SOME CHOICE DESSERTS.

A delicious and well-prepared dessert will often help us to forget that the preceding dishes were not all that we desired. At this season of the year frozen desserts and light, easily digested dishes are more suitable. During the hot weather we need refreshing combinations rather than the nourishing; however, one may have both in a dish of ice cream. A most satisfactory sherbet, which is both delicious and economical, is Velvet Sherbet.—Take the juice of three lemons, two cupsful of sugar and a quart of good milk, the richer the better, though ordinary milk will be satisfactory. Freeze and serve in sherbet cups.

Orange and Lemon Sherbet.—Take the juice of two oranges, two lemons and two cupsful of sugar and a quart of this cream: freeze as usual.

Dainty Dessert.—Take a pound of marshmallows and a cup of pecans cut fine; cut the marshmallows into quarters and add enough whipped cream to blend and hold them together. Into a large-topped sherbet glass put a tablespoonful of any canned fruit juice, fill with the whip and serve with a cherry as a garnish.

Duchess Cream.—Take six tablespoonfuls of milk; cook until clear; cool, add a pinch of salt, one cupful of sugar, the juice of two oranges and two lemons; cook until thick. Cool, then add the pineapple, one cupful of nuts and a pint of whipping cream. This makes enough to serve 15, so that the recipe may be cut in half for an ordinary family.

Chocolate Pudding.—Take one egg and when well beaten add one-half cupful of sugar, one cupful of milk, two squares of chocolate melted, one and one-half cupfuls of flour sifted with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Steam one and one-half hours and serve with Foamy Sauce.—Beat one egg, add one cupful of powdered sugar mixed with two tablespoonfuls of softened butter, a pinch of salt and a little flavoring; then fold in one cupful of whipped cream.

Said a farmer to me the other day: "I get one now, but if my wife or my daughter or my son happens to meet the mailman I have to fight to get a look at it. Put me down for another subscription for so I can have a copy all to myself." That, said I to myself, is an idea worth passing on. It won't break any farmer these days to buy $2.00 worth of the Great National Farm Weekly—and if it will make peace in his family—say, come on. Line forms on the left!

You don't hesitate to buy two postage stamps so you and your wife can both write letters; or two newspapers so you can both read. Two copies a week of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN cost even less. The Governor of one state bought three subscriptions for his farm and two more for his office in the state capital the other day. . . .

Of course I'm not arguing for two or three or five subscriptions until you have one. But the one is of vital importance to you, as well as to the wife and the boys. NEW WORLD PROGRAM DEVISED BY CHURCHES

By S. EARL TAYLOR

DR. S. EARL TAYLOR,
General Secretary Interchurch World Movement.

If Christ, on the day He was born, had started on a tour to preach in every village in India, He would still have 30,000 more to visit.

We now believe we have found a way by which the leaders of the Protestant churches can sit around a common table and have the Christian program of the entire world laid before them. By means of the Interchurch World Movement we can see where the Methodists are, and where the Baptists are. We can see the general outline of their forces, their present status in this great world struggle, and may also have some idea of the unoccupied places, and what may be done by all of us to enter these unoccupied parts of the world field which Christ sent us to occupy.

CHURCHES PLAN BUSY PROGRAM

Interchurch World Movement
Outlines Activities in South
For Months Ahead

Beginning with a campaign of education of the church member to his financial obligation to the church, a comprehensive and continuous program of activities from the present time through the month of June has been decided upon by the Interchurch World Movement in the South. This campaign of education in the duty of giving to the support of religious activities is commonly known in the movement as the Stewardship campaign. It will culminate on Washington's Birthday in the observance of National Stewardship Enrollment Day in all churches participating in the movement, February 22, this year, changing to fall on Sunday.

The Stewardship enrollment observance will be followed by the observance of Sunday, February 29th, as Life Enlistment Day of Prayer for Students. February this year, for the first time in forty years, will have five Sundays. This fifth Sunday observance is to be made a day of significance throughout the Interchurch World Movement's organization.

The month of March is to be given over to the promotion of the campaign for life-work and evangelism, culminating in the observance of Acknowledgment Day on Palm Sunday, which this year falls on March 8th. Every church taking part in the movement is expected to hold special evangelistic services during the month. During March also there are to be held a series of state pastors' conferences in the principal cities of the South to bring the pastors more closely in touch with the purposes and scope of the Interchurch World Movement in its relation to the individual church, community and denomination.

Join the Church Day and Commitment Day, when thousands of new members are expected to be received into the churches in the South, will be observed on Easter Sunday, April 4th. This day will be marked by a great ingathering of Christians in the churches inspired with the thought and determination of doing a greater service for Christianity.

The next fortnight in April will be spent in active preparation for the great financial campaign to be conducted April 21st to May 2d, inclusive. Local teams and committees will be organized and thoroughly drilled in the duties to be expected of them in the making of this canvass for funds to carry out the constructive program of the churches.

Throughout May and the early part of June the movement will be directed toward the organization and perfection of conservation and extension plans. Later in June summer conferences of missionary education will begin.

RURAL SURVEY OF VITAL IMPORTANCE

Religious Statistics Are Secured From County To Be Used By Local Churches

HEARTY CO-OPERATION ASKED

Information To Be Gathered In Every Part Of The County According To Communities Will Have Large Significance

The rural survey department of the Interchurch World Movement has been organized to assemble information and analyze conditions from a religious standpoint in every county in the state, according to Arthur O. Stockbridge, Rural Survey Supervisor for the state of Kentucky, with headquarters at 102 Todd Building, Louisville, Ky.

In order for the churches of a community to carry on their work of evangelizing the territory in which they are situated and to contribute their share towards the complete evangelization of the world, which is the ideal in every Christian heart, it is necessary that the actual conditions which exist in each county be discovered. Because of the vital importance of this work, the movement is calling upon the pastors of all denominations and others who are interested relative to religious conditions to render all the assistance possible towards the completion of the work. This information, after being tabulated by experts, is taken back to the counties, where the several Protestant denominations with churches in the county co-operatively study it and decide on the county's church needs. Recommendations are made by the county churches of each denomination that so desires, to the denominational home mission, Sunday school and other boards so that these boards can co-operate intelligently and effectively with the local county church organizations.

The Interchurch World Movement is attempting to do its work on a democratic basis. It is neither dictating nor attempting to dictate to any church or denomination what shall be done. The denominations in each county must decide unanimously among themselves on any joint county program for church betterment before it is adopted or undertaken with the co-operation of the Interchurch World Movement. The survey department is designed to help build up and meet the needs of the local churches through the local and county denominational interests.

An Interchurch World Movement survey of a county develops facts as to the county's geographical location and the general character of its agricultural, commercial and industrial life, its road system and means of intercommunication, public school system and other educational institutions, welfare and benevolent institutions, other organizations and individuals engaged in public service for the entire county.

Accompanying a general survey of a county is a more detailed survey of each community, a community being regarded as a unit of territory and population characterized by common economic and social experiences and interests. The community survey designates the outline and location of the community on information acquired from storekeepers, bankers and other informed persons. Territory not definitely included within the limits of any trade community is considered in connection with the communities to which it is most closely related. Thus an area is omitted in the enumeration of population and other statistics if information. The survey takes account of the community's economic conditions, such as natural resources, chief sources of income, soil, climate and market conditions, relations of farmers and business men, industrial data, etc. The social life and organizations of the community are covered in detail, together with other information to throw light on the state of the social mind.

The third link in the survey chain is the survey of each church in each community. This sets out the location, denomination, minister, date of organization, descriptive data as to buildings and equipment, membership, regular and special meetings and tabulated results therefrom, statistics as to areas covered by the parish, number of families reached, parish problems and other data to give a comprehensive vision of the parish, and supplemented by information as to the program of work outlined for the church by the pastor and the official boards.

The triple surveys—county, community and church—assemble all information that may be needed to aid the individual churches and denominations in working out their present problems and future programs of development, so that wasted effort may be eliminated and unproductive activities of each denomination may be transferred to productive fields.

The need of such a systematic study of church conditions is apparent by the results of investigation already made in some sections of the South. If the churches are to accomplish the greatest possible amount of good, the conditions must be known. The quarters are rather startling in one county in the South, for instance, there are 44 churches, of which 14 are dead and only 16 of which maintain Sunday schools.

Carrying a Ton a Mile for less than a Cent

Freight rates have played a very small part in the rising cost of living.

Other causes—the waste of war, under-production, credit inflation—have added dollars to the cost of the necessities of life, while freight charges have added only cents.

The average charge for hauling a ton of freight a mile is less than a cent.

A suit of clothing that sold for $30 before the war was carried 2,265 miles by rail from Chicago to Los Angeles for 16½ cents.

Now the freight charge is 22 cents and the suit sells for $50.

The cost of the suit has increased 20 dollars.

The freight on it has increased only 51 cents.

Other transportation charges enter into the cost of the finished article—carrying the wool to the mills and the cloth to the tailors—but these other charges amount to but a few cents more.

The $10 pair of shoes that used to sell for $5 goes from the New England factory to the Florida dealer for a freight charge of 5½ cents—only one cent more than the pre-war rate.

Beef pays only two-thirds of a cent a pound freight from Chicago to New York.

American freight rates are the lowest in the world.

INCOME TAX RETURNS DUE

Business Men, Farmers and Wage Workers Must File Schedules of Income for 1919.

MARCH 15 LAST FILING DATE.

Net incomes of $1,000 or Over, if Single; or $2,000 or Over if Married, Must Be Reported.

The Income Tax imposed by Act of Congress on earnings of the year 1919 is now being collected.

Returns under oath must be made on or before March 15 by every citizen and resident who had a net income for 1919 amounting to:

$1,000 or over, if single; or if married and living apart from wife (or husband); or if widowed or divorced, $2,000 or over, if married and living with wife (or husband).

The status of the person on the last day of the year fixes the status for the year with respect to the above requirements.

Under any of these circumstances a return must be made, even though no tax is due.

Husband and wife must consider the income of both, plus that of dependent minor children, in meeting this requirement; and, if sufficient to require a return, all items must be shown in a joint return or in separate returns of husband and wife.

A single person with minor dependents must include the income of such dependents.

A minor who has a net income of $1,000 or more is not considered a dependent, and must file a separate return.

Personal returns should be made on Form 1040A, unless the net income exceeded $5,000, in which case Form 1040 should be used.

Residents of Kentucky should file their returns with, and make payments of Income Tax to, Elwood Hamilton, Collector of Internal Revenue, Louisville.

How to Figure Income.

The best way to find out whether one must file a return is to get a Form 1040A, and follow the instructions printed on it. That form will serve as a reminder of every item of income, and if a return is due it tells how to prepare and file it.

If in doubt on any point as to income or deductions, a person may secure free advice and aid from the nearest Internal Revenue office.

Guesswork, estimates and other informal methods are barred when a person is making out his Income Tax return. Accuracy and completeness must be insisted upon. The return is a sworn statement. As such it must be thorough and accurate.

Salaried persons and wage earners must ascertain the actual compensation received. Overtime, bonuses, shares in the profits of a business, value of quarters and board furnished by the employer and other items which are compensations for services must be included.

It must be borne in mind that compensation may be paid in other forms than in cash. A bonus paid in Liberty Bonds is taxable at the market value of the bonds. A note received in payment for services is taxable income at its face value, and the interest upon it is also taxable.

Other Returns Due.

Every partnership doing business in the United States must file a return on Form 1065; and every personal service corporation must file a similar return.

Corporations must file annual returns on Form 1120. Trustees, executors, administrators and others acting in a fiduciary capacity are required to file returns. In some cases, Form 1041 is used; in others, Form 1040; and still others, returns on both forms are required.

Information returns, on Forms 1099 and 1096, must be filed by every organization, firm or person who paid, during 1919, an amount of $1,000 in salary, wages, interest, rent, or other fixed or determinable income to another person, partnership, personal service corporation or fiduciary. These information returns should be forwarded directly to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue (sorting division), Washington, D. C.

INCOME TAX IN NUTSHELL

WHO—Single persons who had net income of $1,000 or more for the year 1919.

Married couples who had net income of $2,000 or more.

WHEN—March 15, 1920, is final date for filing returns and making first payments.

WHERE—Collector of Internal Revenue for District in which the person resides.

HOW—Full directions on Form 1040A and Form 1040; also the law and regulations.

WHAT—Four per cent normal tax on taxable income up to $4,000 in case of exemption. Eight per cent normal tax on income in excess of $4,000. But, from one per cent to sixty per cent on net income over $100,000.

ALL MINISTERS OF STATE CALLED TO CONFERENCE

Interchurch World Movement Holds Great Gathering in Atlanta The First Part Of March.

All evangelical ministers of this county have been invited to join pastors of all the Protestant churches of Kentucky in a monster conference which is to be held in Louisville March 17-19. This is the first time in the history of the Christian churches of the state that such a gathering has been held, and great good to the churches is expected to result from the meeting together of denominational leaders from all the various churches.

The conference will be in session for three days, during this time every available moment being taken up with intensive consideration of church problems, both as they affect Georgia and the entire Christian field throughout the world. It will meet at 2 o'clock of the first day, and remain in session with conferences morning, afternoon and evening, until the late afternoon of the third day.

One of the most vital matters which will be brought up for consideration will be the results of the religious survey of the state, which will be presented through the medium of graphic charts, maps and picture slides. Although the survey will not be completed at that time, there will be a large number of the counties of the state ready for exhibition, and these will form the basis of consideration.

The results of the surveys are said to be very startling in their revelation of church weakness throughout rural districts, and they will show many opportunities for concentrated action on the part of the churches in this state. The Interchurch World Movement, in making its survey, simply discovers the facts which exist, and then refers the findings to the churches of each county and state for whatever action is deemed necessary by the churches.

Present at the meeting will be some of the great Christian leaders of the South and of the nation. Some of the strongest men in the southern churches will be in attendance as speakers. There will also be one or more of the directing heads of the Interchurch World Movement among the speakers to speak with authority on whatever features of the movement

The conference will open with a fifteen-minute devotional exercise at 9 o'clock of the first day. This will be followed by an address on the purposes and scope of the Interchurch World Movement. The remainder of the afternoon will then be devoted to the foreign survey, during which the actual facts as they now exist in the missionary fields of the world will be placed before the delegates. The evening session will be devoted to the home survey, both in this state and in the rest of America.

The second day's session will open at 9 o'clock in the morning with a devotional exercise. The proceedings of the day will be divided into intervals of fifteen and forty-five minutes for the consideration of many important subjects. First will come discussions of religious education, then hospitals and homes and industrial relations. Fifteen minutes will be given to the literature of the movement and also a financial exhibit of the movement's affairs. American education will be allotted a prominent place.

In the afternoon, the subjects will include evangelism, the field program, financial organization and the educational group. The evening will be devoted to a general discussion of the need for such a co-operative movement as the Interchurch among the Protestant forces of America, especially in their relation to home affairs and world conditions.

The final day will deal with organization and the findings of the various committees which will have been appointed for investigation during the course of the conference.

One of the most important proceedings of the meeting will be the smaller conferences of ministers from each denomination during the course of the main conference. There will be time provided for such meetings in order that the denominations may determine upon denominational policies and uniform campaigns covering the entire state, and may take such action regarding co-operating with other denominational bodies as may seem advisable.

Little Maids in the "Moon Door" Symbol of the Hope of New China

Ginling College, at Nanking, is Girls' School in Five Provinces With Population of 111,000,000—Interchurch World Movement to Aid Institution.

The way to all things at Ginling lies through the moon door. And through the moon door on the way to wisdom lies the path of life. Every day, the 70 Chinese maidens of the "moon-door" college, at Ginling in Nanking, are round the full moon, whence it has its name. And the Chinese maiden, as she steps over its high sill, may spread wide her arms and still not touch its rim with the tips of her fingers.

Sometimes across the court yard is another moon door, and beyond it, like a smaller concentric circle, still another, leading on through that Chinese puzzle of a house, the "kung-gwan" or official residence at Nanking, China, which is now the home of Ginling College for Chinese girls—one of the three women's colleges in all China.

The moon door is but a single feature of the old place. Once inside the high stone walls that enclose it one is lost in a maze of courts and galleries and covered passages and isolated rooms.

One pushes ajar the halves of a moon door, latticed and honeycomb design, and enters a chemical laboratory set up in a room with 20 windows, each framed in dragon tracery. And from the flagstones of the laboratory floor, often is scraped fungi and mould for use under the microscope.

These are typical contrasts of Ginling College, revealed through the survey of the Chinese field now being made by the Interchurch World Movement, which seeks to promote the co-operation of Protestant churches of America in attaining their world aims.

CLAIM DESCENT FROM CELTS

Writer Asserts Scotsmen Are a Unit in Denying Stories of Their Saxon Origin.

It was that deadly flower of Saxon chivalry, Edward I. who caused the early records of Scotland to be destroyed. Fortunately, the Irish Celtic minstrel's writings remained, and as historians none were more competent or able to form an impartial judgment of Scotland's early history than they were. Nowhere in their annals do they make the slightest mention of the silly theory of the Saxon origin of the people of southern or eastern Scotland, and they also know nothing of the fictitious division of Highlanders and Lowlanders. Hector Boece is also silent on the supposed Saxon descent of the Lowlander and the expulsion of the Celt. Instead he says we who have our abode on the confines of England, through much commercial intercourse and wars, have learned the Saxon speech, and have forsaken our own. Our place names prove the essential Celticity of Scotland, as the Celtic forms outnumber the English by ten to one, and the latter are mostly modern or corruptions of the Gaelic. The English language, pushed out our native Gaelic, but neither Saxon nor English displaced the men, and any outsiders who fifteen hundred years ago were permitted to survive within our borders would soon be fused into the whole, and today we are a nation or race or breed second to none, and as Professor Keith, the eminent ethnologist, says, "The Scot is the fertilizer of the British empire."—Edinburgh Scotsman.

MUST BE BORN A SINGER

Certain Formation of Throat and Nostrils Imperative for Utterance of Sweet Sounds.

According to recent scientific discoveries, singing birds, like human singers, must have a certain type of throat and nostrils. A full throat, large throat, open nostrils and slightly protruding lips with good length from the point of the nose to the point of the chin and full cheeks are, say the scientists, positive signs in a human being of the power to give forth tone.

If the ears are round and well set to the head it is a sign not only of the power to sing, but to appreciate, and the combination means the great artist. With feathered songsters much the same rules hold good. The round, somewhat pointed beak of the canary opens wide and his throat and throat are exceedingly big for so tiny a bird, according to the Philadelphia North American. He can hear and appreciate the sweetest sound and his trills and the beauty of his tone are due to his throat, to the roundness of his head and the shape of his bill.

The duck, on the other hand, having a flat bill and a small throat can only quack. Even if he longed to sing he could not acquire any pleasant notes, and it is the same with some people. The most careful training cannot give the sound box which nature provides for those to whom she gives the great gift of vocal powers.

May Mean War on Rats.

There is not enough leather to go round. Fish skins are susceptible to rotting and there are rat skins which make good leather, large enough for many purposes. They would do for some kinds of gloves and mittens, says the Little Journal. They may be sewed together to make cloaks and other garments, and they are not too small to be available for parts of boots and shoes. The general rule to leather is that the thicker the fur is the poorer the hide, and vice versa. According to this, rat hide would produce superior leather.

Somebody with the gift of guessing computes that there are 100,000,000 rats in this country, and the damage they do would feed a good-sized army. It would take at least 5,000 ships a day to supply a small modern tannery. Nobody wants the rats; they belong to anybody that can catch them. That is the only problem—to catch them and skin them, and then deliver the goods.

New Insulating Material.

A new insulating material that is incombustible is made by mixing 61.7 per cent powdered asbestos, 14 per cent powdered mica, 20 per cent mineral rubber (a soft substance found in deposits of oleaginous schist); 1 per cent rosin and 0.3 per cent of bisulphide of selenium. After washing and evaporating in the air, a hard, non-absorbent substance is obtained which, on heating, becomes plastic and can be molded to any shape.

HARMFUL GREEN-BOTTLE FLY

Causes Wool Maggot of Sheep and Has Been Known to Deposit Eggs on Calves.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The green-bottle fly has a wide distribution throughout the world. It is known as the green-bottle or green blowfly in this country. It is rather closely associated with habitations of man and is not as commonly known on the range as are the screw-worm fly and the black blowfly. It is often abundant in cities, especially if garbage is not properly cared for.

This is the fly which causes the wool maggot of sheep in the British Isles.

The Green-Bottle Fly—Enlarged.

and the same habit has been recorded for it in this country. It has been known to deposit eggs on the soiled rumps of calves as well as sheep, following diarrhea, and occasionally it infests wounds on animals.

It is usually slightly smaller than the black blowfly and the screw-worm fly. Its color ranges from a brilliant bluish green to a dark metallic bronze green. It is without stripes or other markings.

The adult flies usually appear during the first warm days of spring and are present throughout the summer, though they seldom become as numerous as the screw-worm fly or black blowfly. The length of time required for development is about the same as that required by the black blowfly. The maggots breed exclusively in animal matter.

There are two or more species of flies of this group which occasionally breed in living animals, apparently attacking only old festering wounds. They are of comparatively little importance, and since there are a great number of different kinds of flies of this group some of which are not at all injurious, it is hardly necessary that the stockmen learn to recognize them. Their size varies considerably from a little larger than the common housefly to somewhat larger than the black blowfly. The color is usually uniformly gray, with black stripes on the back.

Many of the members of this group of flies retain the eggs in the abdomen until they hatch, and thus bring forth living maggots. Those species which attack living animals breed in decaying animal matter, and their life history is almost the same as that of the screw-worm fly. The flies seldom become very numerous, and in most of the cases in which they are found in living animals they are located in old festering wounds or the young are deposited after a sore has become infested by screw worms. These flies seem to be able to withstand the hot, dry weather of midsummer in the Southwest and probably are responsible for many of the cases of infestation of animals during such periods.

The World's Largest Tire Factory

Building 30x3, 30x3½ and 31x4-inch Tires

Owners of small cars can enjoy the same high relative value in Goodyear Tires that gives utmost satisfaction to owners of big, costly motor carriages.

They can take advantage of that tremendous amount of equipment, skill and care employed by Goodyear to build tires of extraordinary worth in the 30x3, 30x3½, and 31x4-inch sizes.

They can secure these tires without waiting, despite the enormous demand, because, in addition to its larger sizes, Goodyear builds an average of 20,000 a day in the world's largest tire factory devoted to the three sizes mentioned.

If you own a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell, or any other car using one of these sizes, go to the nearest Goodyear Service Station Dealer for Goodyear Tires and Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes.

30x3½ Goodyear Double-Cure

Fabric, All-Weather Tread $20.90

30x3½ Goodyear Single-Cure

Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread $17.65

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are thick, strong tubes that reinforce casings properly. Why risk a good casing with a cheap tube? Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost little more than tubes of less merit. 30x3½ size in water—$3.90 proof bag.

Legion News

The following is a statement made by the American Legion, Franklin D. Roosevelt, in regard to the $50 Liberty Bond per month bonus for service men: The American Legion is not seeking pay for its patriotism. Nothing can recompense him for the sacrifice he has made. The American Legion believes, however, that it is possible to relieve him of the financial advantages which his war service entailed. The Government saw fit to grant to government clerks a bonus for their services rendered to the safety of the national capital. Workmen safely encountered in shipyards and munition plants were rewarded for their services by the exceptionally high wages and a bonus. While the service man only received thirty dollars a month and a sixty dollar bonus at the date of his discharge.

The regular meeting of the American Legion, Boone Post No. 4 was held at Burlington, March 2nd, 1920, at 8 o'clock p. m. The members turned out to vote on the fifty dollar bonus proposition. It was about the largest attendance of members that we have had at any time since the Post has been organized.

The American Legion does not demand a reward. It does not want a reward for the performance of its duty as a citizen, the very performance of which will always be for him a source of the greatest personal satisfaction. He only asks for a square deal.

FARMER'S INCOME SUBJECT TO TAX

Gains for 1919 Must Be Figured
Under U. S. Law—Returns
Due March 15.

LAND SALE PROFITS TAXABLE.

Necessary Farm Expenses May Be Deducted—Special Form for Farm Income—Cash or Accrual Basis for Computing.

A farmer, shopkeeper, or tradesman must figure up his net income for 1919; and if the farm or business income plus his other income was sufficient to require an income tax return a complete return must be filed with the collector of internal revenue by March 15.

A farmer should also add the gross income of his farm by computing all gains derived from the sale or exchange of his products, whether produced on the farm or purchased and resold.

Farm Expenses.
From his gross income a farmer is allowed to charge off all of his necessary expenses in the conduct of the farm during the year. These include costs of planting, cultivating, harvesting and marketing. In addition to these costs he may deduct money spent for ordinary farm tools of short life bought during the year, such as shovels, rakes, etc. Also, the cost of feed purchased for his live stock may be treated as an expense in so far as this cost represents actual outlay, but the value of his own products fed to animals is not a deductible item.

Other farm expenses allowable are the cost of minor repairs on buildings (but not the dwelling house), on fences, wagons and farm machinery; also bills paid for horse-shoeing, sick powders, rock salt, services of veterinary, insurance (except on dwelling house), gasoline for operating power and sundry other expenses which were paid for in cash.

As to hired help, all the productive labor is a deductible expense; but the wages of household servants, or help hired to improve the farm, as in tree planting, ditching, etc., cannot be charged against earnings. A farmer is not allowed to claim a salary for himself or members of his family who work on the farm.

Wear and Tear.
Purchase of farm machinery, wagons, work animals, etc., also the cost of construction or extension of buildings, silos, fencing, etc., should be considered additional investments in the farm and are not proper deductions against income.

A reasonable allowance may be claimed for wear and tear on farm buildings (except the farmhouse), fences, machinery, work animals, wagons, tanks, windmills and other farm equipment which is used in the conduct of the farm.

As to autos and tractors, the cost of these is not an expense, not being the cost of their upkeep is an allowable deduction, if the machines are used exclusively for farm purposes and not for pleasure. And, in such cases, a deduction for wear and tear is allowed.

Farm Losses.
The loss of a growing crop is not a proper deduction from income, inasmuch as the value of the crop had not been taken into gross income. The loss of a building or of machinery through storm, lightning, flood, etc., is an allowable deduction, but care should be used to ascertain the correct loss sustained, as restricted by income tax regulations.

No deduction is allowed in the case of loss of animals raised on the farm, but a loss is deductible from gross income if the animals had been purchased for draft or breeding purposes. Shrinkage in weight or value of farm products held for a favorable market price cannot be deducted as a loss, for the reason that when such products are sold the shrinkage will be reflected in the selling price.

Sale of Farms and Land.
The value of agricultural lands has been jumping during the past few years, and during 1919 many owners sold out part or all of their lands at big profits. All such gains constitute income and must be taken into the net income for the year.

Any person who sold part of a farm or ranch, or part of a parcel of land, must also show any gains realized by the sale.

The method of figuring gains and losses on such transactions is prescribed in the Income Tax regulations, copies of which may be secured from Internal Revenue Collectors.

Forms for Returns.

The Internal Revenue Bureau has issued an improved Form 1010F for the use of farmers. This form, together with Form 1010A or 1010, will give the farmer explicit information as to how to properly figure his net income for 1919.

There are two methods of figuring a farmer's income tax return this year. He may make his return on the basis of the difference between the money and goods received for his products and the cash paid out for actual allowable farm expenses within the year. Or he may make his return on the basis of his net income, which means computing the receipts and expenses that pertain to the taxable year, excluding income earned and expenses incurred in previous or succeeding years.

FOOD COMBINATIONS.

There is no law which governs the foods that go well together, for the kind of food served depends upon whether you are an oriental or a Bostonian. The tastes of a people determine the food combination. It is a study which is both a science and an art. We may seem to thrive on one kind of food, but we find that where two or three are served they digest better and are better able to keep up the body activities. If we treat the body as a well regulated furnace which is fed at intervals, not stuffed with the day's allowance which will choke the fires through imperfect combustion, we will be intelligent in the choice and care of food.

If we accept we waste good fuel, and overwork the furnace; if we are undernourished the furnace cannot give off heat or supply energy. The three food principles which we find supply the body in the best possible manner are proteins, meat, fish, eggs and milk; fats which are obtained from butter, cream and oils, carbohydrates or sugars and starches represented by potatoes, rice and sugar. To see that these three foods are included in each meal we have what is called a well-balanced meal. If they are served in good proportions.

In each meal we have another responsibility to see that foods containing iron, phosphorus and calcium are given as well as some which furnish the roughage or ballast necessary to give bulk to the food.

Fruits which excite the appetite are used first, as fresh fruit for breakfast and sweets are used as a finish, or dessert, as sugar stulls the appetite a good reason for never giving children sweets just before a meal, a practice far too common among mothers.

Some people are sensitive to certain foods or combinations which others enjoy with comfort; this is owing to some peculiarity of the body machinery, of course these things should be heeded. Happy the man and woman who is normal and is able to eat, digest, assimilate and enjoy all the good things provided by our all-wise Creator.

HANDS, ARMS, LIMBS ASLEEP

And Was Run-Down, Weak and Nervous, Says Florida Lady.
Five Bottles of Cardui Made Her Well.

Kathleen, Fla.—Mrs. Dallas Price, of this place, says: "After the birth of my last child... I got very much run-down and weakened, so much that I could hardly do anything at all. I was so awfully nervous that I could scarcely endure the least noise. My condition was getting worse all the time..."

"I knew I must have some relief or I would soon be in the bed and in a serious condition for I felt so badly and was so nervous and weak I could hardly live. My husband asked Dr. Cardui, 'It's a good medicine, and good for that trouble,' so he got me 5 bottles... After about the second bottle I felt greatly improved... before taking it my limbs and hands and arms would go to sleep. After taking it, however, this poor circulation disappeared. My strength came back to me and I was soon on the road to health. After the use of about 5 bottles, I could do all my house-work and attend to my six children besides."

You can feel safe in giving Cardui a thorough trial for your troubles. It contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs, but is composed of mild, vegetable, medicinal ingredients with no bad after-effects. Thousands of women have voluntarily written, telling of the good Cardui has done them. It should help you, too. Try it.

SPECIAL CARE AT LAMBING TIME PAYS

A large crop of lambs is the basis of good financial returns, while a small crop of lambs means less profit. It is very necessary that ewes and lambs be given extra attention in order to insure the largest profits. Sheep specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture point out:

Heavy grain feeding just before lambing, especially in cases where the ewes have not been fed grain, is dangerous. If the ewes are not in good condition in the early part of the winter, they should be gradually accustomed to grain six weeks prior to lambing time. A grain mixture of equal parts of corn, oats, and bran by weight, fed at the rate of one-fourth to one-half pound per head daily to ewes not in very good condition will be found a good practice. Prior to lambing the wool around the udder of the ewe should be clipped short to allow the lambs to find the teats readily.

When a ewe shows indications of lambing, it will be found best to put her in a separate pen, which can be made of light panels four feet in length fastened together by a hinge and set in the corner. These panels permit the ewe to see the other members of the flock and prevent her from becoming excited and nervous. Their use also prevents other sheep from disturbing the ewe and young lamb. The ewe has a good chance to get acquainted with her lamb at the start, thus averting the danger of disowned lambs later.

The lamb that is born strong and vigorous, with a good dam, will need very little care after the first day or two. It is important to see that the first feed promptly. When lambing pens are used, the shepherd is able to give the individuals more careful attention and thus get them on the way more rapidly.

The shepherd should watch the ewes carefully to see that their udders are in good condition. This is of special importance during the first week with ewes which are heavy milkers. After lambing the ewes should be fed lightly at first, being put on full feed about the third or fourth day. At this time it is economical to feed heavy enough to produce a large flow for the lambs. Ewes which are good milkers will use to advantage one or two pounds of grain per head daily. A good grain mixture consists of four parts of corn, four parts of oats, two parts of bran, and one part of oil meal, by weight.

When the lambs are two weeks old they should be provided with a grain feed in a lamb creep, which can be constructed so that only the lambs have access to the grain. Any convenient arrangement to meet the needs of the individual farm will be found satisfactory. Crushed corn and oats, with bran, fed in equal parts by measure, makes a very satisfactory feed to start the lambs with. They should be fed just a little at first until they become used to the grain, which should be gradually increased until they are receiving what they will clean up in 15 minutes a day. By providing grain for the lambs in a lamb creep, larger and more economical gains can be made.

Changes in Southern Hog Styles.

South of the Mason and Dixon line, hog styles are changing, the underlying idea apparently being to eliminate extravagance to effect intensive economy, to expedite growth in the most profitable types of porkers, to amalgamate, as soon as possible, the good points of the most profitable producers and to concentrate them in the majority of Southern herds.

It is undeniable that some breeds of swine do better under certain conditions and with certain feeds and methods of feeding than do others, although there is no outstanding breed which excels, report specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. No fad and fancies should influence the farmer in selecting or maintaining foundation breeding stock. Primarily, the farmer breeds hogs for profit, and accordingly he should work only with utility animals of the most desirable type.

In every breed of hogs there are certain lines of breeding that are deservingly popular because they have been built through generations of careful selection by master breeders who have been successful in establishing the more fundamental qualities. The farmer should keep these facts in mind and should continue such improvement by close culling and proper feeding. The farmer's popular hog should be of a breed that is liked by both feeders and packers, and that is adapted to all sections of the country and which will thrive and fatten on a large variety of feeds. It is essential that such porker produce a maximum weight at the minimum cost; that they mature early to the greatest weight consistent with quality and that they inherit the ability to produce an abundance of frame and to make rapid growth.

Broad, high backs with good spring of ribs and full deep hams denote carrying ability and high priced cuts. Good strong feed and heavy bone are essential for the support and production of great weight. Long, deep and comely bodies denote profitable qualities and plenty of pork. Deep chests and bright, open eyes are signs of vigor and energy. Size sells more meat for the hungry world and more money for the Southern hog producers whose sale and market animals of the type described above.

URGES GALLOWES REPLACE CHAIR

Another result of the murder of little Geneva Hardman in Fayette county and the subsequent trial, conviction and death sentence imposed upon Will Lockett, the negro, at Lexington, while a mob was bent on wreaking vengeance on him, is the introduction of a bill in the Legislature by Senator J. W. Harlan, of Danville, to substitute hanging for electrocution as the death penalty in certain cases.

Senator Harlan said that he offered the bill after consulting with a number of his colleagues in the General Assembly, who agreed with him that the death penalty as now imposed was not a sufficient deterrent to the commission of certain crimes against women, the execution of which, under the present circumstances, being far removed from the scene.

The author of the measure proposing hanging for electrocution for certain crimes pointed out that now upon conviction the condemned criminal is taken to the Eddyville penitentiary to await his execution, which may be several hundred miles from the scene of his crime, and that extreme penalty is meted out without attracting the slightest attention in the vicinity where the crime was committed. His bill provides that upon conviction for crimes against women where the death penalty is imposed the execution shall be by hanging in the county where the crime was committed, and that in all other cases electrocution shall be the mode of meting out the extreme penalty of the law. He said that he had been assured of support in amending the present law to the extent proposed.

The present electrocution law was fathered by Senator Herman D. Newcomb, Louisville, in the 1910 Legislature, and it was to get away from the morbid curiosity and sickening sentimentality that then attended legal executions by hanging that the author claimed prompted him to make a change by having the death penalty meted out in the electric chair at the Eddyville prison instead of upon the gallows in the jail yards of the various county seats, which had obtained since the founding of the State.

Time for Farm Inventory.

The Farmer's Home Journal is reminded by Prof. W. D. Nichols of the Kentucky Experiment Station, that those of our readers who have received the farm account book should begin at once making their inventories. The inventory is the first step in the carrying out of the system and we are confident that those farmers who carry Prof. Nichols' suggestion will be the gainers thereby.

Prof. Nichols says: "More and more Kentucky farmers are realizing that farming is a business and that it responds well to business methods. They know that the keeping of farm records furnishes the only means by which they can study the farming systems. Thousands of farmers will keep complete accounts this year for the first time."

"A complete farm account consists of the farm inventory, a record of the acreage and yield of all crops grown and a record of all farm receipts and expenses. The first step in starting a farm account and the most important record in it is the inventory. This consists of an itemized list of all farm property, opposite each item of which is placed its value. Without the inventory it is impossible for the farmer to determine his profits for the year or what he is actually worth. It furnishes more useful information than any other the farmer can keep."

"Detailed inventories should be made of land and buildings, live stock, machinery and equipment and growing crops. Only a few hours, usually two to four on most farms, is required to do this. The figures used in closing one year's account are used in opening the next year's account so it is necessary to take the inventory only once a year. Once started, the inventory should be made at the same time each year."

"The ideal time for taking the inventory is the latter part of February or the first part of March. Right now is the time to start."

"There are numerous advantages to be gained from the practice of making an annual inventory. It furnishes a time to round up the year's business. If all accounts owed by and due to the farmer are not settled, it is to the interest of all concerned to know the exact amount of each item. It furnishes a good opportunity to call home any tools or equipment loaned to neighbors and it gives the farmer a good excuse to ask for payment of overdue accounts or notes. But the greatest advantage is that with this information at hand the farmer can easily find out what he is worth above all indebtedness, and he has something to work with in his efforts to make his business more profitable. A very farmer should consider what an inventory of all his farm property would mean to him, the short time required to take and then decide whether or not he can afford to farm without it."—Farmer's Home Journal

Selling a Lighting Plant.

Mr. Henry Youtsey, of Newport, visited our city yesterday, selling The Phelps Lighting and Power plant for country homes. He says his plant furnishes from 10 to 150 electric lights, and is driven by a 3 1/2 H. P. engine, furnishing twice as much light and power as his nearest competitor, and selling at the same price. Also that his plant can be used for sawing wood, grinding feed, pumping water, and all household work, without buying extra motor, and that all persons interested in lighting and power plants had best investigate the Phelps before purchasing.

TO THE CITIZENS OF BOONE COUNTY:

Greeting:—

The Hon. Fiscal Court of Boone County has seen fit to appoint a County Road Engineer to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. C. H. Youell. On account of the increased traffic on all the roads in Boone county they deemed it advisable to appoint an engineer of experience.

Citizens of Boone county, we cannot have better roads unless every man of you give me your loyal support and cooperation. This county and no other county in the state has sufficient funds to maintain over 20 per cent of the roads as they should be maintained.

Better roads are civilizers, are educators, are promoters of good health, are milestones of civilization and pay for themselves. They bind people together in industry, intelligence and patriotism. They bring the country to the town with its produce and will send the town to the country for pure air and better health. Will convert barren lands into fertile fields, will enhance the value of everything they touch, will facilitate and cheapen transportation, will bring untold wealth to the producers and save millions to the consumers. They will make country life as attractive as city life. They are indispensable to our growth and progress, and will make the consumers dollars go further and put into the farmers' pocket a greater part of that dollar. Good roads make possible the two great links of civilization—the model home and the model country school.

The greater portion of the roads in this county are bad, and they are the signs of backwardness, indolence and careless citizenship, and are responsible to a great degree for driving the young people from the farm into the cities. They empty the benches in the school house and churches, and are an extravagance that no civilized people can afford. Every dollar expended in road construction and maintenance in every section of our county is a distinct contribution to the welfare, comfort and happiness to the people of this county and state.

The value of a man's services to society is in proportion to his ability to work with other men. Try it once on our roads and make better roads and better men.

I stand for improved roads in Boone county, and to that end I shall give my time, thought and energy—but I can do nothing without the valuable support and assistance of the citizens.

Don't air your grievances to your neighbors, concerning a mud hole or bad piece of road, come tell me about it and let us work together for the betterment and improvement of the roads in Boone county.

E. M. ARNOLD,
County Road Engineer.

It is with deep sorrow and regret that we learn of the death of our old neighbor and friend, Miss Emma Connelley, at the home of her brother, Alex Connelley, in San Fernando, California, Saturday, Feb. 28th. She suffered a stroke of paralysis about four weeks ago and was perfectly helpless without a moments warning. She regained consciousness but was never able to speak. For many years she was one of the dearest friends and neighbors we ever knew, but about eight years ago she left for the Golden West, where she has made her home since with her brother and family. She leaves two sisters Mrs. J. Z. Bristow and Mrs. William A. Rice and a brother Arthur Connelley all formerly of this place but now of Latonia and a brother Alex Connelley of San Fernando, several devoted nieces and nephews and many many friends. She was a member of Florence Baptist church and her life was one of loving deeds of kindness for all who needed a helping hand. The funeral was at 2 p. m. Tuesday, March 2nd, with interment at San Fernando.

Altogether it is likely that Kentucky will realize $300,000 this year from the race tracks in this state under the supervision of the State Racing Commission. The license fixed in the bill to raise revenue from the tracks is $250 a day, and would ordinarily raise only $250,000, as the tracks have held 100 days racing in the past, but it is likely that there will be 120 days racing in Kentucky in 1920.

Several big loads of tobacco have passed thru Burlington this week enroute to market.

The legislature has decreed that the minimum salary of a school teacher shall be $75 per month.

P. G. Cropper, of Louisville, was the guest of his brother, W. D. Cropper, one night last week.

William Conner, a prominent citizen of East Bend neighborhood, died of pneumonia week. He was ill but a short time.

The first of March saw an increase in the volume of work at the county clerk's office, 23 deeds being received for record that day.

Attorneys W. W. Dickerson, of Cincinnati, and John L. Vest, of Walton, attended county court last Monday and were busy looking to the interests of their clients.

Chas. M. Carpenter, of Price pike, came in Tuesday and arranged for advertising his sale of very excellent Holstein cattle for the 11th inst. It is a very fine selection of animals and persons desiring extra good cows should attend his sale.

Master Commissioner Maurer sold real estate as follows last Monday:

In the case of Hughes against Hughes, 10 acres of land was sold to Rube Riley. The land is located on the headwaters of Mudlick creek.

In the suit of Mabel B. Atwood against J. D. Mayhugh, the lots in the town of Walton were bought by J. D. Mayhugh for $6,250.

Elmer Kirkpatrick, who took a truck load of tobacco to Augusta, Bracken county, last week, is not inflated with the roads over which he traveled through Pendleton and Bracken counties, and says the roads in Boone are a long ways the better. It took him three days to make the trip, which was a strenuous experience from start to finish.

Bro. H. C. Thomas, who has been prevented from filling his appointments on the Petersburg circuit by typhoid fever, hopes to fill his appointments in March. He expects to be at Petersburg on the first Sunday, East Bend on the second Sunday, Big Bone on the third Sunday and Taylorsport on the fourth.

D. E. BEDINGER.

Governor Morrow has asked the legislature to appropriate the sum of $3,000 to pay the expenses of the trip of a commissioner to England to obtain the flag captured from Kentuckians by the British at the battle of the River Raisin during the war of 1812. The Governor urges the passage of an act to provide for the organization of a Jefferson Davis Memorial Association to acquire the home of Jefferson Davis and the park surrounding it, the property to be maintained by the State.

Here are some of the shifts that have taken place in this community this week: L. R. McNeely moved to the country; Charles Kerr moved to the residence vacated by McNeely, and Omer Porter took possession of the premises vacated by Kerr. Stanley Edkins moved to the property he bought of Marce Riddell, and Jas. Kelly moved into the house vacated by Edkins, he having purchased it several weeks ago. Dr. Yelton is the next to change residences, which he will do in a few days.

The Washington birthday exercises by the Petersburg school were both entertaining and instructive. The program was well arranged and everything passed off like clock work, each pupil taking part in a manner that gave the occasion zest. Prof. Carter delivered a very appropriate address, and the audience was pleased with the many entertaining features of the day. The Petersburg school is very much on Boone county's educational map, being the only school in the county that furnishes transportation for the pupils.

Mr. Aubrey T. Rankin, a well known farmer of Harrison county, died at the home of his son, Grover Rankin, on Dixie Highway, near Florence, Sunday, Feb. 22, at the age of 72 years. He is survived by eight children—Sam, of Oklahoma, Tom, of Ohio, Arthur, of Indiana, Robert, George, James, Grover, and Eliza, of Kentucky. His wife and two daughters having passed to the great beyond several years ago. He was a member of the Masonic for a number of years. The remains were taken to Berry, Harrison county, and the funeral services were conducted by Rev. Garriott at the Benson church, and the burial was in the Benson cemetery.

Stephen Gaines, 55, son of the late Edward Gaines, died at his home in Petersburg precinct last Tuesday morning, after an illness of many months of heart trouble. He is survived by his wife, who was a Miss Cloud of Illinois, one son, Walter, and two brothers, Circuit Judge Sidney Gaines, and James E. Gaines. He occupied the home where he was raised, his brother, James, living only a few hundred yards from him. He was a quiet, unassuming man, devoted to his home, his wife and his son. He spent his life in the neighborhood in which he was born, and there it was his pride to be heard. Those who knew him best appreciated him most, and his life, though not a long one, leaves an impress upon his fellowman for good.

The list of 183 delinquent dog licenses was placed in the hands of Sheriff Alvin Courtney about a month ago, and he succeeded in requiring every one of the dog owners to take out a license. There were about 1,800 dogs listed with the assessor, and there is not a delinquent in the county. We make the assertion, without fear of contradiction, that there is not another county in the State that can show this record.—Falmouth Outlook.

On many ponds ice remained from the middle of last December until the first week in this month. On several occasions a thawout appeared to be at hand, but there would come a sudden change in the temperature and another freeze would follow, and ice to the thickness of fifteen inches was the final result of the numerous freezes.

GOOD ROADS IMPORTANT

But Can Not Be Built Sifting Around Store Stoves.

Roads are so important that they may be compared with the life. They are both good and bad; they are smooth, even level, wide, they are hilly, narrow and winding, dangerous, shadowy and bright and they show the effects of environment and care, even as we.

They are the very means of our life for over them pass the food which must keep the people of the cities alive. We think of the cities and the country folk would be without many of the present necessities of life that they are now able to enjoy.

Roads are the connecting links between the city business man and the manufacturer and the farmer, dairyman and producers of food.

Roads alone make it possible for both country and city to live up to our standard of living.

Who then can place a value on roads, and who is great enough to say what their true service to mankind is? Your problem is a country or land without roads (outside of Boone county).

A good man sets an example, a good road is likewise an example and as we have too few good roads, so have we too few good men.

Men, it is time to cease talking about building good roads, siting around the store stove, for when the sun shines they thaw out and are as muddy as ever, so instead of talking goodroads, build good roads for this is an industrial problem.

There is something you can do to promote good roads in your community and when you do this you are putting good dollars in your pocket.

W. H. WHITCOMB,

RECLAIMING THE WAR ZONES.

A recent examination of the work going steadily forward to reclaim the French farmlands reports that over 1,000,000 acres have been cleared and about 500,000 acres planted, or made ready for planting. How small a part this is of the total appears when we consider the extent of what is called the "first zone" where the heaviest fighting went on for four years, and forests vanished, villages were leveled, and the soil is so filled with metal that it now defies plowing. Here 2,291,500 acres of cultivated land were destroyed, and "how much of it" would be so filled with metal that it now defies plowing. Here 2,291,500 acres of cultivated land were destroyed, and "how much of it" would be so filled with metal that it now defies plowing. At Loggerheads.

The Consolidated and Hebron telephone systems have been at war as it were for several weeks, and the Hebron people do not know just where they are as regards connection with the city, having failed completely in their efforts to secure connection with the Consolidated company, which is proposing to make the terms. And, by the way, there is no longer any free service from Boone county to Erlanger for Consolidated subscribers, the rate now being 20 cents a message. The Consolidated management has made considerable improvement in its system and service in the Walton and Beaver Lick territories and contemplates a large amount of improving in the Burlington territory during this year, endeavoring to make the system one of the best rural systems in the country. It is hoped that the trouble with the Hebron people will soon be adjusted and the two systems continue to work in harmony. In fact the two systems ought to be consolidated, which would give a much more extensive service.

"COUNTRY OF CITY-STATES."

Drift of Population Away From Country Seen In Report. Philadelphia Ledger.

With the first report of the census of 1920 giving the statistics of Cincinnati, which now has a population of 401,158, and Washington, D. C., which totals 437,111, unprecedented increase of 32.1 per cent over 1910, it is very clear that the drift of populations from the country to the cities in the continental area of the U. S. which has given many specialists serious food for thought for many years, will represent an increase for four decades since 1880. The ratio that obtained between 1880 and 1910. In 1880 70.5 of the population of the United States lived in urban communities, while in 1910 only 53.7 lived in the country. And this bucolic proportion was even less for this section of the country which carries the burden of the urban population of the United States, since in the North and East the rural population reached only 41 per cent between 1900 and 1910, and it has been definitely forecast by the preliminary studies of the population distribution made in various parts of the country that the urban returns will surpass all known records and past percentages.

It is not surprising, therefore, that this urban growth will practically make the U. S. a country of great city-states.

As to whether this drift of city-dwellers is healthy or not, there is some difference of opinion. At one time there was a disposition on the part of welfare enthusiasts to exalt the facts showing that the urban returns will surpass all known records and past percentages.

WORLD'S GREAT DEBT TO OIL.

It is 80 years since the first oil well was drilled in Pennsylvania, thus inaugurating the era of oil. The discovery was at once recognized as possessing great value, but it was not until the mammoth proportions to which the industry was destined to grow. Hailed as an illuminant supplanting the sun, it has since become the lifeblood of the world. The oil industry has long since departed from the place of its origin. The southwest and the Pacific coast, almost unbroken lands in the infancy of the business, now produce thousands of barrels of the original oil regions. Oil is still used and in isolated places all over the world, but it is no longer the chief product of crude. Gasoline, at first a troublesome by-product, is now the main result sought. The millions of motor-driven vehicles that have come into existence in the past score of years would not have been possible had we not had this desirable product to power them. Turnpike Fever Appearing.

This is the time of year when the necessity for turnpikes is discussed in many localities with a vim that makes it appear impossible for other than success. Just now those most interested are trying to raise the wherewithal with which to pike the road leading from the Burlington and Florio turnpike as far as possible to Onie Rouse's. This road has been under consideration on two or three different occasions and came very nearly being built a few years since. It is only a matter of time when the people most interested in that road will build it.

WARREN ACRE DEAD

Dies After Two Weeks Illness Of Pneumonia.

Warren Acre, in his 21th year, died of pneumonia at the home of his grandfather, Asa Cason, two and a half miles out on the East Bend road last Thursday morning. He was taken very ill about two weeks ago, and just when it was thought he had a possible chance to recover death was lurking in the near future. He was the son of Evan S. and Ethel Cason Acre, both of whom died of typhoid fever within a few days of each other when Warren was but a little over one year of age. His grandfather, Asa Cason and wife, took the child to raise, his grandmother passing away several years ago. For several years the grandfather and grandson have been keeping house to themselves, the young man looking after his grandfather in his declining years as a dutiful son would, and his death will be felt most keenly by the aged grandfather who was depending upon him in his old days. Warren Acre was a quiet, well-behaved young man who was liked by all who knew him and his many friends are grieved to know that he has been called away, and that "Uncle Asa" has lost the sympathy of all in his sore affliction.

After a short service at the grave on Sunday at noon by Rev. R. P. DeMoisey, the remains were interred in the family lot in the Odd-Fellows cemetery near town. C. Scott Chalmers, Walton, had charge of the funeral.

HEART TO HEART TALK

Rev. O. C. Peyton, D. D.

"An evil heart of unbelief." To just this last apostle, ascribes our wandering from God and our losing the joys that follow a close and intimate fellowship with Him.

Unbelief is a disease of the heart. It is a want of confidence in God. "An evil heart of unbelief," is an evil unbelieving heart—a heart destitute of confidence in God. It is a lack of faith in God is His richest possession. It brings true and abiding peace. It is the want of confidence in God that is the root of our fears, doubts, perplexities, barrenness, and wandering from God. My heart's chief longing is that I may be truly a messenger of peace and comfort to my people. My heart goes out in tender compassion towards them.

When I come home, as I recall them, there is sore need in one form or another. My heart is moved to much of fervent prayer for them, and for the loved people, over whom God has made me a spiritual leader. Distress, sorrow, bereavement, anxiety—all the long sorrow of life—need I try as occasion comes, to speak words of comfort. But, the best service I can render to my people is to "PRAY" for them, and for the loved people, over whom God has made me a spiritual leader. Distress, sorrow, bereavement, anxiety—all the long sorrow of life—need I try as occasion comes, to speak words of comfort. But, the best service I can render to my people is to "PRAY" for them, and for the loved people, over whom God has made me a spiritual leader.

Take heed, beloved, lest there be in you "an evil heart of unbelief," and you be led to depart from the living God. Have confidence in the saving power of Jesus Christ in His glorious promises of God. He is able to give you all you need. Faith relies on Him for prompt aid.

"MAKING GOOD" WITH RE-PLANTED CORN.

The weather had turned cold and damp just after I finished planting corn that spring, and I began digging around over the field three or four days later, to ascertain how the process of germination was progressing.

As I expected there was going to be considerable corn missing, and as I never had seen re-planting corn amount to much of anything except a little poor fodder, I concluded to try out a new plan that season in replacing the missing hills.

Just as soon as I discovered that a part of the field would require re-planting, I made preparations for the work by securing a box three or four feet long, two feet wide, and about eight or ten inches deep, filling it almost full of fine, rich dirt, and bringing it into the house.

Putting an old gunny-sack in two, and soaking it thoroughly in water, I spread one thickness of it over the top of the dirt in the box. If the sack laps over the side of the box, so much the better. I then spread quite a layer of good seed corn over the top of the dirt, and perhaps an inch thick over this sack. The seed corn also had been soaked over night.

Next I took another layer of an old gunny-sack, well soaked in water, and spread it over this layer of seed corn. Over this last sack, I spread an inch-layer of fine, rich dirt, and pressed it down very lightly against the sack. The top layer of gunny-sack also was left wider than the box, so one could get hold of it, making an inspection of the seed corn beneath.

The box was set in the south window during the day, where the night growth quite cool, the box ought to be placed near the stove. On warm, bright days, the box was set outdoors, in the warm open air, and sunlight. The surface soil was stirred frequently, to avoid crusting and baking. Each evening, unless it seems unnecessary, I give a good sprinkling of warm water. One even may carefully lift the top gunny-sack and lightly sprinkle the seed corn.

When the corn has well sprouted some of the sprouts being a half inch or more in length, the top gunny-sack and surface soil were removed, and the box, leaving the sprouted seed corn nice and clean to handle. By this time the corn-plants in the field were beginning to come through the ground, and it could be easily seen where any hills were missing. Hilling a small boy or two to assist me, we went to the garden off, one with a hoe, the other with a pair of this sprouted corn.

With one corner of the hoe, a hole about the size of a deep corn was made wherever there was a hill of corn missing. Some of this sprouted corn was dropped into the hole. In dropping the corn, we were careful to avoid breaking the sprouts off the seed, and the covering was very light, the dirt being pressed down very lightly over the seed.

The re-planted corn came through the ground in three days, and its growth was so rapid and vigorous that it quickly caught up with the plants which had come through by the first seeding.

Had I practiced the usual method of using dry, unsprouted seed for this re-planting, the second set of corn-plants would have been from a week to ten days later than the first, and the following disadvantages would have resulted.

Great care would have been necessary in cultivating, the corn the first time, else these late-planted stalks would have been covered up by the earlier planted corn, keeping ahead of the second planting, would shade it, thus retarding its growth still more.

All these points work toward the last and greatest drawback to re-planting corn, viz: Failure of the stalks to secure the full-nutrient pollenizing. The second set of corn-plants, being so much later than the first planting, that the blossoms of the early planted stalks all have dried up and blown away.

This leaves the late planted corn so thinly and unevenly distributed over the field, that many of the stalks will have no opportunity of coming into contact with the stalks, and so no ears will be formed on these stalks. Fodder, then, is all that such stalks will make, and this will not pay for the time, labor and seed involved in producing it.

This method of sprouting seed will be found practical in starting all kinds of truck and garden plants early especially sweet corn, thus getting the products on the market at a time when they are scarce and high in price. By using bagged earth especially sweet corn, the seeds can be planted for individual hilling, the plants being allowed a good start in-doors before transplanting them to the open garden or truck patch—M. C. Overdill, in Farmers Home Journal.

Streets in Bad Condition.

The streets in the town of Petersburg are in a horrible condition—almost impassable for conveyances of any kind. It is not one or two streets but nearly all of them that are used in any respect.

HEADQUARTERS

Of Farmers Bureau Ready to Assist Farmers Who Are Seeking Information.

A call at the office of the Farmers Bureau a few afternoons since found President Geo. Penn and Manager Lewis Beeson, present, and at their job, ever ready to give such information as a farmer might be in search for and to receive any order he might want to place for farm supplies, such as long of work along that line having been done.

They have on hand a large amount of literature or distribution among the farmers which they are glad to hand out to those who desire it. The two officers above mentioned appeared to be perfectly at home in their new business and will serve the farmers in a most proficient manner, and the Bureau Headquarters will be quite a lively place when it gets fully under way in the business it has cut out as it is prepared to serve the entire county and calls and orders will be coming from every direction as soon as the farmers become fully acquainted with the work it is intended to do for them.

Considering the few days, the head-quarters of the late Barkdale Hamlett, in charge said that they had been doing considerable work, and they are prepared to tackle a greatly increased volume which they anticipate will claim their attention in the very near future.

The Bureau has placed this week orders for 35 tons of fertilizer besides several large orders for seeds, seed oats, etc. Orders from farmers in every direction in the county are coming in and the next few days business will be particularly brisk at the Bureau's headquarters.

Sureties Must Pay.

Frankfort, March 5.—The Court of Appeals ruled today that the sureties of the late Barkdale Hamlett, Secretary of State of Kentucky, must pay to the State $17,017.27. The money, the Court said, Hamlett spent illegally, unlawfully and without authority of law in publication of an arbor and bird day book, a bulletin on home economics and the official manual and directory of the State, after Hamlett had retired from the office of Secretary of State four years ago.

The court held the state should recover $25,000 of the $64,711, as $25,000 was the total amount of the bond. The Appellate court ruled that only the money for the home economics, the official manual and educational directory and arbor and bird day book was spent without authority of law, and therefore, the state should recover from his bondmen the amount paid out for these publications.

Two New Vegetables.

Two new vegetables have been propagated at the Missouri botanical garden at St. Louis. It was announced by Dr. Geo. T. Moore, director of the garden. One has been named the "arachacha" and the other the "silene". Both resemble the potato and are said to be about equal in food value to it.

Doctor Moore explained the arachacha, when cooked, is a bit darker than the sweet potato and tastes like the parsnip. It is a rapid grower, he said.

Dasheens, cooked in cream, taste like potatoes. I was asked to have the flavor of roasted chest nut. Doctor Moore amplified. They are related to the Egyptian taro, commonly referred to as the "elephant ear," Dr. Moore said.

The announcement was made to delegates who attended the convention of the American Association of the Advancement of Science, which ended recently.

Supervisors of Tax at Work.

The county board of supervisors of tax who began their session at the court house last Monday is composed of the following:

C. Scott Chambers, Walton. J. B. Cloud, Constance. R. Huey, Burlington.

J. H. Walton, Carlisle. B. H. Berkshire, Petersburg.

Tax Commissioner H. W. Riley is in attendance on the supervisors and to give them any desired information in his possession in regard to the values of the property appearing on the Commissioners' books. The supervisors gave their work very careful attention last year, and the further fact that Tax Commissioner Riley returned a considerable increase in the amount of taxable property over what it was in 1919, will lighten the work of supervision very considerably.

Clarence Rogers moved from up about Sherman, Grant county, to J. S. Cason's place on Middle creek, last week.

DIXIE HIGHWAY.

Work to Be Rushed--Improvement to Extend Over Two Miles--To Cost $89,954

The following is taken from the Kentucky Post of last Tuesday and is of much importance to the people of Florence and Erlanger.

Work on reconstruction of the Dixie Highway, from the north corporation line of Erlanger to a point one mile south of the south corporation line of Florence, is expected to begin early in April. The contract for the work was awarded to Vastine & Lowry, Covington contractors, late Monday, at a special meeting of Kenton county commissioners and representatives from Erlanger and Florence.

The total length of the improvement is 2.1 miles, and will cost $89,954.

A little more than one mile of the highway will be paid by Kenton county, and the remainder by the towns of Erlanger and Florence and Boone county. Cost to Kenton county will be about $24,000, to Erlanger, $13,000, to Florence $9,700 and Boone county $9,000.

The remainder of the cost will be borne by the federal government which has adopted a policy of bearing 50 per cent of the cost of such roadways up to $20,000 a mile.

Much delay has been experienced in awarding the contract by some interested parties, claiming the bid of Vastine & Lowry to be too high, although it was $13,000 lower than the next lowest bid. Melvin Ross, state road engineer, attended the meeting and urged closing of the contract at once to avoid paying increased cost of materials.

Boone county representative notified the county commissioners that the $9,000 for their part of the construction is now on deposit in a bank.

Sam Adams, representing citizens of Erlanger, announced that all but one of the abutting property owners had agreed to pay for the work. Erlanger trustees will hold a meeting next Saturday night, when they expect to complete arrangements for payment.

Nearly all of the abutting property owners in Florence have agreed to pay their share of the improvement, it was announced. A meeting of town trustees will be held soon in an attempt to induce the others to sign an agreement.

Kenton county commissioners unanimously passed a resolution to appropriate funds to pay for its share of the improvement. The improvement of the highway will be a cement pavement similar to that between Erlanger and Covington.

TOBACCO EXPORTS IMPEDED.

Hopkinsville, — Chas. E. Barker and W. R. Dudley have returned here from Washington, where they went in an endeavor to institute plans to bring relief to conditions in the export of tobacco produced in Kentucky and Tennessee, which now is selling at greatly reduced prices on account of the high rate of foreign exchange.

Mr. Barker said that measures to relieve the situation are being considered by the War Finance Corporation.

He is confident that a solution of the difficulty will be found and that a good market and a reasonable price for the crops finally will be evolved.

Although offerings in the Covington loose leaf tobacco market Tuesday were somewhat lighter, the sale as a whole was one of the most satisfactory in several weeks. Offerings aggregated 29,750 pounds, with no rejections for the day. This was a clear indication of the upward trend of prices. Warehousemen stated after the sale that more competition developed than has been apparent since the first of February. There was considerable common tobacco on the floor, but it all brought a fair price. Medium to good red leaf, in both dark and bright grades, sold at prices that were from 1c to 3c per pound higher than last week's best figures. This was an advance of 55c compared with Mondays average. Average $19.31 per 100 pounds.

In many localities the flu and pneumonia have been so fatal the past two months as it was last year. Only occasionally a person who had the flu last winter repeated this winter, and very few persons above the age of sixty had the disease.

At the headquarters of the Farmers Bureau is a large blackboard on which are posted articles and animals the farmers desire to sell. Several sales have been brought about by the blackboard.

Time to begin thinking about sowing your oats. Farmers must begin to produce more feed for stock than they have been doing the past few years or quit raising stock.

FUTURE OF PEACH

TREE DEPENDS LARGELY ON PRUNING GIVEN.

The finest peach that any man ever saw was the one away at the end of the topmost limb where it could not be reached without breaking the tree—and possibly the man's neck. Of course, like the fish that got away, it isn't really any finer than some other peach, but it looks that way and causes a great deal of unhappiness.

Then, there is another very sad sight. A limb breaks under the weight of a great many fine peach es, and the fruit you may expect to put to such excellent use shrivels and goes to waste.

And the saddest thought of all is that both disasters could have been prevented by proper pruning. Not every peach grower realizes the importance of pruning in its relation to his bank account or to his table supply of fruit, if he is growing for home use. However, large orchard owners usually follow more or less closely some plan or system even though they may have no clean-cut conception of just what the plan involves. The owner of a few trees frequently goes at it more haphazardly than does one growing fruit on a commercial scale.

The principal object sought in pruning, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, is to keep the tree in the vigor of the tree; to keep the tree shapely and within bounds; to make the tree more stocky; to open the tree top to admit air and sunshine; to reduce the struggle for existence in the tree top; to remove dead or interfering branches; to renew the vigor of the tree; to aid in circulating sufficient new wood growth and the development of fruit buds; to secure good distribution of fruit buds throughout the tree; to thin the fruit; to induce uniformity in the ripening of the fruit; to make thorough spraying possible; to facilitate the harvesting of the fruit.

PRUNE IN EARLY SPRING.
In general, the proper time to prune peach trees is during the dormant period, preferably in late winter or early spring, just before growth starts, except in regions where bleeding from wounds is likely to occur. In such regions it should probably be done in early winter. But conditions and the object of the pruning must be considered in each case. If the pruning operations are very extensive it may be necessary to prune through the winter whenever the weather is suitable for men to work in the orchard. If the fruit buds are endangered during the winter by adverse temperatures it may be advisable to delay pruning as much as economic conditions permit until the first spring thaw arrives. This is especially advisable if heavily heading back of the previous seasons growth is desirable for the sake of the tree, since if a large proportion of the fruit buds are killed it may be best for the prospective crop not to cut back heavily.

During the dormant period, between the first and second year, the first years growth, provided it has been thrifty and vigorous, should be headed back rather heavily. Perhaps one-half or two-thirds of the growth should be removed. It is a mistake to be conservative with a "new" tree. The symmetry of the tree is strength and vigor, and its future development. In order to provide for an open, well-formed head in later years, it may be necessary to thin out some of the smaller, secondary branches. In doing this, however, provision must be made for a uniform distribution of limbs so spaced that the open top desired will be insured, yet leaving the main limbs with an ample number of secondary branches.

Pruning the second and third year does not differ in principle from that of the first. At each pruning, the previous seasons growth is headed back though perhaps not quite as much as at the first pruning. This, however, will depend upon the character of the growth and the condition of the tree. If it is stocky and strong, less heavy heading back will be required to serve the end in view, but long, slender, ailing growth should be shortened back as severely after the second or third season as at the earlier pruning.

At each subsequent pruning, the secondary branches require the same attention as the first pruning. The points which require particular attention are thinning out enough to keep the top open and shortening in heavily in order to produce a new growth of bearing wood evenly distributed throughout the top of the tree and the interior surfaces of the main limbs.

PRUNING AFTER THIRD YEAR.

By the time peach trees are three or four years old they should be bearing good crops of fruit. After this they will make a smaller annual growth under usual conditions than during the earlier years and less heading in will be required. In some seasons it may not be necessary to cut back the terminal growth, tho do so will tend as a rule, to develop the smaller secondary and side branches. Again, the extent of the heading back will be governed in some seasons by the abundance and condition of the fruit buds. If there has been winter injury, or if the buds failed to form well the previous season, little or no reduction of the previous seasons growth will be needed. On the other hand, if the trees made a strong growth, an abundant set of fruit buds developed, and they have suffered no injury or corresponding heavy cutting back of the previous seasons growth may be advisable in order to thin the fruit as much as is possible by means.

M. C. Stephens, of the Plattburgh neighborhood, came in last Monday to have his subscription renewed, and appeared to be in trouble, and when asked what was the matter, he answered, "I have lost another of my good neighbors." Supposing some one was dead he was asked who and when did they die, and he came back with the answer, "he aint dead, he has only moved from the neighborhood." Mr. Stephens, it turned out, was grieving over the departure of his old friends and neighbors, B. F. Akin and family, taking their departure for their new home in Bullittville neighborhood, they having moved to the Menter (Graves farm, Mr. Akin has resided on Walnut street for many years, and just how habitation in the hill country is going to agree with him is a question for the future to decide.

Middletown—L. P. Wetherby has bought the historic Davis house, a century old, in which Lafayette was a guest when it was a tavern, and it is being remodelled for an apartment house.

Lexington—Tobacco sales here for the season have reached 61,987,760 pounds at an average of $6.33 per hundred, which is $7.31 above the average last year.

Richmond—Buckley's Slatery will plant 200 acres in tobacco and have let a contract for eight new curing barns. Reports from this and adjoining counties indicate the largest acreage of record.

Falmouth—H. Ewig has sold to a Williamstown buyer 10 acres of oak timber, to be used in the manufacture of furniture, at $40 per thousand feet.

Lexington—A tent, with two but let holes in one side, containing the body of a man with a bullet hole in the head, were the only evidence of the murder of Clay Miller, 25 years old, at Fincastle, Lee county.

The Recorder was honored last Tuesday by the presence of two of the boys who did their part "over there." Howard Aylor, of Kass Bend, and Leo Stephens, of Kass Bend. They made good soldiers and are among the county's best young citizens.

A Complete Line and Double-Barreled Service

When you buy an IHC machine, you also buy all the good will that goes with the machine—that cooperation existing between the Harvester Company and the authorized International dealer, and which the dealer, in turn, expects to continue with you.

The Harvester Company expects to hold the confidence of the dealer, and the dealer wants to keep you as his friend and a friend of the IHC Line, by furnishing good implements, machines and farm operating equipment.

They both render to you a double-barreled Service in not seeing that you get satisfactory goods, but in seeing that these machines are kept in good running order long after the original purchase is forgotten.

Genuine IHC Repairs

The Harvester Company's moral obligation does not stop with the sale of the machine, but you can hardly expect them to assume any responsibility for the successful operation of an IHC machine if you buy imitation repairs of poor quality instead of the genuine repairs made by Harvester Company.

Look for the IHC registered trade-mark on Genuine Repairs for International Machines and buy them from the International Dealer.

U. S. INCOME TAX EXEMPTS NOBODY

Every Person Who Had Income in 1919 Must Determine Own Liability.

MARCH 15 LAST FILING DATE.

Surest Way Is to Follow Form 1040A.
Free Advice in Doubtful Cases.
Severe Penalties in Law.

Nobody is exempt from Income Tax. An obligation is laid directly on the shoulders of each citizen and resident to establish his own case and to get his return in on time if one is due.

With each return showing a tax due a period of time is allowed for the return of the tax. The return of the tax is a statement of the tax.

Advisers of 1919 must be filed on or before March 15.

Must Show True Figures.
In determining the liability for income tax, the taxpayer must show true figures. If the taxpayer is unable to do so, he must show the best estimate of his liability.

Everybody who had an income during 1919 must now determine whether or not he is liable for income tax. The amount to be paid is determined by the return of the tax.

One of the important points to keep in mind is that a person's net income is found by a computation prescribed in the law, and that each item of income from every source must be considered, unless specifically exempted.

Another thing to remember is that the personal exemption allowed tax-payers by law has no relation whatever to the requirement to file return. This exemption is not to be considered until a person has figured out his net income and determined whether it is sufficient to require him to file a return. Then, if a return must be filed, he should read carefully the instructions for claiming exemption, and complete his return.

If in doubt on any point as to income or deductions, a person may secure free advice and aid from the nearest Internal Revenue office. Many banks and trust companies are also furnishing similar service during banking hours.

Heavy Penalties in Law.
For failing to make a return on time the penalty is a fine of not more than $100 and an addition of 25 per cent to the tax. If a return is made late or fraudulent return the penalty is a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both; and, in addition, 50 per cent of the tax. There are other penalties for failing to pay tax when due and for understatement of the tax through negligence.

Many Sources of Income.
Aside from what one may earn by his services, there are many other sources of income. If he sold any property during 1919 he must figure out the gain realized. If he rented buildings, land, apartments or rooms such rents must be considered taxable, and he may claim deductions for necessary expenses incidental to rents.

Bank Interest is a common source of income and is taxable whether withdrawn or not. Any amount of interest credited to a depositor is income to the depositor.

Interest on mortgages and notes is taxable; also bond interest received from corporations.

A taxpayer who cashed his insurance during 1919 must report as income any excess received over the total of premiums paid.

Members of partnerships or personal service corporations or beneficiaries of an estate or trust must report their shares of income distributable to them whether or not actually withdrawn.

Dividends of domestic corporations must be reported. Many other forms of income are taxable, unless specifically exempted.

INCOME TAX IS DUE MARCH 15

Penalties for Delay and Failure to Make Returns—Early Compliance Urged.

All income tax returns covering the year 1919 must be filed by Monday, March 15. Each taxable return must be accompanied by check or money order for the full amount of tax due one-quarter of the amount of tax due.

Cash payments are accepted only at the collector's main office; if sent by mail, they are at the sender's risk.

Residents of Kentucky should file their returns with, and make payments of income tax to, Edward Hamilton, collector of Internal Revenue, Louisville.

Those who must file returns but have not done so are warned that the revenue law imposes heavy penalties for failure to get returns in on time or to make payments on time.

Early filing and early payments are urged, in order to relieve the Internal Revenue office as much as possible of an overload on the usual day, March 15.

TAXPAYERS

Faced By New Levies to Meet Expenditures Planned in Kentucky This Year.

Frankfort, March 7.—Hundreds of thousands of dollars will be levied and collected during this administration by provisions of bills that have been or will be passed by the Legislature. It is not unlikely that $5,000,000 will be levied and collected from taxpayers in addition to taxes paid last year. Hundreds of thousands of dollars will be needed for schools and other hundreds of thousands for road building. Besides, salaries of many county officials and a few subordinate officials of the state have been increased, and new officers have been established.

These expenditures in part have been approved by Governor Edwin P. Morrow, who has tried to make plain to the Legislature that if it passes an expenditure bill then it must pass a bill to raise a fund, else the measure is likely to feel the keen edge of the executive veto. There are a good many expenditures that Governor Morrow would like to approve if the state had the money. It would like to have a mounted police force, but the state, but says that he cannot approve of such an expenditure because the state has no money for that purpose. He feels that charitable institutions of the state should be cared for before money is spent on a mounted police force. This was made clear in a statement issued by the Governor following an appeal for a mounted force which was made by a delegation of women of Lexington.

The end of this session of the Legislature is not far off. This week and a half of next week and the session for 1920 will be a part of history. As is usually the case, two thirds of the real work of the session will be crowded into this week and the first three days of next week. The session is growing stronger each day, and many of the measures that should have been passed long ago remain in the hands of the day.

Two bills will be put up in the Senate this week that will cause a good deal of debate, but it is likely that both will pass. One provides for a tax of $2,500 a day on race tracks and the other Kentucky boxing contests in Kentucky. The race track bill is interesting in that it takes from the State Racing Commission the power to determine and fix the value of purses and leaves it to the corporation operating the race track. The boxing bill is urged by members from large cities, and because it is endorsed by army men, members from the rural districts likely will support it.

Georgetown Times.
Monday in Georgetown resubmitted a day on the curb exchange in New York. The lobbies of the banks, the common law lobby, the county clerk's office, and the real estate offices were crowded with men writing checks, recording deeds, and trading farms and houses and lots. Monday was March 1st.

There is no way at this time to estimate the amount of money in checks and cash and the real estate values that were involved in the exchange of land and real estate Monday. More money changed hands at the banks than was ever known in a single day, bankers say. Twice as much money was involved on this first day of March than there was on the same day in 1919. The inflation in farm and real estate values explains to some extent this fact, but there was more trading activity this year, bankers and real estate men declare.

Lancaster Herald.
Mr. W. H. Kelley, of Garrard county, and universally known by his famous "Kelley Tobacco Seed" has made a record this year with five acres of tobacco that competitors may take a shot at for several years to come.

From five acres of ground, Mr. Kelley sold $3,678.17 worth of tobacco, over the breaks of the Garrard Tobacco Warehouse at an average close to the dollar mark. But from this same piece of ground and same tobacco, he gathered his celebrated seed, amounting to 4,000 ounces, which he has sold and delivered and for which he received $8,000 making a total of $13,678.17 from five acres of land.

Edmonson News.
Friday morning Frank Englund, of the Marshall neighborhood, came in town riding a small yellowish mule. For no better name we will call him Kaiser.

After reaching upper street near Martin's dry goods store, the mule became a standstill—that is he backed against Martin's store and killed his engine. A crowd gathered to see the mule, and he backed but his hind feet became live dynamo. He finally backed over in front of Davidson's produce house which has a glass front, and it looked like the plate glass was going to suffer. He was quickly pulled from the firing line while in low and commenced backing. The crowd gathered and Mercantile Bank Constable Bill Jesse arrived on the scene and backed him out of town. It was said the mule was from the Circle 3 Ranch in Texas.

Grant County News.
Grant County's assessment valuation was boosted $310,000 by the State Board of Equalization in session at Frankfort last week. County Judge R. L. Webb and Tax Commissioner Tol Littell, went before the board when notified of a proposed increase of $510,000 and were successful in getting the State Board to cut their first increase $200,000.

The increase comes on farm property and on city lots. Farm property was raised $300,000 and town lots $10,000.

The increase still leaves the total of the county's assessment at $1,000,000. In the 1918 assessment, the Tax Commissioner says the falling off in the assessment valuation is due largely to a great reduction in the amount of live stock on the farms. With high prices prevailing for most live stock during the year 1919, the value of practically all of their surplus.

The total assessed valuation of all taxable property in the county this year is considerably under $1,000,000. Most of the farms sold during the past year were not sold until after the tax commissioner had made the assessment, therefore another year will probably see an increased assessed valuation sufficient to bring the total for the county up to $1,000,000.

Falmouth Outlook.
Monday and Tuesday of this week were the two largest business days in the history of the county. March 1st is the day set for land deals to be consummated but there was so much that the business was held over into Tuesday.

Deeds, mortgages, bank and lawyers' offices were all working over time to clear the decks. Money matters were tightened up to some extent, but all borrowers seem to have been accommodated who had the right kind of paper. There never was such a call for money at any one time. The financial business transacted here Monday will amount to more than $700,000.

During the past year almost any kind of a plug had the audience to look thru a bank window and ask for a small loan of $5,000 and get it, but it is not quite so easy now. Banks are now adhering to a policy of taking care of their own customers, and not reaching out for any business outside of their own particular territory.

Hundreds of our citizens have sold their farms in Pendleton and bought cheaper land elsewhere, principally in Ohio and Indiana, and they have taken with them the money made in the sweet clover ticks. This is a matter of fact leaves a great number of people here struggling to pay for their farms. The money these people have taken away from here will necessarily be felt. Many of these folks who have migrated to other climes, will make their jack, and return to the best place on earth.

FLEETS OF FUTURE.

Building Program Would Make U. S. Navy Largest in World.
Philadelphia Press.

Speaking for the Naval Board Rear Admiral Badger has told the House Naval Committee that size and gun power are still the backbone of naval strength. Notwithstanding the modern theories that the submarine and airplane have revolutionized naval strategy and that mobility has become one of the chief assets of sea power, the Naval Board advises the building of bigger warships than any now afloat and prophesies that future tendencies will be toward the building of even larger and larger warships.

In 1925 a 10,000 ton battle ship was considered the last word in fighting strength. Today the most powerful dreadnought float is the British battleship Hood, of about 43,000 tons. Our navy is now building four ships of this general type and tonnage, and with armament slightly more powerful than the Hood, the future construction the Naval Board recommends a 4,300 ton type, with 16-inch guns. It wants two of these and one battle cruiser of 32,000 tons displacement, ten 10,000-ton acoustic cruisers, six submarines and a tender, two airplane carriers, a destroyer tender and other small craft.

Such a building program is calculated to give us in time the most powerful navy in the world. It presupposes the necessity of a return to the old system of competitive armaments, the system which the League of Nations is intended to replace. And whether such a necessity exists is, after all, a political question and not for the Naval Board to decide.

Prospects for a crop of wheat in this State were never worse at this time of the year. In no section is the crop reported other than very indifferent. Much of the small acreage was sowed late and in some fields it never came up. Kentucky has a poor show for biscuits this year.

It will not take the ground hog to settle if it can get thawed out once more.

Keep Well

Do not allow the poisons of undigested food to accumulate in your bowels, where they are absorbed into your system. Indigestion, constipation, headache, bad blood, and numerous other troubles are bound to follow. Keep your system clean, as thousands of others do, by taking an occasional dose of the old, reliable, vegetable, family liver medicine.

We use it in the family and believe it is the best medicine for the liver made." Try it. Insist on the genuine Thedford's. 25c a package. E-75

SOUND BUSINESS BASIS FOR CHURCH

Interchurch World Movement
Natural Growth of Tendency To Eliminate Waste

AVOIDS USELESS COMPETITION

Religious Financier Revolutionized
By Success Of Men And Millions Movement And Co-operation Is Result

The Interchurch World Movement of North America is an attempt by forward-looking leaders of the various evangelical denominations of the United States and Canada to coordinate the resources in men, money and material for Protestant America.

Historically it is the logical outgrowth of a tendency of the national boards in each denomination to form working alliances among themselves in which each board shall preserve its identity and control its own personnel and treasury.

In former times, the home mission society, the foreign mission society, the church extension society and the various philanthropic and eleemosynary agencies of any denomination conducted their affairs independently of one another. Each surveyed its own restricted territory, prepared a budget of money and workers for its own purposes and made its own appeal to its constituency for support.

This could only mean that these agencies were more or less in competition with one another; that there were waste and duplication of work and money, and that among them all some work was neglected and some overlooked. Because of their specialized training, the leaders of each agency regarded themselves as peculiarly fitted for their tasks, and jealously regarded attempts at outside interference.

Decide On Experiment
After decades of such haphazard methods, the leaders of one denomination decided on an experiment. They thought it would be possible for the agencies to get together for a common study of all the opportunities and resources of their brotherhood, to make out a unified budget of men and money, and to conduct a concerted appeal for funds. It was made clear that each constituent board should preserve complete autonomy.

When the board representatives met they found it possible to eliminate a great amount of organization expenses. They ultimately worked out a budget and plan of campaign that was satisfactory to all. This resulted in the famous "Men and Millions Movement" of the Disciples of Christ, which brought in what was then considered the staggering sum of $5,300,000 for a five-year program. The members of the communion were so pleased with this businesslike method of conducting affairs that they contributed even more generously than had been expected.

The success of this enterprise revolutionized the whole business of church financing. The other great denominations immediately adopted the plan. The denominational associations have come to be known as "for ward movements," and some thirty of them are in existence today. Each one has clarified all the information in relation to enterprise within the denomination, and has reduced the business of collecting and spending money to a science.

World Budget Formed
The Interchurch World Movement is simply a plan to do interdenominational work within the various communions. It means that every denomination budget will be made in the light of world needs instead of in the semi-obscure of incomplete information. It means that contributions to one denomination will not be in wasteful competition with contributions to another, because all the fellowships will have worked out their program together.

The functions of the Interchurch World Movement are threefold: First, it collects, by means of world surveys, all the pertinent facts on which denominational programs may be built. Second, it sets up the practical machinery of cooperation. Third, it acts in an advisory capacity whenever its advice is requested.

The Movement has nothing to do with organic church union or matters of creed or doctrine. Each constituent unit preserves complete autonomy, and is bound only so far as it wishes to be bound. Financial appeals are made by each denomination in its own constituency. Any surplus in undesignated funds, over and above the actual cost of administration, will be prorated among the denominations engaged in a given financial undertaking.

An illustration of one thing the Movement can do is to be found in a western community of 1,000 persons in which thirteen denominations have been supporting separate churches with missionary funds, while an adjacent territory of 50,000 persons has only three churches. By seeing that all missionary boards are supplied with information in such cases, the Movement will make possible a wiser distribution of funds.

Its first goals are to reduce unnecessary duplication and overlapping to a minimum and to bring about an intelligent division of labor in uncoordinated fields.

Legion News

The meeting of Boone Post held March 2nd proved to be a great success. Seven new members were signed up, making our total membership 96, this is about 33 per cent of those eligible to membership in this county. We deserve better support and no doubt our membership will increase when the boys understand more fully the purpose of this organization.

A committee was appointed by the Post to make this meeting to formulate the plans of the Memorial Services to be held Decoration Day, May 30, 1929. These services were postponed from Feb. 22, on account of the influenza epidemic. At that time we had several prominent speakers to deliver the Memorial address. And no doubt the Committee will be able to secure these speakers at the latter date.

Throughout the country there is being organized what is known as the Woman's Auxiliary of the American Legion. Its membership is composed of mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of Service men who are eligible for membership in the Legion. In counties where these organizations have been formed, they have proven a great benefit to the Legion. As yet this post has not been able to interest the eligible ladies in such an organization. The Publicity Committee would appreciate an expression from them on this matter.

In regard to the $50 Bond per month of service, resolution submitted to Congress by the National executive Committee. It was the unanimous opinion of this Post that the Service men were entitled to the compensation, but objected to it being called a bonus, because they felt that it was justly earned.

WINS WHEN 132 YEARS OLD.

Lexington, March 7. — "Uncle John Shell, who has attained his one hundred and 32nd birthday, and is believed to be the oldest man in the world, participated yesterday in one of the most exciting episodes of his life, according to reports from Shell's home on Greasy Creek, Leslie county. Shell had been away from home and on his return he found his thirty-five year old wife to be fatally ill. She died in a few hours and Uncle John notified his wife's relatives, among them Geo. Chappell, his 75-year old father-in-law.

The funeral took place on a snow covered hillside and Chappell, apparently believing his one hundred and thirty-two year old son-in-law to be unable, because of his age, to care for his youngest son, 6 years old, proceeded to take the boy home with him. Shell hurried after his father-in-law and begged him to return the child to him. Chappell refused. Shell returned home, obtained a rifle, mounted his mule, and, overtaking Chappell and the boy, forced Chappell to release the child. Uncle John took the boy on the mule with him and the two returned to their cabin on Greasy Creek.

Mrs. W. H. Rice Dead.

Mrs. W. H. Rice, died at her home in Erlanger last Tuesday night of infirmities incident to old age. Mrs. Rice was a daughter of the late Lewis Aylor, was 77 years old, and is survived by her husband, W. H. Rice, and two children, Mrs. Edie Snyder and Robert Rice, both of Erlanger. Funeral services will be conducted in Florence Christian church today, Thursday, at 10 o'clock. Philip Taliaferro, the Erlanger undertaker, will have charge of the funeral.

The Weather for Week.

Last week's weather—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday bright and pleasant. Thursday rain turning to snow. Night Friday rain. Saturday a light snow falling at night. Saturday a raw wind prevailed with occasional snow flurries. Sunday partly cloudy, with a very disagreeable wind from the northwest, keeping people close indoors. The ground thawed none after Wednesday.

Adjourned Court

Because of the Flu.

On account of so much illness in Owen county Judge Gaines was directed by the county board of health, to adjourn his court on the 2nd inst., until there was an improvement in health conditions. He had a bit of a start for trial but he adjourned court until last Monday, when he returned to resume business in the county board of health would consent. There has been a very large number of deaths in Owen county this winter, many of them being from pneumonia following the influenza.

SLAYING OF FOUR

Admitted by Negro Awaiting Execution for Murder of Lexington Girl.

Eddyville, March 8.—Confession that he had killed four persons and attacked another was made today by Will Lockett, a negro, in the death cell in the State Penitentiary.

Lockett is to be electrocuted next Thursday for the murder of Geneva Hardman 16 years old, in Fayette county several weeks ago. His confession was made voluntarily to Warden Chilton.

The negro told, with apparent indifference the story of slaying the four persons, all of whom he checked to death, with the exception of the Hardman girl, whose head he crushed with a rock.

Lockett said his real name is Pettie Kimbrough, and that he was born at Pembroke, Ky. His criminal career began, he said, when he attacked a white woman in a rural section of Todd county, Kentucky, in 1905.

GRANT AND LEE.

John Drinkwater's Lincoln is coming in for sharp criticism for the writers' apparent indifference to the facts as recorded. The Literary Digest devotes space to William L. Barton's exposure of inaccuracies as set forth in a letter to the Boston Transcript and adds the comment on others.

Drinkwater appears to have preferred his own interpretation to the truth in relation to the scene in which Lee surrendered. The Literary Digest says that it is in receipt of a protest against the portrayal of Lee as offering his sword to Grant, and it says that a Southern soldier "sees the preliminary agreement that Southern officers should keep their side arms."

It seems strange that a Southern soldier should know enough about the surrender to attack Drinkwater's version and yet not know that there was no preliminary agreement, or indeed, any agreement, except that Lee when he read the stipulation said it would have a happy effect on the army.

In his play Drinkwater has Grant waiting for Lee, and drinking much whisky. Mr. Barton objects to this as a libel on Grant, but overlooks the fact that Grant did not wait for Lee. He found the Confederate chieftain waiting for him in the McLean house, Appomattox, C. H. Why the playwright did not consider the real scene sufficiently dramatic is a mystery. There was Lee, attired in full regalia and wearing a fine sword sheathed in a magnificent scabbard; there was Grant, the conqueror, wearing the blouse of a common soldier, with the insignia of a Lieutenant General. He carried no sword. In his memoirs, printed by the Century Company, Grant relates that he had been up all night, listening himself with mustard plasters in trying to cure a sick headache and admits that he looked decidedly unkempt. Nothing was said about sidearms and no proffer was made. Grant wrote the provision permitting officers to keep their sidearms and horses. General Lee thanked him for this and then asked him if he meant for the enlisted men to keep their mounts. Gen. Grant thought of the hardship it would be on the farmers to give up their horses and so he said that he would give orders that all of the Confederates should retain them. Grant said that he felt very much depressed, but that Lee was impassive and failed to give any sign of feeling.

The Union commander admired Lee intensely. In an interview on the morning after the surrender he sought his defeated opponent and suggested that Lee urge the Confederate Generals to lay down their arms in order to prevent waste of life, but while approving, Lee said that he could not act without consulting Jefferson Davis. "I know there was no use to urge him to do anything against his ideas of what was right," wrote Grant, and yet Drinkwater had to invent another Lee!—Louisville Times.

Motor Vehicle Tax.

Frankfort, March 8.—A material increase in the motor vehicle tax in Kentucky is the subject of the bill of Representative Roth, which was passed by the House today, regulating traffic on public highways.

Motorcycle license fees are established at $10 and automobile fees at 60 cents for each horse power.

The registration fees on trucks are proposed to be $22 for 1,000 pounds or less, $33 for more than 1,000 pounds and less than 2,000 pounds, $40 for more than 2,000 pounds and less than 3,000 pounds, $50 for more than 3,000 pounds and less than 4,000 pounds, $60 for more than 4,000 pounds and less than 5,000 pounds, $70 for more than 5,000 pounds and less than 6,000 pounds, $80 for more than 6,000 pounds and less than 7,000 pounds, $90 for more than 7,000 pounds and less than 8,000 pounds, $100 for more than 8,000 pounds and less than 9,000 pounds, and less than 10,000 pounds, $110 and $50 for each additional ton.

The amendment of Representative Thompson, limiting the loan to be handled by truck to six tons, was adopted.

There will be mighty little loafing at Burlington this summer, as most everybody will have something to work at growing to eat, if nothing else.

WILL MANUFACTURE MOTOR FUEL THAT WILL PRACTICALLY DOUBLE MILEAGE.

The Chemical Fuel Co. of America recently incorporated under the laws of Delaware, with capital of $5,000,000 and will manufacture a motor fuel known as Tri-oxya-lene.

The charter under which the company will operate is broad and comprehensive—includes the power to trade in and manufacture all commodities pertaining to motor fuel, embracing alcohol and other chemicals and combining agents; to buy and sell real estate; also grain and grain products; to lease and build grain elevators and operate same; to buy and sell crude oil and all its by-products; to own and operate pipe lines to own, lease and manufacture tank cars, etc.

Headquarters of this company are at present in Louisville, Kentucky, but controlling interest held by parties in this city.

Their refinery which has been under construction since early in 1919 is about completed and the fuel will be for sale in the near future.

Great improvement over gasoline is claimed for this new fuel, including practically double mileage, quick starting under all weather conditions, greater power and cooler engine.

Tri-oxya-lene, the fuel, has already been thoroughly tested in the East by the Automobile Club of America, also by the Bureau of Mines, in Washington, D. C., and pronounced highly satisfactory for purpose intended and its production on a large scale will be of vast importance to the entire automobile industry, who are viewing, with alarm, the gradual shrinkage of crude oil, of sufficient gasoline content, which all authorities agree must become a serious and unavoidable condition within the next few years.

Texas and Oklahoma oil fields are already showing signs of decline, while California is barely able to supply the west coast demand.

The great oil belt of Southern Mexico is of small importance to his industry, it is known as asphaltic base and suitable only as fuel oil—its gasoline content not over 24 per cent; Southern Louisiana is of similar grade.

A conservative estimate of the quantity of grain consumed by the whiskey interests place it at 20,000,000 bushels, now ended by prohibition, and with the Argentine supplying the entire European demand, it has seemed very evident to those familiar with grain values that when conditions become normal, the effect of this large shrinkage in demand would also seriously shrink the farmers' profit.

Leaving prohibitionists have answered this problem by predicting that some other commodity would absorb this deficit and investors and parties believe this forecast true.

As a large percent of alcohol is required to neutralize the other ingredients composing tri-oxya-lene and as its superiority over all other motor fuels are proven to automobile owners, they anticipate that within the not distant future, this 20,000,000 bushels of grain will be converted annually into motor fuel and that it is possible, in less than ten years, the entire corn crop of this country will find a ready market for the same purpose.

At present, the alcohol for export and domestic consumption is made from molasses, largely imported from Cuba, making it a direct competitor of the American farmer.

School Notes.

The trustees from Division 2 met with the Supt. on March 6, and elected S. B. Ryle, chairman and J. H. Walton, Secretary.

Division 3 had no quorum, and adjourned to meet March 13, at 1 p. m., in the Supt. office for organization.

The most important matter before the school officials was that of taking the census during the month of April. We are sending the necessary blanks and instructions to the trustees for taking the census and should any trustee not received the same by March 20th, please let us know and we shall see to it that these blanks are sent to you.

An accurate census is the basis of our entire school work for the next two years. The census is taken as of April 1st, but the ages are recorded as of July 1, 1920. That is—a child that is or will be six years old by July 1st, is reported unless said child will be six years old on or before July 1st.

We regret to state that sickness is interfering materially with quite a few of our schools, but we hope the warmer weather will be a great benefit to the health of all our people.

J. C. GORDON, Supt.

Having His Troubles.

Supt. Gordon has been having his troubles with the schools in this county this winter. Much of the trouble has resulted from the fact that conditions, which, of course, could not be avoided, but in many cases schools have been dismissed without notice to him and remained out of business many days before he would come aware of the dismissal, thus causing him considerable unnecessary trouble and labor, which would have been avoided by his being notified promptly of the dismissal.

Albert Priddy and wife of Benton, were in town Monday and ordered a car advertised for next Saturday afternoon.

CONSTANCE

Elmer Miller and family have moved to Hebron.
J. Wood Higgs and family have become residents of our town.
Mrs. Mollie Matham is visiting her brother W. A. Kenyon and family.

We learn that Mrs. Helen Zimmer, wife of Elmer Zimmer, who was taken to the hospital in Cincinnati, Saturday, died and that her little daughter, Catherine, is very low. Mr. Zimmer has the sympathy of this community in his hour of trouble.

This community was shocked by the death of Mrs. Lizzie Kenyon Clure, wife of Mike Clure March 3rd, at the home of her parents, W. A. Kenyon and wife. She leaves to mourn her death her husband and four children, father mother and two brothers and many relatives and friends. She was a devoted wife, mother, daughter and sister and always good to her friends. She was a member of Pt. Pleasant church having united with the Christian church on Walnut Hills when she was fourteen. She was at least 60 years of age. Her death was a great loss to the community. The funeral services were conducted by Bro. Carter in the church at Hebron in a very comforting manner and her body was laid to rest in the vault at Hebron, Saturday, March 6th.

HEBRON.

Ed. Baker and family and John Dye and family are recovering from influenza.

Word was received here last Wednesday of the death of the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel C. Clure, of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Wm. Wahl went to the hospital last week to have an operation performed. At last report she was doing nicely.

Mr. Ralsback sold his farm here known as the Jacob Tanner farm and bought the farm of Mr. Hollis, known as the A. D. Hunter farm.

R. C. McGlasson moved from his farm to the property in Hebron belonging to his son Robert. His son and wife will stay on the farm.

There was quite an excitement here last Wednesday for a while, when the residence of Mr. Ralsback, better known as the Jacob Tanner property, was on fire. A crowd soon gathered and the residence was saved.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clure received word last Tuesday, that their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mike Clure of Constance, was very ill of pneumonia. She died Wednesday night leaving a husband and four small children. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Carter, of Petersburg, last Saturday at 11 a. m. at Hebron.

DEVON.

Wm. Summitt is sick.
Mrs. Conrad Schadler has pneumonia.

Omer Easton and Guy Collins were guests at Jas. Bristow's Friday evening.

Mrs. Eugene Riley visited friends in Latonia Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mrs. T. J. Russell and Mrs. Sympton were guests of Mrs. Elliott Tuesday afternoon.

C. E. Rector and Mrs. Rector were guests at Mrs. Price Conners at Independence, Friday.

Barney Bristow, offering his coach stallion, Mohamed, for sale. Anyone wishing a good horse will do well to call on Mr. Bristow.

Mrs. Eugene B. Miller came out Saturday afternoon and remained until Monday morning with her parents.

James Watson has purchased a farm near Covington and will soon move there. We are sorry to have Mr. Watson and family leave our neighborhood.

GRANT R. D.

Wilbur Kelly has purchased a new horse.

Solon Ryle sold a cow and calf for $130 last week.

Curtis Kelly is visiting his cousin, J. C. Kelly.

Mrs. Z. T. Stephens and Lottie Hager have influenza.

Mrs. Lena Wingate has recovered from an attack of measles.

Merle Allen, of Patriot, attended church at East Bend Sunday.

Stanley Stephens, who with his family, is visiting W. J. Hodges, has the flu.

Malby Kenner and aunt, Mrs. Dempsey, of Covington, spent last week with relatives here.

J. E. Hodges, Hubert Ryle and Colin Kelly, appraised the personal property of the late W. T. Conner in East Bend, Wednesday.

Geo. Ward and wife moved to Marietta, Ohio, this week. Their many friends regret their departure and wish them well in their new home.

Let the FARM BUREAU know what you have to sell, and what you want to buy. They are now making arrangements to farm on a large scale this year.

Era Aylor, of East Bend, and Wm. Aylor, of McVillie, were business callers at this office last Tuesday. They are both making arrangements to farm on a large scale this year.

PLICKERTOWN.

Arthur Alloway is sick.
Wm. White is sick.
Chas. and Elmer Housley are sick.

Mrs. Ira Kyle and daughter have mumps.

Farmers are having extra good luck with their lambs.

B. F. Akin and family moved to Graves farm, Monday.

Lee Snyder, wife and son visited at J. H. Snyder's Sunday.

John Burns will move to the house vacated by B. F. Akin.

Miss Oleva and Aylor Stephens, who were sick last week are better.

Ed. Botts sold several cows to an upper county man at long prices last week.

Frank Lay and wife, of Lawrenceburg, visited at J. W. Whites Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Lena Lavanier, of Covington, was here last week to attend Stephen Gaines' funeral.

William White and M. C. Stephens are the first in this neighborhood to sow plant beds.

Lewis Sullivan has moved back to his old home in the north.

Mr. Arvin, about a year ago, spent Sunday night with his parents Mr. Bros. sold two cows and calves to Earl Walton last week, and a bunch of hogs to Owen Allen.

RABBIT HASH.

Wallace Stephens and wife have moved to Aurora.

Lewis L. Stephens, of Walton, was here Monday.

Dr. Carlyle was in Cincinnati Saturday on professional business.

Ben Harris, of Rising Sun, was in East Bend business, Monday.

The schools in this neighborhood are closed on account of influenza.

Dr. Kenneth Ryle, of Burlington, spent Sunday night with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Filmore Ryle.

Monday week was a very rough day on the river. Part of the day the ferry was abandoned; toward night it calmed down and a few passengers were brought over.

Geo. Ward had a sale of personal property Saturday, which was well attended and satisfactory prices prevailed. Mr. and Mrs. Ward will leave Tuesday for Marietta, Ohio, where they will make their future home. We are sorry to lose such good citizens.

Personal Mention

John Kinney, of Idlewild neighborhood, was shopping in Burlington, last Tuesday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, of Big Bone, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. B. E. Hume.

Hubert Conner, of Hebron, was a business visitor to Burlington one day the past week.

Mrs. Fred Morris has entirely recovered from a recent spell of very serious illness.

O. N. Scott, of Petersburg, agent for the Sayre automobile, was in Burlington last Tuesday.

Mentor Martin and wife are occupying a portion of Judge Sidney Gaines' residence in Burlington.

Atty. D. E. Castleman and wife, of Erlanger, are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Griffin, of North Carolina.

Miss Maud Hume, of Covington, was the guest of her parents from Saturday evening until Monday morning.

Asa Cason has been very ill the past week, having contracted a severe cold during the illness of his grandson, Warren Aca.

The numerous friends of Col. G. C. Graddy, of Petersburg, will be pleased to hear that he is recovering from a spell of severe illness.

C. G. Riddell, of Rabbit Hash, was a business visitor to Burlington last Tuesday.

He was visiting the place to ascertain how much income he owed Uncle Sam.

C. C. Roberts, wife and daughter, Miss Sheba, are now citizens of Walton, having completed their moving to that town yesterday.

They were most excellent citizens and the people of Burlington were sorry to see them take their departure for their new home. They resided in Burlington many years and were noted for being good neighbors and always ready to help those who needed assistance.

Burlington's loss is Walton's gain.

Nicholas Baldon, of Indianapolis, has been the guest of his brother, John, for several days and they have been visiting the scenes of their childhood on Woolper creek and looking up old acquaintances, very few of whom they find in their homes at 25 years ago or more, since which time these two men have seen very little of their old home locality.

Nicholas Baldon has a good situation in a big factory in Indianapolis, and the more he ages the more he resembles his father, the late Simon Baldon.

Glad to Give Up the Office.

Postmaster Dudgeon, of Walton, will be relieved of a vast amount of official labor on the 15th of this month for which he has been receiving no pay. On and after that date the accounting office for all the postoffice in this county will be in Louisville, from which all postal supplies for the county will be received.

Mr. Dudgeon has been issuing supplies for the Boone county post office for several months, and has kept the business in perfect order, but he will be obliged to turn it over to the general accounting office in Louisville.

Lewis C. Beemon, Manager.

Era Aylor, of East Bend, and Wm. Aylor, of McVillie, were business callers at this office last Tuesday. They are both making arrangements to farm on a large scale this year.

Otto Crisler, of Columbia, Mo., renewing his subscription to the Recorder desires to be remembered to all his old friends where soever dispersed around the earth. Otto is making rapid growth in the Show-Me State, it is a pleasure to say.

Let the FARM BUREAU know what you have to sell, and what you want to buy in the way of Feeds, Livestock and Fertilizers, and you will receive our prompt attention.

LEWIS C. BEEMON, Manager.

Chas. Westbay hitched his horses to a Ford truck that was stuck with a load of furniture last Friday, and when he stopped to change the wheels, they were pulling only the front wheels and radiator, the remainder of the truck and its load being left behind.

The Recorder knows where there is a man who is operating an old fashioned sugar camp, as he sent it a quart of the delicious syrup. It is Sterling Rouse of Limburg neighborhood, and, by the way Mr. Rouse has for sale a considerable quantity of the syrup of which the Recorder's sample was a part. It is as good as anyone should want.

CARD OF THANKS.—We desire to than our neighbors and friends who helped us so loyally during the sickness and death of our grandson, Warren Aca, especially do we thank Bro. R. F. DeMoisey for his conoling words and engage in building this spring. In some instances those who expected to build have abandoned the work simply because they could not secure the necessary material, a scarcity of which prevails in most of the markets. Local carpenters in every direction over the country report a demand for their services far in excess of that of any building season in the past. When money is plentiful people pay very little attention to high prices and the scarcity of lumber is the only thing that will prevent 1920 being the greatest building year in the history of this country.

It will be remembered that a few weeks ago the RECORDER gave an account of a mad dog being killed in North Bend. Some time after it was supposed, it had bitten considerable stock in that neighborhood, and a little child in Taylorport neighborhood. Several days later J. H. Hays, a hogs began dying and he called Dr. Axy, a Lawrenceburg veterinarian, who pronounced the trouble hydrophobia. Mr. Hays had three good sized hogs while one hog belonging to Thos. Bailey in an adjoining farm had died. The dog was seen bite the Bailey hog. Several hogs have died in the Taylorport neighborhood. The animals live from 21 to 25 hours after they develop hydrophobia. The little child who was bitten has been treated for hydrophobia and has shown no signs of any trouble yet.

ALL THAT HE WOULD ADMIT

But Old Vermonter Did Unbend Slightly When His Visitor Presented His "Credentials."

Representative Frank Green of Vermont, who makes the best after-dinner speech of any man in congress, and does not like to be interrupted, has brought a new Vermont story to town. It is based on the cure with which his fellow Vermonters take strangers into their arms.

While ambulating around the state during the recent recess Green visited a town where several of his ancestors were born. Finally he came up in front of a village store and encountering one of the oldest inhabitants he tried to start a conversation.

"Looks as though it might rain," Green suggested.

The oldest inhabitant's response was a quick glance.

"Who are you, young man?" he asked.

"Well," Green responded, "I'm young Green. My grandfather used to run the quarry out yonder. My grandfather, too, was born in these parts."

"Is that so?"

"Yes," Green continued. "I had a lot of relatives born up here, too. One of my uncles ran the livery stable for years, a cousin was in the furniture business, one of my aunts was the champion bread baker of the county for six consecutive years, and I don't know how many of my folks took other high honors hereabouts."

The resident was impressed. Looking Green over carefully and observing that the young fellow appeared to be telling the truth, the old man agreed:

"Well, young man, it may rain."—New York Times.

WHEN JIMMY BRITT LAUGHED

Sportman Who Had Bantered Him on Looking Old Got Considerable of a Jolt.

Jimmy Britt, the immaculately dressed lightweight champion, used to tell a story about Eugene Corri, the English referee.

"One day in the Strand," so the story ran, "Corri came up to me and said:

"Britt, you've made a lot of money out of boxing, haven't you?"

"Yes," said I, "I have."

"Well," said Corri, "why don't you quit? You're beginning to show signs of what you are—a pugilist on the down grade. Jimmy, my boy, you're beginning to look old."

"Well, after that speech Corri took me to lunch at the Savoy. While we were lunching a nice-looking couple at a nearby table kept looking at us continually, and finally we heard the young lady say as she nodded toward Corri:

"Who is that man?"

"He's a pugilist," her escort answered.

"Gracious!" said the young lady. "What a brutal fate he has!"

"Yes," said her escort. "To judge from his looks he must be about the foulest fighter in the ring."

"Then a little later we heard the young lady ask:

"Is he married?"

"Yes; oh, yes," said her escort. "That handsome, gentlemanly little fellow with him is his son."

To Teach Marksmanship.

Students in educational institutions in all parts of the United States are to have an opportunity to graduate as expert riflemen from a government training school next summer. Those who take the special course will get certificates conferring upon them the authority to teach others.

The director of civilian marksmanship plans, as means of encouraging marksmanship as a sport, to extend a special invitation to representatives of all student bodies to enroll for instruction in connection with the national matches of 1919, a congress of rifle and pistol shots—military, naval and civil—will be held under the auspices of the navy department on the rifle range at Caldwell, N. J., a few miles from New York, during August.

Invention of Much Worth.

The special oxyacetylene blowpipe applied by French engineers to cutting steel under water is claimed to have greatly simplified the salvage of torpedoed vessels. A blowpipe is mounted in a small diving bell from which the water is expelled by compressed air, and the blowpipe pressures of air and acetylene, greater than under ordinary conditions, are regulated according to the depth at which the work is being done. In trials made, ship's plates have been cut under 27 feet of water. Besides the use of the apparatus on sunken vessels, it can be employed in repairing locks, and probably in other underwater work.

Soldiers Feel Wounds They Inflict.

Dr. Arthur Macdonald of Washington, honorary president of the international congress of criminal anthropologists, tells in the Medical Record some of the oddities noticed in nervous soldiers. For instance:

One "who bayonets another in the face may develop a hysterical tic in his own face; one bayoneting enemies in the abdomen may have abdominal contractions in himself. Hysterical blindness may follow from seeing horrible sights; hysterical deafness when the cries of the wounded are unbearable."

And he adds that in some of these cases the only relief is a real wound.

The Essex.

DEAR SIR :—

Do you know that Hudson builds the Essex?

That fact has not been generally known. But Essex did not need Hudson's endorsement, as is proved by the sales record it has made. More than 20,000 Essex cars, exceeding $35,000,000 in value, were bought in the first eleven months.

There was no need to use Hudson's reputation as the world's largest builder of fine cars to give endorsement to the Essex. The kinship of the two cars was purposely concealed so that the Essex might develop its own position on merit alone.

We tell you of that kinship now that you may understand why the Essex is a superior light car. The engineers who developed the famous long distance enduring Hudson Super-Six put all their skill into the design of the Essex. Both cars are built by the same workmen. But one standard is known to Hudson, and it applies to both the Super-Six and the Essex.

That is why the Essex is the success it is. Why its performance is praised by all who know it. Come, take a ride in the Essex if you would know the car of the future.

Yours very truly,
B. B. HUME.

WALTON.

Mrs. T. J. Huttsell and Mrs. N. Simpson and son James, of Devon, visited friends here last week.

Miss Lora Diers of Cleveland, Ohio, was a visitor here last Friday to her father Henry Diers.

Rev. John E. Roberts of Mt. Olivet, Robertson county, spent last week here with friends and relatives.

U. G. Boaz, of Latonia, spent Sunday here the guest of Wm. Edwards and wife, and may buy property here and move to Walton.

T. M. Vest has purchased the general market store of Hugh R. Watson and with Ed. Fullilove as assistant is doing a nice business.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sumpson have moved here from Gardnersville, and are occupying a part of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Johnson.

Jno. L. Vest spent several days this week at Warsaw attending the Gallatin circuit court in which he had a number of cases of importance.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Jones of Landing, returned last week from a visit of two months to their son Jesse Jones and wife at Mesa, Arizona where they had a most enjoyable visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Miller of Landing, who have been visiting relatives and friends at Louisville, returned last week and are guests of their son John C. Miller and family.

J. S. Kinman has sold his farm of 199 acres at Kensington to J. B. Sanders of Covington. This is the John Goodridge farm and the sale was made thru W. B. Johnson real estate agency.

Mrs. R. C. Diers spent the past week at Silver Grove, Campbell county, at the bedside of her little granddaughter who has been seriously ill. The little one is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Best, and is now recovering.

Mrs. Mary Ryan, one of our old ladies who fell recently and broke her hip on her farm near Beaver Lick, was taken to the St. Elizabeth Hospital, Covington, for treatment, and her condition has been quite serious this week.

A. H. Stephenson of Cincinnati, spent Saturday here with relatives and friends. Mr. Stephenson formerly resided here, and is trying to awaken interest in the better care of the cemetery here by the employment of a regular sexton.

H. H. Huston of Anchorage, was a visitor here last week. He has been transferred from the Traveling Auditors Department of the L. and N. Railroad to chief of the Freight Department at Atlanta, Georgia, a fine promotion. He went to Atlanta last week to take charge of his office.

Judge Chas. C. Roberts and family moved here last week from Burlington and occupy the property bought by them from Mrs. Kate Jones of Ludlow. Judge Chas. Strother who had the property rented was unable to find a suitable house in Walton and has stored his furniture until he can secure suitable quarters.

Geo. M. Flynn who takes a great interest in the raising of fine sheep, reports that on his farm in Kenton county he has 33 ewes that have 133 lambs and they have not lost a lamb this season. He has two ewes that are raising three lambs each, and one of his lambs weighed 19 lbs. at birth.

Ralph D. Stephens of Kenton county, and Miss Anna M. Knoeringer of Covington, were united in the bonds of holy wedlock last Saturday evening at the residence of Rev. R. F. DeMolay, who performed the ceremony. The young couple are very popular with a large circle of friends. They will make their home on the groom's farm in Kenton county.

Wilford M. Rice, who has been elected cashier of the Deposit Bank at Hebron, is spending most of his time there getting ready to open his bank in a couple of weeks. Joel C. Clore, Postmaster at Cincinnati, and a native of Boone county is the president. The prospect is very good for a successful institution as all connected are splendid people of good business capacity.

Walton Masonic Lodge conferred the fellowcraft degree on Russell M. Tewell of Richmond, who is at present located at Dayton, Ohio. His father Mr. E. Tewell presided in the east, and conferred the degree in a splendid manner. Quite a number of the members attended the Masonic Lodge at Williamstown last Thursday night to witness the conferring of the Masters degree on eleven candidates.

The loose leaf tobacco market at Walton is being brought to a close, though there may be a couple of sales next week. The Farmers House sold 100,000 lbs. Monday at an average of 20 cts. and the Walton House will have a good sale Wednesday. There will be a sale Thursday and one Saturday. Over four million pounds of tobacco have been sold at the two Walton houses this season, and the prices have been very satisfactory, especially in the beginning of the season.

Official notice of his reappointment as Postmaster at Cincinnati for a term of four years beginning March 3, 1920, was received by Postmaster Joel C. Clore. Under the term of his reappointment he is instructed to give a new bond for $200,000 and to forward it with his oath of office to the Department for approval. He received notice of his reappointment Saturday.

Lloyd Weaver tried out his poles and lines on Gunpowder creek one day last week and found them in splendid working condition. He had not been in the water for several months. He landed a three and one half pound channel cat and a fifteen inch sucker. Lloyd always was an early bird.

Mr. J. H. Jockey, who bought the Leonard Kite place near town, was a caller at this office Tuesday and completed arrangements for making his sojourn in this county a happy period—subscribed for the Recorder.

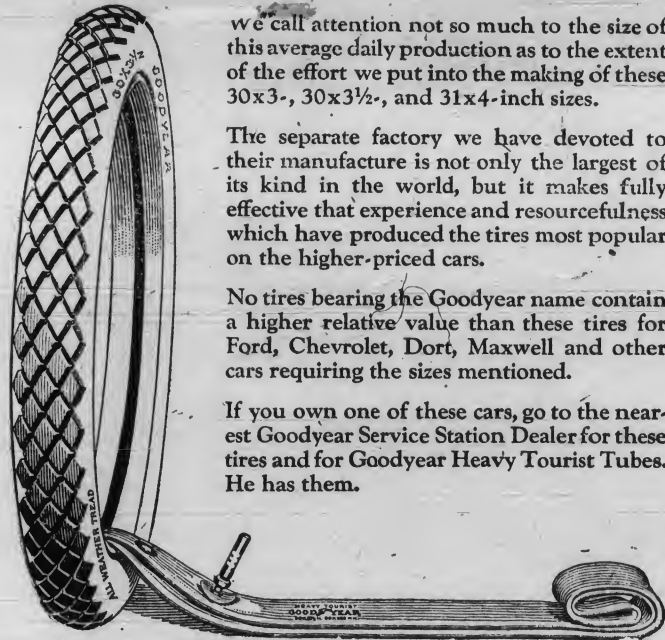

O. N. Scott, of Petersburg, was in Burlington one afternoon the past week. He had been out on a demonstration tour for his car, the Sayers Six.

Stanley Eddins is getting very restless. He wants to begin work on the two new buildings he is going to erect.

C. W. Goodridge, formerly County Road Engineer, has purchased property in Erlanger.

Stanley Eddins has about recovered from an attack of flu.

The World's Largest Production of Tires on the Smaller Cars Alone

We call attention not so much to the size of this average daily production as to the extent of the effort we put into the making of these 30x3-, 30x3½-, and 31x4-inch sizes.

The separate factory we have devoted to their manufacture is not only the largest of its kind in the world, but it makes fully effective that experience and resourcefulness which have produced the tires most popular on the higher-priced cars.

No tires bearing the Goodyear name contain a higher relative value than these tires for Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell and other cars requiring the sizes mentioned.

If you own one of these cars, go to the nearest Goodyear Service Station Dealer for these tires and for Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes. He has them.

The RECORDER is in receipt of a small sack of garden seeds sent it by Congressman Rouse. The supply is nothing like so generous as it was a few years ago. They are yours for the asking so long as they last.

Frank Hammon, of Limaburg neighborhood, one of the fine tobacco raisers of this county, was a caller at this office Tuesday, and when asked if he intended to raise any of the weed this year replied that he had sowed and canvassed two large beds from which he is calculating on furnishing a considerable quantity of very early plants.

The past winter has for some unknown reason been very hard on alfalfa that was sown last spring and summer. The many freeze have pulled it out of the ground by its roots. We have seen many fields where every stalk has been pulled out and the soil is literally covered with long weeds. This condition has only affected the alfalfa that was sown last season, but it extends all over the county. It is said by experts that where the plants are not pulled out too far they will not be damaged, but other fields are ruined.—Falmouth Outlook.

HOW TO START WITH BEES.

The best time to start is in the spring of the year, as soon as the flowers begin to bloom, for then the dangers of winter are over, and you will have all the summer to rectify your mistakes. For be sure you will make many mistakes, even with the best advice, before you become an expert beekeeper. One common mistake made by beginners is to go in too deep at first. Unless you have had some experience with bees, you had better not get more than three or four colonies at first; then you can increase as your knowledge and experience grow.

Here is another good way to get started. Buy from a bee-supply dealer a few hives of standard make, ready for the bees, and then take them to some beekeeper and get him to hive a swarm in each. Then as soon as the bees have built their combs, and have gotten ready for house-keeping, which will be in a week or two, you may move them home. Now as to the location of your apiary. The hives should be placed on low stands, so as to keep them off the damp ground. A couple of bricks under each corner will do. Perhaps the best place is in an old orchard, or under some trees where the hot sun will not strike them all day. It is also very essential in selecting a location for the apiary to find a place that is protected from the north and west winds, by shrubbery, buildings or a hill-side.

When the locust or clover, or whatever plants furnish your surplus honey begin to bloom, the supers should be placed on the hives. These are shallow boxes, or upper stories for the hives, in which the bees are to store their honey. They contain frames fitted with strips of comb foundation to insure the building of straight combs. As soon as the first super is nearly filled with honey it should be raised up and an empty one placed between it and the hive body. This may be repeated later on, if the honey flow justifies. The bees should have plenty of room in which to store the honey, for when they become crowded they are apt to swarm, and as that divides the working force, there will not be as much honey stored as where the colony remains together during the season.

In buying your equipment be sure to get the standard 14-frame, dove-tailed hive, as this is used by a vast majority of beekeepers, and is sold by the dealers everywhere. There is no patent on this hive, and they are all made of standard dimensions with all parts interchangeable. Shallow supers may be used, which will permit the beekeeper to produce either comb or extracted honey. The cost of these hives will be about three or four dollars each. A colony of bees, in a good hive, ready for business, is worth ten dollars or more, though sometimes they can be bought for much less. A new swarm will generally cost a dollar or two, if you furnish the hive.

Besides the bees and hives, one will want a good bee-smoker, bee veil, hive tool, perhaps a pair of long gloves, and last, but not least, a few good books on the subject of beekeeping. You can get some excellent bulletins on bees and beekeeping from the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C., for the asking. It would also be well to subscribe for one or two of the journals devoted to bee culture. Unless one is willing to devote some time to reading and the study of beekeeping, it is useless to make a start at all, for it will take experience and technical knowledge to make a success of the business of beekeeping as well as any other profession.—J. M. Buchanan, in Southern Agriculturist.

Speed Breakers.

In the western part of Brown county a farmer has found a plan to keep autoists from speeding by his home. Last summer several of his chickens were killed by automobiles, and when one of his pigs, weighing almost 100 pounds, was crushed under the wheels of an auto, he decided it was time to do something to stop them. He did.

He dug small ditches one foot wide and eight inches deep across the road about ten feet apart, and this plan proved successful. He says that after a machine going at 35 miles an hour strikes one of these ditches and the occupants of the machine are almost thrown out, the machine always slows down to a very slow gait.—Indianapolis News.

Badly Burned.

Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, of Big Bone, was badly burnt about the head and face last Wednesday morning when the gas in the heating stove in her store exploded when she opened it. The doctor was unable to tell how seriously she was burnt before the Recorder went to press. Mrs. Miller keeps the postoffice and a small store at Big Bone Springs, and is a sister of Mrs. B. B. Hume.

It is said that Chas. Carpenter had a very satisfactory sale of his Holstein cattle, the sale aggregating nearly $2,000. The highest price paid for a cow and calf was $225.

W. G. Cason, of Independence, was a caller at this office Wednesday morning. He was on his way to visit his uncle Asa Cason who has been very sick for several weeks.

County Clerk W. R. Rogers has been suffering greatly with one of his eyes the past week and he went to the city yesterday to see a specialist.

Several crops of tobacco in this neighborhood will not get on the market at this time.

James A. Duncan, of Idlewild neighborhood, is visiting relatives in Burlington.

Weather Forecaster Davenport expects the river to reach a 45 foot stage.

As the Recorder goes to press the weather is threatening to be good.

The Legislature will adjourn today.

A Complete Line and Double-Barreled Service

When you buy an IHC machine, you also buy all the good will that goes with the machine—that cooperation existing between the Harvester Company and the authorized International dealer, and which the dealer, in turn, expects to continue with you.

The Harvester Company expects to hold the confidence of the dealer, and the dealer wants to keep you as his friend and a friend of the IHC Line, by furnishing good implements, machines and farm operating equipment.

They both render to you a double-barreled Service in not seeing that you get satisfactory goods, but in seeing that these machines are kept in good running order long after the original purchase is forgotten.

Genuine IHC Repairs

The Harvester Company's moral obligation does not stop with the sale of the machine, but you can hardly expect them to assume any responsibility for the successful operation of an IHC machine if you buy imitation repairs of poor quality instead of the genuine repairs made by Harvester Company.

Look for the IHC registered trade-mark on Genuine Repairs for International Machines and buy them from the International Dealer.

BROUGHT BIG PRICES.

Fine Milk Stock Sold at Wisconsin's Sale Brought Fanciful Prices.

About the best sale in the history of this county was that of Benjamin Weisenberg, of Verona, last Saturday. The attendance was large and was made up of people from several states and several counties in this State. A large per cent of those present being bent on making one or more purchases of Mr. Weisenberg's fine milk stock, consequently the bidding on the cattle was very spirited and fancy prices prevailed, the top-notch cow bringing $500. Among the liberal bidders and buyers were Ben Paddock, of Hebron, who paid $450 for an aged cow and $300 for another, B. C. Gaines, of Burlington R. D. No. 1, bought three heifers, one of which is milking and cost him $235, the other two costing him $205 and $200. They are beauties and Mr. Gaines thinks he got a bargain.

Solon Ryle, of Waterloo, another of the county's Jersey admirers was a purchaser, but the number of animals and the cost of each is not known at this office, but it is understood they were high in price and splendid looking individuals.

Five weeks old calves brought as high as $50 each, and many of these youngsters went to Indiana and Ohio.

Mr. Weisenberg is delighted with the result of his sale and it is the talk of the neighborhood, where the high prices took the people off of their feet as it were.

Stop to Think.

"Some persons are trying to get Liberty Bonds away from the 'little fellows' are telling them that Europe owes the U. S. about $10,000,000,000 and that no interest has yet been paid on the loan. But it is inconceivable that the great Allied Nations will or can repudiate their debts. Still, if they should never pay a dollar, the U. S. could charge off the entire debt and still meet every obligation. Uncle Sam has never failed to pay, and when he pays, he always pays 100 cents on the dollar. In 1861 the United States sold bonds as low as 23, but the same securities had jumped to 118 three years after the war and to 121 in 1876.

"Stop to think that whenever a Liberty Bond is sold it is bought by someone who is as anxious to buy as the seller is to sell. Who is he?

"Big investors seem to feel that Liberty Bonds are quite the finest buy in the present market. The United States Treasury thinks so, too, and has snapped up in a year more than $1,000,000,000 of its own securities. The Treasurer of Massachusetts also has bought Liberty Bonds. These are real tips from the best sources.

"Nothing short of grim starvation should cause the average person to part with his Liberty Bonds. He could not do better today than to save $46 and with it buy another $50 bond. At that low price, the rate of interest is high, and the bond is certain to go up $4, with excellent prospects of increasing still more in value."

Don't Go Tobacco Crazy.

Tobacco prices keep on reaching new heights and breaking old records. The farmer who raised a good crop of tobacco last year certainly made money, whatever may have been the lot of the farmer who grew gain or fed live stock.

But because this is true, let us not lose our sense of proportion or forget the fundamentals of good farming. The demand for tobacco is likely to remain good for a year or two; but a large increase in the supply is to be looked for. Many farmers who have been growing tobacco are planning to increase their acreage, and the crop is being planted by many farmers who have not been growing it. There is danger here—a big crop might easily send the price down below the cost of production.

The farmer who has found tobacco a good money crop can safely plant it again this year if he plants it as a money or surplus crop only. He is taking a dangerous risk if he plants so much tobacco that he cannot raise the wheat and corn, the hay and truck, the hogs and cattle he needs for his own use. The only safe farming is that which insures certain of the farmer's living first of all; and the farmer who expects to buy his living out of the proceeds of tobacco crop is taking a gambler's chance. Tobacco in moderation is all right; but this is no time to go tobacco crazy.

A SYMPOSIUM OF SALADS.

A salad is one of the indispensable dishes. In these days a dinner is not complete without some form of salad appropriate to the meal served.

Cheese Jelly Salad.—Mix half a cupful of grated cheese with a cupful of whipped cream, season to taste with salt and pepper and add one tablespoonful of gelatin dissolved in a cupful of water. Mold in large or individual molds and when the jelly begins to harden cover with grated cheese. Serve with French dressing to which grated cheese has been added.

Tomatoes stuffed with cream cheese and served on lettuce with French dressing are savory and quickly prepared.

Benares Salad.—Add two tart apples chopped to two cupfuls of grated coconut, and one-half cupful of celery, two tablespoonfuls of chopped onion, one tablespoonful each of chopped parsley and red pepper. Serve with French dressing.

Goldsmith Salad.—To one-half cupful of minced apple add one-fourth of a cupful of minced celery, one-fourth of a cupful of minced olives, hickory nuts and green peppers. Mix with a mayonnaise dressing and serve in pepper or tomato cups.

Head Lettuce With Blackstone Dressing.—Wash and drain the lettuce until free from moisture then serve with four tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise dressing, four tablespoonfuls of whipped cream, two tablespoonfuls of chili sauce, two tablespoonfuls each of tomato catsup and vinegar. A spoonful or two of creamed Roquefort cheese may be added for variety.

Spanish Pepper Salad.—Dissolve half a box of gelatin in half a cupful of cold water and add a half cupful of vinegar. Add half a cupful of sugar, the juice of a lemon and a teaspoonful of salt, with one cupful of boiling water. Mix with six canned plumpets, five cupfuls of celery, one cupful of pecans cut fine, then mold in individual molds and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

The government rejected all the bids made for carrying the mail from Covington to Burlington for the next four years, claiming that they were too high. That route handles a very large proportion of Boone county's mail matter and the carrier should be well paid for the service.

The farmers generally had good crops with their lambs this season and they seem to be doing good

"MONEY QUESTION."

Old Style Political Discussion Not Desired, Journal States.

Signs are multiplying from day to day that the familiar "money question" is to figure as an important issue in the forthcoming presidential campaign. Not a few of those who are engaged in the formulation of policies or in drafting preliminary platform planks are looking with more or less care into matters of inflation, discount rates and general control of banking. The "stabilization of the dollar," the question of a bonus or subsidy to gold producers and several others look like new faces at the table, but when closely examined appear in the old familiar light of repudiation and price fixing.

Perhaps there is no issue so far-reaching and serious a character as this question of money and credit in its latter-day aspect. Prices are today very much more than twice what they were before the war. Their income from investments has less than half its old purchasing power. Besides thus losing the value of their savings in the income from pre-war investments find that if they are obliged to realize upon their securities they undergo a further loss of a third or more of the old market value. Almost everything that has been bought since the war began, in the way of investment securities, has depreciated—the outstanding example being seen in the Liberty bonds, which were floated so largely upon a patriotic basis. That the high and rising scale of prices is an increasingly dangerous social menace is very generally admitted and it is likely to be an even more pressing hazard should we suffer from business reaction and unemployment. Nevertheless, a return to a lower price level, a contraction of credit and an elimination of some of the present inflation are admitted to be essential to the re-establishment of sound conditions.

This is a time for constructive measures and for practical programs. We have a serious monetary and banking problem to contend with, and this problem is far from being local or domestic. It is international in its scope and there is a vast field for the working out of useful and feasible proposals, designed to combat existing difficulties and smooth the way toward the restoration of financial solvency throughout the world. It is to be hoped that the old-time style of political discussion on money and banking will not be revived.—New York Journal of Commerce.

THE CENSUS AND THE FARM.

The census for 1920 is being taken in some places the work has been completed.

When the government is able to give the figures on farm and city population, we think there is a surprise in store for those people who eat but never give a thought to the production of the food that gives them life and health and strength.

The census of 1919 showed that of the national population engaged in gainful occupations, 32.5 per cent was occupied at farming. By the way, the 32.5 per cent did not include the farm women and children, who do an immense amount of the nation's work for no pay—nothing but a living!

What has happened in the ten years that have elapsed since the census? It is certain that the percentage will have fallen considerably below 32.5 per cent. In other words, perhaps not more than one-fifth of the paid workers of the land is doing the work that keeps the whole five-fifths of the population not only alive, but well-fed.

There has been much moving from the farm to the town and city. It could not be otherwise under the conditions of the last few years—high wages, shorter hours and all the rest of it. City workers—many of them—hate the present industrial system, notwithstanding the big pay and short workday. But their grievance is not the worst that has come out of the system. Its worst feature has been its bad effect on country life. Agriculture is the backbone of a prosperous, happy nation, not the manufacturing industry.

Will Hear Complaints.

The county board of supervisors of tax adjourned last Friday after having been in session five days. The board examined tax commissioner Riley's books closely and found very little change necessary in his valuations. Sixty-eight lists were increased in the aggregate $70,000, while others were decreased to the amount of $30,000, which leaves the net increase in the county $40,000. The supervisors will meet again on the 25th of this month and in the mean time the 68 persons whose lists were increased by the board will be notified by the sheriff to appear before it and show it wherein it has erred in increasing their lists as returned by the county tax commissioner, if they deem such the case.

A Good Offer.

In order to further the interest of the Jersey breed of dairy cows in this county, I will give a half interest in a pure bred bull calf to any boy between the ages of 10 and 16 who will take good care of it and who will sell it for a price given or take. I have two on hand now from high producing dams. Let me hear from you if I have a sure sale on hand. Yours for better dairy cows.

You'll find it in the plants of the biggest breeders in the country--and you'll find it in the piano box coops of beginners just starting. Endorsed by all Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations.

Anybody can hatch chicks with a Buckeye. It operates automatically and can't go wrong. You get a chick from every hatchable egg.

That's why poultrymen think "Buckeye" when they say "Incubator."

Look at this Guarantee

The Buckeye Incubator is guaranteed to hatch more chicks and better chickens than any other incubator, regardless of price, or we take it back.

The fame of this guarantee has traveled from sea to sea. Over half a million "Buckeyes" are in use by big and little breeders and over 2000 leading dealers sell it.

Come in and get a copy of our wonderfully convincing book, "The Verdict of the User." We'll give it free and show you the Buckeye.

FLORENCE.

Justin Lillard and eight were guests of Ed. Sydnor, Friday.

Mrs. Mike Cahill spent several days last week at Jerry Conrad's. Mrs. Sam Hambrick is confined to her bed at her home on Price pike.

Chas. Carpenter and wife have taken rooms at Mrs. Perry Carpenter's.

A. M. House has rented and moved to rooms of Mrs. J. O. Carpenter.

Mrs. Brad Sayers and son, Jas. Bradley, were guests at Ed. Sydnor's, Saturday.

J. D. Lucas ran a splinter in his foot and it is giving him considerable trouble.

Thieves entered Bluff Wingate's smoke house Thursday night and took most of his meat and lard.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Whitson had as their guests, Monday, Lee Whitson and family and Chas. Whitson and family.

Miss Helen Schram has returned after two weeks' visit with Mrs. Mary Slayback and Mrs. Ed. Black, of Big Bone.

Mrs. Lee Whitson had as her Sunday guests her mother, Mrs. Bramlage and daughters, of Erlanger and Mrs. W. H. Goodridge.

There will be a business meeting at Florence Baptist church Saturday night, April 11th. Every member is earnestly requested to be present. Business of importance.

Will Goodridge is going to begin tearing away the old Gray house in the near future. It is the oldest landmark in Florence. He will build an up-to-date cottage on the site.

GUNPOWDER.

The flu epidemic has subsided. There are no new cases and we trust it will not return.

Moses Rouse and family, of near Limaburg, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rouse, last Sunday.

Kenneth Stephens moved, recently, to the farm he purchased some time ago near Richwood. Mr. Stephens was a resident of this neighborhood for several years and we are sorry to lose him as a neighbor, but our loss will be Richwood's gain.

George Miller, the famous fox hunter, has about completed the work of moving to the farm he bought on the Price pike and will take his family some time this week. Colonel Miller is a live wire and he knows a good thing when he sees it, and while we are sorry to lose him as a neighbor we wish him great success in his new home.

The Union pike gave way in several places last week and traffic was delayed to some extent for a short while. Edgar Aylor and Lonnie Tanner volunteered with their teams and several of the neighbors with hammers and saws, and in patching it so it can be gotten over by careful driving.

The meeting of the Joint Council of the Boone County Charge, which was postponed on account of the flu epidemic, will be held at Hopeful next Saturday at 10 a. m. A full attendance of the members of that body is desired.

Lewis Houston, who underwent a surgical operation in a hospital in the city a few days since, is getting along nicely we are glad to say.

UNION.

We are having some ideal March weather.

Courtney Pope and family are now residents of Union.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Feldhaus spent Sunday at Geo. Bradfords.

Mrs. James Bristow entertained the Woman's Missionary Society last Friday.

Dr. and Mrs. Crouch have returned from spending the winter in Florida.

School opened Monday morning after being closed four weeks on account of flu.

Miss Katherine Pindexter, of Cynthia, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. John Borden.

Thos. Brumagen is seriously ill at Dr. Murphy's hospital, Cincinnati, where he underwent an operation following flu.

The garage has changed hands. The firm is now known as Hicks and Rouse. Elia Rouse having purchased Dr. Senour's half interest.

Mrs. J. J. Garrison is nursing her sister, Mrs. Wallace Garrison, who is seriously ill at the home of her son, Elza, near Richwood.

A number of young folks attended the dance given by Geo. Miller Saturday night. We are sorry to see George Miller engaged, but wish him success in his new home.

Mrs. Richard Feldhaus entertained the Training Class Tuesday evening of last week. Quite a large crowd was present. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Charles Hedges.

Miss Nannie Bristow, daughter of J. C. Bristow, and wife, Claude Tanner, of Middle-town, O., were quietly married at the home of Rev. Hill, last Saturday. The couple left Monday for Ohio where Mr. Tanner is engaged in business. Here's wishing them success.

A Camouflage.

Frankfort, March 12. -- Declaring that he is convinced that neither party in Kentucky is attempting honestly to carry out its campaign pledge to abolish useless offices, reduce taxes and to expedite business, Senator Haynes Carter, of Elizabethtown, introduced in the Senate today a resolution proposing that the Legislature meet during the campaign. By this method, he asserts, the parties might show by actions and not promises the sincerity of their plans.

The resolution was prepared by Senator Carter almost immediately following the action of the Senate in transferring the office of the State Forester to the Department of Agriculture and passing a bill establishing the State Geological Survey and the office of State Geologist. This new office pays a salary of $3,000 a year, and the bill appropriates $27,500 annually, for the department. Senator Carter said in introducing the Senate that his action in passing bills abolishing the name of a department and then transferring the department bodily to some other department "is a camouflage which will not fool the voters long."

J. B. Sanders, now of Covington, was in Burlington last Thursday afternoon, and while here called at this office and left an advertisement of the sale of a fine farm on the 13th of this month, being the John Goodridge farm at Kensington. It is a fine body of land, and no doubt, can be bought worth the money.

On account of the very unfavorable weather and the water courses being past tiding Esq. William Stephens, of Petersburg neighborhood, postponed his sale from last Tuesday afternoon until next Monday afternoon. It will be a big day sale. Remember the date.

Some repair work has been under way this week on the Burlington and Florence pike. At several places it was almost impassable.

March is half gone and there has been no weather of consequence in which to advance farm work.

William Utz, of near Florence, bought a 1920 Maxwell touring car of W. L. Kirkpatrick, last week.

The Boone County Farm Bureau sent out a circular last Monday morning for 35 tons of fertilizer.

Philip Tallentire, of Erlanger, was a business visitor to Burlington last Tuesday.

FLOCKERTOWN.

All the sick are improving.

Miss Ryle has bought the other half of the Johnson farm.

Chas. Shinkle lost another cow Sunday night.

Ira Ryle will move to his Indiana farm this week if the weather will permit.

Several of the farmers around here are hauling hay from Aurora. Price $34 ton.

Arthur Alloway and family, P. Voshell and family, Leucetta and Richard Hensley, Otto Snelling, Enoch White and Wilber Snyder visited at J. W. Whites Sunday.

BELLEVIEW.

Miss Anna Cason is sick.

Curtis Kelly was visiting here last week.

Maella Flick was the guest of Mrs. Carl Cason last Sunday.

Leslie Ryle is engaged in the mercantile business with J. J. Maurer.

Geo. Buchner, mother and sister of Newport, spent last Sunday at Henry Clore's.

T. W. Cook and family spent one day last week with E. J. Ryle and family at Latonia.

Rev. W. M. Smith and son, of Louisville, visited his parents here the first of the week.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Ira Kittie March 16th, twins. Dr. M. A. Yelton attending physician.

Mrs. C. S. Smith visited relatives in the Waterloo and Hathaway neighborhoods last week.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cason sympathize with them in the loss of their infant.

Carlos Cason has been awarded the contract to carry the mail between here and Burlington until July 1921.

One day last week the Ky. Post carried a likeness of our old friend and neighbor, E. J. Ryle, who at present resides at Latonia, and was one of the winners in the Limerick contest given by the Post.

Card of Thanks--We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our many friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness shown us at the time in the loss of our beloved husband and father, Stephen Gaines. We wish to thank the quartette for the beautiful song, and Bro. Carter and the K. of P. for the comforting words at the graveside. Mr. and Mrs. Cason.

The funeral of the late Stephen Gaines was held in the excellent manner in which he conducted the funeral.

Mrs. Fannie Gaines, Walter C. Gaines.

Plant Some Grapes this Spring

There is nothing more delicious or refreshing on a hot day in August than a bunch of luscious ripe grapes. No home should be without them.

We can count with a greater degree of certainty, on having a crop of grapes than on any of our tree fruits. Even last year, when in so many sections the peach, apple, and plum crops were killed, we still had a crop of grapes. Although in many places the shoots, two feet long, were killed, the reserve buds were there to throw out another crop of shoots and these bore a fair crop of grapes. On account of its late blooming period and these reserve buds, we can call the grape a sure cropper.

The vines occupy less room than do trees and can even be grown for shade on the porch or on trellises near the house. The fruit is not only valuable as fresh fruit, but is unsurpassed for preserves, jellies and for grape juice. Good varieties for this territory are Campbell's Early, Concord, Worden, Brighton, Delaware, Lindley, Delaware, Diamond and Niagara. There are many other good varieties, but these are outstanding. We may start our vineyard in one or two ways—get cuttings from a neighbor and root them at home, or buy rooted plants from a nursery. We can gain a year by buying rooted vines. Purchase vigorous one-year-old plants and never let an agent talk you into buying older plants with the argument that they will come into bearing sooner.

As soon as the vines are received, see that the broken roots are cut smooth and heel them in until they are ready to plant. Make the preparation thorough by digging holes three feet in diameter and fifteen to eighteen inches deep. Fill in the holes with rich soil and do not put any fresh manure in the holes, especially where it will come in contact with the roots. See that the soil is well spread and that the soil is firmed well around them.

As soon as the vines are set, cut off all of the vines but one and cut this one back to two buds. Put up a stake and as growth commences, tie the new canes to the stake. Give them clear cultivation and watch them grow.—O. M. Watson, in Southern Agriculturist.

The Right Sort of Farm Garden

The big garden is a dangerous place. While the enthusiasm of its owner will lead to large planting in the spring of the year, it is almost certain to become a place of many weeds and few vegetables before the season ends. I know many a farm garden of more than an acre, and I am sure the farm family would be well supplied if three-fourths of it were turned into a corn field, and the remainder were given to a diligent cultivation of vegetables. My own garden is only 30 feet by 40 feet in size.

We should have in mind that the garden is the place where a large part of the family provisions come from, and that the family is entitled to the best provision there. Plant early. Plant only as much at a time as can be used while it is in good condition for use. Then, plant a succeeding crop, and keep this performance up through the growing season. Of course, this means constant work, but it also means constant returns; and if we would just consider the returns a little more carefully, we would not begrudge the necessary work. And it means also a smaller area devoted to gardening, but as in all intensive operations, it means also land of the greatest fertility and constant culture.

I have had the pleasure of visiting some wonderful suburban gardens in the vicinity of Nashville—gardens in which flowers and vegetables and small fruits all had a place—and it seems to me they are the most beautiful places in the world. I know they are the pride of the women who manage them, and who do a large part of the work in them. And I wonder at times why more farm women do not have that kind of gardens. Flowers enjoy exactly the same sort of treatment that vegetables enjoy. In point of fact, before we can have a pea for the table, we must have a blossom; and the sweet peas and only a development of the garden pea. It is a shame to restrict the sweet peas to the narrow limits of a flower bed, or to plant them up against a fence, where they can have only one-sided tillage. It is like making a man eat on one side of his mouth; he can do it, but it is not a pleasant performance. It would be a big job to adopt the old-fashioned plan of making beds in the garden and bordering every bed with old-fashioned flowers, as our grandmothers used to do; but they did have attractive gardens, and we might profitably adapt the idea in our own garden practices.—C. A. Keefer, in Southern Agriculturist.

FOR SALE—One Ford car with top, two rear wheels, one front spring, no fenders, seat made of plank, carburetor busted half way through, engine missing, hits on two. Only 3 years old. In the spring, has shock absorbers, everything, ten spokes missing, front axle bent, all four tires punctured, ain't worth a cent. Got lots of speed—will run like the wind, burns either oil or tobacco juice. If you want this car in good shape, it's a darned good bet for the shape it's in.

The Essex.

DEAR SIR:—

Do you know that Hudson builds the Essex?

That fact has not been generally known. But Essex did not need Hudson's endorsement, as is proved by the sales record it has made. More than 20,000 Essex cars, exceeding $35,000,000 in value, were bought in the first eleven months.

There was no need to use Hudson's reputation as the world's largest builder of fine cars to give endorsement to the Essex. The kinship of the two cars was purposely concealed so that the Essex might develop its own position on merit alone.

We tell you of that kinship now that you may understand why the Essex is a superior light car. The engineers who developed the famous long distance enduring Hudson Super-Six put all their skill into the design of the Essex. Both cars are built by the same workmen. But one standard is known to Hudson, and it applies to both the Super-Six and the Essex.

That is why the Essex is the success it is. Why its performance is praised by all who know it. Come, take a ride in the Essex if you would know the car of the future.

Yours very truly,

B. B. HUME.

D. G. Laws, the popular tobacco buyer, is able to be about again after a confinement of two weeks in the house with influenza.

W. B. Johnson was called to Bloomington, Ind., Sunday, by the death of her little granddaughter Lottie B. Renaker, bringing the remains here Tuesday.

Alex Finnell has invested in a Ford touring car and is learning how to operate it at a moderate speed. He made the purchase from the Phoenix Garage.

Mr. and Mrs. Omer Wilson of Farm Ridge, Illinois, were visitors here the past week being called by the death of her mother Mrs. Mary Ryan of Beaver Lick.

John E. Williams of Covington, was a visitor here Monday on his return from Astoria, Oregon, where he had been on a visit with his daughter Miss Lottie.

W. M. Rice who was recently elected the cashier of the new deposit bank at Hebron is arranging to open his bank, Saturday, March 27th with an elaborate program.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Percival, of Holden, West Va., spent the past week here with relatives and friends. Mr. Percival is postmaster at Holden, and is very popular with the people there.

Mr. G. W. Fling and daughter Miss Nannie of Flingsville, and Miss Therese Snyder of Crittenden, spent Thursday here with relatives and friends, being guests of Mrs. Fling's daughter, Mrs. Wm. Britt, and husband.

Joseph Reed spent last week at Covington attending his brother who died there Friday from a malarial fever. The remains were brought to Boone county for burial. The deceased was about 75 years old and had been ill for about two weeks.

The Catholic church building at Verona narrowly escaped destruction by fire Sunday from a fire that originated in the roof. The building was badly damaged and it was only by great effort that it was saved from complete destruction.

The Equitable bank has a statement of its business in this issue showing about three quarters of a million in deposits, and with the Walton Bank & Trust Co. the deposits in Walton represent about twelve hundred thousand dollars in deposits.

A. L. Weisbrodt of Cincinnati, manager of the Consolidated Telephone Company, spent the past week here and in Boone county overhauling the telephone lines and putting them in excellent condition, and the service is now as good as can be obtained anywhere.

Mrs. John C. Miller and Miss Fay Metcalfe spent part of the past week at Cynthia's, Harrison county, attending the annual meeting of the State Missionary Society of the M. E. church, South, being the delegates from the Walton M. E. church, and they report a splendid meeting, and delightful hospitality.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Nolin have sold their residence in North Walton to W. S. Wayland and wife for $3,200, and speak of moving back to Butler-Pendleton county, from which place they moved here. Fred Wayland and family will move into the property when Mr. and Mrs. Nolin vacates about the first of the month.

Mrs. Ann Elizabeth Hughes, widow of the late James H. Hughes, of Richwood, and mother of R. O. Hughes, died last Sunday. Mrs. Hughes was a pioneer citizen of the Richwood neighborhood being in her 82nd year. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in the presence of a large number of friends of the good old lady.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Mangrum who have been here on a visit to the country, Mr. and Mrs. W. Lee, arrived Monday for Washington, D. C., to spend a week before returning to their home at Durham, North Carolina. Mr. Mangrum bought and sold tobacco on the loose leaf markets here the past season and was very successful.

The Walton Loose Leaf Warehouse closed for the season last Wednesday and the Farmers Warehouse will close this week. The Walton house sold 2,400,000 lbs., and the Farmers house will sell about the same, making nearly five million pounds of tobacco sold at the Walton market this year, or nearly two millions lbs., more than last year. The average price was in the neighborhood of twenty-five cents.

Mrs. Wm. B. Sparks, who recently moved from near Verona to Covington, died at her home there, last Sunday. She had been ill for a long time, and her death was not unexpected. Mrs. Sparks was about 72 years old and leaves a husband and many friends and relatives to mourn her death. The remains were brought back to her old home in Boone county for interment, the funeral taking place last Wednesday at Verona. Mrs. Sparks was a sister of Chas. Slatyer of Ludlow.

The residence of Wm. Robinson, colored, was entirely destroyed by fire Saturday morning, the fire originating from the stove or flue, as there was no one at home, and the cause of the fire is not positively known. All of the contents were lost including $40 in money left in a sewing machine drawer. There was no insurance and the loss falls very heavily on Mr. Robinson and his wife who are poor people. They were employed at the hotel and bank at the time of the fire and did not reach home until the house was almost consumed.

Lottie B. Renaker, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Renaker, died at their home in Bloomington, Ind., Sunday, from a heart affection superinduced by an attack of influenza. They recently moved from Walton to Bloomington, and the little girl was greatly beloved here for her cheerful disposition and gentle manner, and her parents are greatly sympathized with in their sorrowful bereavement. Lottie was nine years old and was very bright and had the promise of a beautiful womanhood. The remains will probably be brought here for interment.

The loyal American Legion will begin a drive in Kentucky Monday, March 29th and lasting the week until April 3rd, for the purpose of raising funds with which to establish Posts in counties where there are no organizations or means sufficient to establish a Post. The Legion is composed of the soldiers who served in the United States in the late war, and is a very praiseworthy organization. Hon. John J. Howe of Carrollton, is the Chairman of the Sixth Congressional District, and was here Sunday and Monday arranging some of the preliminaries. Judge N. E. Riddell of Burlington, is the Chairman of Boone county, and these gentlemen hope the public will respond generously to the appeal from this laudable purpose.

Mrs. Mary Ryan, an old and highly esteemed lady of the Beaver Lick neighborhood, died at the St. Elizabeth Hospital in Covington last Thursday from injuries sustained some time ago by a fall on the icy ground at her broken hip. For several years her health has been impaired, and owing to her advanced years, she being about seventy-five years old, she gradually declined until relieved by death. Mrs. Ryan was born in Ireland but resided nearly all of her life in Boone county. Her husband died several years ago, but she leaves several grown children, viz: Thomas and John Ryan, Mrs. G. E. Carroll, Mrs. J. W. Conley, Mrs. Tina Hamilton. The remains were brought to the late home of the deceased by undertaker Scott Chambers and the funeral took place last Saturday morning from the Catholic church at Verona of which Mrs. Ryan was a devout member, high mass being held over the remains after which they were laid to rest in the new Catholic cemetery. Mrs. Ryan was a splendid woman and she had many friends who sorrow over the death. The name of Mrs. Omer Wilson, one of her children is omitted from the above list.

Miss Louise Quick, of Walnut Hills, was the week-end guest at C. W. Riley's.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Wayman were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mann, Sunday.

Mrs. Dora Aylor and son, Melvin, are guests of her parents, Thos. Hater and wife.

Mrs. Nell Clore, of Erlanger, spent last week here with her brother, J. C. Hankins and wife.

Mrs. J. W. Clore entertained Mesdames Nell Clore, of Erlanger; C. W. Riley and J. C. Hankins, last Thursday.

Mrs. Estella Starcher, of Point Pleasant neighborhood, was a business visitor to Burlington, Tuesday, and while in town made the Recorder a call.

Mike Knaley, of Union neighborhood, was a business visitor to Burlington, Tuesday, trading with Geo. Niyth for some of the property which he had advertised for sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Mangrum who have been here on a visit to the country, Mr. and Mrs. W. Lee, arrived Monday for Washington, D. C., to spend a week before returning to their home at Durham, North Carolina. Mr. Mangrum bought and sold tobacco on the loose leaf markets here the past season and was very successful.

The Walton Loose Leaf Warehouse closed for the season last Wednesday and the Farmers Warehouse will close this week. The Walton house sold 2,400,000 lbs., and the Farmers house will sell about the same, making nearly five million pounds of tobacco sold at the Walton market this year, or nearly two millions lbs., more than last year. The average price was in the neighborhood of twenty-five cents.

Mrs. Wm. B. Sparks, who recently moved from near Verona to Covington, died at her home there, last Sunday. She had been ill for a long time, and her death was not unexpected. Mrs. Sparks was about 72 years old and leaves a husband and many friends and relatives to mourn her death. The remains were brought back to her old home in Boone county for interment, the funeral taking place last Wednesday at Verona. Mrs. Sparks was a sister of Chas. Slatyer of Ludlow.

The residence of Wm. Robinson, colored, was entirely destroyed by fire Saturday morning, the fire originating from the stove or flue, as there was no one at home, and the cause of the fire is not positively known. All of the contents were lost including $40 in money left in a sewing machine drawer. There was no insurance and the loss falls very heavily on Mr. Robinson and his wife who are poor people. They were employed at the hotel and bank at the time of the fire and did not reach home until the house was almost consumed.

Lottie B. Renaker, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Renaker, died at their home in Bloomington, Ind., Sunday, from a heart affection superinduced by an attack of influenza. They recently moved from Walton to Bloomington, and the little girl was greatly beloved here for her cheerful disposition and gentle manner, and her parents are greatly sympathized with in their sorrowful bereavement. Lottie was nine years old and was very bright and had the promise of a beautiful womanhood. The remains will probably be brought here for interment.

The loyal American Legion will begin a drive in Kentucky Monday, March 29th and lasting the week until April 3rd, for the purpose of raising funds with which to establish Posts in counties where there are no organizations or means sufficient to establish a Post. The Legion is composed of the soldiers who served in the United States in the late war, and is a very praiseworthy organization. Hon. John J. Howe of Carrollton, is the Chairman of the Sixth Congressional District, and was here Sunday and Monday arranging some of the preliminaries. Judge N. E. Riddell of Burlington, is the Chairman of Boone county, and these gentlemen hope the public will respond generously to the appeal from this laudable purpose.

Theme—"Exaltation Through Suffering."

All are cordially invited to these services.

Honey bees made their appearance last Sunday.

The movers have about all got settled in their new homes.

Mrs. Emma Brown is visiting Mrs. O. N. Scott in Petersburg.

Mrs. Leslie Goodridge, of Walton, is the guest of her father, Asa Cason, out on the East Bend road.

J. B. Rouse is now the owner of a two cylinder International truck he bought of Al Scott, of Florence.

Bellevue Baptist Sunday school will have a special program March 28th. Your presence will be appreciated.

John Baldon has the Recorders thanks for favors extended. He is generally the right man in the right place.

Charles Westbay and Herbert Kirkpatrick hauled coal from Petersburg last Monday. They took a four horse team.

The bright days of the past week started the grass to growing and the pastures have begun to take on their spring garb again.

Next Saturday is the date of the big sale of the personal property of the late W. H. Senour, near Walton. If the weather is favorable a very large crowd will be in attendance.

The many friends of Mrs. Nat Rogers, who is in a Cincinnati hospital, will be glad to hear that she is doing nicely after undergoing an operation.

John W. Clore, of Hebron, was transacting business in Burlington last Saturday afternoon. He is getting work brittle and will be glad to see some weather suitable for farm work.

James E. Smith, who has been ill for some time, is in pretty good shape now and is going about considerably. Good, warm weather will find him headed towards Burlington before long.

Instead of next Monday being horse show day in Burlington it will be auto exhibition day. As Dobbin has been crowded from the scene almost entirely in many respects in this country.

The public sale of Esq. William Stephens, near Petersburg, last Monday afternoon, was attended by a large crowd and everything brought very satisfactory prices. Mr. Stephens will retire from active farm life.

The Farm Bureau had a car load of alfalfa hay shipped to Howe Creek at Walton a few days since. The orders for the goods the Bureau handles are increasing daily very much to the satisfaction of those in charge of the Bureau.

Public improvements do not appeal to the public when it comes to putting up the money with which to have the work done, but let the Government or State propose to make the improvement and it is wonderful with what unanimity it is pronounced the thing that ought to be done.

J. G. Finnell, heretofore of the Hume neighborhood over on Mudlick creek, has moved to Big Bone Springs, where he expects to spend the remainder of his days. He will be missed greatly over on his native hill. He was in Burlington last Saturday and reported a sea of back-water covering Mudlick and Big Bone valleys.

James W. Huey, of Union neighborhood, was a business visitor to Burlington last Saturday, and called at the RECORDERS office and planted his regular spring advertisement for sale of eggs of his fine Banded Plymouth Rock chickens. While in town he called at the headquarters of the Farm Bureau where he got some pointers as to the intent and purposes of that organization.

Baldon and Rouse closed up their sawmill trade last Monday. It has been about six months since Mr. Rouse sold the mill to Baldon & Hewitt, since which time they have done considerable sawing. Mr. Rouse was not long in discovering that he was not happy without a mill and he began negotiations for its purchase. The hissing of steam in Mr. Rouse's ears so long has been about steam mills.

Card of Thanks—We wish to thank the people of Constance for their kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of our loved one Elizabeth Kinsley Clure. TOBACCO PRICE
SLUMP EXPLAINEDInvestigation of Kentucky Market Conditions Indicates High Average for Burley and Dark Grades.

It has been stated that seventy per cent of the 1919 crop of tobacco in Kentucky has been sold at a loss to the grower and that in many instances prices have been lower than those which prevailed prior to the night rider raids in 1917 and 1918. A careful study of existing conditions in Kentucky tobacco markets and a comparison of official statistics representing the actual sales for growers at first hand dealers and warehouse reveals facts to indicate that these assertions are based in fact.

At the beginning of the market season prices were rapidly to a close, abnormally high prices were paid in practically every loose leaf center of Kentucky. This was a condition brought about entirely by natural causes, the main contributing reason being the old law of supply and demand. Manufacturers' stocks were low, generally speaking, the new crop was admittedly smaller than that of the previous year and apparently not of the best quality. It was natural, therefore, that an abnormally heavy demand should create the competition necessary to boost prices far above any that had ever prevailed for Kentucky tobacco previously. Growers who sold early in the season made a wonderful profit—a fact that is attested by the thousands of former "land renters" who have purchased their own farms through their earnings on the last tobacco crop alone. Kentucky was "tobacco mad" and with just cause.

Naturally in a market of this sort a very strong speculative element participated, an element which failed to take into consideration the fact that manufacturers invariably have a reserve stock held over from year to year, of varying proportions, and that steadily rising prices in the leaf markets meant that the cost to the consumer must inevitably be increased proportionately bringing about a corresponding actual curtailment in the production. How far reaching this last conclusion may be will probably not become altogether apparent for several months.

The fact remains, however, that toward the close of January buyers for the large manufacturing interests found that they had become so well stocked up and had spent so much money for the tobacco which had been absorbed during December and January that some effort must be made to curtail.

Another factor that entered into the situation was the slump in the export demands. Sales during the first weeks of the season in the loose leaf centers had been confined largely to the better types of tobacco required for manufacturing purposes in the U. S. and these types were eagerly absorbed at record prices. From the middle of January there was a trend marketward of the low grades, which find their outlet in foreign channels, but the foreign buyers were not educated to the high prices affecting the market at that time until quotations should seek a lower level. The domestic demand had been fairly well satisfied and the low grades of tobacco being offered, both in the dark district and the burley belt, were types totally undesirable for manufacturing purposes in the United States. Speculators who bought tobacco on a high market soon found it impossible to dispose of their holdings at a profit or without loss. Many growers who had delayed the matter of taking their product to market were confronted with the same condition. With competition of the buyers in the open market at a low level, prices for all grades of tobacco sought a lower level. The dissatisfaction among those who attempted to market their crop under such conditions was largely responsible for the claim being set up that 70 per cent of the 1919 tobacco crop of Kentucky had been sold at a loss to the grower.

J. B. Berkshire, of Petersburg, spent a short time in Burlington last Tuesday morning as he was enroute to Cincinnati to introduce to the merchants there some of the members of the Supply Company. Mr. Berkshire is one of the oldest merchants in this county, having been behind the counter nearly continuously since his boyhood.

IN CONNECTION WITH THE Hebron Bank Opening

Hebron, Ky.

Saturday, March 27, 1920

—THE Hebron Amusement Co.

will reopen its doors to the amusement world, giving a show that afternoon and also at eight o'clock that night and on every Saturday night thereafter.

Hebron Bank Opening.

The Hebron Deposit Bank, of Hebron, Ky., will be formally opened Saturday, March 27, and the public generally is invited to be present. There will be music by a brass band, a nice lunch will be served, and the visitors will be entertained at the moving picture show. The bank promises to be a successful institution and we want everybody to be present on the opening day and see it start off. A pleasant time is assured all who attend the opening and all will be welcome. The bank has nearly 100 stockholders comprising some of the best citizenship of Boone County. J. C. Clore, of Cincinnati, is the cashier. The Hebron people will do their part to make the day a pleasant one. C. O. M. E. W. M. RICE, Cashier.

AGONIES REPEATED

Gov. Morrow Says, in Commuting Life Sentence of Kentuckian.

Frankfort, Ky., March 23.—Governor Edwin P. Morrow commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Charles Douthitt. The Governor says while the law has the right to take the life of a citizen who has violated its law, in his opinion, "it has no right to inflict upon him time after time the agony of death."

For more than two years Douthitt has been in a death cell at Eddyville Penitentiary under a death watch. The death cell is located near the execution chamber in which the electric chair is located. It is immediately adjacent to the electric dynamo from which is furnished the death-dealing current.

"Eight times," Governor Morrow said, "Douthitt has seen those confined with him go from their cells to their death. Eight times they have passed him, stopped long enough to bid him a last good-by. Eight times he has known that they would never return."

"Eight times he has heard the whirr of machinery, the starting of the dynamo and the hiss of death which came to the lever was thrown which sent its deadly current into the quivering body of a victim; and as he listened, shudderingly, he knew that such a fate awaited him."

"He already has passed through the agony of death eight times. I do not undertake to sit in judgment upon those who have permitted this deadly; I make and know no explanation for it. It is enough to say that those charged with the execution of the law should have acted in the matter one way or the other long ago."

The application for commutation of sentence was signed by Judge Robert L. Stout, Commonwealth's Attorney Victor A. Bradley, 11 members of the jury who convicted Douthitt, and prominent men of Scott county.

Should Work Together.

The farmers and all labor, organized or otherwise, should combine and enter into an agreement which would benefit both, as well as the whole people. It is useless to expect to stop profiteering when senators and congressmen who make our laws have their money invested in sugar, tobacco, food, railroad and steel factories, and wish to fill their own pockets with as little delay as possible. The producer is the main factor, and our government should be used by all as a means of fairness. Profiteering is the main factor that is leading us down to destruction, and sooner or later Congress must admit this fact: All mines, mills and factories ought to be bought from their present owners and each industry put under its own mortgage until the debt is canceled; all who use their brain power for all the community should be classed as "labor." Then it would be boiled down to the producers, the consumers, and a lot of drones. The farmers and laborers of the industries must combine by mutual consent and fix prices suitable to all, and all governed by the standard time it takes to produce. The producer and consumer are the whole public and when they work separately they profiteer, each at the expense of the other.

Stanley (Boss) Eddins, who had been complaining several days, developed a case of appendicitis last Sunday night, and early Monday Dr. Duncan, his physician, called a specialist who, upon examining the patient decided it would be better to take him to a hospital, where it was hoped he could be cured without an operation, and he was accordingly taken to the Deaconess hospital, Cincinnati, that afternoon, where Dr. Zinko will be his attending surgeon.

After arriving at the hospital Mr. Eddins developed double pneumonia and the attack of appendicitis grew worse and the first night he was very bad, but the last reports from him just before going to press are encouraging to his friends.

The road from Linsburg to Hebron is said to be in a very bad condition. It was not built to stand the heavy traffic to which it has been subjected this winter.

Mrs. Menter Martin is assisting in the county clerk's office while there is a rush of work and Mr. Rogers eye is giving him trouble.

Charles Garrett, of Latonia, was among the business visitors to Burlington last Tuesday. He prefers the county to the city.

The sound of the tack hammer will soon be heard in the land again.

One Look at This New Chalmers
Makes You Want It.

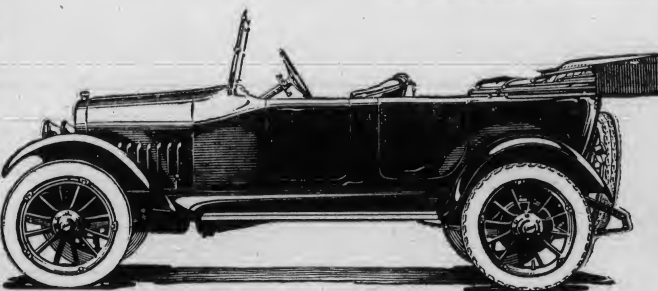

YOU can't get into an argument about the beauty of this new Chalmers. Everyone admits it. Just one look suffices. Its coach, with large square doors, infinite detail, engaging appointments, superior high finish establishes a precedent.

And when you sink into those new type cushions that tilt deeply you say to yourself: "Here is comfort, indeed."

Then let loose the power stream. Note the silence. You can scarcely hear a sound. Watch for vibration. You detect none—not even the semblance of a fender quivering.

All throbbing is gone. Hot Spot and Ram's-horn make more this rhythm. They "digest" the gas before it gets inside the engine, and they "feed" each cylinder quickly and evenly.

They make results de luxe in power, and that is why so many now say Chalmers is one of the few great cars of the world.

A Maxwell Reveals the Wisdom of Light Weight.
They Last Long. They Stand Brutal Treatment.
They Cost But Little to Run.

THEY hold the greatest efficiency—economy record a car has ever made—22.20 miles at an average speed of 25 miles an hour, with an average of 22 miles to a gallon of gasoline, and during this test the engine never once stopped, day or night. It was continuous low cost. Highly reliable mileage.

Such steels, such certainty of performance, such savings, have won many friends for Maxwell.

To date 300,000 Maxwells are gracing the highways of the country. These 300,000 have multiplied the friendship each day until 1920 finds 100,000 Maxwells in process of construction at the eight Maxwell plants.

Those who sell the Maxwell say this number will supply but 60 per cent of the demand.

One year's free service given to each purchaser of a Maxwell Car.

J. B. SANDERS,

South 2347 X Covington, Ky., or

W. E. BAIRD, Erlanger, Ky.

Terms of sale will be one-third cash, and the balance in one and two years.

Sanders & Baird.

Sale will begin at 11:30 o'clock.

It seems that the sale epidemic is subsiding in this county.

Summer began last Sunday and it is hoped it has come to stay.

With bright, warm days the demand for garden seeds will increase.

Next Monday is county court day and on the Monday following circuit court will convene.

Another evidence of the presence of spring is the renewal of the game of horseshoes, which has appeared here.

Mrs. John M. Botts, of Petersburg, was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Dudley Blyth, several days last week.

Mrs. D. E. Castleman, of Erlanger, entertained several of her friends from Burlington and vicinity last Saturday afternoon.

A State Bank Examiner was in town last Thursday and went over the work of the local banks, giving them the nod or k.

The many friends of G. G. Hughes will be pleased to hear that he is getting along very nicely and is able to be up and about.

Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Jr., and Miss Bessie Kirkpatrick called on Mrs. Thomas Hendley on the Woolgrower boys, last Thursday afternoon.

Are you testing the seed corn which you expect to use as seed this spring? A few hours work along that line might prove very profitable to you. Better test your corn.

The little pond frogs opened up their 1920 carnival on Saint Patrick's night. According to the old saying they will have to look through ice three times yet this spring.

Truck men have been having unusual troubles the past week. Several machines have been damaged by miring and then making an heroic effort to extricate themselves.

Local potato planting did not begin as early this year as last. Ed. Rice, one of the leading vegetable growers of the town, made his first planting last year on the 22nd of March.

Renewing his subscription for the Recorder T. J. Hankinson, of Marion, Ind., writes: "I feel like I must have the Recorder as it is like receiving a letter from home as Boone county is my old home."

Charles Maurer reports his hens as doing a lively business in the production of eggs. He has a fine flock of choice poultry which has proven a considerable source of revenue to him the past two or three years.

Judge Sidney Gaines and County Judge N. E. Riddell were transacting business in Williamstown, Grant county, last Monday, to which place Judge Gaines had sentenced a couple of young men to the penitentiary.

Hubert Conner, secretary of the North Kentucky Fair, was among those transacting business in Burlington last Monday. He took home with him a considerable bunch of printed matter to be used in the interest of the next fair.

Elijah Stephens, carrier on R. D. 3, took charge of his route again last Monday morning, after having been off for several days on account of illness. Thomas Dinn made a very efficient sub for Mr. Stephens during his illness.

The quantity of feed for livestock farmers has hauled from Burlington this winter is tremendous. It goes to show that farmers are not making their land produce enough feed to sustain their livestock they keep.

W. C. Hughes, carrier on R. D. 1, laid off several days last week because of having flu. His wife delivered the mail while he was unable to attend to it. Mrs. Hughes is perfectly familiar with the route and rendered excellent service.

Chas. Moore, colored, has stored in Lassinger's warehouse about all the material for a ready-cut house of six rooms which he will erect on the land he bought of J. W. Goodridge out on the Bellevue pike as soon as he can secure the services of carpenters.

Walter Brown, who belongs to the Navy and is stationed at Great Lakes Naval Station, near Chicago, spent last Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Emma Brown. He is well pleased with the service and expects to be put on sea service shortly. From his looks it judged his work is agreeing with him.

Livestock has not come through the winter in as good condition as would be supposed as the winter has not been especially severe. Animals have been fed as well as usual and the only way to account for their condition is upon the hypothesis the provender this winter has been lacking the usual nourishing properties.

While in the office one day last week one of Burlington's ladies gave the force to understand that it might expect to see some wedding goods about as this is leap year and that she can't make up her mind to discourage her by insisting they leave it to the boys to do with as they see fit.

MR. SHODDY ILL.

The following article from a Chicago publication was handed the Recorder by Mr. C. O. Hempling, of Taylorsport, who urgently requested its publication:

"Zone of Quack" signs are lined along Summer Street, Boston, and Front Street, Philadelphia. They have been posted at the urgent request of shady dealers, shoddy associations and the manufacturers of cheap, inferior clothing.

Mr. N. G. Shoddy, beloved father of Baggy Kneed Trousers, Miss Cold Blankets, Thrallbare Coat, and brother of the well known Big Wool Surplus and Miss Low Wool Prices, is seriously ill and not expected to live. He is afflicted with a complication of diseases, the leading of which is the dangerous Truth in Fabric Law, known technically among political specialists as H. R. 11611, discovered on January 7, 1920, by the Hon. Burton of French, Congressman from Idaho. The famous specialist, Arthur Capper, also a Senator from Kansas, has diagnosed the illness. S. 3886. Special treatment of the disease has been referred to the Committee of Interstate and Foreign Commerce of the House of Representatives and the Committee of Interstate Commerce in the Senate.

Mr. Shoddy's father, Mr. Shoddyman, is very anxious to have his maintenance in the neighborhood of his sick son, as the doctors say that noise and publicity will probably result in the death of Mr. Shoddy. The Woolgrower Boys, the hoodlums from the east and west ends, are a noisy gang and have been annoying Mr. Shoddy considerably lately. His father and brothers threaten to have the Woolgrower Boys arrested if they don't keep quiet.

The specialists, Congressmen French and Senator Capper, believe that the crisis in the malady will be reached later in March or early in April, when it comes before the committee. The disease is very contagious, and if it proves fatal to Mr. Shoddy, the entire family of Shoddies will probably be wiped out.

As everybody knows who has followed the activities in the Financial Circle, the Shoddy family has long been very popular and ruled the Circle. If they should all die, the Woolgrower family, although now rather unpopular, will come to the fore. Before this can be fully accomplished, there will be a big coming-out party, with the Woolgrower Girls, being the popular young ladies of the season. The American Sheep Breeders have already taken a contract for announcing the coming-out party, which will officially introduce the Misses Good Clothing, High Priced Wool, and Big Wool Consumption. The list of young people to be invited is being made out by the chaperons, Mr. and Mrs. Public Demand. Of course, all the Woolgrower Boys will be there.

This party will never be held unless Mr. Shoddy dies, and the Woolgrower Boys are right on the job making noise. All of the old tried, result-producing methods are in action. Letters to Congressmen, letters to Senators, telegrams to Congressmen, telegrams to Senators, resolutions to everybody, petitions to Congress, letters and telegrams and petition and resolutions to the committees, are all things that can be tossed in from the west and east ends to the very midst of the commotion. Several of the boys are going to be there with all the fireworks they can possibly rake up when the critical period comes along. Wyoming Woolgrower says he will be there and so will Iowa and Ohio. If Big Texas Woolgrower will move down to Washington, Mr. Shoddy will certainly have an uncomfortable time getting well.

The Woolgrower cousin, National Sheep and Wool Bureau, has been trying another popular stunt that will produce strong evidence at the right time. He has just started a "Random" Hearst and his string of newspapers in giving Mr. Shoddy publicity. The Chicago Tribune and leading metropolitan papers have been influenced by this cousin. With this lead perhaps the Woolgrower Boys can interest their local newspaper men in setting up a big calamity. If the complication of Popular Favor develops, Mr. Shoddy will have small chance of living.

Write or wire your representative in Congress and ask him to support the Truth in Fabric Law, introduced by Burton L. French, January 7, and known as H. R. 11611.

Write or wire your Senator in Washington and ask him to support the Truth in Fabric Law, introduced by Arthur Capper, Jan. 8, and known as S. 3886.

Write or wire your member of the committee, asking for the support of the measure.

LICE COST YOU MONEY.

Every farmer knows that it takes grain to feed lice on hogs, but not many men know how much.

"The United States Department of Agriculture conducted three experiments to see just how much lice interfere with the proper growth and fattening of hogs. Each of these experiments lasted three months or longer and in each 20 to 30 hogs were used. In one it cost $1 a hundred more to raise the lice on the hog than without; in the second, it cost $1.50 more; in the third, $2.41 more. Gains on the hogs free from lice were made more rapidly as well as at less cost. It pays to kill the lice!"

ENLIST CITIZENS IN LEGION WORK

The Campaign For Kentucky's
American Legion Fund
Begins March 29

Supporting not only in sentiment but in word and deed the accomplishments and purposes of the American Legion, prominent business and professional men of Kentucky have banded together as a Citizens' Committee, with A. T. Hert of Louisville as chairman, and have organized a Statewide campaign to solicit funds for the support of the Legion, beginning March 29 and ending April 3.

Money realized from subscriptions, which are to come from citizens not members of the Legion, will go jointly to furthering the plans of State Headquarters and to the betterment of each local post. The amount raised will be called Kentucky's American Legion Fund.

The State has been organized by Mr. Hert into eleven congressional districts, with a chairman appointed for each district. Each district is divided by counties and each county will have its Citizens' Organization Chairman. The district chairmen serving with Mr. Hert as State Chairman are:

J. C. Utterback, Paducah, Ky., First District.
James Pendleton, Owensboro, Ky., Second District.
J. L. Harmon, Bowling Green, Ky., Third District.
Judge J. B. Layman, Elizabethtown, Ky., Fourth District.
Frank Buerck, Louisville, Ky., Fifth District.
John H. Howe, Carrollton, Ky., Sixth District.
Henry T. Duncan, Lexington, Ky., Seventh District.
George McRoberts, Danville, Ky., Eighth District.
Robert H. Winn, Mt. Sterling, Ky., Ninth District.
F. W. Stowers, Pikeville, Ky., Tenth District.
Hugh Asher, Pineville, Ky., Eleventh District.

American Legion posts have been instructed to call upon the county chairmen and offer their assistance in the detail work, but all actual solicitation will be done by those not in the Legion, according to the plans of the Committee.

Every business house and individual will be afforded an opportunity to assist in the work of the American Legion in its efforts to combat anti-Americanism, encourage better citizenship and promote fraternalism among former service men.

In a letter to the commanders of Legion posts in the State Urie Bell, State Commander of the Legion, said:

"All the members should feel deeply grateful to this Citizens' Committee for the work that they are undertaking in your behalf and in the behalf of the American Legion. You should personally and by committee tender such services as you are able to perform and you should hold yourselves in readiness at all times to respond promptly to any call for assistance and co-operation that they may issue."

In a statement on the campaign Mr. Hert said:

"It is essentially a campaign of citizens on behalf of the Legion—not a campaign of the Legion men themselves seeking aid. Their necessities are known and their budgets have been carefully scrutinized by a group of competent men who, in cooperation with the citizenship of the State in general, to raise the money necessary to meet the Legion's requirements."

"The Legion today stands as a bulwark against radicalism of a revolutionary character, not only in Kentucky but throughout the nation. It is a work that is increasing in view of the situation abroad and in this country."

"The Legion is growing so rapidly that it is unable to provide for the growth of the organization itself and take care of work it is doing and has planned to do."

"The Citizens' Committee expects every loyal Kentuckian and every man who is a 100 per cent American to do his duty in this campaign."

Tobacco The Coming Crop.

The season for the sale of the 1919 crop of Burley tobacco has practically closed. It has brought in some unheard of prices. No grower ever dreamed of the time coming when he would receive a dollar per pound for the weed. This has not been an unusual occurrence this season. Men wonder how it happened. They often believe these prices have come to stay. The warehousemen as well as the farmers have heralded these wonderful averages to the outside world. The press has had some marvelous stories to tell, and it has been busy telling them. The papers delight in giving to the public what the public likes to read. Who does not enjoy of hearing growers receiving a thousand or twelve hundred dollars for an acre of tobacco? It means higher prices for land, more money in the banks, better business. So all are glad and the welcome news spreads. There is another truthful tale to tell, however, that may not be so welcome, but is fraught with more real good than those tinged with high prices. The whole truth should receive as much publicity as part of the truth. It may prevent great losses and even tragedies. One could see these tragedies most any day on the tobacco market during the late selling season. Neighbors would come to the market to get a year's returns for their labor. One would get a good price, say 70 or 80 cents per pound for his crop. His neighbor, appearing in the papers next day as being a great success as a tobacco grower. The other who had probably worked just as hard and possibly harder, who had exercised what would usually be considered sound judgment and yet he would receive 15 or 20 cents per pound for his entire crop. His name was charitably withheld, and the public was informed that the low grades were slow of sale. This man often did not make a decent living wage, but he got no sympathy. He did not have what was wanted. It was his fault, in everyone's mind. This was not always true.

In spite of the fact that the recent crop average is better than 40 cents, we do not hesitate to say that, in our opinion, at least 30 per cent of the crop was grown at an actual loss. We want to go on record as hazarding a prediction that at least 50 per cent of the coming crop will not bring the cost of production. It is the general opinion, and in this we share, that certain grades of burley will sell next season for as much or more than they brought this year. One naturally asks how we reconcile these two predictions. There is sound reasoning for them. The supply of tobacco of all kinds is not excessively large. The increased demand for cigarette tobacco is shown in every report of the sale both in this country and abroad. The number of persons smoking is rapidly increasing. The American cigarette was favored and advertised during the war wherever our boys came in contact with a foreigner. The Government, the doctors, the Y. M. C. A., the Salvation Army, and often even father and mother have approved its use. The ladies are frequently indulging in a smoke. Prohibition has come and the man who drank naturally turns more to his cigarettes. Many things tend to increase the consumption of the brighter tobacco. On the other hand the man who is connected with a large manufactory of chewing tobacco told us the other day that the amount of tobacco used for chewing was on the decrease. Another tells us it is about at a standstill. Few of the young men are forming the habit of chewing. The women object to it. The crusade for cleanliness opposes miscellaneous spitting on the streets and in public places. Chewing is being more or less outlawed. It follows then, that what the market wants is the fine-ribbed, light colored tobacco. We have not yet developed a type of tobacco that will sell at all times, in all places, under all circumstances, produce cigarette or even low grade smokers. The whole of many crops, a part of practically all crops must go for chewing tobacco or for fertilizer. We have seen basket after basket of this last crop sell for less than its value for fertilizer purposes. Again the land that will produce the light chaffy smoker is more or less limited. The area that will grow the weed as a weed is large. For years the area devoted to burley tobacco has been the limestone section of Kentucky, a section of Southern Ohio, a few counties in Indiana, and a small portion of West Va. These high prices have interested other territory, and shipments have come to the Lexington market from unheard-of places. Most of this tobacco from new areas has been sold at a loss. The men who purchased it from the growers were the losers in many cases. We saw two men from an outside county ship in a car of mountain tobacco a year ago and got about 25 cents for it. It was made up of 2 or 3 dozen small crops. This year, they came with two cars that they paid more for. It brought about 20 cents, and one of the owners told me he would lose on this purchase his mountain farm that he had worked a life time to pay for, and would have to start all over again. He caused the day that tobacco first came to his stockholding country. If the coming crop of burley is as large as promised, much of it will sell at a loss to some one, and there will be enough of low grade tobacco to last for years. It is therefore logical to market high prices for smokers, and very low prices for the dark and damaged grades. If your soil has not proven a good tobacco soil, our advice is to let tobacco alone. If you are a tobacco grower, use every effort to produce light, bright burley. If you never grew tobacco, this is a had time to begin. Money is quickly made in tobacco, and remember it is just as quickly lost. J. W. Newman, in Farmers Home Journal.

Kentucky News Gullies

Mayfield — Alex Gardner, who never had been sick a day in his life, selected the spot for his grave in the cemetery two days before he was seized with fatal illness, and friends believe he had a premonition of death.

Owensboro — When the wrong man was found drunk, a puzzling case confronted the prohibition agents. The bottle showed a prescription had been issued to Henry Stills, but the man arrested for drinking up the prescription is another, whom the doctor had never seen.

Lexington — An X-ray examination has located two bullets in the back of G. C. Springate, 31, shot by a burglar whom he surprised in his store near Lawrenceburg, and who escaped after a desperate struggle in the dark.

Mayville — After feeding cattle on the farm of Alex Casey, Charles Coleman, 46, negro farm hand, fell dead from his horse.

Winchester — After being in a state of coma for two weeks following influenza, the affection being called sleeping sickness, Sarah Elizabeth Arnold, little orphan of this city, is promised recovery.

Bardonia — Following death from pneumonia of Miss Kate Plaugher, 35, telegraph operator and former newspaper woman, complete grave garments were found in her trunk, the burial clothing being of her own workmanship. A note in the trunk named the songs she wanted sung at her funeral.

Madisonville — When it was seen Mrs. Bettie McGraw was near death she was asked if she wanted a minister. She declined, but said she would like to have some one sing "Face to Face" as she passed away. Mrs. Geo. W. Dow sang the song over and over until death came.

Paris — At a meeting of farmers at the Court house, one said he had just opened when, after selling butter to a grocery here at 40 cents a pound, he saw his daughter, who lives in town, buy a pound of the same butter at 75 cents.

Greenup — Mule Lodge, organized two years ago for the purpose of driving horse thieves from this county, at a demobilization meeting said objects for which the band was organized have been achieved. It was shown thieves now have turned their attention to automobiles.

Harrodsburg — W. E. Thompson was fined $1 for killing a fox out of season, despite his defense that the animal had killed his lambs and fowls.

Hickman — The Fiscal Court is negotiating a loan of $35,000 to meet a deficit in current expenses, from eastern capitalists.

Owensboro — Alleging he used his present position as president of the company to speculate in tobacco, the Lancaster Loose Leaf Warehouse Co. sues W. W. Robinson for $25,240.66 profits.

Richmond — While feeding cows at his barn, Willis Hulse, wealthy farmer of the Big Hill pike, fell dead from heart disease.

Jackson — In a published warning, Sheriff J. M. Roberts states that he immediately will enforce the law which requires him "to arrest and kill all dogs that have not been licensed."

Winchester — Inflammation caused by extraction of a tooth when he was only five weeks old, caused the death of C. C. Haddox, Jr., son of the proprietor of the Central Hotel, a week after the operation.

Middlesboro — Three men are dead and at least three others are wounded as the result of a battle between miners and Baldwin guards in Harlan county. The fight was begun when a miner's son was attacked by a guard. A general fight ensued, in which a heavy interchange of shots took place.

Frankfort — Governor Edwin P. Morrow tonight signed the bill of Senator Jay Heman to punish mob violence, provide for the removal of peace officers who surrender prisoners and directing the governor by proclamation to remove such officials from office.

Frankfort — Messages received here announce the death in Hot Springs, Ark., of pneumonia of Mrs. Samuel J. Shackelford, of Frankfort, State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The local blacksmiths have done a great deal of horseshoeing this winter. One cause of the very great increase in that line of business is the disappearance of the crossroads shops many of which used to be in operation in this county. Another thing about the trade is as follows: much of the learning it, and it will, in a few years be, what has become of the old-fashioned blacksmith?

I look like there is something wrong when you see men who own the best land in the county and are known to be good farmers buying corn and hay for their livestock.

Increase in Farm Lands.

Farm land values in Kentucky as a whole have increased approximately 11 per cent in the last year, according to the March agricultural report issued by the Kentucky office of the U. S. Bureau of Crop Estimates. In the same time farm land values in the United States as a whole have increased approximately 20 per cent.

The increase in Kentucky has been greatest in the tobacco producing sections, amounting in many instances to wild speculation and inflation in the richest Blue Grass counties, and to very great increases in the richer sections of Western Kentucky.

Good plow lands and improved farms in both Kentucky and the entire United States show not only greater increase in value in dollars per acre than does poor plow land or unimproved farm land, but also show greater percentages of increase in value per acre.

Since March 1, 1919, good plow land in Kentucky, considering all parts of the state together, has increased from an average price of $20 to $95 at present. Poor plow land from $37 to $12; average of all plow land from $61 to $70; average of all improved farm land from $1 to $3.50; the average of all unimproved farm land from $1 to $6 an acre. The comparatively small increases shown in value of unimproved poor plow lands given by comparison a partial though inadequate idea of the extent to which the boom has been pushed in the richer sections.

Old Firm Folds its Tent.

Edgar C. Riley and Robt. Berkshire, of Petersburg, have purchased the stock of goods that was carried by the Berkshire Bros. in the Odd-Fellows building in that town and are moving it into the Krutz building where Mr. Riley bought some time since, together with White Bros. stock of goods. Where Riley and Berkshire will continue to conduct a general store under the style of the Farmers Supply Co. They will use the rooms from which the Berkshire stock is moved as warehouses. This transaction closes out a firm that has been in business in Petersburg for about thirty years, it having changed several times in that period, never being out of the Berkshire family. Hon. John W. Berkshire being a member of the original firm while his sons composed the firm that has just closed up. Its business career. Eugene Berkshire a member of the retiring firm, will equip a first-class drugstore in Petersburg, a business in which he has had considerable experience. The Supply Co. will put on the road two or more trucks with which to do its own hauling and the moving to market of livestock and farm produce. J. B. Berkshire, who was the leading member of the retiring firm, will have the position head clerk in the Supply Company's store.

Notice to Ex-Service Men.

The Y. M. C. A. has authorized me to give to any soldier, sailor or marine holding an honorable discharge, and who is a bona-fide resident of Boone county, Ky., a free scholarship at any commercial college in Cincinnati, Lexington or Lexington, without any charge whatever to the soldier, sailor or sailor.

This offer is good until the funds assigned to Boone county are exhausted, and each returned soldier, sailor or marine should apply at once, as it is likely that Boone county will receive something like three or four free scholarships.

This is a rare opportunity for ex-service men to prepare themselves for clerical positions of any kind.

Any honorably discharged soldier, sailor or marine, desiring to take advantage of this opportunity, should apply to the undersigned at once.

Kentucky's American Legion Fund.

Patriotic citizens are planning a drive to raise a sufficient sum to enable the Legion in this State properly to function until such time as Posts may be established practically in every county in Kentucky. The campaign begins March 28th and ends April 3rd.

No American can reasonably refuse any request coming from those endeavoring to help "the boys"—the boys who were ready to give their lives for everything that we hold dear. Therefore, we feel sure Boone county will more than do her part under the able chairmanship of Judge N. E. Riddell who has been appointed by Commonwealth Attorney John H. Howe, who is Chairman for the Sixth Congressional District.

Some Glee Club, Says Horace.

Horace Cleveland, of Constance neighborhood, who is a student at Transylvania College, Lexington, writes the Recorder: "Please tell my Boone county friends that if they wish to see a real-mortal musical program, they must not fail to attend the concert given by the Transylvania Men's Glee Club at Walton, Friday night, March 23. It was my pleasure to hear this concert last Friday night, and for a College Glee Club it can not be excelled. It had harmony, versatility, and variety, three traits which makes it 'take' well with any audience. This concert surpasses any Chautauque program that I have ever heard."

Space Graffiti.

The waste basket at this office is kept filled up with the communications of all sorts of enterprises, including Governmental affairs, and if all other newspapers get waste paper in the same proportion that we do, then it is not hard to see where the paper shortage comes from. And we want to tell all those folks who are trying to get free space, that they had much better save their paper, stamps and envelopes, as our space is our stock in trade and we are not giving it away. When a high-salaried clerk in Government employ asks for free space and appeals to us on patriotic grounds, we feel called upon to ask him if he is giving his services to the Government on that basis. If not, we feel that he has no right to ask anyone else to do so. — Flemingsburg Times-Democrat.

A Splendid Liniment.

Following is the formula for a liniment which Col. G. C. Graddy, of Petersburg, endorses in the strongest terms, he having cured himself of pneumonia with it three different times in a few hours. It is a perfect pain extinguisher, and there is no danger in applying it freely: Turpentine, 2 ounces. Camphor, 2 ounces. Coal Oil, 2 ounces. Glycerine, 2 ounces. Shake well before using.

Riggs-Williams.

Henry Lige Riggs, of Erlanger, and Miss Madge Williams, of Union, were married recently. The bride is the daughter of John W. Williams, of Gunpowder.

So soon as the hens all get away the price of their production takes a tumble.

Poured Coal Oil on Hot Coals.

Last week the Recorder made mention of Mrs. Lizzie Miller, of Big Bone, getting burnt but was unable to say how badly she was injured or how the accident happened. It seems that Mrs. Miller had gone to her store in the morning to start a fire for the day, and thinking that there was no fire present she dashed a quantity of coal oil into the stove when a gas was generated instantly, igniting and blowing out into her face. Fortunately she did not inhale the flame and the burns were confined to her face and head, and while quite serious and painful they were not dangerous. Some time after Mrs. Miller was burnt her son, Charles, opened the stove when a second charge of the gas blew out in considerable volume, but he escaped injury.

Elbert Roberts, wife and son arrived from Glendale, Arizona, last Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Roberts is a daughter of Asa Cason, residing out on the East Bend road, and who has been quite ill for several weeks, hence their early return to Kentucky. They are much pleased with that part of Arizona in which they have sojourned since they left Kentucky not long since. They report G. W. Sandford and wife as well satisfied with their new home near Glendale, both enjoying excellent health, each having gained several pounds of flesh since they landed in the west.

Edward Marksherry, of Ludlow, moved to J. H. Tanners farm last Saturday. He will assist N. A. Zimmerman in operating the farm.

Robert Tanner had occasion to call a veterinary surgeon to treat some cows which took sick very suddenly. The disease is very contagious. A young calf was the first to be affected, one morning and by the next morning three of his cows had it and two others were infected the next morning. The veterinary vaccinated his entire herd and that seemed to check the malady.

We received a letter from B. N. Tanner, recently, in which he announced the sad news of the death of his wife at their home in Fayette Mo., the 15th inst., at the age of 71 years and 5 days. The funeral services were conducted at the residence March 16, at 1:30 by Rev. Alexander, of Elder J. R. Gallimore, Interment in the city cemetery. Mr. Tanner has two sisters here, Mrs. Rebecca Houston, of near Verona, and Mrs. Ellen Smith, and a host of other relatives who are grieved to hear the sad news. The family have the sympathy of this entire community.

LEGION WORKS FOR AMERICA

Comradeship Principles Guide
Peace Activities of War Veterans

ORGANIZED ONE YEAR AGO

OBJECTS OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

"For God and country we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a 100 per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to conduct the autonomy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to conserve and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."—Preamble to the Constitution of the Legion.

Just a year ago the American Legion was born. It grew out of countless billets in France without name or purpose, other than a determination to have an organization that would stand for America and the unselfish principles of American Democracy. No one knows where the thought originated. It was spontaneous. The demand that came from officers and men resulted in a joint assembly at Paris from March 15 to March 17, 1919. Rank was thrown aside; privates argued with colonels; comradeship entered in, and the manhood of America displayed in this first caucus that the army of the United States had a militant soul and conscience as well as a disciplined and conquering body.

ARE YOU

100% AMERICAN?

The Paris "baby" put on its first trousers at the St. Louis caucus in May of last year, when Legionnaires in every state and possession of the United States put their "red-blooded spirit of sacrifice into principles that have been declared to be a practical application of the Sermon on the Mount. At the Minneapolis convention in November these purposes were officially adopted and the Legion has established branch departments to care for each declaration it then made. What the Legion has accomplished in Kentucky is typical of what it has done in every State in the Union. Kentucky has 105 Legion posts, with a membership of more than 8,000, and by the time of the next state convention in August it is expected that every county in the state will have at least one local post and that the membership will amount to 20,000 former service men.

The American Legion of Kentucky plans first to take care of the disabled as a result of the war, and the widows and orphans of those who died in the service. For this purpose the Bureau of Rehabilitation, war risk insurance and re-employment are being operated. Perhaps the biggest work the Kentucky Legionnaires have undertaken and will prosecute for the general public welfare is the stimulation of a 100 per cent Americanism. This work found its model in the December campaign in Louisville, instituted jointly by the Citizens' Auxiliary Committee, headed by Mayor H. L. Lewis, and the committee of the American Legion.

The Legion is working for the Americanization of the foreign-born element, which annually comes to Kentucky, to the end that it may be assimilated in a practical way into the ideals of America. The Legion is seeking the general use of the English language and the proper control of immigration. In the name of the Kentucky Legion bills curbing sedition are now before the legislature. They echo the determination reached in all national Legion gatherings to those persons making radical utterances regarding the overthrow of the present form of Government. The Legion believes that free speech does not mean license and that the issue must be met squarely and promptly; its members do not propose to stand by and look on while agitators of unrest and violence pursue their aims as long as the Legion continues to abide by its objects and fight militantly for its principles, every true American may well be proud of it and back it up to the limit.

MARNE MEMORIAL POSTER

JUST as the school children of France gave for their country's gift to the United States—the Statue of Liberty—so will American school children contribute "one cent and upward" for "America's Gift to France," a monumental statue by Frederick MacMonnies, the noted American sculptor. Mr. MacMonnies is contributing his services toward the monument which, it is estimated, will cost $250,000.

The poster shown herewith, is by Albert Stern, noted American portrait painter. It typifies the tribute which this country will pay to the French through the Marne monument. The poster will be displayed in cities, towns, and villages, and will designate many of the places where contributions may be made during the week of March 22—a free-will offering, in which numbers of contributors, rather than size of contributions, will be sought from school children and others. Contributions are now being received at National Headquarters, 150 Nassau street, New York, by Charles H. Sabin, president of one of New York's largest trust companies, who is treasurer of the fund.

The memorial will be erected at

Pretty New York School Girl Helps Spread Appeal for Pennies for "America's Gift to France."

Meaux, on the Marne, and will rival in size and grandeur of design the Statue of Liberty.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Brood not on words or slights, their biting force is measured by their housing mischief seeds. Which, nursed and tended, bring forth poison weeds. Whose bitter crop is hatred and remorse.

SOUPS OF SUMMER FRUITS.

Fruit soups are not commonly used among the people of America. In the old world both the prince and peasant enjoy them summer and winter. Chilled with shaved ice they may be attractive, refreshing, as well as nourishing. With fruit soups, the nourishment depends upon the ingredients used as with other soups.

Such fruits as peaches, raisins, figs, bananas, persimmons and pawpaws, have more food value than most other fruits, though lacking in other ingredients. The addition of stock or milk and egg also adds to the food value. Dried or canned fruit may be used in soup making as well as fresh fruit.

Apple and Rice Soup—Core and slice very thin eight unpeeled apples. Cook them with a half a cupful of rice in two quarts of boiling water until both the fruit and rice are soft, then put through a sieve, add spice and half a cupful of orange or grape fruit marmalade. Serve hot.

Strawberry and Orange Soup—Sprinkle a pint of strawberries with sugar and let stand on ice for one hour. Meantime make a syrup with one and a half quarts of water and a pound of sugar and a quart of fresh berries, with the juice of one lemon. Mash, strain and add a cupful of orange juice with the prepared berries in sugar. Serve ice cream.

Prune and Peach Soup—Take one-third of a pound of dried peaches, soak over night. In the morning add a pint of cold water and let them cook to the boiling point, then add two tablespoonfuls of sugar; cook until the sugar is clear. Add a cupful of cherry, cranberry, or other tart juice. Serve hot or cold.

Cherry and Quince Soup—Stem and stone a pint of deep red cherries; place them in a saucepan with the juice and grated rind of a lemon, half a cupful of quince juice and a pint of water; cook until the cherries are tender, then thicken with cornstarch and cook until the starch is well cooked. Serve hot.

A Thousand Unopened Schools in Alabama.

Over 1,000 Alabama schools, 500 white schools and as many for colored children, have remained unopened the present school year because no teachers were to be had for them. The reason teachers could not be had for these schools becomes obvious when one learns that the average salary of male teachers in the better rural schools is $470, and that of female teachers $312. In the negro rural schools the figures are $174 for men and $140 for women. Alabama is preparing to get properly wrought up over the election of a United States Senator and other officials, and the public mind of the state has found a number of weighty matters to debate about the next few months. All of these things are of some importance, no doubt; but compared with the state's need of giving its children a decent chance to acquire an education, each and every one of them is a peevish affair indeed.

Elizabethtown—Mrs. Robt. Collier was fighting a man who was trying to force his way into her house when several of her baby attracted other children who summed up the scene. Mrs. Collier sustained painful injuries.

Local Happenings.

Bellevue will be at the front this season with a strong base ball team, ready to tackle all comers. The team fully expects to be able to capture the championship of the county, notwithstanding the fine playing of the Petersburg and Verona teams last year. No doubt Petersburg and Verona will be out with strong aggregations again this season and there ought to be some mighty interesting games in the county this year. And there is Big Bone that will have to be remembered as doing some very excellent work on the diamond this year. It looks like county league could be formed that will furnish considerable fun for the rural fans this year.

Superintendent J. C. Gordon is in somewhat of a quandary since the legislature passed a law fixing the minimum salary of the school teacher at $75 per month. He figures this increase is equal to sixty-six and two-thirds per cent, and what is annoying him is from whence is to come the money to meet the increase. Other than from a tax on the property in the county as the legislature made no provision to meet the increase. He knows that the people are paying all the tax now that they think they ought to pay, and when the increase for the teachers salaries is made, a declaration of dissatisfaction will be heard in every quarter of the county.

The town of Walton seems to be in considerable trouble over its electric lighting system and some believe that the plant will be shut down permanently, but this will hardly be the case as the people of Walton have enjoyed electric lights long enough to induce them to be very liberal in their efforts to retain the system. The citizens of Walton believe in public improvements and are willing to shoulder heavy burdens in order to retain them and they will be very desirous to obtain so great and useful an improvement as electric lights have prove to be to the town.

Edward Burris, out on R. D. 3, was a caller at this office last Friday. Mr. Burris is one of the best tobacco growers in this part of the county and has produced some very fine tobacco the last two or three years, getting a good long price for the first. He put the tobacco in the market this season. He has about all his beds sowed for a seven acre crop this year and had commenced breaking the land and the high prices that he is having plenty of plants and getting his crop out early. He grows Judys Pride.

The tobacco acreage in Jennings county, Indiana, will be greatly increased this coming season, both in old and newly cleared land. The success of this last year's crop and the high prices that burley has brought on the Madison loose leaf market seem to be the causes. It has not been an uncommon thing for one crop to bring enough to pay for the land on which it was raised, two or three times over.

The supervisors of tax held their final session last Thursday on which occasion they heard from several parties who claimed their assessment as returned by the tax commissioner was high enough and they should not have been raised. In several instances the proposed increase was reduced to some extent.

Ben C. Stephens, Jr., of East Bend neighborhood, was in Burlington the latter part of last week meeting many of his friends. He gave the Recorder a nice order for stationery to be used in his business, breeding fine Duroc hogs.

Harry Robinson, of Ludlow, S. Riggs and John Hood, of Constance, was transacting business in Burlington on Tuesday the past week and made the Recorder a call. They were looking after business in which the Constance Building Association is interested.

The reports from Stanley Edkins, who was taken to a Cincinnati hospital several days ago, are very encouraging, and he will be at home in a few days. He is being continued to improve as he has for the last week.

Heard that Joe Huey and family will occupy the room and roomer or Dudley Blythe's store, and there will not be a vacant room in Burlington when Mr. Huey and family occupy their new location.

Mrs. Harriet Slayback, of Crescent Springs, was buried at Burlington, last Friday. Mrs. Slayback was 73 years old and died of measles, cardiac asthma. Philip Taliferro, had charge of the funeral.

Mrs. B. G. McWhirly, of Petersburg, bought a pair of mares of Geo. Blythe, last Friday, paying $100 therefor. Mr. Blythe says the Recorder sold every article he advertised for sale privately.

Cave Clorn, of the Bullittville neighborhood, was in last Friday and left copy for advertising a sale on the third day of this month in the afternoon.

"SMELLING COMMITTEES"

Is What Homer S. Cummins Called the 92 Committees Created By a Republican Congress.

"Smelling Committees" was what National Chairman Homer S. Cummins called the 92 Committees created by a Republican Congress to investigate various phases of the conduct of the great world war. His characterization does not miss the mark.

Never was there revealed such a deliberate purpose upon the part of a great party to discredit its own country. These committees are now engaged in snooping around the Capital hunting for some thread of evidence upon which to base a charge of incompetency or graft against the Democratic Administration. They are using the microscope to discover a defect, while the naked eye can only see a glorious whole. The Republicans know that the war was won under a Democratic Administration. They know that under a Democratic Secretary of War 4,000,000 Americans were equipped to the colors in 18 months, and two million of them sent overseas. They know that under a Democratic Secretary of Navy our boys were across a submarine infested sea without loss of life. They know that the financial resources of the country stood the shock of a war because of a Federal Reserve law, passed by a Democratic Congress, approved by a Democratic President and administered by a Democratic Treasury Department.

They know Americans proud place which she has won before the nations of the world, and for many years to come, they are attempting now to besmirch that glorious record.

NEW BANK

At Hebron Opened Last Saturday With About $20,000 In Deposits.

The Hebron Deposit Bank is now a reality, being formally opened for business last Saturday, on which occasion two or three hundred people assembled in Hebron in response to the bank's invitation to partake of its hospitality on that day. A viroletta furnished music in the bank while the well-to-do patrons were seated at the tables for credit, the same being received by cashier Rich assisted by Miss Marietta Stephens. The ladies served fish, coffee and ice cream while J. C. C. passes to the picture show in the afternoon. It was a big day at Hebron, everybody being bent on enjoying themselves, and at the same time, giving the bank a good send-off. At the close of business that afternoon the bank has on deposit about $20,000. The bank building is a very neat one-story brick building, fronting on the main street. The interior is conveniently arranged and is equipped with the latest style furniture. This gives Boone county nine banks.

MYSTERIOUS DISEASE.

Washington, March 28.—Officials of the U. S. Public Health Service have started a general investigation into the presence in some parts of the country of a mysterious disease resembling in its symptoms the typhoid fever, which is now ravaging large portions of Central Europe. This became known today when it was announced by a high official of the Public Health Service that reports had been received here indicating the widespread presence of a disease closely resembling the manifestations of typhoid. Hundreds of communications have been received by the offices of the Surgeon General from all parts of the country, many of them suffering from a peculiar form of fever, accompanied by a form of itchy, accompanied by fever, generally recognized to be the first symptoms of typhoid. Officials said immediately means would be taken to stamp out the disease before it can reach an epidemic stage. According to these officials the disease is communicated from one person to another almost solely by means of a body louse, which introduces the germs into the skin of the victim. The disease is generally confined to the poorer classes of the population.

Rouse Boomed.

Washington, March 28.—Representative A. B. Rouse, of the Covington, Ky., District, has been boomed for the chairmanship of the Democratic National Congressional Committee to succeed Representative S. Perkins, of Oklahoma, who announces a few days ago his intention to resign. A number of Democratic Representatives from various states have been making a strong effort to secure Rouse, who can be induced to accept.

A considerable number of the members of Bellevue Lodge of Odd-Fellows passed thru Burlington last Saturday enroute to Cincinnati to attend the big Odd-Fellows' doings in that city that day.

Wants Investigation Made.

At the request of many tobacco producers in Kentucky, Representative W. J. Fields, introduced the following resolutions in Congress: "Whereas, The prices of tobacco in the loose leaf markets of the country have depreciated since the harvesting of the 1919 crop to figures below the cost of production, and such depreciation in prices is not warranted by over production of tobacco or a decrease in the prices of the manufactured product; therefore, it is resolved that the Federal Trade Commission is hereby requested to inquire into the cause of the depreciation in the prices of loose leaf and other manufactured tobacco during the last 6 months; result of the investigation together with such recommendations as the commission may deem advisable and proper."

HEART TO HEART TALK

Rev. O. C. Peyton, D. D. Church membership is an honor, an opportunity, and obligation. There is no higher honor on earth! The church is the only place where one can find a true friend, a true neighbor, a true brother, a true sister, a true parent, a true child, a true servant, a true master, a true friend, a true neighbor, a true brother, a true sister, a true parent, a true child, a true servant, a true master. The church is the only place where one can find a true friend, a true neighbor, a true brother, a true sister, a true parent, a true child, a true servant, a true master.

And, what a binding and imperative obligation in church membership! No professing Christian can make it. The first step, after being in and accepting Christ, is to unite with his people and enlist in his active service. Is your life counting as a church member? Are you yet a spiritual orphan? To your church in the carrying out of its divinely appointed, spiritual mission in this world of sorrow, suffering and sin?

NOT MUCH JOY

In Riding Over the Roads in This County.

Joy riding over the roads in this county, except a few miles, is now out of the question and is liable to be for all time to come as there is not enough road money collected to put the roads in condition to make riding over them a pleasure. If the U. S. Government and the State do not come to the relief of the county, the roads will soon be impassable. The recent General Assembly passed a road law creating a system of State highways which will be constructed and maintained with State and Federal Aid money. This law becomes effective July 1st, 1920, and some predict great improvement in the roads in the States roads, 3,500 miles of which are embraced in the States system, which gives each county one highway, for himself, and all other roads under State supervision. It certainly is hoped that under the new order of things there will be a marked improvement in the roads in this State.

YANKS HEARTY EATERS.

Washington.—Corned beef and salmon—the familiar "corn willy" and "gold fish" of the American soldier's diet—by the amounts of 114,008,371 pounds and 20,318,550 pounds respectively were purchased by the army during the war, according to the final report of the Quartermaster General. Of the third ingredient, beans, of that famous trio, which made the Yankee diet, the last report put the amount at 130,388,162 lbs. were bought.

The appetite of the soldiers could not be kept with the troops, and the report showed that millions of pounds were still on hand after the signing of the armistice.

This Is No Joke.

A friend of the Recorder recalls not talking convenience: he had been suffering with the tooth ache for several days, when all at once it ceased to pain him. He gave it no more thought and went on minding when he had put on his shoe he felt a bump of some kind in it and upon removing his shoe and then his sock he discovered the tooth which had been giving him trouble some days before and which he had not missed from his mouth. He will make affidavit to the truthfulness of this statement.

$48,000 SALE

Property of the Late W. H. Senour Sold at Public Auction at Walton Saturday.

A fair sized crowd of good buyers attended the sale of the late W. H. Senour near Walton last Saturday and good prices prevailed. It was a fine day which put everybody in the best of humor and imbued them with a liberal spirit.

Cattle sold well, two yearlings and one coming yearling brought $160.

A 12-year old horse sold for $101. U. S. Liberty Bonds sold above market.

Sixty-two shares of Walton Bank & Trust Co. stock brought $201 per share, Durrell Dudley being the purchaser.

Ten shares Erlanger Deposit Bank stock was bought by Hugh Carey at $226 per share.

Seventeen shares stock in First National Bank, Covington, were bought by G. E. Carroll at $150 per share.

Stock in the Farmers and Shippers Tobacco Warehouse, Cincinnati, sold very cheap.

1,000 shares Pan-American oil stock brought $15, Chas. Kendall being the purchaser.

The old Senour farm of 107 acres was sold to Walter Fleet at $60 an acre.

The Crisler farm of 105 acres was bought by Miss Addie Ellis at $65 an acre.

The total amount of the sale was something over $48,000. This was the largest sale that has been had in Boone county in a long time.

FOR LONG HOURS

Farmers Band to Fight City Labor's Gains.

Chicago, March 26.—A million American farmers have banded together to fight short hours and high wages of city labor. These farmers are members of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the national organization of which was perfected here recently.

They desire to point out that a large factor in the high cost of living is the curtailment of production thru short hours, lessened wages, and the fact that the federation formally declared.

Delegates insisted the high cost of living is due to the high cost of labor, for himself, and all other products of everything the farmer buys.

"And yet," as one speaker pointed out, "these same short hour workers in cities are complaining loudly because food products are high in price."

"Of course food is higher. It costs more for the farmer to grow food. It costs more because city labor has forced up farm prices, and the farmer has increased the price of everything the farmer buys."

The American Farm Bureau movement began about three years ago in Missouri.

It spread rapidly into practically all agricultural states. Today there are a million members.

It is the most conservative of all farm groups, and is bitterly opposed to such radical farm organizations as the Nonpartisan League.

Convict Sues for Back Pay.

Frankfort.—Suit was filed in the Franklin Circuit Court by J. C. Combs, a convict at the Reformatory, for himself, and all other prisoners here and at Edwille, to compel the State Board of Charities and Corrections to make rules and provide for paying the convicts, for each day out of the contract price for their labor. An act of 1916 provided for paying them, but the Prison Board and Board of Control never complied with it. The first law making the Frankfort institution a reformatory also provided for paying the convicts, but it is similar to this one resulted in the entire act being declared unconstitutional. D. L. Hazelrigg, one of the attorneys filing the suit, said that the law was never enforced, but that it would amount to $25,000 or $30,000.

Bank Vault Looted.

The bank at Berry, Harlan county, was looted last Saturday night and $15,000 in Liberty Bonds and other securities taken from the safety deposit boxes. The vault was not opened and contained considerable cash. The robbery was discovered Saturday morning when the bank was opened. The vault was found open and the money missing. Berry is 10 miles south of Clay City and near Clay City.

Burnt About Face.

A lot of iodine which Dr. K. W. Ryle was handling one day last week, exploded, part of the contents of the bottle striking him in the face, burning it quite badly, while his eyes did not escape unscathed.

Night Riders at Work.

Mayfield, March 27.—Between 200 and 300 tobacco growers from the northern section of Graves county visited the Mayfield tobacco chute at 1 o'clock this morning and applied the torch. This is the first outbreak of night riders in Western Kentucky in 13 years, and is the result of the fight of the tobacco growers of this section of the state against the dropping prices of tobacco. Growers recently organized and hundreds agreed not to sell their crops on any warehouse floor. Recently the McCracken county growers, at the point of shotguns forced several growers coming to Paducah with their tobacco to turn back.

PLANT BEDS WILL BE LATE

Warsaw Independent.

The continued cold weather this spring has rather retarded the sowing of tobacco beds and there are not near the number sowed in the county this year than in this time. That might be construed as a blessing in disguise, for if a much smaller crop of better quality tobacco is usually raised in the year, it will all be to the best interests of every farmer. To the man who perhaps realized a fancy price of 100 cents for his tobacco last year, than might seem a strange argument, but even he will be converted to the soundness of it. He will review the history of the crop in the county for the past year and apply just good common sense to reasoning out the matter.

For it will be recalled that the men who realized the real fancy prices were the men who grew small crops, and the men who grew large crops were the men who grew small crops, and the men who grew large crops were the men who grew small crops.

CONCRETE ROAD

Property Owners Willing to Assist If Proposition of Building Is Properly Handled.

Those who have been talking the matter up along the Burlington and Florence pike say the property owners along that road manifest a willingness to assist in improvement that indicates the work can be done if the proposition is properly handled. If the work is undertaken those who contribute towards it will have to be satisfied it will be of a more permanent character than the former reconstruction has proved, although the immense traffic there is now carrying was not contemplated when it was taken over by the county a few years ago, and rebuilt it having increased about twenty times over what it was when the county became the owner of the road. The people have come to realize that a good road is a very big feature in a neighborhood at any season of the year, and when they become convinced that a road of this kind will yield something near value received they will come down more readily with their means to assist in its construction. The Burlington and Florence pike is a very important county thoroughfare and its importance appears to be increasing as time passes. It is the only road of the county that, consequently, a very large proportion of the county is directly interested in it.

DEADLY FEMALE!

Decadence of Nation Is Seen as Result of Petticoat Rule.

"The women have secured the drop in the men in this country. The nation has put its head in the noose of puritanism and the degeneration of individual and national fiber is inevitable." This was the view expressed yesterday by Dr. William J. Rickard, of Chicago, at the laboratory, who declares that decadence of the nation can only result from the ascendancy gained by women in affairs. He asserted that the women brought women to the front, taught them to wear uniforms, smoke, and adopt masculine ways. The result, he said, has been a degeneration of the nation, working to place men under the same "restrictions under which woman has been functioning for a modern puritan mama," he said.

"Prohibition is typical of the modern puritan mama," he said. "The church movements are typical of the modern puritan mama, with its high standard of morality, result in a deterioration of masculine physical and mental virility. There is a falling off of creativity, the lowering of the birth rate is already noticeable. American pep, which was the result of a masculine dominated world, will soon be a thing of the past."

"The effemination of man is already noticeable. The male today is inferior in most respects to the female. He is inferior in the matter of clothes. He bows to her legislation and vaguely whoops it up for her reform. He is fast taking second place, and with his fall there is no question that production in the U. S. mental and material will decline. In fact, the present decline in production is as much due to the decline in the male as to other economic conditions." — Chicago Tribune.

Will Help Kill Old H. C. L.

The quickest relief in cutting the high cost of living is to be found in the garden and truck patch. Early lettuce, radishes, peas and potatoes may be had by putting out these vegetables in early gardens and hot beds or canvassed beds. To insure a quick and profitable crop these gardens must be well manured and fenced and worked every week and a good man will have to adopt a new system to make much of a success with his garden.

A phosphoric aliphoid method used in the season will not spell success.

An acre of ground well cultivated in garden produce will mean a good living for the family and a smaller grocery bill.

Fertilize Tobacco Beds.

In order to insure plenty of available plant food for young tobacco plants, it is a good plan to use an application of fertilizer. A satisfactory application is two pounds per square foot of bed of fertilizer analyzing 3 per cent nitrogen, eight per cent phosphoric acid, and 3 per cent potash. The fertilizer may be applied after the bed is burned and should be thoroughly raked into the soil.

The boxing law passed by the last legislature, and which became a law without the signature of Governor Morrow, provides for twelve-round no-decision contests with six ounce gloves. Boxing clubs must pay an annual license of $50 and a fee of 10 per cent of the gate receipts to the State.

DOLLARS FOR DOLLARS

Walton Department

D. B. WALLACE, Manager.

Judge J. M. Lassing of Burlington, spent Saturday here with friends and on business.

John E. Williams and sons John and Howard of Covington, spent Sunday here with friends.

Mrs. E. K. Stephens and Mrs. D. B. Wallace and son Bruce Wallace spent Tuesday in Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dean spent part of the week at Lawrenceburg and Moores Hill, Ind., with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest DeMoisey and Mrs. Lula Acra, of Ludlow, spent part of last week here with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Moore and daughter Miss Corinne returned home last week from Lakeland, Florida, where they spent the winter.

Mrs. W. R. Batchelder of Decatur, Illinois, and Mrs. J. R. McHatton and Mrs. J. C. Metcalfe, of Covington, spent Saturday and Sunday here the guests of Mrs. Hattie E. Metcalfe.

The loose leaf market in Walton closed last week for the season. The two houses sold about five million pounds of tobacco during the past season at an average of about twenty-five cents.

J. R. Blanka who has been buying tobacco on the local markets for the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., left for his home on his farm in Bourbon county where he will give his attention to farming for the year.

L. O. Taylor, of Cynthia, spent part of last week here the guest of Harold A. Conner, who accompanied him home, the tobacco market on which Mr. Conner was employed, being closed for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Renaker and Mr. and Mrs. C. Milton Richey of Bloomington, Ind., and Chas. Renaker of Campbellsville, Henry county, were here last week, bringing the remains of Lottis B. Renaker here for burial. The little girl died at Bloomington and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Renaker.

Mrs. Nora Edwards who has been visiting her sister Mrs. Hattie Adam and her daughter Miss Lovenia Edwards of Chester, West Virginia, returned home last Tuesday. Her children A. R. Edwards and Mrs. Hattie Metcalfe and daughter Lucille met her at Cincinnati in their auto and accompanied her home.

The Walton Electric light plant is still under discussion and the owners state they intend to cease operation Wednesday night unless some person buys the plant. A mass meeting of citizens was held Tuesday night to devise means of having the service continued. The service is excellent, but E. L. Kelley secured a more profitable position at Edwardsport, Indiana, and concluded to give up the operation of the Walton plant. There is about $15,000 invested in the plant, and it can be bought cheap.

Mrs. Kate Armstrong and two daughters, Mrs. Wm. Unfried and son, William, and Miss Sue Armstrong, all of Chicago, who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kreylich the first of this week.

Lexington, March 29. — News reached here today of a fire at Palatka Johnson county, which caused a loss estimated at $75,000. The fire is thought to have originated in a restaurant. The fire occurred just one year and twelve days from the date of the last disastrous fire at Palatka, which swept a large portion of the town.

Ira Ryle, of Commissary neighborhood, was in yesterday, and had his Recorder changed to Aurora, Indiana, R. D. 3, on which he will receive his mail hereafter. He took his last load of property to his new home yesterday, and expected to remain, although his wife and little daughter do not join him for several weeks as Mrs. Ryle has not sufficiently recovered from her recent severe illness to attend to household work. Mr. Ryle is a good citizen and those who have been his neighbors for so long are sorry to lose him and his wife from their midst.

W. M. Rice, cashier of Hobson Deposit Bank, sends the Recorder the following for publication:

Hobson Deposit Bank opened Saturday, March 27th, with $49,500 deposits and 101 depositors, which shows that a keen interest is manifested by the stockholders and community at large. Every prospect enjoyed the growth which will be in harmony with the spirit of the day. There were about four hundred in attendance from all over the county who received a most hearty welcome from the bank and citizens of Hobson. Among those from our neighboring towns were Mr. W. D. Cropper, cashier of the Boone Bank; Mr. L. T. Utz, assistant cashier of the Peoples Deposit Bank, of Burlington; Mr. James Hays, cashier of the Bank of Petersburg; and Mr. J. B. Smith, cashier of the Bank of Savings Co., of Mt. Vernon. Mrs. B. Stephens of the two latter banks were also present. Mr. Rice with the Surprise Birthday Party.

Friday, March 26th, will long be remembered by the friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Smith and Mrs. Cynthia Mason, it being the eightieth anniversary of the sisters and nearing the four score mark for Mr. Smith.

Due to the thoughtfulness of the daughter and niece, Mrs. Cynthia White this company came a complete surprise, thus adding zest and pleasure to the occasion.

At the noon hour all assembled in the dining room to enjoy the feast, consisting of all the tempting and delicious food for which the housewives of that neighborhood are famous.

It has never been our privilege to visit a home that more fully bespoke the spirit of hospitality, love and Christian living.

The day was pleasantly spent, each guest wishing these good people many happy returns of the day.

The following persons responded to the invitation:

Mrs. James Jimmie Stephens, Emily Presser, Cynthia White, Robert Rouse, Joseph Green, George Harris, Messrs. Perry Jenson, Robert Allen, Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Clements, Mr. and Mrs. Bine Howlett, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Ryle, Mr. and Mrs. Lafa Presser, Mr. and Mrs. B. Lee Huey, Mr. and Mrs. George Horton, Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Bristow, Misses Marie Horton, Bula Smith, Fannie Smith, Mr. Iven Clements.

School Notes.

Considerable legislation has been enacted by the last legislature changing our school laws, several of these become effective this coming school year.

The laws in which the teachers are vitally interested are the new subjects added to the curriculum, viz. Physical Culture and Human Treatment to men and animals; also the increased pay for the teachers in rural schools. The last does not apply to Independent Graded Schools.

The minimum salary for this county for rural teachers (which is above the average county in the State), for last session was $15 per month.

The statute has fixed this minimum salary throughout the State at $75 per month, which is an increase of 50 per cent. to third percent, quite a handsome increase. Will our efficiency become increased to the amount of two-thirds? That will be left to the teachers. It behooves the teachers to provide for this proficiency as others will be attracted to our county and our teachers must change their calling or seek employment in other fields. We have faith in our teachers and believe they will meet the condition.

All certificates for teaching will be issued from Frankfort instead of the County Board of examiners. The examinations will be held in the county seats as heretofore, but the papers will be graded and passed upon at Frankfort just as State certificates have been issued in the past.

An appeal has been made to this office by Pres. T. J. Coates, of Eastern State Normal, for teachers and those expecting to teach, to enter the school at Richmond for spring and summer terms so preparation may be had for the coming examinations.

We have not seen a copy of the laws since they are not codified and distributed at present, but we give a synopsis from this synopsis we learn that no person will be eligible for the examination to teach who has not finished a four years High School course or done at least an equivalent work in the Normal School or some standard college. This we understand becomes effective in 1923. To those who expect to continue in the profession, it behooves them to begin this preparation.

It is not our purpose to discuss the laws as to their merits or demerits, but to present them to those who may be interested.

We can give appointment to any and all who desire to enter the Normal school.

The compulsory attendance law is more drastic and far reaching than the old law.

The age limit includes from seven to sixteen or until the pupil has passed the eighth grade. Its enforcement is effected by an officer for the entire county. There will be no more sub-district trustees from this year, but a County Board controls all the rural schools in the county. This Board will consist of five members elected from the county at large, excepting Independent Graded Schools. This board is to be elected November next and will take office the following March.

We think these changes the most important so far as Boone county is affected.

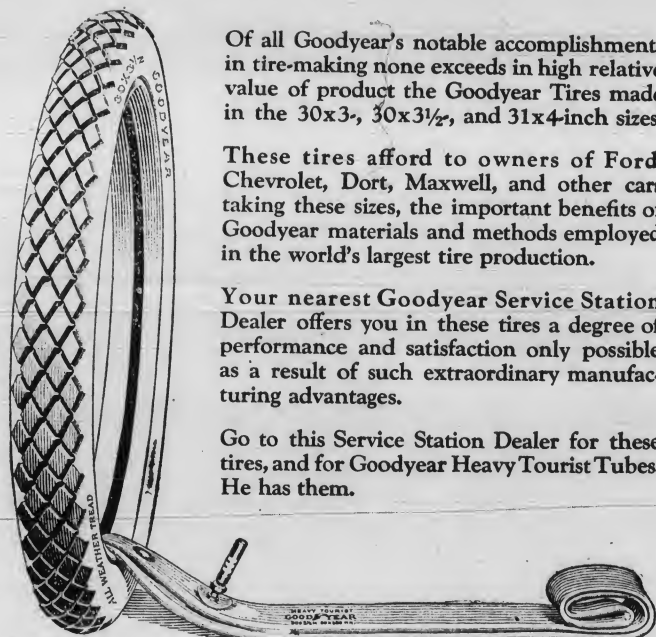

Our County Board will reorganize on April 6th, with new members. Solon Ryle taking the place of L. L. Stephens from Div. 2, and Cecil Gaines succeeding Mr. L. T. Clon from Div. 2. There will be much to consider to put into effect these new laws and meet their requirements.

A tournament for the 7th and 8th grades and High School for Northern Kentucky will be held at Dry Ridge the latter part of May. Boone county always takes an active part in this meeting and has always been proud of her showing. Let us not fall this year.

Thema—"The Easter Message of Life and Love."

All cordially invited to these services.

The maple molasses season is over.

The last week of March was somewhat lonesome.

The pample trees are sending forth a heavy bloom.

Jerry Fowler was very much indisposed several days the past week.

Now for April showers after which good, old summer time will be here.

Hubert Conner, of Hebron, was a business visitor to Burlington last Monday.

Some garden truck has been planted, and in a few instances lettuce is up.

Good weather at this time of the year is the greatest of dirt road renovators.

Earl Smith began plowing last Friday and reports the ground as breaking nicely.

The pupils are beginning to count the days that are to pass before school closes.

Acres of land in this county are now under canvas. Some say they have tobacco plants up.

Beginning April 1st I will charge sixty cents an hour for work.

J. J. KIRKPATRICK.

Good weather improves the dirt roads faster than any body of laborers can and at very much less cost.

William White from out on R. D. 1, came in last Friday and enlisted with the Recorders ever increasing army.

Miss Mabel Williams, of Woolper Heights, was the guest of Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Jr., a few days the past week.

Owing to the very poor prospects for wheat in some fields, the owners will break them for corn or sow them in oats.

There will be a dance and picnic at the Taylorport and school house on April 3rd for the benefit of the bridge over Elijah's creek.

Robert Bradford, of Grant, came in last Friday and had his subscription moved up another year. He is one of the Recorders regulars.

A three story brick garage owned by Marksberry & Jewett, Williams town was destroyed by fire last Sunday night. Loss, $3,000 with no insurance.

Gulley & Pettit have remodeled their store to some extent, by putting in a long counter in which are numerous drawers for carrying seeds, etc.

There was considerable flu in the town of Petersburg and vicinity last week, but the Petersburg school did not close on account of the disease.

James E. Smith has remodeled and repaired the old toll gate house out on the Petersburg pike until it will be a convenient and comfortable residence.

Last Sunday was a windy day and that night was particularly boisterous. The wind blew, it thundered and lightened and at times the rain poured.

Feed for livestock of which farmers are buying freely is advancing all along the line, and they will rejoice when pastures furnish the usual feed again.

Dudley Blythe's truck has hauled several loads of corn the past ten days from the Miami, Indiana, bottoms. The corn costs $1.50 a bushel in Burlington, and it may go higher.

The storms that swept over the south and west last Sunday night destroyed a great deal of property and killed many people. The value of property destroyed run up into the millions.

The Recorder was a little premature last week in its announcement of court days next Monday and the Monday following are county and circuit court days instead of as announced.

Denzel Carpenter and Elizabeth Kelly, of Locust Grove neighborhood, who are attending college at Georgetown, came home last Friday afternoon and remained until Monday morning.

Personal Mention

Eliza Poston called on friends in Limaburg neighborhood, Sunday.

J. M. Craven, of Erlanger, was a business visitor to Burlington last Saturday.

George Rice returned a few days ago from a visit to relatives in Illinois.

Mrs. F. A. Hall spent several days the past week with her daughters in Newport.

Mrs. W. L. Kirkpatrick has been suffering greatly with inflammatory rheumatism for several days.

William Rice, of Manchester, Indiana, was the guest of his brothers at Bellevue the past week or ten days.

W. A. Gaines, who has spent the winter in the south, is expected to arrive at home in the next few days.

Egbert Nichols and family, of London, came down last Sunday to spend a few days with his son, A. L. Nichols and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Penn returned home Tuesday from a visit of several weeks with relatives in Scott's Harbors, Kentucky.

Robert Rice and father, W. H. Rice, of Erlanger, were visitors to Burlington one day the past week, having business up at the court house.

Ezekiel Rice, of Locust Grove neighborhood, was a business visitor to Burlington, Tuesday, and made the Recorder a call while in town.

County Clerk W. R. Rogers went to a Cincinnati hospital last week to have one of his eyes treated, it having given him considerable trouble the last few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Brackett, of Avondale, Ohio, were the Sunday guests at J. E. Smith's. Mrs. Brackett is a daughter of the late J. J. Ferris and a niece of Mrs. Smith.

Lieut. B. W. Gaines has a tip that he will be transferred from Paris Island, South Carolina, to a hospital in Detroit, Michigan, a change which will be very pleasing to him.

Mrs. Wm. Seikman and Herman Wingate were among those who last week, enlisted with the Recorder for another year. Of such people is a live subscription list composed.

E. M. Arnold and wife have taken rooms with Mr. R. Rogers and sisters, and it is said M. L. Riddell and wife will occupy the house vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Arnold.

Woodie Sullivan and family, of Commissary neighborhood, and Omer Porter and family and Geo. Porter, of Burlington, were Sunday guests at J. H. Huey's in the North Bend neighborhood.

Renewing his subscription D. E. Lawell, of Erlanger, writes: "We are having fine weather. I have planted some garden. We are all well and hope this will find every one about Burlington the same."

A. L. Nichols went to a Cincinnati hospital Tuesday to have one of his ears treated. It has been giving him considerable pain for several months. He expects to be gone not less than four weeks.

Miss Kathryn, who is taking a course in nursing at the Deaconess Hospital, Cincinnati, spent last Saturday night and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Woodie Sullivan, of Commissary neighborhood.

Mr. Leidy, of the firm of Brothers & Leidy, of Limaburg, was a business caller at this office last Monday morning. The Recorder carries a nice ad every week for that hustling firm, which is enjoying a nice trade.

G. K. Kindred and wife, of near Florence, were over last Monday night and left early Tuesday morning for livestock, farm implements and some household furniture next Saturday beginning at twelve o'clock noon. See the ad in another column.

C. W. Goodridge and wife, of Covington, spent Saturday night, Sunday and Monday in Burlington. They will move into the home they purchased in Erlanger as soon as they get possession, that time being very uncertain on account of sickness in the family of the person from whom they purchased.

George L. Miller and son-in-law, L. R. Miller, of Big Bone, were business visitors to Burlington last Thursday. Geo. Miller is one of the oldest native citizens of this county and he will be four score years old, and looks like he is good for an earthly sojourn of several more years.

Miss Hattie White, from out on the East end road, called at this office one day last week and secured a supply of garden seed. A large garden and an abundance of vegetables is considered by Miss White as a great asset. In the game of life during summer time. She likes to see the cellar filled with nice, toothsome vegetables when the cold, winter days are coming on.

J. H. Newman, of Union neighborhood, was a business visitor to Burlington last Thursday, and had a hearing before the county board of supervisors of tax. The sun was shining nicely while Mr. Newman was here and he lost no time in attending to his business in order to hasten back home to tickle his wife with his hair, which he has enough on hand to claim his attention for some time.

The Problem of the "Bonus."

The question as to whether the nation ought to grant a "bonus" to the veterans of the recent war awakens conflicting and often painful emotions. Our gratitude and appreciation of their patriotism and valor have not diminished one iota. We feel that we owe them the preservation of our civilization and our honor. It would bring a blush of shame to the cheek to seem, for an instant even, to lack true recognition of the service they have rendered to the world.

But when we hear them demanding a "bonus" for having done their simple duty, we experience a shock of surprise and revolt. By that demand a fundamental ethical question is projected into the arena of debate. That question is: Does the performance of any duty whatever demand any other reward than the consciousness of having done it?

Everybody familiar with the ideas of the Carpenter of Nazareth will remember what He said about this matter. "When ye shall have done all things that are commanded of you, say, 'We are unprofitable servants; we have done that which it was our duty to do,' and therefore cannot claim and do not desire a bonus, we presume, He would have said. There were other people besides these noble and heroic soldiers who served their country and suffered loss by reason of the war. Are they also to be compensated, to receive a bonus? The worker who sacrificed their time in the Red Cross work, the men who worked for the Government for a dollar a year, the manufacturer whose business was paralyzed, they all to be paid for their losses of time and money?

Only a miserable ingrate would raise a question about a compensation, and a very royal one indeed, for every soldier whose capacity for self support was ruined or impaired; but when it comes to compensating those who suffered only loss of time in the inevitable, indispensable and obligatory effort to preserve themselves as well as for others, emotions of justice and duty come into painful collision with those of gratitude and affection. What did these magnificent soldiers do that they ought not to have done and to cherish self-contempt for not doing?

"Nothing," we dare say, and if the principle of paying a bonus for obligatory service to the nation is established, patriotism will be cheapened and, perhaps, corrupted. This is not a problem easy of solution.—Enquirer.

Quite Right, But Not True.

New economic laws come to us out of the recesses of the Congress of the United States. The law applies to meat—very meat. To be more definite, to beef. Those who have studied finance in the abstract are familiar with Gresham's law, i. e., that bad money drives out good money. It is the similar view of congressional wisdom that the purchasing of cheap cuts of meat will cause the choicest cuts to fall in price. That is to say, if the proletariat and the bourgeoisie buy chuck, flank, round steaks and neck pieces the plutocrat will be enabled to get his toothsome tenderloin and his succulent sirloin at reduced prices from the present soaring schedule.

Contrariwise, the poor purchaser would pay more for the cheaper cuts than ever before, thus fulfilling the Marxian law that under the capitalist system the poor will get poorer and the rich will get richer until chaos finally comes. Yet, somehow, the congressional argument, also backed by expert testimony from the Chicago packing organization does not seem to hold together. It has to depend, as cursory inspection will show, upon the grim determination of the poor to stick to tough meat no matter what the cost. This is absurd. Man never ceases his search for a tender steak. This passionate desire has even driven him to manufacture an apparatus for breaking up and comminuting the gristle and fiber of the cheap cuts. The thud of the steak-pounder is as familiar a morning sound as the church chiming.

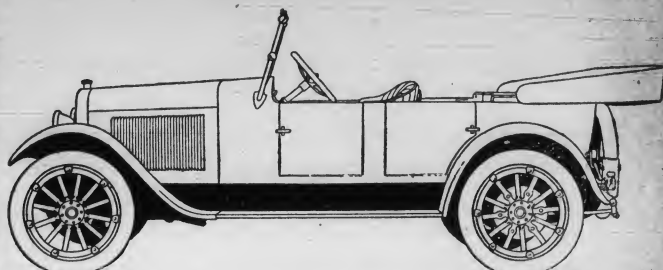

The new law of consumption of beef is more than novel. It is foolish. If that buying the cheap cuts the price of choice cuts comes down, the poor man will shift from cheap to choice, and even to the swiftest majesty and the superlative wisdom of the House of Representatives at Washington will prevent him from executing this strategy. The plutocrat, as heretofore, will look after himself. The price of beef is the least of his worries when Havana cigars are imitating the civvies and champagne is $50 a bottle.—Enquirer.

Let every director of the Farm Bureau be present at the next meeting in the office at Burlington on April 15, 1915. The farmers of this county will never get their full share in the affairs of the nation until they get together and stand together. J. COLIN KELLY, Sec'y B. C. F. B.

There will be a meeting of the Boone County Jersey Cattle Club at Burlington, Monday, April 19th, at 1:30 p. m. It is important that every member be present at this meeting as a constitution and by-laws will be adopted and the new club for the coming year outlined. O. C. HAFER, Sec'y.

One Look at This New Chalmers Makes You Want It.

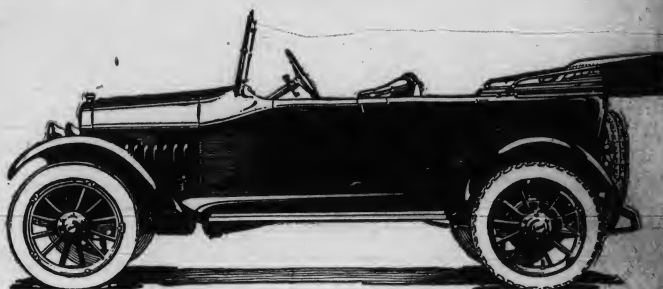

YOU can't get into an argument about the beauty of this new Chalmers. Everyone admits it. Just one look suffices. Its coach, with large square doors, infinite detail, engaging appointments, superior high finish establishes a precedent.

And when you sink into those new type cushions that tilt deeply you say to yourself: "Here is comfort, indeed."

Then let loose the power stream. Note the silence. You can scarcely hear a sound. Watch for vibration. You detect none—not even the semblance of a fender quivering.

All throbbing is gone. Hot Spot and Ram's-horn make sure this rhythm. They "digest" the gas before it gets inside the engine, and they "feed" each cylinder quickly and evenly.

They make results de luxe in power, and that is why so many now say Chalmers is one of the few great cars of the world.

A Maxwell Reveals the Wisdom of Light Weight. They Last Long. They Stand Brutal Treatment. They Cost But Little to Run.

They hold the greatest efficiency—economy record a car has ever made—22.20 miles at an average speed of 25 miles an hour, with an average of 22 miles to a gallon of gasoline, and during this test the engine never once stopped, day or night. It was continuous low cost. Highly reliable mileage.

Such steels, such certainty of performance, such savings, have won many friends for Maxwell.

To date 300,000 Maxwells are gracing the highways of the country. These 300,000 have multiplied the friendship each day until 1920 finds 100,000 Maxwells in process of construction at the eight Maxwell plants.

Those who sell the Maxwell say this number will supply but 60 per cent of the demand. One year's free service given to each purchaser of a Maxwell Car.

APPLE WON QUEEN VICTORIA

So Pleased Was She With Virginia Variety That She Had Tax Remitted—Exports Increase.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Attempting to win the favor of the ladies by giving them apples may be laughed at by some people as ludicrously futile, but it is not to be despised. It was, however, the proof.

Gathering Some of America's Apple Crop.

ginia orchard. So pleased was the queen that she caused the import tax on apples to be removed. From that time experts of apples from the United States to England increased rapidly. England became, and has remained, the principal export market for American apples.

The little story has an unusual interest just now when, following the world war, the export markets are not only to be reopened but possibly may secure a larger importance than ever before. Commercial apple growers in the United States must meet any such increased demand without increased acreage. Apple production does not respond quickly to supply and demand. Trees require several years to come into full bearing. Little can be done toward immediately increasing the supply when an unusual demand appears.

Taking the United States as a whole, there has been very little planting of apple trees since 1910. Comparatively few young trees, therefore, are coming into bearing at this time. Indeed, the largest single commercial apple-producing section in the United States has reached its maximum production, and unless the planting rate increases a decline is to be expected.

That region is western New York, which, early in the sixties, became and has since remained the center of commercial apple production in the United States. Western New York has produced regularly about one-fourth of the total commercial apple crop of the country. But most of the present bearing trees were planted in the late sixties and early seventies and are now nearly fifty years old. Vigor and productivity continue longer in western New York than anywhere else in the country, perhaps, yet they cannot be maintained indefinitely, and the center of production may be expected to shift. Similar declines are taking place in what is known as the New England Baldwin belt, including Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts, but the loss never represented more than a small part of the total commercial production. It is of less importance.

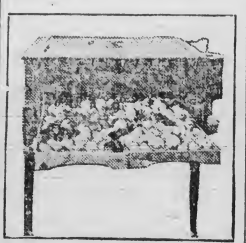

Over the years two comparatively small apple regions have been developed—the Potomac and the Shenandoah region of Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. These are producing now almost as much as the western New York region. The Pacific Northwest is also producing apples in considerable quantities. The Pacific Northwest is producing apples in considerable quantities. The Pacific Northwest is producing apples in considerable quantities.

POULTRY FACTS

PROPER CARE OF INCUBATOR

Eggs Should Be Even-Shaped and Medium-Sized—Best Results Secured If Turned Daily.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Poultry raisers place great dependence upon the early-hatched chicken on account of its greater vitality, making a more vigorous growth, escaping the ravages of disease and insects, developing into early maturity, and the pullets from this hatch becoming profitable layers in the early winter season following. As a rule it is also true that eggs produced in the early part of the season will show a higher percentage of fertility than those produced later in the season. Care should be taken in saving eggs for the incubator. Select even-shaped, medium-sized eggs, and keep them in a cool place. Better results will be secured if these eggs are turned carefully every day. Do not keep them over ten days or two weeks before putting them in the incubator.

Before setting up the incubator give it a thorough cleaning inside and out. Remove all the trays and scrub them with hot soap suds. After they have dried brush the entire inside of the incubator and all the trays with wood alcohol. Clean out all the lamp flues to see that there are no cobwebs or curious deposit; also, that these spaces have not been used for mice nests in the winter time. Clean the oil chamber of the lamp with hot soap suds and remove the old wick from the burner and both the burner in a soda solution for 15 or 20 minutes. Run the incubator for 48 hours to get the thermostat properly adjusted. After running the incubator five days, test the eggs and remove those that are infertile. Now is a good time also to clean the brooder. Give it a thorough coating with some good disinfectant, fix a clean, dry place for the young chicks when they are hatched, and, if possible, keep them removed from the main flock until they are half grown.

HIGHER PRICES FOR CAPONS

Fowls Grow Larger Than Cockerels, Are Easily Handled and Flesh Is of Better Quality.

The principal advantages of caponizing are that the capons grow larger than cockerels, make more economical growth, are more easily handled, sell for higher prices, and are more economical for the consumer on account of less waste in dressing and cooking. In addition the flesh is of better quality.

A statement from the Ohio College of Agriculture says: "Do not sell late-hatched cockerels as broilers unless of the Leghorn or other light-weight breeds. Caponize them and market after the holidays at weights of six to ten pounds each. Increase the supply of poultry meat and make a larger profit on the chickens you raise."

POULTRY

The brooder should not be overcrowded with chicks.

The best food for young ducklings is stale bread and skimmed sweet milk.

Overfeeding the young chicks is likely to be indulged in by many, especially by the beginners.

Feed chicks lightly until they are eight or ten weeks of age. After that they can be forced.

Good healthy chicks can be raised by properly taking care of the hen and chicks or of the brooder.

It is in warm weather that lice and mites thrive on the chickens; they will cause little chicks to die.

At the present prices of fertilizer it pays every farmer and poultryman to save the poultry manure.

Always have your coops and brooders perfectly dry. A good litter for chicks to scratch in is cut clover or alfalfa or the chaff from the barn floor.

If the chicks are kept free of vermin and are kept out of the rain and dew, they will grow fast and will be but little trouble as the weather will be warm most of the time.

GOOD ROADS

PROSPERITY IN GOOD ROADS

Future Development of Country Must Begin With Improved Highways to Relieve Congestion.

There are today some 2,500,000 miles of rural roads in the United States. Of this amount perhaps 12 per cent could be classified as improved, while only about one-fourth of one per cent can be said to be suitable for the carriage of heavy-duty motor trucks. And in the face of this condition it can be said without chance of contradiction that the future development of the United States rests upon the roads.

The past few years have witnessed a tremendous turnover in transportation from the railway to the highway, says Roy D. Chapin, former chairman of the highways transport committee of the council of national defense. The congestion which prevailed during the war made necessary the commercial utilization of the highway to an extent thought impossible a scant few years ago.

The motor truck, little known before the war, sprang into prominence as a commercially practical form of transportation, and while the fighting has ceased the need for the motor truck remains with us, more insistent than ever before.

Within certain limitations the freight car of the highway is more efficient than the rail carrier, and because of it it may be taken as a permanent form of transportation and one destined to have a large influence on the movements of trade in the future.

The hour has struck when the fast-moving efficient motor vehicle of commerce must replace the horse and the costly terminal charges which prevail upon the short-haul branches of the rail lines. Already to the railroad, shortly it is destined to add enormously to the profitable long hauls, while entirely or very nearly so eliminating the unprofitable spur.

Railroad men generally recognize the new movement and welcome it. Street railway men, not so keenly alert to its possibilities as a feeder to their lines, have yet to take the fullest advantage of the opportunities which it presents.

But back of the motor truck rests the road. While the highway as such is of little interest to those outside of the engineering field, as a means for transportation it becomes of vital importance to every citizen of the United States, whether he be in profession or trade, a minister, a merchant, a doctor. High and low, rich and poor, the road comes into contact with all of us, and upon its relative efficiency depends to a greater extent than most of us dream the ultimate cost of all that we eat, wear, have.

"No one knows how much the country pays for cartage," said William C. Redfield, secretary of commerce, recently, "but anyone who looks into the question is pretty sure to find out that the figures are larger than he thought it could be."

Yet cartage is but one phase of road costs. Poor roads mean fewer possibilities for wealth, lower real estate valuations as well as increased costs of supplies. Every sound, fundamental economic reason speaks out for the durable road, just as it protests against the poor, inadequately constructed highway.

Despite these facts, which will be verified by all who have studied the question, despite the fact that the official government figures place the hauling over the highways at 2,000,000,000 ton-miles in 1917, our roads are today all that they should not be. They are inefficient, inadequate, antiquated.

IMPROVE TO SAVE HAULING

Hardening Surface, Reducing Grade or Shortening Distance Brings Farm Nearer to Town.

The test of a wagon road is the amount of work that can be done on it without injury thereto, that is the time and labor required in hauling over it. Any improvement, whether hardening its surface, easing its grade, or shortening the distance, reduces the time and effort of getting to market and brings the farm nearer to town.

COULD HARDLY STAND ALONE

Terrible Suffering From Headache, Sideache, Backache, and Weakness, Relieved by Cardui, Says This Texas Lady.

Gonzales, Tex.—Mrs. Minnie Philpot, of this place, writes: "Five years ago I was taken with a pain in my left side. It would commence with an aching and extend up into my left shoulder and on down into my back. By that time the pain would be so severe I would have to take to bed, and suffered usually about three days. I suffered this way for three years, and got to be a mere skeleton and was so weak I could hardly stand alone. Was not able to go anywhere and had to let my house work go. I suffered awful with a pain in my back and I had the headache all the time. I just was unable to do a thing. My life was a misery, my stomach got in an awful condition, caused from taking so much medicine. I suffered so much pain. I had just about given up all hopes of our getting anything to help me.

One day a Birthday Almanac was thrown in my yard. After reading its testimonials I decided to try Cardui, and am so thankful that I did, for I began to improve when on a second bottle. I am now a well woman and feeling fine and the cure has been permanent for it has been two years since my awful bad health. I will always praise and recommend Cardui." Try Cardui today. E 78

RURAL SCHOOLS

Synopsis of Educational Laws Enacted by the Kentucky
Legislature 1920.

To create a non-partisan County School Board of five members, elected from the county at large, with authority to establish districts, appoint County Superintendents and teachers, fixing minimum school rates at 25 cents, and minimum salary for County Superintendent of $1200.

To establish minimum salary of $75 per month for public school teachers.

To provide for an educational survey of the schools of the State, appropriating $10,000. This survey is to be made by non-resident experts, and is to include all educational institutions of the State supported wholly, or in part, by public funds.

To amend the Constitution so the State Superintendent may be appointed instead of elected, and if elected may succeed himself. At present the State Superintendent cannot succeed himself, no difference how efficient he may be.

To amend the Constitution so that ten per centum of the school fund may be distributed otherwise than on per capita basis. Among counties and cities, this will enable the weaker counties to receive special assistance provided they levy a special local tax. This will be used to stimulate effort and equalize opportunity.

To provide that normal examination shall be conducted in counties and papers sent to State Department of Education, requiring high school education and normal training as qualifications for teachers.

To provide for appointment of School Attendance Officer and make attendance at school compulsory up to age of sixteen, unless youth has finished eighth grade. Under certain conditions youths between fourteen and sixteen may go to work.

To require evidence as to age and physical fitness for youths fourteen to sixteen years old to receive permit to work.

To provide for physical education as a part of a school course in all the schools of the State. This law provides that the State University and all State Normal Schools shall provide courses in Physical Education, and after July 1st, 1921, all graduates from teacher courses in those institutions shall have completed one or more courses in Physical Education.

To allow Schools Boards in first and second class cities to fix the salary of a supervisor of attendance.

To provide for non-partisan school boards in fourth-class cities and fixing maximum levy of $1.50 for school purposes. To authorize city bond issue of $1,000,000 for University of Louisville.

To provide for a non-partisan Board of Education in third-class cities, fix maximum tax rate for schools at $1 and provides for bond issues.

To provide for maximum $125 cent tax rate in graded school districts.

To fix minimum school tax at thirty six cents in Louisville.

To authorize city tax of five cents in Louisville for the benefit of the University of Louisville. To authorize establishment and maintenance by counties of free public libraries.

To authorize establishment and maintenance by cities of free public libraries.

To amend State Library Commission Law.

To require high school education of applicants for license as registered pharmacists.

To provide for redistricting school districts.

To allow State Superintendent of Education appropriation of $11,000 for clerk hire.

To authorize consolidated school districts to issue building bonds.

To provide for the inspection of vocational schools.

To provide for erection of independent consolidated high school districts.

To fix qualifications for graded school trustees.

To require half hour instruction weekly in the Public Schools in housework treatment of animals.

To provide for the teaching of Thrift in the public schools.

To prescribe method of levying and collecting tax in special character school districts.

To provide for inspection of public schools.

To empower trustees of graded school districts to condemn land.

To prescribe method of appointing trustees of Kentucky Normal and Industrial Institute.

To give free scholarships in the State University and State Normal to soldiers and sailors returned from the World War.

Budget bill makes increased appropriation for the various educational institutions. Liberal appropriations were made for the State University, the State Normal Schools and Industrial Institute and other State Educational Institutions.

House Warming.

The new residence of Hubert Gaines and wife being about ready to occupy, a large number of their friends gave them a house-warming last Saturday afternoon. Numerous articles necessary to house-keeping were given them and they are now pretty well equipped. The house-warming it was a merry assemblage. Mr. and Mrs. Gaines were most hospitable and their friends began to arrive early. The house-warming it was a merry assemblage. From Pendleton County.

Palmouth Outlook
We have been having entirely too much sky juice this spring and we fear that our supply will be cut short the coming summer. We have this assertion upon the fact that this section of the country has an average yearly rainfall of about forty-two inches, and if we get too much at one season we are usually cut short during the following season, which in the present case would be the mid-summer or crop growing season.

Pendleton county has been caught very short on feed this spring, and many car loads of all kinds of feed is being shipped into the county at prices higher than ever known. It is taking every dollar that some of our farmers has to buy feed for his stock while others have no money to buy with. The stock of the latter class is suffering greatly, and in some instances are dying. This is a very deplorable condition to say the least. We are reliably informed that there is stock in this county that is existing on the dry weeds in the fields and a little green that is sacking its head out of mother earth on the south side of the hills.

The tenant question has become very acute with the farmers in Pendleton county, and many of them have resolved to close their tenant houses and leave them closed. They will raise what little crops they can and sow the remainder of their land down in grass or let it grow up in bushes. This condition has been brought about by "squatters." A good thrifty tenant is only a tenant a few years and he is in a position to buy a farm. There are many large land owners in this county, who will plow enough land for a garden this spring, and let the world wag until conditions change and they can secure satisfactory farm labor.

There are people laboring under the impression that farm products are going to take a tumble in the near future and land values will follow in depreciation. There is nothing on the surface to indicate such a turn of condition, at least for the next few years to come. The world is short on production of foodstuffs, and nothing is being done to remedy conditions. People are leaving the farms and going to towns and cities. The census just taken shows a big increase in population in every city, while the rural districts will show a falling off. Take it right here in Pendleton county this spring and it shows that people are moving to the towns and cities by the score. There never was as many empty tenant houses in the county as at the present time. The will be less land plowed in this county this spring than in the past 15 years. Farmers can not secure labor and they are sowing their land in grass. This is not only the condition in Pendleton county, but the same conditions exist all over the country. The production of foodstuffs will decrease rather than increase.

There was a car load of veal calves shipped from this city Monday morning by express and every morning since the shipments have been very heavy. The same heavy shipments have been from every one of the railroad stations in Pendleton county, besides the different truck lines are taking calves to the city. The farmers and dairymen have their cows to come fresh in the spring, hence the avalanche of calves. The high price of veal is very tempting for farmers to ship them.

J. C. Woods, of near Double Beech, sold at D. A. Bledsoe cream station, at Neave, Saturday, 34 gallons of cream which brought him the net sum of $9.88.

Nashville, Tenn., March 27.—The shortage of farm labor will be relieved in part in Tennessee by the parole of prisoners from the penal institutions. The Governor announced that so many appeals have reached him for assistance that he had decided to parole to farmers every inmate of the State prisons who could comply with the parole requirements.

Farmers attribute the shortage of labor to high wages being paid in cities, which have drained the rural districts of young men.

Several persons report that the wind shook their residences considerably last Sunday night.

Out in the State.

Versailles—The Board of Equalization made the increases demanded by the State Tax Commission, adding $400,000 to lands and $75,000 to town lots. The original assessment was $21,000,000.

Madisonville—Miss Taylor Crannor has been appointed deputy sheriff, to succeed Miss Iva Stanley, who resigned because of ill health.

Stanford—J. W. Avey has been appointed police judge to succeed Dr. R. L. Davison, resigned. For a period of four months there was not a case to come before the police court.

GERMAN TIMBER FOR FRANCE.
The German government has announced its willingness to settle for war damages, such as the destruction of 1,200,000 acres of forests in France, cannot be based upon lack of timber lands. In Germany there are 16,500,000 acres of such lands, half of which is covered with trees sixty years old. Germany's pines, beeches and spruces are ready for the market, and France doubtless will find German timber as acceptable as cash from Berlin. This brief statement of the good results of scientific forestry in Germany carries a suggestion to other countries. Ten and one-half million acres of trees were grown by the state—the Germans years ago saw the necessity of keeping up the supply of lumber. Now the devastated regions of France may be restored in part by drawing upon the wooded areas of the vanquished country—thanks to the foresight of the German government in the planting. The fact that the planters never thought of using their lumber for the payment of war obligations does not minimize the importance of the object lesson.

The French government has opened a system of restaurants in Paris capable of serving 400,000 meals a day. A model scientific ration of three meals for an average man costs 39 cents in these eating places, and most of the food comes from America. The man who would try to live on 39 cents a day in an American restaurant as the prices are today would soon become so emaciated that his own creditors would scarcely know him, says Thrift Magazine. Why the French restaurant can sell a good square meal of American food for 13 cents, when it costs more than this much for a few slices of ossified toast in the average food resort here, is a question that several million poor down-trodden ham-and-egg hounds in this country would like to have answered.

An agent of the Russian soviet government explains its financial system by saying that as soon as they get enough machines from America that it will print so much money that it will become worthless and nobody will want it. Then the state will produce everything and a man can get anything he wants simply by asking for it. Even the league of nations pales its ineffectual altruistic fires before this remarkable and eminently practical establishment of universal brotherhood.

It is to be hoped there will be no war for this country at least for a generation or two to come, but still, one never knows what may happen, and in the way of preparedness as many safeguards as possible should be thrown around the pedestrian, as he is the man who will have to do the fighting.

ATTACK ON SAN JOSE SCALE

Orchard Pest Subjected to Heavy Spray-Machine-Gun Fire by Southern County Agents.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The San Jose scale was subjected to heavy spray-machine-gun fire recently when the county agents of South Carolina held a spraying campaign. For one week the agents centered their attention on this attack, but it was continued by fruit growers until the buds on the trees began to swell and further spraying with the strong lime sulphur solution would be injurious.

One agent reports so much interest in the proper care of home orchards that he found it impossible to visit the farms of all who wanted information on spraying and pruning. He solved the difficulty by holding a series of demonstrations in schools and orchards.

Another agent reports that during the week he sprayed 2,200 trees and pruned 300. This work is much needed and greatly appreciated, he says. At one orchard he found the owner ready to cut down some of the trees because he did not have the equipment to spray and thought the scale would kill the trees before another season.

WAR ON STRAWBERRY WEEVIL

Insect Can Be Fought Off by Dusting Plants as Buds Appear—Devices for Applying.

The New Jersey experiment station says the strawberry weevil can be fought off by dusting the plants as the buds appear. The dust is composed of one part dry arsenate of lead and five parts powdered sulphur. This does not kill all the weevils, but drives them away. As for a device for applying the dust, the "News Letter" says:

"Cheesecloth bags, the naked hand and other devices were used by growers who did not care to buy the powder guns, but to Tony Blazette belongs the honor of evolving the most ingenious hand device for sifting. He covered a common wire horse muzzle with one thickness of copper mosquito netting and drew the edges up to the rim. The inventor then bent a 3-foot hickory sapling, fastening it to opposite sides of the rim. This served as a handle by which the improvised basket filled with the powder could be twirled with more or less force, depending on the width of the rows."

CONTROL OF CODLING MOTH

Good Plan to Band Trunks and Large Limbs of Apple Trees With Strips of Cloth.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Banding the trunks and larger limbs of apple trees with strips of cloth has been practiced extensively for the control of the codling moth. This method consists of fastening a band of cloth around the trunk, from which the loose bark has been removed. Usually a band made from hessian, folded to three thicknesses four to eight inches wide, is used. The codling moth larvae, or worms, crawl beneath the band to form their cocoons and should be destroyed by hand at intervals of ten days throughout the season.

APPLE-TREE BORER WASH

Apply Thick Coat of Paint Made From Raw Linseed Oil and Pure White Lead.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Probably the best wash for apple-tree borers is a thick coat of paint made from raw linseed oil and pure white lead. Remove the earth for a distance of three to four inches from the base of the tree, scrape off the dirt and loose bark scales, and, after washing, apply to the exposed trunk a thick, uniform coating of paint to a distance of about a foot above ground.

ROAD BUILDING

INTEREST IN ROADS GROWS

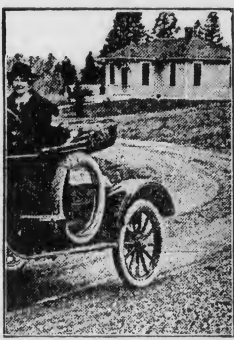

More Attention Now Given to Improvement in Highways Than Ever Before in History.

The good roads movement is seeing a big revival now that business is becoming normal. The most important program that has recently come to our attention is that of the state of Michigan, which has just voted in favor of a $50,000,000 program that, when carried out, will place Michigan on the map big so far as good roads are concerned, writes Birkett L. Wilber, truck sales manager for a large motorcar corporation.

Everywhere else you see also more interest in good roads than in any period in our history. It is true to say that the war and its needs taught us the value of good roads. Perhaps, it did. Perhaps it brought home to those dull ears of higher ups the supreme importance of an intelligent system of navigable highways. But more and more it comes home to the man who studies the situation that back of the good roads movement must be the ordinary man, the average man who pays taxes and votes and thinks as he votes.

The farmer or rural dweller in certain sections for a long time stood in the way—he wanted the roads, but he didn't want to pay for them. He did not realize that in the long run good roads pay for themselves out of savings made to the community in haulage of people and merchandise. But the farmer today is reckoning in units of time.

Yes, he realizes the value of minutes throughout the season—and he is just as keen in conserving time as the city-bred man who operates a big factory. If anything, he is a bit keener, for seasons do not wait and crops must be sowed and cultivated, reaped and marketed at the right time. He has convinced himself that time is money. And he knows that good roads save time and that they save time largely because they make it possible to get satisfactory services from motorcars and motortrucks. And he is not one bit blind to the fact that operating cost is largely influenced by road conditions—that good roads make gasoline more elastic, rubber and steel more durable and bring markets nearer, and that good roads increase property values out of all proportion to the cost.

Good Roads Are Necessary to Efficient Operation of Automobiles.

of good roads to any one individual. Therefore, the farmer is now back of road improvement.

Does the city man feel any interest in good roads? Ask your neighbor. If he doesn't own an automobile he expects to own one, and he knows all about where the good roads are and what they mean. But when his influence counts big, the greatest impetus has naturally sprung from the numerous army of motorcar owners to whom motorcar ownership has made the territory for miles around his neighborhood.

Counties and states where good roads have become a steady part of a progressive program of legislation have seen values shoot up in the most surprising fashion, and this, again, has brought home to the fact that good roads pay for themselves. Thus it is natural that the years 1919 and 1920 will see the most stupendous good roads programs inaugurated in America that the world has ever known. This will result in the wider utility of motorcars and motortrucks and, of course, prove a big aid to the solution of the freight traffic problem.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The County Board of Education was organized April 6th, and elected Hubert Conner Secretary.

One of the most trying problems was before the board for solution, which was financing the schools for the coming year, since everything is on the upward move taxes included. The Board decided to try to make an eight months term, believing the necessity of Primary Education is greater in this country now than ever before. We are convinced of this fact, because the influences in civil, moral and spiritual advancement, which the next generation shall meet and must overcome, are spreading and attracting numbers of the ignorant, with cumulative force until they are now being felt throughout the civilized world.

A system of general education applied to the law of "mum term" is the only proper solution to this problem.

The Board gives the teachers the time they may lose in attending the K. E. A. which meets in Louisville, Ky., April 20, 21, 22, 23. We shall be pleased to see every teacher of the county at this meeting. We are promised a great program.

One day during the meeting the visiting teachers will have the privilege of attending the city schools and of taking a lesson in observation. No doubt, this would be a day well spent for most of us. The new school laws will be discussed and explained. The trip to Louisville is a pleasant spring change and outing, so every couple pleasure with improvement.

All school officials and authorities are insisting upon a full attendance; they affirm without this organization each teacher would be a law unto himself or herself and no exchange of ideas experiences failures or successes could profit any one save the individual who had any one or more of these.

The K. E. fare can be had for one and one third rate, for round trip, by paying full fare going, and taking a receipt for same when you buy ticket, and the ticket validated at the K. E. A. meeting; you can get your return ticket at one third cost.

All teachers who go to the K. E. A. would better engage reservations for lodgings, or reach Louisville by the middle of the day so as to secure a lodging place.

The new law as to Teachers Examination. The white and colored examination will be held at the same time but in different rooms, viz, the third Friday and Saturday in May, June and September. All papers will be endorsed by number only and sent to Frankfort to be graded.

All certificates will be issued from Frankfort.

The Common School Examination will be held as before, in every particular.

STORING COAL.

Lay In Supply in Summer, Is Advice To the Consumer.

One feature of the coal investigation, the conclusion of which have just been announced, is that consumers would do well to store coal during the summer and thus relieve the demand brought to bear upon the supply during the winter months, thereby reducing the danger of a "famine." In this connection it is announced that all departments of the Government to store a three months' supply of coal during the summer. According to "experts" this decision will do much to stabilize the price of coal.

It is not so very long since Federal Coal Administrators at the time of our entering into the war urged that coal should be bought only from hand to mouth, and almost went the length of prohibiting the storing of it on the ground that such action advanced the price and injured the weaker consumer. This had nothing to do with war conditions, but was a cautionary order based upon general welfare. Since that time almost every variety of advice on the subject of coal storage has been given to the public, culminating now not only with the direct recommendation to store the fuel, but also the adoption of the practice by Government departments.

It is asserted that through coal storage the wage increase of 27 per cent may be partly "absorbed," whereas otherwise it would be charged to the consumer in the form of a 15 per cent increase. There may well be doubt whether the storage situation has any direct relationship to prices in the sense that is thus intimated. Some concessions on the price of coal have always been made to those who bought during the spring and summer months, and they will probably continue to be made. The operations, however, have been quite frank in stating that the wage increase, if made, would be passed on to the consumer, and that a fall to be expected. It should be distinctly understood that the direct outcome of the war in the coal situation, as the New York Journal of Commerce,

Goodyear Advantages in Tires for the Smaller Cars

Just as Goodyear is successful in building extreme value into the Goodyear Tires that go on the highest-priced motor cars, so is Goodyear successful in supplying unusual worth in Goodyear Tires for smaller cars.

Into the making of Goodyear Tires in the 30x3-, 30x3½-, and 31x4-inch sizes have gone the full advantages of Goodyear experience, skill and modern facilities.

The results of this unusual endeavor are easily available to every owner of a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell, or any other car requiring the sizes mentioned.

THE FINE BELGIAN DRAFT STALLION

Season
1920

Season
1920

Don DeGozee

The Belgian Draft Stallion, foaled in 1908, will make the present season at my stable one-half mile from Big Bone Baptist church, Boone county, Ky., at $10 to insure a colt, money due when the fact is known, the mare is parted with or leaves the county.

DESCRIPTION AND PEDIGREE:

DON DEGOZEE, despite his great size and weight, is well balanced throughout, perfectly proportioned and symmetrically built. He has as light action as a stallion of much smaller type, and his disposition is much better than is usually found in horses of blood strains. He is a beautiful dark brown, 17 hands high, weighs 1800 pounds, has a broad foot, heavy bone, fine style and action. This great breed of draft horses is especially known for better action than any other draft horse, heavy, good bone, good hoofs and as kind, gentle workers.

DON DEGOZEE'S dam, Della Wire, brown mare, the great draft show mare of Campbell county, Kentucky, sired by Bayard DeGozee 2188, whose Belgium Stud Book number is 21670, bred by Mr. Baillieux E. of Cozee, sired by Morton (312), by Brilliant (709), out of Coatte (703), dam of Catharine DeGozee (21085), she by Lion (766) out of Marie (2421).

Great care will be taken to prevent accidents but I will not be responsible should any occur.

THE LARGE BONE SURE-BREEDING JACK, MIKE

Will make the season at the same time and place and on the same terms.

MIKE is 15½ hands high, 7 years old next August, is black with white points, is from the famous Rodie Jack, and is the best Mule getter in Kentucky, his colts having sold as high as $120.00 at weaning time.

FLAW FOUND IN MEASURE

Establishing Minimum Wage For Teachers in Kentucky.

Frankfort, April 5. — Complications of an unusual character are expected to arise when an effort is made to put into effect the act passed by the last Legislature making the minimum salary of teachers in the common schools of the State $75 a month. This measure, it is believed, will not be construed quite as the Legislature intended.

When the bill was up for passage the Legislature believed that every teacher in a state-aided school would receive the minimum salary of $75. The decision of the Department of Education, however, is that so far as the State is concerned only the teachers in common schools shall receive not less than $75 a month. Teachers in the graded schools and the city schools may receive much less.

Under the law every child of school age in Kentucky, whether in a common school district, a graded school district or in a city, is paid for at the rate determined by the State Board of Education upon the advice of the Superintendent of Public Instruction. In addition, in graded and common schools there are special funds obtained from special taxes in the districts and cities for the support of schools. This rate is uniform in all districts, but it is contended that a teacher in a city school legally may receive less than $75 a month.

Superintendent Colvin has sent to each county superintendent a compendium of the new laws passed. These summarized bills name the authors, and if any county superintendent is in doubt as to the intention of the Legislature on any bill he may obtain accurate information from the author of the bill in question.

WILLS PROBATED.

The following wills were probated by the county court last Monday:

Montgomery Andersons, Homer Riggs executor.

Lucey A. Carpenters, Walton Bank and Trust Co. executor.

Dulcena Berry's, J. W. Berry, executor.

A. F. Rankins, Geo. Rankin executor.

Mary Ryans, Equitable Bank and Trust Co. Walton, executor.

Shedlon Morris, John Early executor.

John Penos, Wm. and Sylvester Penos executors.

A first, second and third will of the late John Penos was presented in county court last Monday. No 3 was probated as and for his true last will and testament.

Quite a number of the Recorder's loyal supporters called in last Monday and renewed their subscriptions for another year. The subscriptions of several of them had not expired but that made no difference, and to keep peace with them their time had to be pushed up another notch.

Dr. O. C. Hafer, of Ludlow, was transacting business in Burlington Tuesday, and while in town he made the Recorder a very pleasant call. This doctor is enjoying a good practice in Ludlow and surrounding territory.

While Miss Lizzie Rogers was with her brother, W. R. Rogers, at the hospital in Cincinnati, last week, Miss Nell Martin took care of the county clerks office, Judge Gaines assisting her with the court work last Monday.

The Mutual Telephone Co. of Union, has increased its rates from $8 a year to $10 a year, and the assessment for holders of the shares of stock is $4 per year.

In the matter of probating wills the county court broke the record last Monday, probating eight

Fiscal Court.

The Fiscal Court was in session last Tuesday, all the members being present and the session was of a strenuous nature, the court remaining in session until dark.

Some of the parties who had contracts for the reconstruction of pikes in this county were before the court asking relief because of the increase in the price of labor and material since the contracts were let.

Arrangements were made where by Fred Louen is to complete his contract on the Bullittsville and Dry Creek pike.

The parties who have the contract for the reconstruction of the Union and Florence pike will be released upon the payment to the county the sum of $1,600.

The Beaver and Richwood pike will be reconstructed.

The contractors claim that they are entitled to relief because of the increase of both labor and material on account of the war, but suppose there had been a slump in the prices of labor and material and these contractors had made twice or three times as much on the work as they had figured to make, would they have come into the court and proposed to give the county a portion of their unexpected excess of profits?

One trouble in the construction of roads in this county has been the lack of cooperation on the part of the land owners with the county and contractors in that they have placed almost prohibitory prices on road materials for which they were heretofore realizing nothing.

The above is a good picture of Miss Mary Ann Thompson, Burlington's venerable and most estimable citizen who celebrated her 92nd birthday last Tuesday. She is a good health and as spry as many persons 30 to 40 years her junior. She has a very large acquaintance every member of which will rejoice to learn that she appears to be good for many more years journey on this mundane sphere.

Reports Fruit Alright.

Edgar Berkshire, who is considered excellent authority on anything pertaining to fruit, was asked by phone Wednesday morning what he thought about the situation, and after having made an examination he reported it all right, it still being in the ball sufficiently to avoid the water. He says, however, he is afraid it is coming out in the dark of the moon, which he considers a bad time for it to bloom.

Miss Lizzie Rogers returned from the bedside of her brother, W. R. Rogers, in a Cincinnati hospital, last Monday evening. When she left his home he was not suffering as much with his eye as he had been, but the doctors did not know what the outcome will be but hope to be able to save his eye and let him come home in at least a week. He is having his teeth pulled one and two at a time which with other ills he has been subjected to since he went to the hospital have been decidedly trying on him, but he is bearing up well under his trials, and his host of friends hope to have him again with them again well and hearty in a short time.

Burlington, Florence, Union Walton are the only precincts in the county that have made up their quota in the American Legion drive, they having gone over the top. Some of the precincts have made no report to this time and it is impossible to tell how far short the county has fallen short of its quota.

The responses to the statements made by the Recorder some several days ago have been very few, probably neglect on the part of those to whom they were sent. This was the price of paper is climbing it is absolutely necessary that subscriptions be paid promptly.

One of the county road trucks that was left in the stone quarry near Constance last Saturday night was disturbed by someone and badly damaged, one of the gears being stripped. The truck was not standing where left by the force when they quit last.

Hiram Johnson, of California, republican candidate for the presidency, was out by a very large plurality in the Michigan Presidential primary election last Monday, giving great surprise to his opponents.

Miss Sadie, the young lady who was raised by Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hill died of tuberculosis on the 3rd inst, at their home near Idlewild. The remains were taken to Cynthiana, Harrison county, for interment.

The new County School Board was organized last Tuesday.

Frankfort, April 6.—Gov. R. P. Morrow today pardoned Virgil Lucas, of this county, who was convicted in 1917 for the murder of James Riley, and sentenced to the penitentiary for life. The crime was committed near White Sulphur.

One Look at This New Chalmers Makes You Want It.

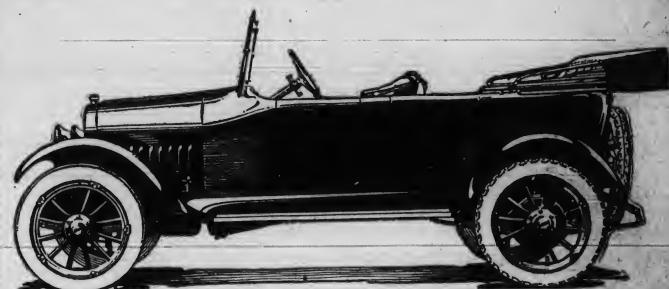

YOU can't get into an argument about the beauty of this new Chalmers. Everyone admits it. Just one look suffices. Its coach, with large square doors, infinite detail, engaging appointments, superior high finish establishes a precedent.

And when you sink into those new type cushions that tilt deeply you say to yourself: "Here is comfort, indeed."

Then let loose the power stream. Note the silence. You can scarcely hear a sound. Watch for vibration. You detect none—not even the semblance of a fender quivering.

All throbbing is gone. Hot Spot and Ram's-horn make sure this rhythm. They "digest" the gas before it gets inside the engine, and they "feed" each cylinder quickly and evenly.

They make results de luxe in power, and that is why so many now say Chalmers is one of the few great cars of the world.

A Maxwell Reveals the Wisdom of Light Weight. They Last Long. They Stand Brutal Treatment. They Cost But Little to Run.

THEY hold the greatest efficiency—economy record a car has ever made—22.20 miles at an average speed of 25 miles an hour, with an average of 22 miles to a gallon of gasoline, and during this test the engine never once stopped, day or night. It was continuous low cost. Highly reliable mileage.

Such steels, such certainty of performance, such savings, have won many friends for Maxwell.

To date 300,000 Maxwells are gracing the highways of the country. These 300,000 have multiplied the friendship each day until 1920 finds 100,000 Maxwells in process of construction at the eight Maxwell plants.

Those who sell the Maxwell say this number will supply but 60 per cent of the demand. One year's free service given to each purchaser of a Maxwell Car.

Patience, Care and Good Nursing Have Brought to Maturity Many Unfortunate Animals.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many young "orphan" lambs and pigs, requiring too much care for the average farmer or stockman to bother with, are being reared by the boys and girls belonging to the clubs organized by the United States department of agriculture and the state colleges. Patience, care and good nursing by a younger have brought to maturity animals which otherwise would not have survived infancy. As a result, the meat supply is increased and the boy or girl is enabled to earn money. The father of a little girl in Anson county, N. C., who was very anxious to give her a pig, repeatedly refused to give her a pig. "One of his pigs did not do well last year and he tried to sell the ' runt' for $1, but could not find a buyer. His wife persuaded him to give the friendless pig to the little girl. Care and careful feeding brought it to maturity. After a while the club member's herd was increased to six. The little girl reared the best two of the litter to her father for sale. The mother hog, and sold the other three for $15. Having now acquired a membership in the pig club, she plans to continue in the work.

CO-OPERATIVE SHIPPING PLAN

Boys of Florida County to Market Their Pigs in Carloads—Engaged in Feed Contest.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

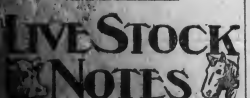

The pig club boys of Madison county, Fla., are planning to market their pigs next fall in a co-operative carload shipment. These boys are now being engaged in a feeding contest and are working for one of a number of prizes offered for the most successful feeders. Peanut meal and corn, with rape and rye pastures, make up the present rations of the club pigs. The local county agent has already informed a number of livestock commission companies of the plan of marketing the club pigs, and states that the buyer will have to bid above the market price to get them.

FATTENING ON SELF-FEEDERS

Hogs Fed in This Manner Save Feed and Labor and Are Fit for Market Much Earlier.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Fatten hogs on self-feeders as far as possible. Hogs fed in this way save labor, save feed in proportion to the gain in weight made, and are ready for market sooner than those which are hand fed. Less feed is actually required to fatten when hogs are self fed. This system is therefore economical in every respect.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Horses should be given plenty of fresh water regularly every day.

Regular feeding is of paramount importance in keeping stock in a healthy condition.

When feeding is devoted to sheep have special responsibility of their own sustenance.

It is better not to use a self-feeder than to use one that is not properly constructed.

Oh, how many times have we heard of a farmer who has a self-feeder and is not using it.

DAIRY

GRAIN MIXTURES FOR CALVES

Wheat Bran Is Relished by Young Animals and Corn Has Excellent Physiological Effect.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When the calf is in its second week it should begin to receive grain, and when one month old it should eat about half a pound a day. After this time the quantity of grain may be gradually increased, feeding all that the calf will eat until three pounds a day is reached, probably during the third month. Grain fed to supplement separated milk should never be mixed with the milk. It is questionable whether the preparation of grain in any way, such as soaking or boiling, is advisable under most circumstances.

Wheat bran is eaten readily by young calves. Corn has an excellent physiological effect and to a great extent may take the place of fat removed from skim or separated milk. Experiments tend to show that corn fed to calves should be cracked rather than finely ground. Ground oats are good in grain mixtures when available, but in many cases cost much more per unit of feed than wheat bran. The following grain mixtures are recommended by dairy specialists of the United States department of agriculture:

1. Three parts cracked corn and one part wheat bran.
2. Three parts cracked corn, one part wheat bran and one part ground oats.
3. Three parts cracked corn, one part wheat bran, one part ground oats, and one part linseed meal.
4. Five parts cracked corn, one part wheat bran, one part ground oats, and one part blood meal.
5. Oats, ground.

Clover hay, alfalfa hay, or the most palatable roughage available should be given the calf after the second week. Alfalfa is likely to cause scours, and should be fed sparingly at first and increased only after the calf gets accustomed to it. At first hay should be furnished only a handful at a time, and be placed so that it cannot be soiled. For the first six months, at least, the calf should receive all the roughage of good quality that it will eat up clean. When the calf has access to good pasture during the first six months it need not receive other roughage. It is not advisable, however, to have the calf under two months of age on pasture in the early spring.

A Good Method of Feeding Calves So That Each Will Get Its Share.

GOOD BLOOD ASSISTED DAIRY

Good Dairy Bull, Purchased as Calf for $100, Put at Head of Herd Is Good Investment.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A good dairy bull, purchased by a Montana county farm bureau member, cost $100 as a calf; it was put at the head of a herd of ten cows, the average annual production of which was 4,800 pounds of milk and 260 pounds of butterfat. The daughters of the bull have now replaced the old cows in the herd and exceed the producers of their dams by an average of 102 pounds butterfat and 1,228 pounds of milk per year. This improvement nets $300 profit each year without taking into account the difference in value of the calves. A bull should "enjoy on" for at least six years, which would mean $1,800 net profit from the ten cows, because of the $100 invested in the bull calf. "It was a bully good investment," says the farmer.

ENEMIES OF DAIRY INDUSTRY

They Are the Men Who Cause to Be Manufactured Poor Grade Butter for Market.

There is a class of men who are more dangerous to the dairy industry than the men who use the substitute, and they are the men who cause to be manufactured a poor grade of butter. There is no substitute for first-class butter, but for butter made from old, stale cream there is not only danger of substitutes, but there is danger of many people not using butter at all.

BEGIN CAMPAIGN FOR LEGION FUND

Citizens Throughout State are Canvassing For Veterans' Organization

When the gong sounded Monday morning, March 25, for the six-day campaign in the interest of Kentucky's American Legion fund, a large number of Kentuckians were in the field affording that opportunity for a display of post-war patriotism that had been brought about through the activities of the Citizens Campaign Committee, headed by A. T. Hart, of Louisville.

Mr. Hart and his co-workers, volunteering their assistance to the Legion because of their conviction that the Legion's work was essential, have perfected a state-wide organization for solicitation of the Legion fund. The campaign they planned will continue through Saturday, April 3.

To raise a fund for the American Legion of Kentucky to cover its needs during the period of organization.

To support the Legion in its fight against radical organizations by giving it financial assistance to continue its investigations of such activities.

To enable the Legion to broaden the work of its bureau for rehabilitation and re-employment of former soldiers, and to promote its drive for Americanization of all foreign-born people in the state.

Realizing this situation, some counties in the state and factories in Louisville have already taken the "top" in the drive by sending in their subscriptions prior to the days of the campaign. Leaders of the Citizens Committee take this to mean a landslide toward the Legion.

In Louisville about 500 men and women have been enlisted in the drive, the plan being to canvass both the residential and business districts of the city. The drive for the Legion has won the approval and hard-working support of labor people, and their official newspaper, the Journal of Labor, devoted its entire front page in its current issue to a forceful presentation of the cause of the Legion.

The Patriotic League of Kentucky will be born out of the state-wide drive. This league will consist of all those who subscribe to the Legion fund. Its members will be listed at state headquarters and in the Legion office at the end of the drive. In case of an emergency, the Legion and all interested in 100 per cent Americanism will have the names of citizens who can be called upon for service in promoting American ideals. Each solicitor is therefore urged to obtain the name of each subscriber and transmit it through his county chairman to state headquarters. Membership cards will be delivered at the time the subscription is taken.

During the last week announcement has been made that "reds" are acquiring membership in the Legion in order to find out what is being done against them. In reply the Legion stated that it had no fear of any such scheme, as it is believed that radical propaganda can make little headway among Kentuckians.

Making a last appeal just prior to the opening of the state-wide drive, Mr. Hart, State Chairman, said: "There ought not to be any Kentuckian who is out of sympathy with the aims and purposes of the American Legion. All thinking men realize that it is the bulwark in this nation against the advance of radicalism and that it has accomplished much to wipe out the internal evils that are causing the present unrest. We should be proud to assist them in such work and I hope that every person will make some contribution, however small, for the advancement of the Legion."

Whisky Warehouse Looted.

Georgetown, April 2.—The Buffalo Springs warehouse, at Stamping Ground Distillery, was entered at an early hour this morning and four barrels of whisky were removed. Fifty gallons, however, were left inside and outside of the warehouse. The thieves took all of the empty cream cans which were about the depot at the village and filled them with whisky.

Three Convicts Pardoned.

Frankfort, April 2.—Pardons were granted today by Governor Morrow to W. H. Snowdon, Garfield county, one year, for a malicious shooting and wounding T. J. Johnson, Laurel county, manslaughter, ten years in 1919, and Joe Conley, Wayne county, murder, life sentence in 1919.

Jury Couldn't Agree.

Maysville, April 2.—After deliberating for 26 hours, the jury in the case of Henry L. Edkins, the confessed murderer of Ben Shoemaker, night watchman at the Maysville Cotton Mills, on the night of December 26th, last, were unable to agree upon a verdict and were discharged and the case will be retried at the next term of the court. The jury stood 11 for the death penalty and one for life imprisonment.

Frankfort—Rock asphalt will be used to reconstruct two roads, contracts for which have just been awarded. Five miles in Bell county will cost $104,105, and eight miles in Rowan county $207,778.

A FAMILY MEDICINE

In Her Mother's Home, Says This Georgia Lady, Regarding Black-Draught. Relief From Head-ache, Malaria, Chills, Etc.

Ringgold, Ga.—Mrs. Chas. Gaston, of this place, writes: "I am a user of Theodor's Black-Draught; in fact, it was one of our family medicines. Also in my mother's home, when I was a child. When any of us children complained of headache, usually caused by constipation, she gave us a dose of Black-Draught, which would rectify the trouble. Often in the Spring, we would have malaria and chills, or troubles of this kind, we would take Black-Draught pretty regular until the liver acted well, and we would soon be up and around again. We would not be without it, for it certainly has saved us lots of doctor bills. Just a dose of Black-Draught when not so well saves a lot of days in bed."

Theodor's Black-Draught has been in use for many years in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles, and the popularity which it now enjoys is proof of its merit. If your liver is not doing its duty, you will suffer from such disagreeable symptoms as headache, biliousness, constipation, indigestion, etc., and unless something is done, serious trouble may result.

Theodor's Black-Draught has been found a valuable remedy for these troubles. It is purely vegetable, and acts in a prompt and natural way, regulating the liver to its proper functions and cleansing the bowels of impurities. Try it. Insist on Theodor's the original and genuine. B. T.

Several vacant lots about town will be cultivated in tobacco this year.

Gypsy camps have begun to show up at intervals along the Dixie Highway.

Governor Morrums pardon mill seems to be running very smoothly for a new machine.

Mrs. B. B. Hume spent last week with her brother, James Carroll and family, in Toledo, Ohio.

The last of March and the first of April months were decidedly windy and somewhat moist.

O. N. Scott and Carl Botta, of Petersburg, were business visitors to Burlington last Thursday.

John P. Duncan has gone to Dayton, Ohio, where he has a good position attending to the golf links.

Farmers who desire to raise a crop of oats this year have been sowing them as rapidly as they could the past week.

James E. Smith spent last Saturday afternoon in Burlington, the first time he had been in town for several months.

P. E. Gulley, from out on R. D. 3, made the Recorder a brief call last Saturday morning and hitched on for another 12 months.

Jailer Fowler is feeling proud over the handsome appearance of the court house yard since nature renewed its carpet of green.

The Recorder's supply of garden seed were soon taken up by early gardeners, some of them going to extreme parts of the county.

It snowed all day Tuesday, about four inches of a beautiful coming down. Ground hog winter seems to have got an extension.

R. W. Rouse, of Limaburg neighborhood, was a caller at this office a few days since and took a lease on the Recorder for another year.

Mrs. J. A. Caywood has returned home from Mason-co., where she had been several weeks nursing her mother through a severe spell of illness.

Business meeting at Florence Baptist church Saturday night, April 10th, 1920, at eight o'clock. C. L. CRAVEN, Clerk.

Mrs. Edward Hensley, of Locust Grove neighborhood, was called to the city one day last week on account of the serious illness of her brother, Sumner Houston, who is in a hospital.

County Tax Commissioner H. W. Riley, was over from Union, last Saturday, and called at this office and had the subscription of his neighbor, J. T. Bristow, pushed up another notch.

Lieut. B. W. Gaines and wife were guests of his father W. A. Gaines, and his brother, B. C. Gaines and family, a few days the first of this week. They were on their way to Detroit, Michigan.

Judge John M. Lassing was in Burlington a short time one day last week. He looked upon the Recorder long enough to say "howdy," and as he passed out of the door he was heard to say something about planting potatoes.

Elmo Gaines, after serving eight years and three months as claims clerk in the State Auditor's office in Frankfort, was given his final discharge by the new Republican Auditor, Mr. Craig, on the last day of March, and he is now at home for a rest-up.

Hugh Pate, of Ohio county, Indiana, was in Burlington, Monday, meeting his Boone county friends, who, by the way are limited only by the number of his acquaintances. Mr. Pate is a live wire in his county and his activities often extend to this side of the river.

Last week the Recorder stated that Lieut. B. W. Gaines had a tip that he would be transferred from Paris Island, South Carolina, to a hospital in Detroit, Michigan. The transfer was made last week and he and his wife passed through Cincinnati last Friday enroute to their new location.

W. A. Gaines, who spent most of the past winter at Paris Island, South Carolina, and St. Petersburg, Florida, returned the latter part of last week. As soon as the Boone county hills are carpeted with blue grass the southern resorts lose all their charms for Mr. Gaines and he heads for the north.

M. L. Riddell's sale was attended by a very good sized crowd last Saturday afternoon and satisfactory prices were obtained. At the close of this sale the crowd adjourned to the residence where C. W. Goodridge resided and there quite a number of household articles belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Goodridge were sold.

The sale of the registered Holstein-Friesian cattle by C. M. Howers & Son at the Crystal Springs farm near Milan on March 23 was well attended, despite the condition of the roads. The calves and young stock brought fair figures, but the prices realized on the cows was disappointing yet every one advertised was sold regardless of price, being bought largely by local people. Out in the State.

Paducah - Four deer held for ransom at the Central Fire Station were rescued by owners, believed to have been boys, who used a ladder to climb over the corral.

Albany - Ross Williams was shot and killed from ambush in Dry Hollow, Clinton county. His wife, who was with him, escaped injury.

Louisville - H. G. Smith, secretary of the Kentucky Bankers' Association, says unregistered securities are being withdrawn from country banks for safer deposit in the city, as the result of 11 robberies of Kentucky banks recently. These robberies are attributed to organized gangs of motor thieves operating out of Louisville, Cincinnati and Nashville. The loot totals $100,000.

Louisville - The Tobacco Growers and Dealers Protective Association of Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and Tennessee, a meeting here asserted there is a tobacco trust composed of four big manufacturing companies which is hammering down tobacco prices. Agents of the Department of Justice are said to be investigating. At Paducah 1000 growers pledged themselves to form a close organization and fix a minimum price for their tobacco.

Morehead - The epidemic of smallpox in Rowan and Rockcastle counties has been officially declared under control.

Madisonville - A. D. Melton found a vagrant vein of coal five feet thick on his farm, and has opened a mine to supply local trade.

LaGrange - Geo. Blaydes, hurt in a fall from a ladder, was the second sophomore at the High School to be seriously injured in falls attending efforts to remove the flag of the junior class from the flagstaff.

Pikeville - The village of Heller, this county, gives an even dozen sons to the army, and the squad has been sent to Camp Taylor for machine-gun service.

Owensboro - All of the teachers in the Owensboro city schools have served notice on the Board of Education that they will not apply for reappointment to their positions until they know what salary they are to receive. They are asking for a 50 per cent increase. The board is willing to grant a 25 per cent increase to them, it is understood.

LAMB CROP SHORT.

There will be a shortage in the lamb crop in Grant county this year, according to information furnished by a representative farmer, who says he has passed through one of the worst lambing seasons in many years. Many sheep owners have lost heavily of their young lambs. Some have lost from 50 to 75 per cent, while others have lost from 10 to 25 per cent. Those who bred for late lambs will fare better as the weather while not good has been more favorable during the latter half of March.

The loss is not altogether due to the weather, but some of it may be attributed to scarcity of feed. With feed higher than ever before in history many sheep owners have stinked their flocks and when lambing time came these were in poor condition. As a result there has been a heavy loss from weak lambs. A great many ewes have also died from weakness caused by a scarcity of feed, though in some instances a grub is blamed for the trouble. Grant County News.

School Notes.

We have received a program of the K. E. A., which meets in Louisville April 20th to 23rd. It is in our judgment the most attractive program for entertainment and instruction the organization has ever put out. The transportation will cost one and one-third fare for the round trip. We should like to see a large delegation from Boone county. We can not keep abreast of the times unless we come in touch with our superiors in our profession.

Tobacco Plants Up.

Tobacco plants up and have leaves nearly as large as a penny is the claim some are about ready to make, which indicates there will be early planting of the weed this year, which is necessary to a good crop.

J. M. Barlow, of Pleasant Valley neighborhood, a business visitor to Burlington last Friday, and while in town made the Recorder a short call. Mr. Barlow appears to have wintered well and is in moderately good health, and it is to be regretted that as much can not be said about Mrs. Barlow, his good wife, who has been a great sufferer for some time of rheumatism and is in almost a helpless condition.

Mr. Kasabaum, the Aurora, Indiana, politician, made a business trip to this part of his territory last Tuesday.

Washington - Predicting a cotton famine next year, Senator Smith, Democrat, of South Carolina, told the Senate that: "The leading statistics regarding cotton stocks on hand were being circulated by various cotton exchanges. More than 1,000,000 bales of cotton unfit for spinning, Senator Smith said, are included in the exchange statistics as available for fabric manufacture."

Complaints of decreased efficiency are growing common in various industries. Employers are that production per unit of labor is decreasing as wages increase. Thoughtless workmen are inclined to believe that by doing less work they can make the job and the high wages last twice as long. They are absolutely wrong. Essex Wins Oil Race.

Defeating scores of other cars, an Essex won the right to file the first notice on section of government land near Choteau, Montana. The occasion of the race was the recent signing of the Oil Leasing Bill by President Wilson. This threw open a tract of government land which was considered valuable because of its oil possibilities.

Throughout that section of Montana great preparations were made to invade the tract the instant it was thrown open to obtain the most valuable locations. It was a case of first come, first served; so a young attorney who wished to file a claim enlisted the aid of Dr. H. J. McGregor, an Essex owner.

When the word came that the bill had been signed, the race began. The Essex was the first car to reach the tract, covering 20 miles of snow covered roads in 36 minutes, thereby gaining oil rights which may be worth a fortune.

PETERSBURG.

The Interchurch World Movement of North America, an agency of the Protestant denominations of this country for the gathering of statistics and information relative to the religious and social conditions existing in every county in the entire country, has undertaken a survey of Boone county, with the aid of the various churches of this community.

The movement does not aim at any church union or federation nor does it touch upon church creeds or affect church doctrine. It is simply an agency for securing information which may be used to the advantage of every church in the county in forwarding its work of bringing the gospel to every man, woman and child in the limits of the county. The movement itself was called into being by the church of the nation for this work, and has the endorsement of practically every Protestant denomination.

After the necessary data is secured, it will be sent to the headquarters of the movement in New York, where a highly trained corps of experts will put the material into proper shape, drawing graphic maps of the county which will show the location of all churches, their spheres of influence, the place of residence of the various pastors in relation to the field of their service, the roads, railroads and other means of communication by which the people can reach their churches, and similar information which will tell at a glance just how thoroughly the county is covered by religious influence and the areas that are left without such influence and are in need of intensive work.

As soon as this is done, the maps and statistics will be returned here and placed in the hands of the denominational boards, county council and the various churches. It is with some best to them it will probably reveal conditions which the churches never fully realized existed. It will probably show how very different the conditions are from what they are in reality. But whatever is done entirely by the churches of this county, without dictation from the Interchurch World Movement or any outside influence, although the movement will still stand ready to render any assistance to the local churches.

The survey in this county will be pushed to speedy conclusion, and any who desire information regarding the work which is being undertaken can obtain it by communicating with Rev. R. H. Carter, of Petersburg.

A conference of the Boone Co. Pastors will be held April 10, 10 a. m., at Burlington, Ky. A. O. Stockbridge, of Kentucky, superintendent of the survey, will be present with the Pastors in this conference.

Nearly 40,000 cream producers in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia and Virginia ship DIRECT. Our doors are never closed—trucks gather the cream at all depots day and night.

No patron ever lost a penny dealing with us. Tag your cans or if you need cans, write for Free Trial Cans for 30 days.

The Tri-State handles more cans of cream per day than any other creamery in the world.

GUNPOWDER.

The usual Easter lizard reached our Ridge Sunday night. R. E. Tanner was the first in our neighborhood to plant garden truck.

Bert Clure and wife, of Buffalo Ridge, broke bread at Robt. Tanner's last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rouse entertained several of their friends at dinner last Sunday.

Ira Tanner sent a load of hogs to market last week. They were top notchers and the price was very satisfactory.

We were wrongly informed in regard to the Arrowwood and Rouse business. Mr. Arrowwood is proprietor and owner of the farm and Mr. Rouse has no interest in it, but will occupy the new house when completed and assist in manipulating the business.

A gathered congregation was present at Hopewell last Sunday evening, and Pastor Royer delivered a very able and much appreciated Easter sermon. He used as a basis for his remarks: "All Hail," they being the first words spoken by Christ after his resurrection.

PT. PLEASANT.

Horace Cleveland is home from college on a short vacation.

Mrs. Albert Willis is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Aylor.

Miss Lucy Russell shipped six boxes of fine oranges to some of her Boone county friends about two weeks ago, only three boxes having arrived as yet.

Mrs. Mary Gross and son, Mr. Ed. Gross, wish to announce their new address as Ludlow R. D. 2, instead of Conance, Ky.

They have a new mail box on the pike.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Tanner entertained with a family dinner last Sunday in honor of Mrs. Salie Southern's birthday and the several other birthdays since the first of January.

Our neighborhood mourns the loss of one of its earliest settlers, Mr. Henry Jergen, who was 86 years old. He was buried at Hebron last Wednesday and had been a member of the Lutheran church since the early age of fourteen. He was brought to this country from Illinois, Germany, by his parents when he was four years old. He leaves two daughters, one son and several grandchildren to mourn his death. Mrs. Sophia Harker, of Illinois, and Mrs. Henry Robinson, from Brownsville and Mr. Henry Jergen, Jr., with whom he had made his home for years. He leaves a host of friends and relatives and neighbors who have always held him in highest esteem.

LITTLE FOLKS BIG HELP.

There is a growing apprehension of the evils that menace the future and an apparent desire to avert trouble by means of preventive measures. It is coming to be recognized that by making good Americans of all the nation's children the alien problem of the future will be practically solved. The easiest way to teach American ideals and loyalty is to begin with the little child. Therefore, the United States bureau of education and the National Kindergarten association, working together from 5 West Fortieth street, New York, are urging the immediate introduction of the kindergarten into all public schools as a vital Americanizing agency. As a result of their efforts, Texas and California are conducting intensive campaigns, and letters from persons in every state show an increasing interest in securing this educational advantage for the children of their communities. More than 70 per cent of the children of one state are deprived of kindergarten education. We should take steps immediately to remedy this condition, and have kindergartens put into all of the schools this year.

Bolshevism is primarily an outbreak among those who have lost their spiritual sensibilities. For that reason it will not sweep the whole world; for while Russia and Germany may temporarily lose their moorings, religion in the west, beginning in France and coming to America, is more virile and alert, as has been pointed out. Fatalism may take Russia and Germany—and we do not think it will—but it cannot supplant faith stimulated in the hearts of millions who found in the war a new sense of spirituality itself. That we shall have it nobly longer doubts. It is organized and militant Christianity, and we never had a doubt that the power of moral sensibility will be effective against the armed insanity of the old world.

Every city fondly hopes that its own contingent of heroes won the war. But no contingent was lacking in heroism and courage, and no place in the country has cause to be ashamed of the boys sent from there overseas. Nor can the cities claim any superiority in those qualities over the country boys who left the plows sticking in the furrows to fight like seasoned warriors in the trenches the professional and trained troops of Germany to a bloody, but victorious, finish.

Life is a complex affair, but, notwithstanding, some of its problems are exceedingly simple. Yet one demonstration of the fact will not suit all inquiring minds, some skeptics exacting individual proof. Of these latter was a St. Louis woman who thought she had smelled gas and lighted a match. She was right. She had.

Ten thousand healthy children now in workhouses in England are to be scattered in homes there or in Canada. There may never be another Oliver Twist, but then there will never be another Charles Dickens, so no great harm is done to literature.

It is to be hoped that as a potter Mr. Frederick William Hohenzollern will make a more conspicuous success than as he did as a military commander, or the inventors in his clay enterprise will soon qualify for entry in the bankruptcy class.

Governmental botanists, physiologists, pathologists and chemists have organized a labor union to be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. If they go on strike and get violent it will be a terrible brain storm.

Another reason why you have to blindfold so many men to get them in a department store is, they are afraid they will meet their wives and be invited to wear a dream of a hat in the millinery department.

It is said the ex-crown prince of Germany has gone into the pottery business. He may be in the stone-breaking business before the allies get through with him.

The peace terms laid down for the Germans are very mild compared to the penalties which Germans were ready to impose on the world in the event of victory.

A technicality is a device in law by which a great wrong or injustice may be perpetrated in a perfectly respectable and legal manner.

The person who suffers in a fraud deal always finds out how the other person would have felt had the plans gone through.

The United States is to sell a lot of gas masks at auction. They might come in handy for banquet purposes, at that.

RABBIT RASH.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Colin Kelly spent Sunday with friends in Rising Sun. J. K. Beard, of Ohio county, Indiana, was visiting relatives here Sunday.

Mrs. Ida Conner moved last week to Ohio county, where she has bought a home. Joe VanNess, who is employed on a Government boat, is spending a few days at home.

Last Thursday Omar Hodges' youngest child fell into a bucket of hot ashes and burned one of its hands badly. Mrs. E. L. Stephens is visiting her mother Mrs. Mary O'Neal, who is quite sick at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hester Ryle, near Aurora.

A mad dog appeared in East Bend last Friday afternoon and created great excitement for a short time. It bit a couple of dogs and a couple of boys that belong to Robert Aylor, and, so far as is known, nothing else was bitten. The dog was killed by Bernard Hodges near the Lick creek bridge. It was a strange dog and where it came from is a mystery.

All members of East Bend K. of P. Lodge are earnestly requested to be present at the meeting next Saturday night. There will be work in the Third Rank and the Grand Chancellor, John J. Howe, will be present. Visiting brothers will be gladly welcomed.

UNION.

The W. M. U. will meet with Mrs. S. C. Hicks next Friday.

Erie Rouse and wife are nicely domiciled in the Herndon Flats. Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bristow entertained J. C. Bristow and wife Sunday.

Percy Dugan, of Warsaw, was calling on Miss Eugenia Riley, last Sunday.

Robert Newman and wife spent Sunday with their daughter at Landing.

Ollie Dixon has been called to nurse Mr. Perry Corbin, who is seriously sick.

Miss Jessie Cleek, who is teaching school at Hebron, spent the week-end at her home.

Robert Barker has returned home after spending a week with relatives in the city.

Rev. W. M. A. Wood will preach at the Baptist church the third Sunday of this month at 11 a. m.

Andy Holworth and wife entertained at dinner, Sunday, Harvey Senour and wife, Warner Senour and wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Holworth.

Misses Marguerite and Maude Pennington and Maude Guesser, of Covington, and Alice McCabe, of Beaver Lick, visited Miss Louise Feldhaus, Sunday.

The Teacher Training Class, of Union Baptist church, which is being conducted by our Pastor Rev. W. G. Potts, is progressing splendidly. Every member taking second test made a grade of 100 per cent. We are anticipating great and lasting results. Have already attained several requirements for the Standard of Excellence and hope soon to be able to report an A-1 Sunday school. We are now studying the Bible, which is the third division of the Manual, meeting the church each Tuesday evening at 7:30, and glad to welcome any one who cares to meet with us.

RICHWOOD.

Potatoes planted, oats sowed, etc., and then a blizzard.

Mrs. Ben Carpenter is visiting her mother at Woodstock, Ohio.

Our genial road engineer made an inspection tour in this neighborhood recently.

Frank Youell and family, of Covington, spent a portion of last week at F. B. Youell's.

J. T. Powers and wife and Thos. Carpenter and wife spent last Sunday at Henry Carpenters.

F. E. Robinson and wife entertained at supper in honor of Joseph Surface and wife who were married last Saturday.

Potatoes, oats, etc., high prices. Who got the increase in prices?

When they were out of the farmers' hands potatoes were $1.75 and $2 a bushel, and when they came back they were $5 to $6 a bushel, when oats went out they were 75 cents a bushel and when they came back they were $1.25 a bushel. Where is the go-between?

CONSTANCE.

Ella Zimmer has sold his store to Mr. Megley, who will take possession Monday.

Mrs. John Klaserer is entertaining Mrs. Ballou, of Price Hill, and her daughter, Mrs. Elliot, of Los Angeles.

ATTENTION—K. of P. of Burlington Lodge. Special meeting on Wednesday night, April 14. Work in 3rd degree and probably 1st and 2nd (Good "Gates") in attendance. Grand Chancellor John J. Howe expected to be present. All members urged to be present. All members urged to be present.

MISS CELLANEOUS.

Miss Cellaneous, though a small and dainty damsel, is one of the most extravagant. She never buys anything much over five or ten cents, but what enormous bills they foot up, at the end of the month. Miss Cellaneous, too, has to bear the burden in our expense account of the things we cannot remember about, because we must balance our accounts.

Five, ten, fifteen cents, or a quarter seems so little, so we go to the movie, buy a little candy, a magazine or a new ribbon, often things we do not need, and the sum mounts up to quite a showing at the end of a month. It is the smallness of the amount which is our undoing. The old saw which tells us to "look out for the pennies, for the pounds will take care of themselves," is one we should heed.

It is the experience of those who have observed, that the person who buys both ways fruits and vegetables early in the season is the one who finds it necessary to call for help when it comes time to buy coal. It is the little leak, the small bill that we need to watch, for most of us find it necessary to deliberate with caution when spending large amounts. One does not wish to be penniless or miserly, traits which are decidedly unpopular, but we must, if we live within our income, use discretion in our buying.

It is fully as inconsiderate for a woman to use the earnings of her husband in riotous spending. Our girls need training in marketing and shopping as well as in cooking and house-making. No two families with the same income can follow the same rule of expenditure, for happily we all have individuality and like different things. Each household has her own problem to solve; she may get great help and inspiration by reading or by conference with other housekeepers, but her problem is hers alone to work out, and the efficient, up-to-date woman is constantly looking to improve her methods. In those days of high prices and stationary salaries we are called to put forth the best effort to make every cent do its full duty.

No two families with the same income can follow the same rule of expenditure, for happily we all have individuality and like different things. Each household has her own problem to solve; she may get great help and inspiration by reading or by conference with other housekeepers, but her problem is hers alone to work out, and the efficient, up-to-date woman is constantly looking to improve her methods. In those days of high prices and stationary salaries we are called to put forth the best effort to make every cent do its full duty.

It is fully as inconsiderate for a woman to use the earnings of her husband in riotous spending. Our girls need training in marketing and shopping as well as in cooking and house-making. The U. S. transport Mercury sailed from Brest, carrying bodies of American soldiers who died in France.

The acreage of wheat and rye in the United States has been reduced in Kentucky last fall was the largest reduction in acreage of any crop, especially in Western Kentucky. This cut in acreage was followed by a rather uniform reduction in the acreage of corn, sorghum, soybeans and cotton. The weather was the main reason for the heavy and freezing cut, by fully one-half acre, but it was also due to the fact that farmers got a good stand because of the unusually early planting.

Farm labor is very scarce in nearly all parts of the State, though the cotton section and the tobacco belt are the industries being most affected. Farmers in the State as a whole report that they need 50 per cent more labor as last year and only 75 per cent of a normal supply. The cotton section reports that they need 50 per cent more labor as compared to that of war time, farmers report they need 50 per cent more labor, though they need 50 per cent more labor in cotton than in any other crop. The tobacco belt needs 50 per cent greater than in 1917, but the United States

Clarence Mitchell says the fish always got away and he knows his luck one day last week when a bass which he says would weigh not less than 100 pounds got away from him. He had a hand-line in Gunpowder creek and it was on this time the fish got hung, but when Clarence Mitchell went to bring it ashore it went on the raup and broke away. Mr. Mitchell says that yes, when telling about the capture the monster cut water 100 feet on the hook. He will spend many hours at the same pool this summer trying to capture the big fish and the probability is he will land it.

Friday Eve. April 16th, 1920,
Come Everybody and Have a Good Time.

UNION.

There are days in the life of every one that seem to be richer and better than others, and such a day will be April 16th in the memory of those of us who met at the home of Mr. G. L. Smith to remind him that it was the 75th anniversary of his birth.

It was a surprise to Mr. Smith and in his humorous way he declared it was the first time he ever knew his wife to keep a secret.

At the noon hour a bounteous dinner was served and enjoyed by all.

The afternoon was spent in conversation interspersed with music and devotional services conducted by Rev. R. C. McNeely. Those present were:

N. H. Clements, wife and son, Ivan; Geo. Hator, wife and daughter, Marie; R. O. Rouse and wife; Sam Smith and wife; R. L. Huey, wife and daughter, Sara; Joseph Green and wife, Perry Johnson, Rev. R. C. McNeely, Joe Weaver and wife, Jaa. Aylor wife and daughter, Ethalyn; Mrs. J. T. Edwards and daughter, Rilla Lee; Geo. Harris, Mrs. Sotters, Mrs. Sallie Adams, Miss Rose Adams, Jaa. Taylor, B. H. Howlett and wife, Mrs. Cynthia White, Misses Melva and Georgia White, R. W. Allen. All left at a late hour wishing Mr. Smith many more happy returns of the day.

VERONA.

It is generally supposed the recent cold spell killed all of the fruit.

Rev. Payne filled his appointment at New Bethel church last Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. J. N. Powers filled his appointment at Zion Station last Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Nannie Roberts has been quite ill for the past two weeks. She is in her 75th year.

Mrs. Nannie Callahan has sold her farm two miles south of this place to a Mr. Miller for $9,000.

R. P. Coffman and wife, of Walton, spent last Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Whitson.

Rev. Hodge Hudson, of New York, is spending a few days vacation here with W. M. Whitson and family.

Rev. J. Newton Powers will be ordained as a Baptist minister on the third Saturday in May, at New Bethel church.

E. V. Roberts, who lives two miles east of this place, has purchased a new Chevrolet auto, and is learning to operate same.

Rev. Alex B. Roberts, of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, who expects to visit the Baptist convention at Washington, D. C. in May, will visit friends and relatives at Walton and Verona on returning from Washington. Rev. Roberts would like to hold a two week meeting either at Walton or Verona.

DEVON.

Recent rains made the grass look green.

James W. Bristow was at Independence, Monday.

A. T. Mulberry visited relatives at Sadeville, Sunday.

Mrs. John Roache is the guest of Mrs. Lucien Ryle in Newport.

Mrs. William Summet and Mrs. Walter Colby were guests of Mrs. Ben Bristow, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Eugene Riley was the guest of friends in Covington, last Thursday, returning home Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Mulberry have as guests Mrs. Mulberry's sister and husband, of Detroit, Michigan.

Charles Glass and wife are the proud parents of a fine son, who arrived the 9th. They have named him George Oliver.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Hutsell, Dr. Simpson and Mrs. Simpson, visited Lucien Ryle at Spears hospital and found him improving nicely.

Miss Bessie West and Mrs. Davin visited Mrs. Campbell, of Cincinnati, Sunday, and found her slightly improved. Mrs. Campbell had a stroke of paralysis last week.

Mrs. Hannah Miller, of Avondale, Mr. and Mrs. Stone, of Covington, and Mr. and Mrs. William Summet, of Devon, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Riley.

Mr. Huseman and family came over from Erlanger in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCoy had as guests, Sunday, Ben. Bristow and family. Mr. Wullock and child, Ben. Berry and Guy Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. Wullock were very happy in their home.

The guests found Mr. and Mrs. Wullock very happy in their home.

Lily May Ryle Stephens was born July 11th, 1865, departed this life April 7th, 1920, aged 54 years, 8 months and 26 days. She was united in marriage to William L. Stephens, December 21, 1887. To this union were born five children—four daughters, Mrs. Ralph Cason, Misses Christine, Julia Smith, May and one son, William Stanley, who, with the husband five grandchildren, survive her. The deceased was a member of a family of 13 children, and one brother and seven sisters survive her. She united with Bellevue Baptist church under the preaching of Rev. R. E. Carney about the year 1892, and at the time of her death she was a member of Burlington Baptist church.

Card of Thanks—We wish to thank our kind friends and relatives for the kindness shown us in the illness and death of our dear mother and wife, Mrs. Wm. L. Stephens. Especially do we wish to extend our thanks to Dr. Veltton for the kind attention given during her illness; to Scott Chambers for the efficient manner in which he conducted the funeral, and George Smith for the many words of comfort and consolation.

ANNOUNCING

Oakland Motor Cars

We are pleased to announce that we have taken the agency for the Oakland Six, this contract was offered to us some eighteen or twenty months ago, but we declined to accept until we had ample time to investigate the merits of this car, as we have always made it a point to handle only the kind of cars that we knew to be absolutely right and that we could back up with our own guarantee.

After talking to more than a hundred Oakland owners and seeing this car tried out under all kinds of conditions, we have been convinced that the Oakland Six represents more real value than any other automobile built, and is manufactured under such conditions that the price is far less than any other car of similar class.

Oakland motor cars have been on the market for over fifteen years, and it is one car built by a Company that has never put out a bad car, and is the only car that can be bought today as far as we know with a one year guarantee from the factory.

The 1920 model Oakland has 115 inch wheel base with very long springs which makes it a very easy riding car, it has the newest type valve in head 45 horse power motor, with Delco starter, Willard Storage Battery, upholstered in real leather. This is truly a fine car and the price is only $1235 f. o. b. factory.

Don't be foolish enough to pay eleven or twelve hundred dollars for a four cylinder car when you can purchase this powerful six for a few dollars more.

We are still handling Maxwell and Chalmers as heretofore.

Stories For Boys

What does your boy read? Dime-novel trash? Or good, clean, wholesome stories of outdoor adventure? Does he read of the lure of the cities, or the romantic story of the great farmland? Is he going to leave home as soon as he can, or is he going to stay on the farm as your partner? Fathers everywhere tell us that stands right up with Uncle Sam's club work in keeping their sons and daughters interested in staying with the farm.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN makes two claims on the farm boy's interest: First through its practical articles—how to feed his prize pig to how to use carpenter's tools properly. Second, in every issue is a fine, clean adventure story written especially for country boys. A new story is just starting—Diamond Rock—by a veteran of the recent war. Subscribe today and give your boy THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN for a whole year. He will enjoy every page—and so will you.

THE FINE BELGIAN DRAFT STALLION

Season
1920

Season
1920

Don DeGoze

The Belgian Draft Stallion, foaled in 1908, will make the present season at my stable one-half mile from Big Bone Baptist church, Boone county, Ky., at $10 to insure a colt, money due when the fact is known, the mare is parted with or leaves the county.

DESCRIPTION AND PEDIGREE:

DON DEGOZEE, despite his great size and weight, is well balanced throughout, perfectly proportioned and symmetrically built. He has as light action as a stallion of much smaller type, and his disposition is much better than is usually found in horses of blood strains. He is a beautiful dark brown, 17 hands high, weighs 1800 pounds, has a broad foot, heavy bone, fine style and action. This great breed of draft horses is especially known for better action than any other draft horse, heavy, good bone, good hoofs and as kind, gentle workers.

DON DEGOZEE'S dam, Della Wire, Brown mare, the great draft show mare of Campbell county, Kentucky, sired by Bayard DeGoze 2188, whose Belgium Stud Book number is 21670, bred by Mr. Baillieux E. of Goze, sired by Morfon (312), by Brilliant (709), out of Coatte (703), dam of Catharine DeGoze (21085), she by Lion (766) out of Marie (2421).

Great care will be taken to prevent accidents but I will not be responsible should any occur.

THE LARGE BONE SURE-BREEDING JACK, MIKE

Will make the season at the same time and place and on the same terms.

MIKE is 15½ hands high, 7 years old next August, is black with white points, is from the famous Bodie Jack, and is the best Mule getter in Kentucky, his colts having sold as high as $120.00 at weaning time.

BOONE CO. RECORDER

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY
W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

Entered at the Postoffice in Burlington, Ky., as Second-class Mail.

Boone Co. Lutheran Pastorate

Rev. Geo. A. ROYER, Pastor.
Sunday, April 18th.
Hebron 10:30 a. m.—Holy Communion.
2:00 p. m.—Sunday School.
Hopeful 9:30 a. m.—Sunday School.
All are cordially invited to attend these services.

The town was full of automobiles Tuesday.

Read the ads in the Recorder and profit by them.

The house-cleaning season is at hand, a good time to go fishing.

Walter Whitcomb and wife spent last Sunday out at H. W. Rouses.

Elmer Kirkpatrick took eleven veal calves to market Wednesday morning.

Only a few more weeks before the local school will hold its graduating exercises.

The light freezes the first of this month was exactly to the liking of those who had been breaking land.

If the fruit was in the proper condition it has escaped the cold weather, otherwise the crop has been destroyed.

Clarence Easton and family spent last Sunday at Whites Tower, Kenton county, with his brother, Charles and family.

Quite a good crowd attended court Tuesday, a large number of those in town being here to go before the grand jury.

Charles Maurer and wife, N. E. Riddell and wife and Mrs. George Blyth were guests at Wm. Hueys in Bellevue neighborhood last Sunday afternoon.

A post card received from Rev. D. E. Hedinger, who has been in Florida for several months, directs his Recorder sent to Walton, as he was homeward bound.

Warm weather now will make grass grow very rapidly, which will be much to the liking of the farmers who have been investing large amounts in feed for their stock.

J. W. Quigley, Ex-Lindsay merchant, made the Recorder a brief call last press day. Mr. Quigley has developed into an all-around farmer and is hustling for a big crop this year.

There are no automobiles tires made that will give you the service that Goodyear and Goodrich will. You can get the 30x3 1/2 this week for $22.00 at Kirkpatrick's store, Burlington.

A large crowd attended the public sale of Joel C. Store at his farm near Hebron last Saturday afternoon. A long list of property was disposed of and at prices that were very satisfactory.

Very few people from the country were in Burlington last Saturday afternoon, the farmers taking advantage of the nice weather in which to dispose of much of their delayed work.

B. F. Hedinger and wife, who spent the winter at Jensen, Fla., have returned to their home in Walton precinct, and have directed their RECORDER forwarded henceforth on Walton R. D. 2.

The Grant County News says: "We understand $100,000 new building work in Williamstown which had been planned for this year will not be done on account of high prices until a later date."

Writing to have her address changed to 2336 Elmwood Avenue, Kansas City: "Mrs. Annie Daugherty writes: 'We had the worst storm of the season on Easter Sunday. Best regards to my old friends'."

Age is no excuse from service on the grand jury. If you are sixty years old or over you are exempt from petit jury service, but if summoned you must answer and make known your excuse.

Mrs. Fannie Snyder, of Petersburg, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Alice Snyder, several days the past week. Mrs. Snyder has not been able to discard her crutch since she was hurt a few years ago.

Renewing the subscription of Mrs. T. H. Miller, of Holden, Mo., T. H. Miller writes: "Holden received the hardest snow storm in 50 years on Easter following a rain on Saturday that turned to snow late Sunday—a regular blizzard."

Mary Elizabeth Kennedy won the prize in the Florence Graded School for good attendance. Not a day was Mary Elizabeth absent or tardy during the entire term of school. She will be seven years old her next birthday and has passed to the third grade.

Mr. Cud Sullivan was a business visitor to Burlington last Friday and was a caller at this office. Mrs. Sullivan learned long since that the Recorder is greatly to be desired in a family and watches closely the subscription date, never allowing it to show an arrearage of any consequence.

Essex Wins Oil Race.

Defeating scores of other cars, an Essex won the right to file the first notice of section of government land near Choteau, Montana. The occasion of the race was the recent signing of the Oil Leasing Bill by President Wilson. This threw open a tract of government land which was considered valuable because of its oil possibilities.

Throughout that section of Montana great preparations were made to invade the tract the instant it was thrown open to obtain the most valuable locations. It was a case of first come, first served, so a young attorney who wished to file a claim enlisted the aid of Dr. H. J. McGregor, an Essex owner.

When the word came that the bill had been signed, the race began. The Essex was the first car to reach the tract, covering 20 miles of snow covered road in 36 minutes, thereby gaining oil rights which may be worth a fortune.

BULLITTSVILLE.

Misses Eva and Hazel Akitt of this neighborhood entertained in a very charming manner the following guests last Saturday night and Sunday: Misses Louisa Hensley, Hazel Brady, Florence Burns, Wilbur Snyder and Richard Hensley. Saturday night they enjoyed a delightful trip to Hebron and attended the movies.

Prof. R. H. Carter and Henry Mathews, of Petersburg, were visitors to Burlington last Saturday afternoon. The Professor is very much interested in his school which he has brought up to a high standard and it now ranks among the best schools in this county, and many say it is the best.

Roomer or later you will buy the Goodyear or Goodrich tires. Buy them this week while you can get the 30x3 1/2 size for $22.00. At Kirkpatrick's store, Burlington.

One Look at This New Chalmers
Makes You Want It.

YOU can't get into an argument about the beauty of this new Chalmers. Everyone admits it. Just one look suffices. Its coach, with large square doors, infinite detail, engaging appointments, superior high finish establishes a precedent.

And when you sink into those new type cushions that tilt deeply you say to yourself: "Here is comfort, indeed."

Then let loose the power stream. Note the silence. You can scarcely hear a sound. Watch for vibration. You detect none—not even the semblance of a fender quivering.

All throbbing is gone. Hot Spot and Ram's-horn make sure this rhythm. They "digest" the gas before it gets inside the engine, and they "feed" each cylinder quickly and evenly.

They make results de luxe in power, and that is why so many now say Chalmers is one of the few great cars of the world.

A Maxwell Reveals the Wisdom of Light Weight.
They Last Long. They Stand Brutal Treatment.
They Cost But Little to Run.

THEY hold the greatest efficiency—economy record a car has ever made—22.20 miles at an average speed of 25 miles an hour, with an average of 22 miles to a gallon of gasoline, and during this test the engine never once stopped, day or night. It was continuous low cost. Highly reliable mileage.

Such steels, such certainty of performance, such savings, have won many friends for Maxwell.

To date 300,000 Maxwells are gracing the highways of the country. These 300,000 have multiplied the friendship each day until 1920 finds 100,000 Maxwells in process of construction at the eight Maxwell plants.

Those who sell the Maxwell say this number will supply but 60 per cent of the demand. One year's free service given to each purchaser of a Maxwell Car.

HOMER RIGGS,
15apr 21, Erlanger, Ky.

Edgar Berkshire says he gave the fruit a pretty thorough examination Wednesday morning and found that the early cherries are killed while about half the pines are safe yet. Others have not been hurt to date.

The ground has warmed very slowly this spring.

The last reports from Stanley Eddins were encouraging and he expects to leave the hospital in a few days and go to the home of his wife in Newport.

The snow that followed the rain last Monday night was slow about leaving and lingered until Wednesday.

Sunday, May 2nd, is "Come to Sunday School Day" and every person in Kentucky, physically able is expected to attend Sunday school that day. Will you be there?

Special for this week on Good-year or Goodrich auto tires 30x 3 1/2 $22.00. Other sizes accordingly as long as they last at Kirkpatrick's store, Burlington.

The condition of county clerk W. R. Rogers has been improving for several days and he expects to be able to return home some time this week. It is thought that his eye will be saved but the sight will be impaired.

With today, Thursday, April is half gone.

State News.

Victoria, April 8.—Through the kindness of the association, with headquarters here, an order has been placed with the Kentucky Hatchery for 6,000 day-old chicks for the women of this county.

Wayfield, April 9.—A special grand jury that has been investigating the night rider trouble here adjourned this afternoon. Of the nine returned 41 charges against three false swearing, two sending threatening letters and one obstructing public justice. The bonds of 39 of the indicted men were placed at $1,500 each.

Hickman.—A snake charmer with the Superior Show has been here had her right hand severely lacerated by a bear into whose cage she reached her arm. His teeth pecked the flesh to finger tips.

Hopkinsville.—Earl Sea, 5, was fatally scalded when, losing his balance, he fell into a kettle of boiling water in the fireplace, heated to wash clothes.

Covington.—The jury trying the case of Quincey Childers vs. Charles Logan, wealthy Pendleton county farmer, in which damages of $10,000 for alleged personal injuries were asked, returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in which damages of $500 was awarded. The case was heard before Judge A. M. J. Cochran, U. S. District Court, Thursday, July 8. On appeal, Covington, and Judge Max Swinburn, of Cynthiana, attorneys for Childers, put down motion for a new trial and changed the verdict to $100,000. The jury was not allowed to compensate the plaintiff in view of the testimony as to his serious injury.

Flemingsburg.—In these days of high cost, stenographers not only come high but are scarce. So Geo. Faulkner, 80, proprietor of the Faulkner Marble Works, is learning to use a typewriter, and will soon be able to take care of his own correspondence.

Paducah.—Harry Lowe was severely injured when a lifting jack slipped and he was caught beneath the side of a house he was moving.

Nicholsville.—No bids were received at Frankfort for the federal road work in this county at the date advertised, and contractors again will be asked to submit bids April 25th.

Berea.—Prof. Wm. J. Hutchins of Oberlin has accepted the presidency of Berea College, and will begin his duties next September, when President William Goodell Frost retires after 28 years.

PENDLETON COUNTY.

Falmouth Outlook.
County Tax Commissioner Ed. C. Atkins made his final report to District Agent William W. Johnson, Covington, last week, and was the first assessor in this district to file his report. Mr. Atkins and County Clerk Walter V. Dudley were highly complimented on the neatness of the reports and early filing. The license tax on every dog in Pendleton county is paid. There were 180 delinquents, and they were turned over to Sheriff Alvin Courtney, who compelled every dog owner to take out a license. Every county in the State has a big list of dog license delinquents, and they are experiencing much trouble along this line, but Pendleton comes to the front with 100 per cent, and we doubt if there is a county in the State that will equal this record.

The county board of education met Monday and fixed the county school tax levy for Pendleton county, outside the graded school district at 30 cents on the $100. The school law passed by the recent Legislature gives the board a right to levy what tax is needed, under the budget system. This will enable the county schools to have a seven month term instead of a six month term, as heretofore. This is an increase of 10 cents on the $100 over the tax rate last year. The Finance Committee of the county, under the new law, is compelled to levy the tax as the county board of education directs. In the past it has been difficult to secure teachers of competence, owing to the meagre salaries offered, and many good teachers have been driven from the profession into other work. This will enable the board to meet the requirements of the law, which allows teachers a minimum salary of $75 a month, and a longer school term.

The first hand that touched our American Rock of Ages, the boulder that we call Plymouth Rock--was the hand of a woman on September 25, 1820. Well-grounded tradition has it that upon the little Mayflower, nearing the shores of Plymouth, after its fearful voyage, the first of its storm-tossed company to leap ashore were Miles Standish and Priscilla Mullins, the Puritan maiden. During the appalling hardships of the transit a mad love and faith had burned, undimmed, cheering others in despair. Significant indeed that her trembling hand grasped first the rock of America's great future. She has been further immortalized by Longfellow in his "Courtship of Miles Standish."

Wind Cave National park, South Dakota, containing 10,899 acres, consists of a series of long, narrow passageways having variations in height and width, and opening into irregular chambers at intervals. There are three principal divisions, the first, into which the entrance descends, being a long, narrow tunnel leading southeast. It extends 300 feet lower than the entrance and 330 feet below the surface of the ground above.

The trail then ascends by stairway to the upper level of the cave, and thence through other chambers to the Garden of Eden, the end of this route. From the crossroads on this division there is a branch passage leading to the northeast. Here it joins the third division, northwesterly to the Pearly Gates, parallel to the entrance passage. There are several branches, the largest leading upward into the Fair Grounds 100 feet higher than adjoining portions of the cave. It is reached through a hole in the roof of a passageway. In the game reserve are buffalo, elk and deer.

Every one is called upon now and then to visit the sick room. Conditions surrounding the bedside visitations present a wide variation. There is one rule that holds good under all conditions, and that is to carry cheer and sunshine--not a frowny face, but a smile. If the patients are able to talk to them of what is going on outside. Help them to forget themselves. A man who for over twenty years had been paralyzed, was visited by a friend who was profuse in expressing his sympathy and regret at the sick man's helplessness. As he was about to leave the afflicted man said, "Come again, won't you, but when you do please forget to tell me that you are sorry for me as every one tells me that. I have heard it every day for twenty years. Help me to forget it. Bring me a breath of the outside world." Flowers are always a gracious help in making the sick room a place of cheer. A book of orange-skins also helps. Thrift Magazine

A metropolis of over two millions of inhabitants is confronted with the danger of starvation and of paralysis of all industrial and commercial activities through a strike of railway men. And the strike is not authorized by their union. Orders to return to work have been answered by the aggravated outrage of a sympathy strike, a number of employees in other lines of railway operations having joined the initial strikers. This condition presents indisputable evidence that labor unions are not able to fulfill their principal mission--their chief claim for recognition--that of maintaining discipline and preventing social disturbances. The unreasonable desire among the workers to advance their interests by force has gone beyond the power of the unions. This compels resorting to some other strength to protect the public from oppression and unbearable hardships. This power is the government. It should exercise its authority to compel the resumption of work when organizations willfully aim at strangling the life of the nation.

This subject was before Congress when the bill for restoring the railroads to their owners was discussed, containing a section which prohibited strikes on railway lines. Organized labor violently resisted, protesting that this prohibition was an unbearable infringement on human liberty and a barefaced attempt to subject the working classes to slavery. The measure for national safety and justice was defeated.

The result of disregard of legislative duty now is in evidence. It is the nation that it is subjected to slavery, to starvation and want by reason of the blocking of the lanes which convey food and the necessities of life.

Men, women and children, society and Government, cannot live under such conditions of class tyranny. The principle that it is inhuman and unlawful to suspend work on railroads and other activities and indispensable to life must be proclaimed as the law of the land, that humanity and civilization may live.

The railroads are between the Scylla of a strike and the Charybdis of impotence to prevent it. Impoverished as they already are, they cannot meet the demands for higher wages unless granted permission by the Interstate Commerce Commission vastly to increase both freight and passenger rates. As law-abiding corporations they are under the further necessity of awaiting the judgment of the Administration's Wage Commission, which just has begun to function.

The condition is intolerable and calls for drastic redress. Railway strikes and "vacations" should be prevented by legislation. Work must go on while disputes are settled righteously by arbitration.

Over and above the apparent motive for the arbitrary "vacations" being railroad operatives is discernible an attempt to compel resumption of control by the U. S. Government. Having failed in this, the fact that were so easily obtained under governmental direction, it is apparent to thinking minds that the chaos now being precipitated has not for its object so much the securing of an immediately increased wage as the bringing of the roads again under the domination of the politician.

The fine Italian hand of 'Plumb plan supporters may be seen in the situation.

Miss Kittie McDowell, a relative of the McDowell family of Maysville, has, at her country home, a cucumber pickle, 76 years old, it having been pickled by her mother when Mrs. McDowell was a young girl. The pickle is preserved in whisky. It is in a perfect state of preservation.

After remaining in his body for more than a year, a German machine gun bullet has been removed by surgeons from the right shoulder of James C. Apperson, a McCracken county soldier, who served in France for many months. Apperson was shot in September, 1918, at the battle of Argonne Forest.

The first consolidated school district in Kentucky to use water transportation probably will be the Wickliffe district in Ballard county, where it is planned to extend the boundaries five miles to include the Illinois central bridge, across at $2,500,000. One section of the district is so situated that the children will be conveyed to school by motor car. It contains a river population of 4,000. A Y. C. Chapman, supervisor of rural schools, was told that residents of that section feel safer traveling by water than overland.

BOONE CIRCUIT COURT.

The April term of the Boone Circuit Court convened on time last Monday with a small number of persons other than those summoned as grand jurors, present, Judge Gaines presiding and all the court officials in their places. Commonwealth Atty. Howe came in from Rabbit Hash where he attended the big K. of P. meeting last Saturday night, and appeared to be in fine trim for a week's hard work.

The first work was the organizing of the grand jury which is composed of the following gentlemen:

Joe Fisher, foreman,
Theodore Carpenter,
J. Stanley Utz,
M. L. Southern,
Noah Zimmerman,
L. L. Weaver,
Lewis L. Stephens,
Frank Bauer,
Alroy Willis,
C. Acra,
Asa McMullen,
Wilbur D. Kelly

The jury was given a lengthy charge by the court, special attention being called to numerous statutes that are often violated.

The following who had been summoned as grand jurors were excused without pay:

Joseph A. Huey,
Courtney Pope,
B. G. Cropper.

The following who had been summoned as grand jurors and answered when called for duty had been completed, were discharged and each allowed $2, one day's pay:

Ezra Aylor,
J. L. McNeely,
Frank Voshell,
Irvin Rue,
J. F. Dixon,
R. J. Akin,
J. S. Surface,
Earl Rouse,
Geo. McGlasson

A large number of witnesses had been summoned to appear before the grand jury and that body lost no time in getting down to business. The court gave special instruction in regard to delinquency in taking out dog licenses, and, no doubt, quite a number of persons will be called upon to tell why they have neglected that duty.

The judges called the docket and set cases for trial every day this week, and the probability is that it will continue over into next week.

Attorneys Chas. Strother and John L. Vest, of Walton, were on hand the first day of the term and got busy at once.

Petit jurors were not summoned to appear before Tuesday.

Having been in session about an hour Monday afternoon the grand jury returned into court four indictments against Heartley, Craig, colored, charging him with forgery. One indictment charges him with forging the name of O. D. Williams to a check on the Equitable Bank and Trust Co., at Walton, for $12; another charges him with forging O. D. Williams' name to a check on the same bank, for $150; one charges him with forging O. D. Williams' name to check on same bank for $85, and one charges him with forging the name of Walter Sleet to a note for $100, negotiable and payable at the Equitable Bank and Trust Co. Craig had no attorney and G. W. Tolin was appointed by the court to defend him, and it was decided that he would plead guilty and take a 10 years term in the penitentiary, which he did Tuesday morning.

Nearly all the old indictments were continued or filed away by the court.

The petit juries were organized Tuesday morning as follows:

Jury No. 1—

Ben Padback,
J. L. Stephens,
Alonzo Beemon,
Eugene Wingate,
J. W. Cross,
Nat Rogers.

Stanley Conrad,
M. L. McGlasson,
Mosby Pope,
Cleveland Baker,
Howard Kelly,
Phelps Walton.

Jury No. 2—

Bert Berkshire,
Lewis Clegg,
Ben Northcutt,
Robt. Berkshire,
Mike Kinley,
Howard Huey,
Chester Tanner,
Edward Rotts,
Jesse Louden,
Lacy Cropper,
J. A. Clore.

In the prosecution of the case of the Commonwealth vs. Bruce Clore, charged with horse stealing, the defendant pleaded guilty and was given two years in the penitentiary. The defendant has the sympathy of everyone who knows him, and no doubt a strong petition will be forwarded to Gov. Morrow at an early day praying for his pardon. It seems that all who know the circumstances are willing to sign the petition.

In the prosecution of Wm. Vockalek, charged with provoking an assault, the jury found the defendant guilty and assessed his fine at ten dollars. The defendant interrogated the witnesses and made his argument to the jury.

When the foreman closed the jury was out in the case of the Commonwealth against Wm. Vockalek, charged with carrying concealed weapons. The case was given the jury Tuesday afternoon just before court adjourned.

Atty. W. W. Dickerson and D. K. Castleman are the only attorneys outside of the county who are attending court.

There is some question as to the status of the fruit crop.

Red Cross Notes.

The paramount purpose of the American Red Cross is to serve humanity; to relieve suffering, whether caused by disaster, misfortune, accident or sickness, to administer aid to the needy at all times.

The Boone Co. Chapter, ever faithful in its opportunity to carry out this purpose, did so upon two occasions during the past few months, at which times nurses were provided, ambulances hired and treatment at hospitals made possible, all at the expense of our efficient servant, the Red Cross. Surely there is no one in our county who would not sanction such noble deeds, yet there were many, last November, who apparently did so, by refusing to pay the small sum of $1 and becoming a member of our county organization.

Many could not see the need of such a fund. Boone county has been truly fortunate thus far but with the uncertainty of circumstances that will always prevail, we cannot tell when misfortune may overtake us. Think how happy we would then be to have this fund to relieve our suffering.

The Red Cross is not a Dead Issue and never will be. It is constantly at work, whether at home or abroad. Let this only serve as a reminder that Boone county's Red Cross is really doing the things that are worth while.

The following is a statement of the receipts and expenditures of the Boone County Chapter, Red Cross from Nov. 8th, 1919, to April 1st, 1920.

Notice to Wool Growers.

The wool-growers held a meeting in Burlington, last county court day and organized for the pooling of the Boone county wool clip this year. The following members were selected to represent their respective precincts:

L. T. Clore, Burlington.

Geo. E. McGlasson, Bullittsville.

Lloyd McGlasson, Constance.

W. B. Arad, Belleview.

Clint Blankenbaker, Florence.

J. W. Huey, Union.

T. A. Huey, Big Bone.

J. W. Clark, Beatty.

O. K. Powers, Verona.

J. C. Bedinger, Walton.

J. H. Stevens, Petersburg.

Those desiring to pool should see some one of these members and list their wool.

Wool bags will be furnished free, and will be kept at Bullittsville, Ideltown, Verona and at the Farmers' Bureau in Burlington.

Paper twine for tying wool will also be kept at the Farm Bureau, and all those who can, conveniently do so, are requested to get their sacks and twine at this place. Sacks will hold from 25 to 30 fleeces. Do not get more than you will need.

Care should be taken to keep wool clean. Have a clean place in which to shear. Do not allow hay seeds and other litter to get into the wool. Scattering burrs should be picked out. Wool is a very curly it may not pay to pick them out.

After removing the tags, roll the fleeces up with outside out and tie with some strong twine or paper twine. Do not use binder twine.

Rejections such as burry, sooty, coats, black and dead wool should be kept separate from the good, clean wool and put in sacks to themselves. Wool should be sacked as soon as sheared and seeds and trash are apt to get into it if left loose in the bin.

Have sack-needle on hand and sew the sack up as thing does not hold well and makes trouble in handling.

Sacks will be on hand in a few days. Get your order in as soon as possible, then in case the supply runs out we will have time to order more.

DOG TOWN.

Where Everybody Enjoys Life
"Under the Shade of the Old Apple Trees."

This beautiful city, lying two miles south of the one-horse town of Rabbit Hash, has two churches, one college, one tobacco warehouse and numerous fine residences. In 1792 George Washington gave the name of "Sweet Maria" to this place. When the census was taken in 1910 it showed 37 inhabitants and 47 dogs, where upon the village-wit, "Aunt Holmes," said "bays, we must change the name of this place," and as every thing goes that "Aunt" says it was changed to the present name.

The officers of the village Mayor—Hugh Stephens, Clerk—Chester McMurray, Principal of the High School—Miss Edith Chandler, City Engineer—Hobson Hodges, Dog Catcher—Marion Scott.

The erection of a fine court house will begin in the spring. The temporary court house is now at W. J. Hodges', but will be moved to Marion Scott's soon.

We have one daily newspaper edited by Mrs. Millie Scott. This town is surrounded by one of the best farming communities in the county. It is composed of good, clever, big-hearted citizens.

There has been a great deal of sickness in the neighborhood this winter. An epidemic prevailed for a while and caused a great deal of uneasiness among the people. It resembled the old disease of "Trichena." Some thought it was caused by eating too much fresh meat.

A woman's suffrage convention was held here last Tuesday, when the following officers were elected: Mrs. Dessie Ryle, president; Mrs. Sallie Bodie, vice-president; Mrs. Vida Stephens, secy.; Mrs. Flora Stephens, treasurer.

They adopted a resolution pledging themselves not to vote for any "old hatcher" for office.

A tragedy was averted last week by the prompt interference of police "Rooney" Hodges. Aunty Holmes was anxious to send his best girl a present. He consulted his old friend, Hubert Ryle, as to what would be the best thing to send. After studying awhile and being well acquainted with the girl, Hubert remarked, "Aunty, if I were you I would send her a box of soap," then bedlam broke loose.

We were interviewing Charles Bodie and chanced to make the remark, "you have many good, quiet citizens in this town." "Yes," he replied, "but they are over in the Methodist graveyard." "Chas. isn't one-half as popular as he was a week ago."

W. B. Stephens, who lives up Bo gus Hollow and Omer Hodges, of the banks of Sand Run, were recently trying to rent a building in which to start a sausage factory.

name my pall-bearers? Whereupon the doctor gave him the laugh, and then he began to recover rapidly and is back on the streets of our town again.

Merit That Makes Mileage —In Tires for the Smaller Cars

Such extraordinary competence and carefulness as are characteristic of all Goodyear manufacture likewise characterize Goodyear's building of tires for the smaller cars.

Only very unusual experience and endeavor make possible the high relative value built into the 30x3-, 30x3½-, and 31x4-inch Goodyear Tires in our Plant No. 2, the world's largest factory devoted to these sizes.

In addition to the larger sizes Goodyear builds, a daily production averaging 20,000 tires of these smaller sizes alone makes them easily available, regardless of the big demand, to owners of Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell, and other cars taking these sizes.

If you are one of these owners, go to the nearest Goodyear Service Station Dealer for these tires, and for Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes. He carries a stock.

30x3½ Goodyear Double-Cure
Fabric, All-Weather Tread... $23.50
30x3½ Goodyear Single-Cure
Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread... $21.50

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are thick, strong tubes that reinforce casings properly. Why risk a good casing with a cheap tube? Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost little more than tubes of less merit. 30x3½ size in water-proof bag... $4.50

GOODYEAR

CAPT. KIT DALTON DEAD.

Capt. Kit Dalton, sole survivor of Jesse James band of outlaws, the Quantrell raiders and the Sam Bass Texas band of outlaws, died a few days ago at Memphis, Tenn. He did not die with his boots on, but succumbed to an illness which extended over a period of four years and for more than a month was confined to his bed.

Kit Dalton was born in Logan county, Ky., in 1818. For the past 30 years he had lived a quiet life in Memphis, and his small, erect figure, clad in confederate uniform with immaculate vest and short, was familiar to all.

The first 30 years of Dalton's life was crowded with adventure. He ran away from home and joined Forrest's cavalry during the Civil war. Visiting his home on a furlough, he found it and the neighboring county had been laid waste by the Yankees. It is said to have caused him to have organized a band of guerrillas and they began to operate outside of Kentucky.

Unable to return home, he linked his fortune with those of Jesse and Frank James. Five governors set a price upon his head, offering $50,000 for his capture, dead or alive, without success. He was at one time a member of the Sam Bass gang. By agreement with the Government, Dalton's slate was wiped clean and he returned to civil life.

RELATIVES TO BE NOTIFIED.

Washington, April 10.—Reports on the disappearance of American dead overseas and information as to return of bodies to the United States will be made public periodically, but the names of the dead will not be given out. Secretary Baker said today, "It is believed," Mr. Baker said, "that the publication of some 50,000 names of American dead to be returned would only recall the painful days of the war and further distress the bereaved families." Next of kin will be advised as fast as the bodies are identified and sent to this country.

Going Slow.

Nothing of interest has taken place in the Boone county oil situation in the past several weeks. It seems that each of the two companies that have leases in Big Bone neighborhood is delaying operation in order to let the other sink the first well. Neither company appears to be in a hurry about developing its property.

Frankfort.—According to a Washington report, Kentucky has 16,391 persons on pension rolls, who draw $5,935,523 annually from the treasury.

Versailles.—The bill to replace two $5000 government bonds lost last year by the Woodford Bank & Trust Co. has been passed by the House and favorable action in the Senate is forecast.

Barbourville.—In the movement to promote fruit growing in this county thru boys and girls 5000 grape cuttings were distributed and 8500 strawberry plants have been ordered.

Bowling Green.—Reports to the Cantaloupe Growers Association are that 75 acres will be planted this spring and the crop will be handled in the same way as the strawberry crop.

Owensboro.—Ellis Massie, tobacco man, answering suit of his wife for divorce, says that between Jan. 22, 1919, and March 15, 1920, she spent $8,136 for clothes.

Lancaster.—On the Madison border, hail stones as large as walnuts fell in quantity sufficient to cover roads with several inches and traffic was suspended until it melted.

Mayfield.—When reports that this city was under martial law reached home offices, insurance companies held up $350,000 riot insurance that agents had written on tobacco.

One of the largest tobacco crops ever produced in Scott county is forecast by the preparations farmers are making to plant and house the weed. More plant beds than formerly have been sown and local lumber dealers declare that more than seventy-five new tobacco barns will be constructed this year in the county. Scott tobacco beds are reported this week to be in excellent shape and a big crop of plants is anticipated.—(Georgetown Times).

Good Happenings.

Everybody ought to have measles while yet a kid, but there appears to be quite a number of adults in and around Burlington who neglected that duty in their early years, and now they are afraid to turn a street corner for fear they will meet some one from whom they will take measles. There is no pleasure in a right good attack of the disease, and they are not to be blamed for the precaution they are exercising.

There are thousands of cars standing idle on the side tracks within a radius of twenty miles around Cincinnati, and it is fair to presume that the same conditions prevail in the vicinity of many of the other large cities in the country. This is said to be a result of the railroad strike which has been on for several days. All of this tends to make the high cost of living higher.

A good deal of sparring is being done by the Republican candidates for the Presidency for advantage in that party's national convention. Large amounts of money are said to be in use in behalf of some of the candidates and about which the friends of other candidates are raising red. Politics without the use of money in that party can not be successfully manipulated.

Eight out of ten horses on J. E. Smith's farm have had distemper this month, which had it been good weather for plowing would have interfered with that work considerably. It is thought the disease was communicated to the first one to have it by a horse brought from the city and with which it came in contact one day at a blacksmith's shop.

Card of Thanks.—We desire to thank our many neighbors and friends for their service and kind words during the sickness and death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Anna E. Crisler; also Brother Potts for his comforting words, the choir, Mrs. Yonson, and undertaker, John Allison, for the mannerly way in which he conducted the funeral.

Dr. Harmon Hays will have a sale of a lot of personal property at his former residence in Bulletsville neighborhood on the afternoon of May 1. He evidently wants to get rid of his belongings and become a fully fledged buckeye. It is hard to give up such good men as the doctor.

Nat Rogers, of Bellevue precinct, when asked the other day if he is preparing to plant a considerable crop of watermelons this year, Mr. Rogers is a very successful cultivator of melons from which he derives a considerable volume of revenue every year.

It looks every week like more feed for stock is hauled from Burlington than there was on the preceding week, which shows the farmers are in a bad condition as regards provender for their stock, and livestock, as a rule, does not look very good.

A quarry for obtaining rock with which to repair the Burlington and Florence pike will be opened on Jerry Quigley's land on Gunpowder creek, a short distance below Limburg. It is said a fine lot of metal will be secured there.

Wm. Hughes is improving the appearance of his property very much by having the house moved back from the road, a nice porch built thereto and a nice country home when completed.

There will be an abundance of moisture in the ground this spring, and when it does turn warm vegetation should make a very rapid growth, as it will have considerable loss time to make up.

Harold Gaines had his trials and tribulations as an operator of a truck last Monday. It was just such a day as one might expect to bring troubles in flocks.

The jurors did not hate to return to Burlington last Monday morning, but they were so badly worn and found that a few wet days were ahead again.

From some unknown cause, Cincinnati mail is falling a little behind, but it is expected that considerable regularity in the last few weeks.

Those who returned home from Florida since the first of the month have seen very little of Old Sol since they left the sunny south.

Local reports from the sick room of Stanley Edlina were very much more encouraging than they had been for several days.

Aubra Finn, of Plattburg, took a bunch of nice hogs to market last Monday.

R. A. Brady was quite ill several days last week, but has about recovered.

The price of sugar and coal are standing pretty well together.

A GREAT-BIG TIME.

Local K. of P. Lodge Held An Interesting Meeting—Grand Chancellor Present.

Castle Hall of Burlington lodge Knights of Pythias, was on Wednesday night, April 14, the scene of the most inspiring and interesting meeting that has taken place in the course of the order in this community for many months. It can be easily classified as such for several reasons among which stand out prominently the honor and distinction which was conferred on Burlington Lodge in their being selected to present with them Grand Chancellor John J. Howe and of enjoying, as a result of the presence of this highly esteemed official, an evening filled with instructive and highly beneficial discourse concerning the present work of the order and various methods which should be followed to improve upon certain lines. The presence of such a person should cause each and every member of this highly esteemed lodge to have a feeling of being highly honored and instill in him a renewed interest in lodge work and a great magnanimity never fails to inject into any gathering an added feeling of enthusiasm and "pep" generally so with a meeting of the nature under discussion.

Another feature of the evening which did much to contribute to the success of the evening was the presence of visiting brothers who were present to add their helpful influence as well as to gain beneficial results themselves. In particular displayed their zeal and spirit in attending with a party which ran over the dozen mark. Brother George, who was present and their presence, and that of the members from a pine magnanimity never fails to inject into any gathering an added feeling of enthusiasm and "pep" generally so with a meeting of the nature under discussion.

At the conclusion of the initiation ceremonies little time was lost in closing the official action of the lodge, and it proceeded to increase the program which seemed appealed to every member present for the same consisted in the serving of lunch which consisted of the following: Sandwiches of home-baked ham, cream and brick cheese, Pickles, Coffee.

If a person is allowed to make a statement based upon observation of the lodge, it is pretty fair to say that the lodge is doing a very good job of things. The lodge is doing a very good job of things. The lodge is doing a very good job of things.

The meeting was finally adjourned at a late hour, bringing to a close an evening filled with events which cannot readily be erased from the mind of any Knight present. It is sincerely hoped by every one connected with the order that meetings of similar importance and mutual benefit will occur with more frequency in the future than they have in the past and that the practice of visiting, one with another, which has seemingly been somewhat neglected, will be resuscitated and followed for in this work nothing is of any more importance than team work. In union there is strength.

Trucks Should Observe Sunday, Says Grand Jury

The grand jury which adjourned last Thursday suggested to the next grand jury that if the operators of motor trucks do not cease to haul stock, etc., on Sunday, that they indict them for the violation of the law. The grand jury to blame entirely for the hauling that they are doing on Sunday? Are not those who have them to move the livestock on Sunday to blame also? If some one did not employ the owner of a truck to do work on Sunday it would not be done. As a rule the operators of trucks would rather not engage in Sunday work, as they as other people would like to rest that day. The operator of a truck is not to blame entirely for its being used in commercial movements on Sunday.

TAX REDUCERS.

Some Interesting Facts of Special Taxation Levied By Last Legislature.

Governor Morrow went into office chiefly upon the ground that it was his purpose to reduce taxation. There was no change made by his Legislature in the tax law, so that all the taxes which were levied under the Stanley administration will continue to be levied under the Morrow administration. And in addition to this, the following is a list of special taxes imposed.

On whiskey in bond 50 cents a gallon.
On tobacco held for the purpose of sale 10 cents on the hundred pounds.
County school tax increased from 30 cents to 50 cents for the maximum and from 15 to 25 cents for the minimum.
Tax on gasoline 1 cent per gallon.
Tax on automobiles 60 cents per year.

Each hotel or tavern 50 cents per room, and the minimum not to be less than $10.
Trading stamp companies $300.
Wholesale and jobbers in cigarettes $50.
Billard and pool tables $30 for the first table and $5 for each additional table.
Soft drink bottling works $50.
Oleomargarine dealers $10. This applies to all retailers who handle it.

Railroad eating houses $15.
Dealers in patent or proprietary medicines $25.
Restaurants $25.
Shooting galleries $10.
Retail dealers in soft drinks and ice cream $3.

On each theater 20 cents per seat per annum, minimum charge to be $10. This includes moving picture show houses.

Automobile agents $10 for each different kind of automobile sold. Automobiles used for hire $5.00 for each car.
Second hand dealers of personal property $100.
Excess of $5,000,000 a year.

Weather and Traffic Hard on Roads.

The continuous wet weather and the heavy traffic has been very hard on the roads this spring, and the pikes show the effects of the two at many places. At several points on the Lexington pike between Florence and Walton the road has the appearance of having been impassable at some time the past winter. The bad places have been patched but some of them almost prohibit the passing over by a machine at this time. The work that has been done on the reconstructed portion of that road has put in pretty fair condition, but the repairs are not of a nature to be lasting. The past winter has demonstrated clearly what the roads are doing to the country. A large amount of money are raised to expend on them, or the land owners most interested volunteer a large amount of labor in their behalf.

Handled Big Real Estate Deal.

A $60,000 to $70,000 real estate deal was handled by Will S. Norris, Union Station, Cincinnati, and by Youth, of this county, last week in which Mr. R. H. Herrington, exchanged 312 acre home county land to William H. Hilde for a 100 acre near Richland, Madison County, this State. We welcome Mr. Hilde to our country and congratulate him in obtaining one of the best blue grass parcels in this county, the county, in which our country is becoming more noted, as outside land buyers are coming in. Glad to know that Mr. Hilde will not leave us being highly pleased with our lands and people.

DIES IN CALIFORNIA.

Arthur B. Parker, Who Held Many Positions of Trust in Boone Co. Is Dead.

Arthur B. Parker, a native of this county passed away on April 8th, after an illness of several weeks, at the home of his daughter Mrs. Monroe Allen, in Downey, California.

Mr. Parker had passed his 81st birthday, and until the last few years, had resided at Petersburg, this county, near his boyhood home. He was a veteran of the Confederate army, serving through the war under Gen. Bragg.

He held many positions of trust under the State and Government, always performing his duties with honor to himself and his country. He was elected clerk of the Boone County Court immediately after the war, in which capacity he served the county most efficiently for eight years, and after retiring from that office he was elected to the office of Justice of the Peace in Petersburg precinct, which position he held many years.

Arthur Parker was a most affable gentleman and his friends were limited only by the circle of his acquaintance, and to them he was as true as steel. No underhanded transaction were ever laid at his door and he abhorred deception in all its forms. He was honest and upright and gave every other man credit for being the same until he discovered he was otherwise.

Scandal in G. O. P. Ranks.

For many months Republican leaders in Congress have vainly sought to unearth some sort of scandal or scandal in connection with the Administration's conduct of the war. But the shoe is now on the other foot.

Attention has been diverted from these efforts of the Republican "smelling committees" by the disclosure that innuendo slush has been used to further the personal ambitions of Republican presidential aspirants.

Hard on a New York paper's expose of a million dollar fund having been "written" for further General Woods' candidacy, came Senator Borah's introduction in the Senate of a bill to prevent a congressional campaign expenditures and his denunciation of the Wood managers' methods, together with the intimation that the Lowden managers were probably spending a greater sum.

Disclosures like these self-interests are out to buy the nomination for their candidate, and then control the election in the manner of the "boss" of the conviction of Senator Newberry in Michigan, have aroused the public conscience and erased the public features of the G. O. P. leaders.

Mrs. Anna Crisler Dead.

Mrs. Anna Crisler, widow of the late Oscar Crisler, died on the 8th inst., having received a stroke of paralysis the day before. Mrs. Crisler was a daughter of Wm. Foster, being born June 18th, 1841. She was the mother of five children, three of whom, Glendower Crisler and Mrs. Cora Sullivan, survive. Mrs. Crisler's husband died about 43 years ago. She was living with her son at the time of her death and was tenderly cared for in her declining years. She was an excellent lady and had many friends who are grieved because of her passing away.

Short Measuring.

In some parts of Ohio those who sell gasoline, measuring it out of the tanks with patent pumps, are having their troubles. It having been discovered that the pump measurement is not at all correct, the State is being short-measured in many instances. A pump will make a big difference in the price of gasoline when it falls short a gallon or more, and as they are so constructed as not to hoist to exact a gallon at so many strokes the consumer of gasoline is always the party upon whom the loss falls. Gasoline pumps should be tested daily and then handled carefully that they may not bring forth a correct measurement.

Supply of Sugar Growing Less

You may consider yourself lucky now if you get one pound of sugar at one purchase, for the least next several weeks. The sugar crop in this country is being all they can to keep their patrons in sugar but just how long they will be able to do so they have no idea, although they hope to turn out the better will be taken in the sugar market at an early date.

City for Health.

New York Post.
According to the records of the Health Officer of Atchison, Kan., a much larger proportion of farmers contract pneumonia than town people. The reason assigned for this is that the farmers do not stay indoors as long after an attack of influenza as the people who live in the towns.

There are other reasons. The average farmer runs ten chances of catching his death "cold" than one of the city worker. He takes off his coat to fodder the cattle and then forgets to put it on while reviewing the news with the milkman. Two rooms in his home are kept as hot as a furnace while the others are as cold as a barn. It is rains while he is out in the field he becomes "soaked" with his only possible shelter is a tree, which may serve as a parasol but is no good as an umbrella. He sleeps with a blanket in the winter and in a draught by preference in the summer. The milk he drinks may be fresh, but it is not pasteurized. The water he drinks may come from the spring. Several times it may not. Anyhow, springs are generally located at the foot of the hill. Screen doors are scarce, and if they sag or start to give, they are merely keeping up with the front gate. Germs find a fair field in the country.

Organizing for the Season.

Taylorport has organized a strong base ball club, fitted up a good ground and is a member of the Spiny League. The club has good financial backing and will make a good record this year.

Bellevue has a good, strong team and will make a good record this year. The club is the county feel their presence this year. Bellevue is always able to present a strong aggregation and this year will be no exception. Several old heads will be on the team.

Hebron has made up a good team and will make a good record this year. The club is the county feel their presence this year. Hebron is always able to present a strong aggregation and this year will be no exception. Several old heads will be on the team.

The Petersburg base ball team is yours closed in the county league be organized of four or more teams. They figure that with a league in operation in the county a much larger interest in the game would develop, and that the younger element in the county would have more amusement at home and there would be a much more incentive for young people to seek the city every Saturday afternoon as is the custom in some communities. Let the league become a reality.

Tobacco in Carroll County.

There seems to be a disposition among the farmers of Carroll county to cut off the tobacco crop this year, and what they do put in make it a good one, and next year to cut out the tobacco crop entirely, and we believe the County Farm Bureau throughout the county held such a step.

The tobacco markets thruout the State certainly plainly show that farmers should adopt this course, for it is not true that none but the best grades of tobacco brought a fair value, and that all low grades were sold at a loss. The farmer who grows a crop of good quality will pay a large crop with a lot of inferior grades will not. Now is nothing of the damage it does to the soil—Carrollton News.

Sunflower Butter.

That towering stately flower of cheer, the sunflower, beloved by the proponents of investigation in England in the nineties and chosen by the vigorous Kansas farmers for their State flower, favored by gardeners who have in ugly to hide, and attractive to the squabbling sparrows at seed time, has come into a new field of usefulness. The experiment station at the Kansas State Agricultural college is about to test its butter-making qualities when fed to cows in the form of ensilage. A silo has been filled with the seed variety which grows profusely in Kansas and feeding tests are under way to determine its value as a dairy food. This persistent weed may become a useful plant.

Fertilizer Arrived.

The Farmers Bureau received notice last Saturday of the arrival at Erlanger of the second car load of fertilizer it had ordered, but up to that time the first car of the Bureau ordered had not been heard from, although notice of its shipment had been received. The unloading of the car began last Monday.

AN APPEAL

For Homes For Children By the Kentucky Children's Home Society.

The Kentucky Children's Home Society now has in its Receiving Home, in Louisville, 225 children. They range in age from a few weeks to eighteen years, the youngest being a little girl less than three weeks, and the oldest a girl, eighteen years of age.

Owing to the fact that we have had no medium of telling the citizens the number of children we have, we have not had application sufficient to place them in homes.

We make this appeal to the citizens, asking them to open their hearts and homes to these children.

There are many in the institution who are sweet and attractive, and will radiate good, rich blessings and sunshine to the families and homes who take them.

The majority of these children are ready for home, and when you take one of them, you are obeying the injunction of our Savior, who said "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me."

People who are not in a position to give a child good care and attention need not apply, for it is necessary for us to know that our children will be well cared for.

In a large number of these children are placed in the next 30 or 60 days, we can relieve the counties of children who should be sent to us immediately, as it is impossible for us to take them until we place those we now have in the Receiving Home, and we hope that a great many of our Kentucky families will relieve a painful time, find it convenient to take one of these children into their homes.

For information address: Kentucky Children's Home Society, Louisville, Ky., 1086 Baxter Ave. Yours very respectfully, GEO. L. SEHON, Sup't.

Cutting Out Calls.

The local telephone exchange no longer receives and gives out base ball scores nor the time of day. Cutting out calls for information on these two matters reduces the switchboard operators of considerable work but the public which has been educated to receiving information along these two lines is very much inconvenienced, as the base ball fan is always very anxious to learn what his favorite club has done immediately after the game is closed, and when a person calls at the time of day it is because he wants the information, and that is what the telephone is supported for.

A good telephone service is such as meets the requirements of its patrons at all times, no matter whether it is to ascertain the time of a horse race or to inform them of the result of a game of base ball.

Geo. Nickelson Making Good.

Geo. Nickelson, of Walton, who entered the University of Ky., in 1915, is now a member of the S. A. E. is now a sophomore in the College of Mechanical Engineering, and is doing very good work. He is a member of the Schvab Engineering Society, a society of sophomore engineering students. He was graduated from the Walton High School in the spring of 1918, where he had not only made a good record as a student, but as an athlete. He was a member of the high schools basket ball team and also took a prominent part in track work in short runs and in pole vaulting.

In his work in the University he has shown his ability to continue his good work as a student and to make a fine record for himself there, as he did in high school.

Has a Splendid Dairy.

Theodore Carpenter, of Richwood, was a member of the grand jury last week. Mr. Carpenter is one of the best keeping pace with the dairy men in this county, having the best appointed dairy barn in the county, while his herd of Holsteins has been graded up to a point of perfection. His feed bill has been astonishingly low this winter and he says the things are shaping up makes a gloomy outlook for the dairy interests, as milk is now bringing very little more than enough to feed the stock and the increase of price is not keeping pace with the increase in the price of the feed which it is necessary to buy.

The friends of John Hogan, of Hebron neighborhood, will be sorry to hear that indications are he is going into a decline. His avoidable is now 365 pounds and his fair to increase several pounds.

INVESTING IN ARMY.

Lesson of War Experience Should Be Heeded, Journal Believes.

Wall Street Journal.

Has all our war experience taught us nothing about that first insurance of national security—an efficient army? There are, in effect, two proposals for our future army before the public and they are each so crude that the war might never have happened. One is a relatively small standing army, with a national guard modeled on exactly the same lines as that before the war; the other is universal military service.

In the light of experience in this the way the business-like administrator of a great industrial department would go about the task of organization? Would he not ask himself a series of questions something like this? What can be improvised out of peace resources immediately on the threat of war? What part of the military service can be most easily and quickly trained? What part requires longer training, and why? What is the technical part, the indispensable nucleus of standing machinery? How can the brains best control the machine?

He would see from the lessons of the war that by avoiding its mistakes, discarding politics and mobilizing the best industrial brains, the clothing, arming, feeding and transport can be rapidly handled, with daily increasing efficiency, by civilians with a minimum military training. The war showed not only that the Quartermasters Department was cumbered with red tape, but that it was incapable of expanding. This supposed military dictator would see that it was possible, with a fair leavening of trained soldiers, to make an efficient infantryman out of the raw material in six months or less. The 1,300,000 men we actually put on the fighting line were overwhelming of this class. But he would find it took longer to make efficient soldiers in the technical branches, above all in the artillery. And the war has taught us the proportion of officers we need to handle an army of millions, and how essential it is that they shall receive at least two years' intensive training.

These are indeed the framework of the machine. If Congress, if it were wise and businesslike—and it is seldom wise and always businesslike—would devote its appropriation primarily to making a potential officer of every college student with the necessary physical and mental endowment. The standing army would consist largely of skeleton battalions and infantrymen, to stiffen the ranks of the possible future draft, and of fully trained gunners and engineers. Among the experts of the standing army and the army would principally consist of such—would be, of course, the aviation service and the motor mechanics. Any army estimates which are not based on some such practical plan as this merely represent a profitless waste of the taxpayers' money.

INVESTIGATIONS FAIL

TO UNCOVER GRAFT.

Washington, D. C.—Representative Finis J. Garrett of Tennessee, has checked the attendance of Republican members of the House to make political capital out of the emergency cost-plus contracts let during the war by the War and Navy Departments. Mr. Garrett, presenting the cost-plus system as a business proposition, demonstrated that the government would have lost both money and time had it put out its contracts on any other basis during the emergency.

Representative Garrett said that if a contractor had based bids on the labor and material price conditions which prevailed in the early part of 1917, on one of these great plants that could not be completed for eight or ten months, he would have gone into bankruptcy because of the increase in the cost of materials and labor. He would have been bankrupt, and the government would have been in the lurch, with its war activities paralyzed.

These plants had to be constructed to win the war, and the government, pressed for time, inevitably had to make cost-plus contracts and rush the work. The government paid the bill for the labor and materials and paid the contractor a nominal fee, based on the cost of the project for the contractor's services, supervision and responsibility.

Representative Garrett, who has been minority member of one of the several committees named by the House to investigate the conduct of the war, declared these political investigations had produced no "smear" in the letting of war contracts. Instead of capricious criticism of small details, he said, members of Congress should rejoice that the war had been won and should turn their energies instead to reconstruction legislation.

Mrs. Frank Hegger and guest, Miss Walter Perry, were guests of Mrs. Ben Bristow, Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Nellie and Lucy Schadler, and Idola and Marie Carver, were guests of Mrs. Charles Glass, Friday afternoon.

John Rivard, wife and son, of Covington, and Iram Rivard, wife and children, of Lexington, Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rivard.

Dawson Riley and Miss Lillian Northcutt gave their friends a surprise party which was married in Louisville. Dawson is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Riley and is a very successful business man, and Miss Northcutt is a beautiful and accomplished young lady. This young couple have the best wishes of their many friends. Their home is in Louisville.

Mrs. Madison Riley died at her home near here April 13th. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Shepherd at the home, on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley, a member of the Presbyterian church, a large concourse of friends and relatives were present and followed the casket to the Independent cemetery where the Rev. E. L. Lick, laid to rest by the side of her husband who died several years ago.

This noble Christian woman was loved by all who knew her. She leaves two sons, Seymour and Harry and two daughters, Mrs. Dr. Petty and Miss Battle L. Riley. We express our sympathy to the bereaved family.

Persons of northern Kentucky will be interested in a statement of the State Price Committee with headquarters at Louisville in which it exonerates the retailer and jobber, and holds the manufacturer and refiner for prevailing high prices of sugar.

The committee in its statement urges the public to use as little of that commodity as possible until the price is normal again.

Simultaneously Louisville wholesale men declared they would not be surprised if sugar cost the consumer 30 cents a pound within a week.

With manufacturers paying 20 cents for raw sugar, which, when refined, brought 34 cents, only the high prices of sugar, a merchant who believed the retail market had reached its crest.

VOLUNTEER LABOR.

Public's Action in Strike Is Significant, Commercial Says.

New York Commercial.

Labor has gone too far, it has overstepped the mark and has aroused the antagonism of the public. The present railroad strike conditions are intolerable, and the public has decided to take a hand in matters on its own account.

Volunteers to run the trains have sprung up and have done the work. Commuters are bringing their own cars and have demonstrated that only one man with technical training is needed, namely the engineer, and these men have been obtained from the retired list of the army and navy. With it a new idea has sprung into being which is likely to spread throughout the length and breadth of the land, and will spell the downfall of the tyranny of the labor unions. It is the proposition for a volunteer retrained operation of public utilities.

The significance of the volunteer plan is greater than the mere matter of running trains. With it a new idea has sprung into being which is likely to spread throughout the length and breadth of the land, and will spell the downfall of the tyranny of the labor unions. It is the proposition for a volunteer retrained operation of public utilities.

Miss meetings have been held in various communities to take action in the present emergency. The one held in Englewood, N. Y., on Tuesday evening was typical, and it was at this particular meeting that the idea of building up a volunteer labor reserve sprang into being. The meeting place was crowded to the limit with men and women, residents of the locality. Social lines were ignored as all classes of citizens from the richest to the poorest, took part. Trais had been operated during the day with volunteer crews. A railroad banker acted as conductor, while his son stoked the engine. In fact the trains were rather over supplied with operators. These experiences revealed at the meeting brought out the idea that there were plenty of men and women capable of doing work in emergencies, which has hitherto been regarded as requiring special knowledge. The thought was expressed at this meeting that if this was so, why not arrange immediately for volunteers who could even go to the extent of obtaining sufficient training to act in emergencies. The idea, once suggested, swept the meeting off its feet, and everyone present volunteered to do something if called upon.

A committee was formed, names were taken, and practically the entire community of Englewood is to be card-indexed and tabulated as during the war period, with the special qualifications of each individual duly recorded. The women can handle telephones in case of telephone strikes, and in fact can do many things ordinarily done by men, as was demonstrated.

If this plan is followed throughout the country, labor will think twice before it undertakes to tie up public utilities. As Allen demonstrated in Kansas that volunteers could mine coal, and in the present state of public dissatisfaction with labor exactions, there will be no difficulty in finding all the volunteers necessary to care for public necessities.

It is thought that about all of Burlington's population who have not had the measles have been exposed to the disease the past week, as two or three of those who have them were on the streets after they had broken out, not being aware what ailed them. One pupil broke out at High school last Monday.

Resolved, That in the death of our sister the church and Society have lost a devoted member, one who always exhibited in her modest quiet way the beautiful Christ life, was devoted to every interest of her church, was faithful in the discharge of every christian duty until hindered by the infirmities of age.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, a copy be sent to our county paper and a copy to the family.

Done by order of the Society. Committee—Mrs. Jennie Osaman, Lee Sleet, Mollie Cloek.

Garnett Tolin was in Danville last Saturday night while the mob was trying to take from custody of the officers a young negro man who had attempted to murder a small boy. He says the mob had the longest and biggest rope he ever saw. The court house door was broken down and the mob made a thorough search of the building for the negro but the officers had taken him out the back way and hastened to Lexington with him. The mob was composed of determined railroad men who would have made short work of the negro had it succeeded in getting him.

There were stories told at the annual meeting of the Travelers Aid meeting at the Princess theater the other day that were too good to be lost. One by President S. L. Cox of the Silk Travelers' association is specially interesting in these days when every one seems to be thinking more or less of the life hereafter. Some one had gone to the pastor of Mr. Cox's church to ask his idea of heaven and the answer he related a dream told him by another member of the church, a man of prominence and high financial standing. The gentleman in his dream had died, reached the gates of heaven, was admitted, and courteously taken on a personally conducted tour thru the pearly streets of the country now to be his home. A number of houses were in process of construction, and a large one was pointed out as being the future home of the man who on earth had been the new arrivals gardener.

"For my gardener?" exclaimed the gentleman in surprise. "Why, on earth he lived in such a small house! He never had done any of course, but he never had any thing, he gave everything away. He lived in the little lodge at the entrance to my grounds."

The guide assented to the truth of this statement and the personally conducted tour was continued until they came to another house in process of erection, so small that the railroad arrival asked curiously for whom it was intended, and was amazed upon being told that that was to be his own home.

"I am to live in that little place, when on earth I had such a great house!" he exclaimed.

"Yes," said the guide, "but you see here we have to use the materials we have on hand, and when you were on earth you sent very little over."

Another story was told by Miss Eleanor Perry, a young woman who is one of the Travelers Aid workers at the railroad stations and goes to show that South Dakota has a good climate which tends to the longevity of its inhabitants and enables them to retain qualities of alertness to an advanced age.

Miss Perry was on duty at the station one night when the matron brought to her a nice old lady of eighty who had come from South Dakota and wished to go to Brooklyn to see a daughter who was seriously ill in a hospital, but she did not know the way. Miss Perry undertook to act as guide, found her companion very alert much interested in the subway, which she saw for the first time in her life and learned the short notice upon which she had undertaken her trip from the West.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Special Judge Allen N. Ciscoe
Presiding in Suit of Osborn Against Rice.The grand jury adjourned last Thursday about noon, having been in session 4 days, and the jury of which Joseph Fisher was foreman and Asa McMullen clerk, returned into court the following written report.To Hon. Sidney Gaines, Judge of the Boone Circuit Court:We, your grand jury, empaneled on the first day of the April, 1920 term of the Boone Circuit Court, beg leave to report:We have been in session four days, have examined about forty witnesses and returned 15 indictments, after having investigated all the matters brought to our attention.We have examined the county infirmary and find it in good shape, except that the flues need repairing; we recommend that these repairs be made as soon as possible.The court house and jail are both in good condition and are well kept.It has been brought to our attention that the Sunday law is be-jury and a verdict of not guilty was returned.In the case of Charles Corbin against Phil Lambert, the defend-ent filed a bill of evidence and exceptions for the purpose of an appeal.The trial of the damage suit of J. N. Miller against George L.

Miller occupied the attention of the court and a jury last Thursday. This was a suit brought by Noell against Miller for $20,000 damages for destruction of property. The plaintiff was represented by D. E. Castleman while the defendant was represented by O. M.
Rogers. It was a strongly contested case although not lasting longer than a day, the jury returning a verdict for $500 in favor of the plaintiff in a short space of time.The defendant moved the court to set aside the verdict of the jury and grant him a new trial, which motion was promptly overruled by the court, and the defendant was given until the third day of the next April term of the court to fill his bill of evidence and exceptions for the purpose of an appeal. Both the parties to the suit reside in Big Bone neighborhood, and quite a number of witnesses from that part of the county had been summoned to testify on the trial.
Following is the jury that tried the case: Lacy Cropper, J. A.

ser, Chester L. Tanner, Lewis Clegg, Mike Knaley, Stanley Conrad, Ben Paddock, H. L. McGlas-son, J. L. Stephens, Eugene Wingate.In the suit of Edgar Souther against Fritz Shinkle the jury found for the plaintiff in the sum of $225. Ten jurors signed the verdict. This suit was brought by the plaintiff to collect rents he claimed were due him from the defendant who had rented his 52 acre farm for several years. Tolin for plaintiff and Castleman for defendant.In the suit of Mrs. Martha Jane Crigler against Oscar Brown the jury gave Mrs. Crigler a verdict for $45.The suit of Lena Kramer vs. Oscar Chandler occupied the attention of the court and a jury Monday. The jury returned a verdict late in the afternoon for $140 in favor of the plaintiff.In the suits of Edward Osborn against W. H. Rice for slander and Paul Cook against W. W. Gaines for breach of Contract, Judge Gaines declined to sit as he is kin to the defendant in each, it therefore devolved upon Tomorrow to appoint a Special Judge to try these two cases, and he appointed Judge Allen N.
Ciscoe, of Grayson county, andCircuit Judge in the 32nd Judicial District of Kentucky. Judge Cis-coe arrived about noon and the case of Osborn against Rice was called for trial immediately after noon when the plaintiff offered to file an amended petition to which the defendant objected. The offer to file the amendment provoked a lengthy discussion by the attorneys, Castleman for plaintiff and Rogers for the defendant.The suit is for $10,000 damages for defamation of character. Following is the jury selected to try the case: Cleveland Baker, Lacy
Cropper, Stanley Conrad, Chester
Tanner, Jesse Louven, H. L. Mc-
Glasson, J. W. Cross, Ed. Botta,
Philip Walton, Mosby Pope, W.
H. Prosser, Lewis Clegg.The hearing of the testimony for the plaintiff was completed at an early hour Wednesday morning when the defendant moved the court to give the jury a peremptory instruction, which after a lengthy argument for and against the motion, the court overruled, and at the time these columns closed the testimony for the defendant was being heard.Indications are court will continue the remainder of this week.
The litigation that has claimed the attention of the court at this term has been largely of a different class from that of the past. There have been more jury cases than usual but generally of no very great importance.Some of those who attended court in Burlington 30 or 40 years ago are asking what has become of the horses that used to occupy the sides of the streets along the sides of which were the old time hitching racks. The crowd that attends courts these latter days comes almost exclusively in automobiles which crowd the streets in the center of the town.

EXPENDITURES OF SALVATION ARMY SHOW $13,257,552

Commander Evangeline Booth Makes Public Annual Home Service Fund Accounting.

EXPANSION OF WORK IN ALL DEPARTMENTS NOTED

Popular Organization's Budget for 1920
Totals $10,000,000—Details of Figures for 1919 and 1920.

New York, April 12.—Expansion and advancement in every department of Salvation Army work as a result of the 1919 Home Service Fund are shown in a full accounting of that fund just made public by Commander Evangeline Booth at the National Headquarters of the organization here. The financial statement, which is of January 31, 1920, shows total expenditures throughout the country up to and including that date of $13,257,552, with a remainder on hand for the four months to May 31, of $20,110.

Details of the statement disclose that the sum of $1,441,185 was expended up to January 31 for the maintenance of 939 corps and outposts in all parts of the United States. This from includes salaries of halls and their maintenance, salaries of 1,800 officers, the expenses of work for children and young people, the cost of all local relief work of whatever nature, and such incidental expenditures as postage, printing, stationery and the like.

In the period covered by the report the sum of $1,688,429 was expended by thirty-four provincial and divisional headquarters for fashionable, fashionable camps, comprehensive relief work of a special nature amongst the poor, the sick and the distressed. These headquarters are charged with the oversight and direction of all corps and similar activities in their jurisdiction as well as the extension of Salvation Army effort to unoccupied fields and localities. Hence, this item includes also salaries of executive officers, of clerical and other employees, necessary traveling expenses, postage, the cost of advertising, publicity and a portion of the expenditures incidental to the organization of the financial campaigns.

Other items detailed in the report include the sum of $621,099, representing administrative and other expenses borne by National Headquarters in New York and Territorial Headquarters in Chicago; $187,909, representing the cost of operating and maintaining 25 rescue homes and maternity hospitals, a general hospital and one for children, 3 children's homes and 11 sum settlements and nurseries; and $400,000 apportioned according to the 1919 budget for the pension fund for aged or disabled officers.

Most significant, as indicating the remarkable advancement made by the Salvationists during the past year as a result of the 1919 fund, contributed by the country, are the lifting of mortgages to the amount of $1,881,193 and the outlay of $7,638,334 for new buildings and additions, making a total of $9,519,525.

Hitherto demands upon the Salvation Army's efforts have been so much greater than its income that it has labored under a tremendous indebtedness, its officers have been reduced to part pay year after year, and the organization has been handicapped in its operations.

Not All Mortgages Liquidated.

Only a part of the mortgage indebtedness was paid off last year, however; the increased demands upon the Army everywhere in the country have been so great that increased aid new facilities for hospitals, rescue homes and other Army institutions called for the outlay of more than $7,000,000. Army officers hope that the response to the 1920 Home Service Appeal will be such as to permit of the wiping out of much of the remaining mortgage indebtedness, provide for the maintenance of the organization's established activities, and make urgently needed extensions and development possible.

The 1919 balance sheet shows the following:

Expenditures	Revenues
To Jan. 31.	To May 31.
For support of corps activities $1,441,185.15	$1,441,185.15
Maintenance of 33 provincial & divisional headquarters	1,688,429.62
Maintenance of 939 territorial & territorial headquarters	621,099.97
Maintenance of 1,800 officers	187,909.75
Maintenance of 25 rescue homes, maternity hospitals, general hospital, children's homes, sum settlements and nurseries	100,000.00
Maintenance of 11 sum settlements and nurseries	400,000.00
Total expenditures for eight months $13,257,552.51	$10,140.59
Reserve for four months	20,110.00
Grand total $13,277,662.51
Amount contributed in 1919 $1,441,185.15

The Army's 1920 budget, asking for $10,000,000, calls for $4,000,000 to carry on its evangelistic and relief work in 1,000 separate centers; $3,000,000 for relief work among the poor, sick and unfortunate, work for mothers and children, and other social work under provincial and divisional headquarters; $250,000 for the maintenance of national and territorial headquarters; $400,000 for rescue homes, nurseries, hospitals, sum settlements and other institutions for women and children; $150,000 for the retired officers' pension fund; and $2,250,000 for the liquidation of mortgages and the acquisition of new properties made necessary by the Army's 1920 extension program.

THE FARM BUREAU.

By John H. Allen.
"Federation: the act of uniting." These first four words in the Century Dictionary definition of "Federation" are sufficient to describe the germ idea of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation.
"The act of uniting."

The weakness of the farmer's position has ever been his aloneness. Millions of thrifty tillers of the soil—but each man standing alone. It was so in the days when the Pharaohs ruled the Egyptians before Moses was born, before Joseph was sold by his brethren, before Abraham was called to leave Ur of the Chaldees.

Yet the farmer has ever controlled the destiny of nations—all history, profane and sacred—testifying that this is fact.

Since the world began there has never been a time when the farmers of the world could not have exterminated the remainder of the world in a twelve months' space. And all this without the drawing of a single sword, or the firing of a single bullet. A bloodless war, a knifeless, cannonless, swordless war—a war that could be financed from beginning to end without the expenditure of one copper coin. A war of deadly effectiveness for at its close there had been living none but the farmer clan, kings and court flunkies, generals and adjutants, petty and cavalry, rich man and the beggar at his gate, court ladies and women of the underworld, butcher and baker and candlestick maker—all had fallen in this terrible war at any time the farmers of the world had said, "We will produce just sufficient for ourselves and no more." For it is true that the farmers of the world can somehow make shift and can live without the rest of the world but the rest of the world can not live without the farmer.

Therefore it is a fact—a fact attested by the centuries—that the farmer has been faithful to the charge given him by the Creator of all. "Feed the world," said God to the man at the plow and the farmer has been faithful to that trust—since civilization had long since perished.

These things are true; yet the farmer himself, although holding the world's very life in his fists, has received scant consideration. And farm life has become so unattractive that our young folks are turning toward the cities.

And the reason for this condition? Well, it is locked up in that word "alone." Farmers have been standing each man alone. That explains the reason for the Farm Bureau Federation. Every farmer in the United States must learn what others have learned—the value of united effort and organization.

But the farmer is awake at last. Necessity has opened his eyes. The stern pressure of hard facts has caused the giant to stir. His hand has been raised. And the fellow—for he is a big fellow—is striking mighty blows and making great strides in the right direction. Enough has already been done by progressive states to prove the permanency of the Federation.

Something of the future of the Federation in Kentucky can be forecasted from the results in other states.

Illinois, for instance, jumped from 50,000 members to 70,000 members during the first two weeks of their spring campaign. There were 104,385 farmers enrolled in Iowa and the federation membership has been growing rapidly there.

In the United States on March 3d there were 1,029,000 members of the various state federations—that many farmers linked together for improvement of their local conditions and the national welfare of agriculturists. Since that date the number has grown tremendously.

When the American Federation speaks, it is not the plaint of one lone man; neither is it the cry of the farmers of one county nor the voice of the men of one state—but the strong notes of the farmers of the whole nation.

And this is one feature that makes the Farm Bureau certain of success in its efforts to better the farmer's lot. It is no longer one man standing alone—but many men standing together. The very idea, in fact, that has made the United States of America what she is today—for it is true that in union there is strength.

It is this speaking of manmen in one united voice that has made the bureau a tremendous power in other states. Let it be remembered that every member of every county bureau is a member of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation and likewise a member of the American Farm Bureau Federation—my county—my state—my country. Not one man but a million men speaking as one man.

What has been accomplished in other states has been wonderful and inspiring. The institutions of the organizers, Kentucky is young to the work; but wherever the idea has been planted farmers are enthusiastic and county bureaus already organized in Kentucky are doing things.

A county farm bureau is an association primarily interested in rural development, seeking by organization—united effort—to improve homes, as well as the social and economic conditions of the rural community. It is non-sectarian, non-political and non-partisan. It is so organized that under existing laws it is able to cooperate with the state and national agencies for the extension of a program of agricultural extension work of the utmost value to the community.

The farm bureau accomplishes for the rural community the same classes of service that commercial clubs and boards of trade accomplish for the cities.

Through its farm and home demonstration agent it brings to the community the assistance of the State University, the U. S. Department of Agriculture and other state and government agencies.

The bureaus bring about standardization and grading of farm products and secure better conditions of marketing.

County Bureaus study and demonstrate better methods of production.

They maintain suitable offices and rest rooms in the county seats for the convenience of members and friends as well as for the county agricultural agent and home demonstration agent; also for the secretaries of all agricultural organizations within the county, such as county fair, live stock breeders associations, etc.

They furnish a good place for the transaction of business among its members and with representatives of merchants and manufacturers and stages many other purposes.

ANTI-SUICIDE CLUB FOR DOWN AND OUTERS

Helping Hands Stretched Out By Salvation Army Workers to the Despairing.

Many anti-suicide clubs in the state of Kentucky are quietly carrying on the work of inducing people not to take their own lives.

These clubs are among the Salvation Army's many agencies for grappling with moral and social problems. Practically every active Salvation Army corps in the state has one of these clubs—whether the agency bears the name of "Anti-Suicide Club" or not.

State Army officials report that local Salvation Army officers frequently are notified of cases of attempted suicide or of those suffering from morbid impulses. Particulars in these cases come from police, relatives of the distressed persons, or through other agencies.

Salvation Army officers, when they hear of a case of a person being on the verge of taking his own life, immediately call on the person and give what advice or relief is necessary. By talking things over with the Salvation Army officer, the person gets a different view of things and often concludes that life is worth while.

This is one of the many agencies for good in the work of the Salvation Army, whose Home Service Campaign is on in Kentucky, May 10-20.

F. K. LANE HEADS NATION-WIDE DRIVE

Former Secretary of the Interior to Conduct Salvation Army Home Service Campaign.

One of the best-known men in the country, Franklin K. Lane, former Secretary of the Interior in President Wilson's cabinet, is to be the national chairman of the great Salvation Army Home Service drive, May 10-20.

Although under contract to assume charge of some great oil well properties for rich westerners April 1, ex-Secretary Lane declared that this work could wait until he had discharged his duties as head of a great campaign to raise money to help the poor and the unfortunate.

A "shirt sleeve" man himself, Secretary Lane knows what the pinch of poverty is. Born and reared a poor boy, he had many a hard knock before winning success.

In assuming charge of the campaign Secretary Lane said: "I know of no greater bulwark that could be raised against the rising tide of human unrest than to strengthen the hands of this band of self-sacrificing Christian toilers who have the confidence of all men regardless of race, creed, color or position in life."

GOVERNOR MORROW GENERAL CHAIRMAN

Salvation Army Home Service Campaign in Kentucky Will Take Place May 10-20.

Governors of all states east of the Mississippi river are taking an active interest in the Salvation Army Home Service Campaign, May 10-20. Realizing the splendid work done by the Salvation Army and appreciating its earnest desire to fully meet present-day opportunities, Governor Edwin P. Morrow, of Kentucky, has accepted the general chairmanship of the campaign in this state. The state chairman is Judge Henry S. Barker, of Louisville. Judge Barker is very well known to Kentuckians. He served as a member of the State Court of Appeals, was president of the University of Kentucky, and is engaged in the practice of law in Louisville. Judge Barker has always taken a leading part in welfare work in Kentucky. Vice chairmen will be appointed for each of the thirteen districts in the state.

J. Paul Swan is the state director, with offices in the Coleman Building, Louisville. He is assisted by three division directors—H. M. Oldfield, for the Western Division; Owen R. Mann, for the Central Division, and C. C. Camden, for the Eastern Division. Charles W. Morris, Louisville, is chairman of the Speakers' Bureau, and George E. Stephens is state publicity director.

In accepting the general chairmanship of the campaign Governor Morrow said:

"The splendid work of the Salvation Army appeals to the heart of all who are familiar with the work accomplished by its unselfish, devoted officers and members. Wherever the Salvation Army carries on there you will find a need supplied; a foot-sore unfortunate comforted; a hungry one fed, an aching heart given assurance of sorrow."

"I appeal to the great heart of Kentucky to respond generously to the call of the Salvation Army in its Home Service Campaign. Let us not be outdone by other states in rallying to the support of an institution which has done and stands waiting to do its full share, brimful and running over, for the homeless and the afflicted."

SALVATION ARMY DOING BIG WORK IN KENTUCKY

Efficient Headquarters and Officers Are Maintained in Larger Cities and Towns.

The Salvation Army is doing a great work in Kentucky and is planning to extend it if the necessary funds are raised during the big Home Service Campaign drive, May 10-20. All states east of the Mississippi river are to conduct campaigns during the same week.

Seven cities in Kentucky already have thriving corps doing splendid work for the Salvation Army. They are: Louisville, Lexington, Frankfort, Ashland, Covington, Hopkinsville and Middlesboro.

In all these cities the Salvation Army workers are very active in welfare work. They maintain headquarters, with efficient officers, and many recruits are constantly enrolled in the service.

In Louisville the Salvation Army citadel is a large, fine building, well equipped for the work. An Industrial Home and a Friendly Home for Girls are also maintained. In Covington the great Booth Memorial Hospital, operated entirely by the Salvation Army, is one of the best-known agencies for good in the community.

OUT-OF-LOVE CLUBS FOR FRIENDLESS GIRLS

How the Salvation Army Helps to Solve a Big Problem in Welfare Work.

Clubs, composed of girls who have fallen, but who have been reclaimed as useful members of society, are in operation in many cities in Kentucky.

The membership of these organizations—called Out-of-Love Clubs—comprises girls and women who have passed through the rescue homes of the Army and who are now working hard to help other girls who are "down, but not out."

The Out-of-Love Clubs is the following system of the Salvation Army. Every girl who passes through the rescue homes of the Army is invited to become a member.

Her membership entails a personal responsibility on her part to help other girls. Out of love she gives a little of her earnings to help others; out of love she gives some of her time to cheer others.

Out-of-Love Clubs meet at stated intervals at many of the Salvation Army corps in the state.

Statistics show that over 80 per cent of the girls passing through the homes are reclaimed.

INCOME TAX NO WORRY

Every member of the Salvation Army in the United States, from Commander Evangeline Booth down to the youngest soldier in the ranks, has found something about which he does not have to worry.

It's the salary income tax. According to internal revenue collectors not a member of the Army in the United States received enough salary last year to make a tax return.

Commander Booth, the highest ranking Salvationist in the United States, received less than $1,000 in salary in 1919.

There are now 18,000 officers of the Salvation Army working in 66 countries and speaking 48 different languages.

The Salvation Army was founded in 1878 by William Booth, first general of the Army, who died in 1912. General Booth started in life by preaching on street corners and gained worldwide fame.

Miss Evangeline Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army forces in the United States, is recognized as one of the best public speakers in the country.

When the War Cry, the official publication of the Salvation Army, goes to press, it is printed in 48 different languages.

A Salvation Army worker is not qualified to become an officer until some time is spent in a training school.

The Salvation Army corps at Louisville called for women recruits to care for the sick and mending there.

Nurses of the Salvation Army corps at Covington worked night and day caring for the sick.

FALSE ECONOMY.

Congress has a most delightful habit of talking and practicing economy in its acts, and in other spots oozing wasteful appropriating. Without talking about it. Just at present the army and navy—our first lines of defense—are in great danger of losing all the benefits of experience that they acquired in active service during the war. Every day sees resignations of experienced officers piling up on the desks of the Secretaries of the Navy and War, and in the same proportion trained enlisted men are accepting their discharges without a second thought of re-enlistment. The reason is plain and Congress knows all about it, but nothing is done. The officers and men of the army and navy cannot afford to give their services to the country at the price the country is willing to pay.

When we went into the war in April, three years ago, the pay of enlisted men was increased to $3 a month, and the clothing allowance, the enlisted man's only other means of securing extra money, was dropped. The pay of officers has remained unchanged since then. A Captain in the army or a senior Lieutenant in the navy receives $5 a day, and, as most officers are on duty from reveille until late in the evening, it is only fair to call their working day at least 12 hours. That would make the scale approximately 45 cents an hour. Now men of these grades are trained executives, many of whom have been taught their work by the Government at a cost of approximately $20,000. How many private enterprises could hold men of that caliber at those terms?

But that is not the worst comparison. Take the men of the lowest rank in the army or navy and call them just plain laborers, though that would not be fair, for to be a good soldier or sailor one must be skilled in a dozen different grades. They are paid 16 cents net a day or eight cents an hour on a basis of 12 hours. What is the present scale for civilian laborers?

Now view those figures as applied to private business. If a large corporation should have 100 executives as competent as Captains or Senior Lieutenants and a force of 3,000 intelligent workmen working 48 hours a week at the army scale it could operate a big steel plant with a weekly payroll of $13,500. Sounds like Utopia, doesn't it?

Congress is unwilling to step in and rectify this mistake. Bills calling for increased pay are buried in committees. Unless something is done immediately both the army and navy will be wrecked, and the money now being saved by Congress will be spent many times over in educating officers and building up the service.—Buffalo Express.

SOUTH VISITED BY TORNADO

Property Damage and Loss of Life Large.

Meridian, Miss., April 10.—Southern states were swept by a tornado today. Tonight reports indicated the death toll would exceed 140, and the number of injured were estimated at more than 200. The heaviest loss of life was in Mississippi.

The storm swept over Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama and into Georgia. Property damage was estimated at millions of dollars.

The tornado passed over Meridian just before noon. Scores of buildings were wrecked and the number of dead was estimated at twenty-five.

Not a Candidate for Congress.

Judge John M. Lassing, of Newport, Ky., a Washington visitor this week, disposed of the report that he would be a candidate for Congress from the Sixth District this year. He said he was practically out of politics, his chief interest being the reelection of Representative A. B. Rouse and the selection of James Brown, of Louisville, as a delegate to the Democratic National Convention.—Savannah Enquirer.

No Fault of the Officials.

Just as soon as there is a slight let up in the demand for advertising space in the Recorder the settlement with the sheriff on account of the taxes collected in 1919 will be published. That it has not been published before now is no fault of any of the county officials.

Don't Want to Worry Them.

Notwithstanding the very unfavorable weather E. A. Hall raised quite a lot of early vegetables growing in his garden about which he is saying very little. In order not to annoy his friends, Ed. Rice and Tim Sanford, who assure to the reputation to being the early gardeners of the town.

J. Eaton Snyder, of Cincinnati, was a caller at this office yesterday and planted an advertisement for the vulcanizing business in which he will engage at 272 Pike Street, Covington, and where he desires his numerous Boone county friends to call on him when wanting anything in his line.

The roads were washed badly by the heavy rains of last Tuesday night. At the bridge on the Burlington and Petersburg pike some of the approach on the west side was damaged so badly that crossing it was dangerous.

How about those potatoes you planted about ten days or two weeks ago?

Universal Training.

No intelligent citizen in this country desires militarism. That is the term applied by all those who oppose universal military training to every effort to create a great citizen army. They fail to heed or understand the bitterness of the men who fought in the recent war when they protest against the probability of again having to bear the burden of the nation's defense and do battle for its principles. They are not impressed by the indorsements of the most distinguished physicians of the country, who urge upon Congress that universal training be incorporated as a basic principle of all future army legislation. They seem to have been successful in this opposition. But history abounds with the stories of Pyrrhic victories. May not this be another? The proposed substitute for training may well prove not only inefficient, but more costly as well.

Before 1911 "they" told us that we did not need to prepare; that there was no chance that we might become involved in the show overseas. They told us many things which subsequently proved to be untrue; which were responsible for grievous loss of lives and treasure. And now again we hear that we do not need this sort of service; that war is going to end; that we are safe in any event. Are these statements and conclusions true?

Up to the present, at least, we have been at war with Germany. Let us for a moment look abroad. Never in human history since the time of Tibullus was earth so endangered as now. Behold France on the soil of Germany, no matter how or why. The sun banner is flying over Russian territory; at the far north, Bolshevism is overruning the barriers of Western Europe. Is it going to be confined by the peaceful piffles of pacifists? What is going on yonder in Ireland, in the Ruhr, in Poland, in Turkey, in the Caucasus, in Italy, in Asia Minor? What is wrong in Egypt? In Jerusalem?

Is this country so secure, so established, so isolated that it cannot be affected by the reactions of practically universal conflict which now is raging throughout the earth? They tell us so. But it seems to many thoughtful people that neither religion nor leagues of nations nor any other device yet proposed by man is sufficiently powerful to banish war and the thoughts of war from the hearts of men. Every member, practically, of the League of Nations seems to be more or less actively engaged in a shameless game of grab. Populations are being exterminated, stirred by the poison which inspires the lust to kill.

Here in this splendid land of America, with every advantage, with every promise, with every member, practically, of the League of Nations seems to be more or less actively engaged in a shameless game of grab. Populations are being exterminated, stirred by the poison which inspires the lust to kill.

But hope shall not despair. As Ruskin truly has said: "Every great man is always being helped by everybody, for his gift is to get good out of all things and all persons." And there be many great men left to guide and labor for the higher destiny of humankind—yes, and multitudes of lesser men and women who forever will combat the evil and exalt the good in the battle for civilization.—Enquirer.

A call at the home of C. C. Roberts in Walton, last Sunday afternoon, found the Judge and his wife and daughter, Miss Sheba, enjoying the best of health. Judge Roberts health has improved wonderfully since he left Burlington and he is in fine spirits. County Clerk W. R. Rogers had gone there the afternoon before to spend a few weeks and be more convenient to the city, to which place he has to go every few days to see his doctors. Mr. Rogers is improving but he shows plainly that he has been a great sufferer since he left home and went to the hospital for treatment. He will be some time before he recovers completely.

J. T. Dempsey from over on Mud Lick creek, was in Burlington one day last week, and the 1920 tobacco crop being under discussion, he remarked that no great effort was being made in his neighborhood to plant a large crop of the weed this year, that there appeared to be a tendency towards a reduction of the crop. He said the most of his neighbors are having splendid luck with their land and that these young animals are looking unusually well.

County Clerk W. R. Rogers was able to leave the hospital the latter part of last week and was taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. C. C. Roberts in Walton. Mr. Rogers has will be some time before he recovers completely.

It is hard to get all the people to agree on any subject. Some contend the fruit is all killed, some say it is partially destroyed while there are others who claim it is not hurt.

The Fiscal Court is being criticized pretty freely because of the purchase of the tractor to be used in road work.

Carry The Country With Cox

Cox Can Win

Kentucky Democrats, you are asked to send delegates to the San Francisco Convention pledged to nominate a man who can win.

That man is James M. Cox, Governor of Ohio.

Here is a candidate whose record as a vote-getter is known.

Three times he has been elected Governor of the normally Republican State of Ohio.

Twice he was elected to Congress by big majorities over strong opposition.

He has been a winner in business, too, by his own merit and courage.

There is nothing in his record that should alienate a single Democratic vote.

There is much in his record that will command thousands of Independent and Republican votes.

His popularity was a big factor in putting the pirate State of Ohio in the Democratic column in 1916.

Ohio's electoral votes are needed this year; he can swing them.

What other Democratic candidate can?

The Cox Movement in Kentucky is backed by citizens who see in the nomination of Governor Cox Democracy's best chance for victory in State and Nation.

It is simply an effort to put Kentucky Democracy behind the one man who can win in November and, to insure success, all factionalism should be avoided and representative Democrats of character, intelligence and independence should be elected as delegates.

Send Cox Delegates to the State Convention

Democrats, if you want a winner as your Presidential candidate, if you want to see Democracy triumphant, attend the mass conventions in your county seats at 2 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, May 1, and vote for delegates who will insist on a Cox delegation to the San Francisco Convention.

Women, who will cast their votes in November, are entitled to representation and are urged to attend these conventions.

GOV. JAMES M. COX OF OHIO

Born on a farm March 31, 1870.

Educated in country school and high school.

Worked as farmer boy, newsboy, printer's devil and reporter.

Owms and publishes Dayton Daily News and Springfield Daily News.

Elected to Congress in 1909 and 1911.

Elected Governor of Ohio in 1912, 1916 and 1918.

Cox Is Worthy

Kentucky Democrats, you are asked to send delegates to the Democratic National Convention instructed to nominate a man who is worthy to sit in the White House.

You are asked to use your influence for the nomination of a self-made man, one who personifies the best traditions of red-blooded Americanism.

—A man, who, born on a farm, without favoring conditions, has risen from newsboy and printer's "devil" to reporter, from reporter to editor and publisher of two great papers.

—A man, whose neighbors, who know him best, have called him three times to the highest office in their State.

—A man whom no interests have been able to swerve from what he considered to be his plain duty.

—A man who adjusts differences between capital and labor without resort to troops.

—A keen business man who says "profit-making is the result of conditions carrying opportunity, if not preference, to one individual or class over another."

—A normal American, neither reactionary nor radical, the kind of man who will restore normal conditions in a normal, American way.

Such a man is James M. Cox, the man who can win.

PRIGG INVESTIGATOR

Says a Few Profiteering Retailers Have Gone to Jail.

Washington, April 19.—Investigation of profiteering within the meaning of the Lever food control act probably will be completed within 30 days by the Department of Justice, Howard E. Figg, special assistant to the Attorney General, today told a Senate committee investigating shoe prices. Prosecutions will follow where facts disclosed warrant action, he said.

Approximately 200 arrests have been made in the Government's campaign against increasing prices, Mr. Figg said, and of those cases brought to trial about 85 per cent had resulted in convictions.

"How many have gone to jail?" inquired Senator Kenyon, Republican, of Iowa.

"Perhaps 25 or 30," said Mr. Figg.

Asked by Senator Kenyon whether or those jailed were "big or little profiteers," Mr. Figg said both kinds were represented. He added that there had been some 350 indictments and in 85 per cent of cases convictions had been obtained.

Asked if any tanners, manufacturers, or dealers in hides had been prosecuted, Mr. Figg said no action had been taken against that branch of the shoe industry, as prosecutions had been largely against retailers.

Mr. Figg explained that Fair Price Committee organizations have been set up in many states.

"I have heard that these committees frequently are composed of the very fellows who are doing the profiteering," said Senator Kenyon.

"I think that is a mistake," Mr. Figg replied.

Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Jr., had measles.

Tires for the Smaller Cars— Built With Goodyear Methods

In using its immense resources and inventive skill to build the highest relative value possible into tires, this company has never made its work more effective than in Goodyear Tires for the smaller cars.

These have the full advantages of Goodyear competence and care, plus the modern facilities of the factory we are devoting to the world's largest production of 30x3, 30x3 1/2, and 31x4-inch sizes.

The sum of this extraordinary effort is available to you, as the owner of a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell, or other car using these sizes, at the nearest Goodyear Service Station Dealer's place of business.

Go to this Service Station Dealer for these tires, and for Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes. He is ready to supply you.

30x3 1/2 Goodyear Double-Cure Fabric, A's Weather Tread..... $23.50
30x3 1/2 Goodyear Single-Cure Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread..... $21.50

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are thick, strong tubes that reinforce casings properly. Why risk a good casing with a cheap tube? Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost little more than tubes of less merit. 30x3 1/2 size in water—$4.50 proof bag.

Shall We Have a Ferry?

At the present time Lawrenceburg is without a ferry. This makes it very inconvenient for those who desire to come to Lawrenceburg from across the river. Sometime back the ferry boat, owned by Geo. W. Terrill, sunk, and with this loss Mr. Terrill does not feel like going ahead and putting in a new boat. This leaves our city in a bad way so far as Kentucky trade is concerned.

The question that now confronts the city is, Shall we let the trade from the other side, which belongs to us, pass up, or shall we get busy and locate another ferry. Surely there is a good opening here for some one. The ferry franchise can be had at the right kind of a price, and we understand that there is a good ferry boat that can be had up the river.

The city, especially the business interests, should not allow matters to stand as they are. There is much Boone county trade that could be brought to Lawrenceburg if a little "pep" is installed, and a proper effort is only put forth. Remember, if a thing is not worth going after it is not worth having.

A good ferry, either free, or at a liberal price, will be a great incentive towards making a greater Lawrenceburg. — Lawrenceburg Press.

Stricken People Aided.

Washington — The Government moved swiftly to aid the stricken peoples in the Middle West and Southern areas recently swept by tornadoes. Receipt of news of the damage done by the tornadoes was followed by the War Department quickly dispatching telegrams to mayors, postmasters and other officials of the stricken communities placing supplies at their disposal for the relief of the sufferers.

Healer Helped Them.

Georgetown — That the blessing of James Moore Hickson improved their health is the declaration of several Georgetownians who journeyed to Lexington to attend the mission conducted by the English healer. The healer, they say, claimed no supernatural power, but declared that spiritual healing dated back to early Christianity and that he discovered that he had the power.

Lawrenceburg — The Boone Bell is now in the hands of the Boone Bell Co. of Boone County, Ky. The bell was not to be used to sound the alarm of a fire, but to be used to call the people to church.

GET BUSY ON THAT GARDEN.

Cultivation of Vegetables Just as Important This Year as It Was Last Year.

With spring time we ought to have a revival of interest in gardens. Whatever the paragraphs may have said about war gardens, the fact is that they did a lot of good. We ought to have more of them this year than we ever had; there will be just as much need for them.

The war gardens did not receive the credit to which they were entitled. Few people appreciated just how much they helped the nation. Funny stories were told concerning them; facetious remarks were made in connection with those who undertook to grow a little food in the backyard. But every vegetable brought to maturity contributed just that much to cutting the cost of living for the producer.

There is no reason to believe that garden vegetables will be cheaper this year than they were last year. There is every indication in fact that they will be fully as high or higher. It is going to cost just as much to produce the vegetables; labor is no cheaper this spring than it was last spring—nor is anything else. So it will be well for people who have a plot of ground to begin figuring upon growing something upon it, and this is the season to do the figuring.—Columbus Dispatch.

Judging from reports the fruit crop has been damaged worse in some localities than in others, and as the reports now stand there is no reason to believe that the crop will be as good as the reports of the fruit crop. Some of the fruit has been killed by the recent cold snap.

Tobacco Industry In Flourishing Condition.

The tobacco manufacturing industry of the United States, judged by the statistics representing the production in the various lines for the first month of the current year, is in a flourishing condition at the present time. Every branch of the industry shows an increase in output compared with the corresponding month last year, with the single exception of small cigars, and the Government's collections from the sale of revenue stamps were exceeded but twice previously, last October and November respectively. Cigarettes continue to lead the industry in output and the January record indicates that production tends steadily upward. The internal revenue collections during Jan. from cigarette sources constituted nearly half the total amount collected from all sources and exceeded the revenue from large cigars and manufactured tobacco. The prediction is freely made in tobacco circles that production in all lines will continue to mount during 1920, which is confidently expected to be a banner year.

Let's Have a Ferry.

Kentucky people living across the river from Lawrenceburg and above this city now have to go to Anderson Ferry or Aurora to cross to spend their money on this side, and as the Aurora ferry is out of commission about as much as Lawrenceburg ferry, that sends them on to Rising Sun—a fine predicament.

Now, can't the business men of Lawrenceburg interest some good men, say like Charles Junker, in putting in a good ferry and being a boon county patronage to this city? Have a meeting and get busy.—Lawrenceburg Register.

THE FINE BELGIAN DRAFT STALLION

Season
1920

Season
1920

Don DeGozee

The Belgian Draft Stallion, foaled in 1908, will make the present season at my stable one-half mile from Big Bone Baptist church, Boone county, Ky., at $10 to insure a colt, money due when the fact is known, the mare is parted with or leaves the county.

DESCRIPTION AND PEDIGREE:

DON DEGOZEE, despite his great size and weight, is well balanced throughout, perfectly proportioned and symmetrically built. He has a light action as a stallion of much smaller type, and his disposition is much better than is usually found in horses of blood strains. He is a beautiful dark brown, 17 hands high, weighs 1800 pounds, has a broad foot, heavy bone, fine style and action. This great breed of draft horses is especially known for better action than any other draft horse, heavy, good bone, good hoofs and as kind, gentle workers.

DON DEGOZEE'S dam, Della Wire, brown mare, the great draft show mare of Campbell county, Kentucky, sired by Bayard DeGozee 2188, whose Belgium Stud Book number is 21670, bred by Mr. Bailleux E. of Gozee, sired by Morton (312), by Brilliant (709), out of Coatte (703), dam of Catharine DeGozee (21085), she by Lion (766) out of Marie (2421).

Great care will be taken to prevent accidents but I will not be responsible should any occur.

THE LARGE BONE SURE-BREEDING JACK,

MIKE

Will make the season at the same time and place and on the same terms.

MIKE is 15 1/2 hands high, 7 years old next August, is black with white points, is from the famous Bodie Jack, and is the best Mule getter in Kentucky, his colts having sold as high as $120.00 at weaning time.

Kentucky Democrats, You Are Entitled to Express Your Preference

If you have a choice for the Democratic nomination for President, you are entitled to express it, Kentucky Democrats.

But you have but one chance to do so. You have been called to meet in mass conventions in your county seats at 2 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, May 1, for the purpose of registering your choice.

Neglect the opportunity thus offered, send your county delegates without instructions, and your one chance to exercise your sovereign right of saying who will be your standard-bearer in November has slipped away.

Exercise Your Prerogative

WILL you delegate your franchise to a few men in the crisis which confronts your party and your country or will you assert your prerogative as a citizen and a Democrat to choose your leader?

That you may be able to register your choice intelligently these facts about the candidate Ohio Democracy has put forward, as a man whom the Genius of America has trained for just this hour, are presented.

A Typically American Career

BORN on a farm "of poor but honest parents," James M. Cox became a teacher, then newspaper reporter, then an editor, then secretary to a Congressman, then owner of a prosperous newspaper property, then a member of Congress, and then Governor of Ohio—the only Democrat ever elected to that office three times.

Always On the Square

ASK any union labor leader about Governor Cox and he will tell you that no man or group control him, that he is always on the square.

Ask the business men of Ohio and they will tell you that he understands business problems and that he has courage and ability for any emergency.

Ohio's Votes Are Needed

OHIO's electoral votes are needed this year; Cox can swing them for Democracy.

Go to the mass convention in your county seat at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, May 1, and select as your delegates representative forward-looking Democrats, who hold good government and the interest of the party paramount to all else, and instruct them to support the candidacy of Governor James M. Cox.

Women are entitled to representation and to express their preference and are urged to attend the convention.

Let the country know where Kentucky Democracy stands.

WHAT IS DONE WITH THE MONEY?—QUERY

Salvation Army Shows How More Than $14,000,000 Is Spent Annually in the United States.

"What is done with the money?" That is one of the first questions put to workers in the Salvation Army's second Home Service Campaign which will reach its culmination during the period May 10-20 when the drive will be fully on.

It is a legitimate question and one which the officers of this great organization are eager to answer because it shows the splendid work done.

According to the official financial audit just made public at the national headquarters in New York City, there had been spent to January 31, 1924, more than $13,000,000, with a remainder on hand for the four months to May 31 of over $9,000,000.

Nearly a million and a half dollars were spent to repatriate the 100 corps of the Army in all parts of the United States. This was for rental of halls, etc., work for children and young people, cost of food relief and incidental expenses, stationery, etc., and officers' salaries. This last was not so large an item as might be expected as not a single officer in the Salvation Army has a salary sufficiently large to call for the payment of an income tax.

Another million and a half was spent by 31 provincial and divisional headquarters for fresh air farms and camps, special relief work, etc. Nearly $200,000 was used for maintaining 25 rescue homes and maternity hospitals, a general hospital and one for children, three children's homes and 11 slum settlements and nurseries and $400,000 for the pension fund for aged or disabled officers.

The Salvation Army believes in paying its debts as quickly as possible. During the year mortgages to the amount of nearly $2,000,000 were paid off.

To show how fast the work of the Salvation Army is developing, it is only necessary to point to the fact that over $7,000,000 was spent on new buildings during the year.

AMERICAN LEGION HEAD GIVES BOOST

Says Soldiers Were Strong For the Salvation Army in France During the War and Since.

No organization that saw service with the American soldiers in the great world war is dearer to the hearts of the men than the Salvation Army, according to Franklin D'Olier, National Commander of the American Legion. In a recent statement regarding the Salvation Army's second Home Service Fund campaign, May 10-20, Commander D'Olier said:

"The American people owe a great debt of gratitude to the Salvation Army, and just how great this debt is they have only to ask their sons, brothers and husbands who faced death in the trenches on the battlefields of France. Every man who wore the American uniform is fully aware of the manner in which the soldiers of the Salvation Army suffered all sorts of privations, faced the danger of battle and entirely forgot themselves in order to care for the soldiers fighting for the cause of liberty and humanity.

"There is not an ex-serviceman who is not glad to do whatever he can to help the Salvation Army, and I feel safe in saying that the people of this country will be satisfied to take the word of those who fought in France that the Salvation Army is an organization that deserves the respect of the American people.

"The service of the Salvation Army during the war is but an example of the noble work these men and women have been doing for years among those who needed their services, and today they are carrying on a great work among suffering humanity throughout the world, just as they have in years gone by and just as they will in years to come.

"The campaign that the Army is to put on at an early date is one that I am sure everyone will lend support to. You may rest assured that wherever you find an ex-serviceman you find a friend of the Salvation Army. There were several organizations that did great work with the troops, but none of them excelled the Salvation Army, and none of them occupy a warmer place in the hearts of the American ex-servicemen than the Salvation Army."

Each of the last five Presidents of the United States has seen fit publicly to invite the attention of the nation to the Salvation Army and its work for "the betterment of humanity and the making of bad citizens into good ones," as President Wilson put it. President Roosevelt praised the Army for "working effectively in those dark regions where, save for its force, evil is powerful." President Taft asserted that its "practical methods of charity are of the highest usefulness."

The accounts of the Salvation Army are audited regularly and at frequent intervals. Every cent expended goes for the needy. The Army furnished $200,000 meals free to penniless persons in the United States last year. Feeding the hungry is only one of its many activities.

School Notes.

The K. E. A. was the largest in number that has been held. Many thought it the best. We were not able to find anything startling or novel in the program. There was much enthusiasm in the assembly, brought out by the "increase pay" for teachers, which found a place in every speech or address made in the general sessions, as well as in many departmental meetings.

The most important personage at the meeting was our new State Superintendent, who seems to be the right man in the right place; quite earnest, enthusiastic, energetic and industrious. He was active at all times. His program, as we caught from his talks, is more for teachers and a proportional increase in salary and efficiency from teachers, viz: Twenty days of active teaching, not including holidays, make a month; at least six hours of ACTUAL TEACHING shall be a day. No more second class certificates issued; children must attend school not only three days a week, but keep within the legal requirements, but every day until the eighth grade is completed.

Consolidation of schools was advocated on all sides; this seemed to be the remedy for many evils.

The examination for Common School graduation will take place May 11 and 12th, and the examination for Teachers Certificates, both colored and white, will be held May 21st and 22nd.

The primary contest for the School for Burlington, Petersburg, Hebron, and Bellevue will be held at Burlington, April 30th, and at the same time at Florence for the Union, Walton and Florence schools. The final will be held at Verona on May 7th.

The Co. Superintendents' meeting for the Eastern Division of the State will be held at Richmond May 5th, 6th and 7th. We shall be out of the county at that time and in attendance at that meeting.

Commencement season for High Schools is now approaching and all will be gayety and pleasure for the remainder of the session. The first commencement will be at Verona April 29. Others follow.

J. C. GORDON, Supt.

Grayson. — Winfield Scott, 65, president of the Citizens' Bank, died in his chair while presiding at a directors' meeting.

Maysville.—James Boone, 8, son of Daniel Boone, direct descendant of the great pioneer, was drowned when he fell into an open sewer. The water was only ten inches deep.

Harrodsburg.—A burglar in the home of Mrs. Bettie Henderson, widow, fled when she rushed into with a butcher knife. Mrs. Henderson had sold hogs, and it is presumed the thief was after the money.

Louisville.—Elsie Janis, actress, offered a reward for recovery of jewelry valued at $40,000, stolen when her suite at the Seelbach Hotel was robbed Saturday. One string of pearls valued at $10,000, a pearl ring valued at $8,000 and two gold medals received from soldiers in France, were included in the loss.

Flemingsburg.—John Conley, 80, is dead at his home near Filson. He kept a vow never to vote after the negro was given the ballot. He wanted to vote for Grover Cleveland, but his pledge prevented. Conley's mother lived within one mile of the Maysville and Mt. Sterling turnpike for over 50 years but never saw it.

Hopkinsville.—Bankers of the Black-Back will meet at Clarksville, Tenn., to arrange for financing the next tobacco crop. Bankers and tobacco growers are in an effort to keep up the price.

Dawson Springs.—J. T. Alexander Jr., son of J. T. Alexander Sr., of Madisonville, is the youngest assistant bank cashier in the United States.

Whitesburg.—Edith Sargent, 17, denied she had loved the young mountaineer who was slain by her father, when Uriah Bates and his brother, Bobby, went on trial for the murder of Elijah Sargent. Sargent was indicted two days after Uriah Bates was indicted on a charge of perjury in connection with getting a marriage license to wed the girl. He gave her age as 22.

Plant Beds.

Reports received at the offices of the Cincinnati Tobacco Warehouse Company and the Kenton warehouses in Covington from the country districts during the past week indicate considerable interference with plant beds because of the heavy rains. Not nearly as much work has been done on plant beds as usual at this time of the year, and it is freely predicted that practically the entire burley crop will go into the field extremely late. The high prices received throughout the burley boom last season early in the sales season, it is said, led to preparation for a rather extensive crop in 1924, but the heavy slump in the markets during February and March had a tendency to discourage growers in certain sections, especially where marketing was delayed until the end of the season when prices were materially off. Even with the blighting weather during the transplanting time it is believed that the average in the burley belt of Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and West Virginia will not be larger than that of last year.

"QUALITY AND PRICE"

FOR WHAT?

Congressman Britton, of the House Naval Affairs Committee, after much investigation and aided by Navy Department experts, is able to announce that by 1923 the U. S. Navy will be supreme on the seas.

In weight of broadside projectiles, Uncle Sam will have 588,833 pounds, as against Great Britain's 181,080. In total of main battery guns Uncle Sam will have 340, as against Great Britain's 314. And so forth.

Supremacy on the seas! For what? To kill!

The smoke still clings over the battlefields, the dead are scarcely laid in their graves, the crippled have hardly been provided with crutches, millions of the helpless are still homeless and America rises to proudly boast that she's about to acquire the supreme power to kill!

It is the same America which, three years ago, offered ten millions of her young men and all her resources to the cause of putting down war, preventing any nation from dominating the world by force of arms.

America engaged in the world's war to secure and perpetuate world peace. Her sole spoils were to be abolition of militarism and all which that means. Neglecting her positive power as a victor and devoting herself to the study of and quarreling over dreams, she has permitted herself to be defrauded of her spoils.

Instead of letting Foch impose and complete peace with the Germans in 1918, she has relied upon diplomacy, impossible visions of partizan politics, chatter and "conversations."

The result is that the cause for which she fought and suffered has been lost in the fog, there is no real peace anywhere, and America feels the necessity of becoming the supreme one in the business of making other wars.

But let us not boast too early over our high standing as killers. Great Britain will not surrender her naval supremacy until she has sweated the last shilling of tax money out of her masses. Also, Japan is no mean candidate for the supremacy. The world thought it was going to shake off its war parasites and turn to unprecedented production of wheat, fuel, wool and cotton.

But, verily, a new day has dawned for the steel plate and cannon maker—Cincinnati Post.

HANDS, ARMS, LIMBS ASLEEP

And Was Run-Down, Weak and Nervous, Says Florida Lady. Five Bottles of Cardui Made Her Well.

Kathleen, Fla.—Mrs. Dallas Prime, of this place, says: "After the birth of my last child... I felt very much run-down and weakened, so much that I could hardly do anything at all. I was so awfully nervous that I could scarcely endure the least noise. My condition was getting worse all the time."

I knew I must have some relief or I would soon be in the bed and in a serious condition for I felt so badly and was so nervous and weak I could hardly live. My husband asked Dr. about my taking Cardui. He said, 'It's a good medicine, and good for that trouble,' so he got me 5 bottles. After about the second bottle I felt greatly improved... before taking it my limbs and hands and arms would go to sleep. After taking it, however, this poor circulation disappeared. My strength came back to me and I was soon on the road to health. After the use of about 5 bottles, I could do all my house-work and attend to my six children besides."

You can feel safe in giving Cardui a thorough trial for your trouble. It contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs, but is composed of mild, vegetable, medicinal ingredients with no bad after-effects. Thousands of women have voluntarily written, telling of the good Cardui has done them. It should help you, too. Try it.

STRIKE EFFECTS

GENERAL BUSINESS

New York.—There are many aspects of the general labor situation, as revealed during the strikes of the railway terminal workers during the last fortnight, which have claimed and are still claiming the attention of different branches of the business community. Some of these are quite obvious, while others are not so apparent at first glance. The interruption of deliveries of all kinds of goods, from the fuel that feeds the furnaces of the mills and workshops to the perishable and other foods needed in crowded centers of population, are in the first class. Aside from the annoyance and privation so occasioned, there is also the result, in some instances, of increasing the cost of living by making necessities scarcer, while in other cases the prices of articles are reduced because they can not be delivered in time for the seasonal trade for which they are needed. Such conditions add materially to the risks of doing business, which under present circumstances are plentiful enough without them, and are not calculated to inspire confidence or encourage enterprise.

In the mills and factories themselves the failure to obtain raw materials leads to the slackening or stopping of production, while the inability to send out finished products means added carrying charges and disputes with buyers over attempted cancellations. The enforced idleness of workers is also a serious matter. It is probable that those kept from labor during the last week numbered twenty times as many as those who were on strike, and the lessened purchasing power of those thus losing wages is a real factor in curtailing consumer buying. Viewed from another angle, the situation has a deeper and more far-reaching significance. The great and needless annoyance caused the general public has called forth a resentment which is bound to find expression in a resistance to future labor demands and in the support of those employers who make such resistance. People in general, who are not affiliated with organized labor or organized capital are becoming tired of being exploited by each and are resenting being made the target for the missiles of both. They make up the bulk of the population of the country, and their view is public opinion. Those who expected some marked results from the official measures to reduce the cost of living have reason to feel disappointed at the results so far obtained. Little has come from the prosecutions begun spasmodically in different portions of the country against one retailer or another for excessive charging.

One Effect of the Bonus.

The great majority of us Americans do not take a rule applied directly the result of a governmental action as it affects the individual. The movement inaugurated and advocated principally by self-seeking politicians to pay a bonus that in the aggregate will amount to billions of dollars, has not received the consideration of the public. It would receive if the public realized fully what the payment of that bonus will mean. The amount advocated by the members of the Senate and the House of Representatives who seek thru the granting of this bonus to obtain the soldier vote, is in itself large. But it does not by any means measure the full amount the public will pay. Every holder of a government bond or of any other interest-paying security will be more or less affected by the granting of this bonus. If the hundreds of millions necessary to pay the bonus are raised by the imposition of new taxes the cost of living will inevitably increase. If those hundreds of millions are raised by the sales of government bonds the price of government securities will be depressed and all other interest-bearing securities will depreciate, and taxes will have to be levied to raise the interest and provide for the ultimate redemption of the bonds.

The price of Liberty Bonds have already reflected in a moderate degree the possibility of the issue of additional bonds. Some of these government issues for the first time in half a century are selling on a six per cent basis. Four and three-quarter Liberty notes have sold on more than a six per cent basis. Four and one-quarter Liberty bonds have sold at 86, which means a loss of $14 on every $100 bond which is sold at that price by the original subscriber.

It is predicted, and seems inevitable, that if Congress yields to the solicitation of those who seek to purchase the soldier vote by giving a bonus that is not sought or desired by a large proportion of the men who served in the war, the price of the bonds already issued will depreciate further. And as the government bond depreciates it is of course inevitable that other interest-bearing securities will depreciate. Who can obtain six per cent on a bond issued by the U. S. government, the best security in the world, it is only natural that other securities should be sold to purchase the bond of the United States.

So the prospect of this bonus urged by the politicians in and out of Congress, has already depreciated the value of government securities far below what was anticipated. The granting of the bonus would depreciate those securities still more affecting directly, therefore, every holder of any form of securities. Lexington florist.

Mayfield.—At the First Baptist church 75 people who had made professions at the revival were baptized by Dr. Gillon in one hour and five minutes, which is said to set a record for speed.

Lexington.—Correlations suffered by two-year old Koscoe Combs, son of Dr. R. C. Combs, College Hill, revealed that the child's brain had been pierced by a nail on which it had fallen.

Augusta.—Gov. Morrow has appointed Everett Pfanstiel, of Brookville, to fill the vacancy in the office of County Engineer, created by the death of Wm. H. Gibson. Judge Pfanstiel is about 22 years of age, has taught school for several terms, and served in Europe during the late war.

Frankfort.—Reports from county assessors for 1920 taxes show a decrease of both tax and assessed value. Of this amount $38,000,000 were lost in the distribution of the Bingham estate. Equalization proceedings of the Tax Commission are expected to make up much of this decrease in raising assessments of many counties, and in the discovery of intangible property omitted from assessment. Reports of the county assessors for 1919 made a total of $1,780,083,477 and for 1920, less Perry county, $1,713,132,334. The 1919 assessment for Perry county was $8,219,897.

Tie Yourself to Your Community

Down on a small Tennessee farm there is a young man who is a most excellent tenant. He has farmed the same piece of land for several years, always making a fair profit for himself and the owner. He began when his family numbered only himself and his energetic young wife. Now there are four to be cared for, and he must begin to broaden his plans.

He was raised in the community. He likes the people there and they like him. It would be a calamity both ways if he were to go away from it. This he will almost inevitably do sooner or later if he remains a tenant.

He has sensibly decided that the thing for him to do is to buy a place of his own. He will have to go in debt for most of it and land is high. But he figures that he can do it, and that he will profit by the change.

As soon as he moves into his own house and begins to plow his own land, his attitude toward the community and its attitude toward him will sensibly change. Not that people will like him any better; they have watched him grow up and he is already one of them, but so far he has been on the unflattering side of the line. As a landholding citizen he becomes a permanent asset and a community force. From that day on he is to be reckoned with in all affairs that affect neighborhood well-being.

He will see things differently, too. As a tenant he has always in his subconscious mind a comparison of his present condition and location with what he might find elsewhere. The idea of better things where he has not been so strong as the idea of going where they are already better. As a farm owner, he will see his own gain in the improvement of his farm, of his community and of his surroundings in general. He will begin to build.

The landholder's relationship toward his own farm is the natural and normal one. The tenant system is always more or less artificial. It is necessary in many cases, and is often mutually profitable, but unless a man has more than his bare subsistence and hardship there is no excuse for his remaining in the tenant class all his life. Even where land is rather too high and expenses are equally inflated there is almost always more profit in buying than in renting. This is not true, of course, in cases where land prices are far beyond agricultural values, but those cases are the exception and not the rule.

We are always glad to see a young man tie himself to his community in interest and affection by buying a home of his own. To say nothing of his financial profits, there is a lot to be gained. —Southern Agriculturist.

Consumer and Producer.

The consumer likes to deal with the producer when it is made convenient for him to do so and when he feels assured of getting a square deal. The parcel post and such means of rapid transportation as the automobile and the truck are all the time making direct marketing of farm products more simple and less expensive. What is needed now is active co-operation on the part of both producers and consumers as to make possible the direct marketing of farm products in large quantities. It just naturally costs more, as a rule, to market things in small quantities than in large, and when direct marketing is simply a deal between two individuals the cost of the transaction is so great in many cases as to leave almost nothing over the handling of the same products through the usual channels. Co-operation is the way out, in these cases, as in many others. —Southern Agriculturist.

A mass convention will be held at 2 p. m. in Burlington on Saturday May 1st to select delegates to attend the Democratic State Convention at Louisville on the 4th day of May 1920.

GARNETT W. TOLIN,
County Chairman.

Mrs. M. A. Yelton Dead.

A pall of gloom was cast over Burlington, Wednesday morning when it became known that Mrs. M. A. Yelton had died Tuesday night. Mrs. Yelton went to Christ Hospital, Cincinnati, about ten days ago where she was operated on for appendicitis. For a few days it was thought she was getting along nicely, but a week later for the worse and last Monday night pneumonia developed and in her weakened condition it soon resulted in death. Mrs. Yelton is survived by her husband, Dr. M. A. Yelton, and two children, a son, Alexander, and a daughter, Virginia, aged about thirteen and nine years respectively. Mrs. Yelton's relatives, of which she has a large number, mostly reside in Pendleton and Bracken counties. Dr. Yelton and his wife have resided in Burlington for eight or nine years, and Mrs. Yelton was a lady very much admired by all who knew her. At the time the Recorder went to press funeral arrangements had not been announced.

William E. Garnett Dead.

William E. Garnett, of Limburg, died last Monday morning following a lingering illness said to be cancer of the stomach. The funeral services were conducted at Hopeful church yesterday, Wednesday, at 11 o'clock, by Rev. Royer, after which the remains were interred in Hopeful cemetery. Philip Taliaferro, of Erlanger, had charge of the funeral. Mr. Garnett was a son of Charles R. Garnett, of Hebron, and was the most estimable neighbor and citizen and his death is deplored by all who knew him. He is survived by his wife, who was a daughter of the late John P. Utz, and one son, Earl Garnett, of Ludlow, who is engaged in the U. S. mail service.

Sheep raisers are not responsible for the high cost of clothing, according to Claude Harper, Purdue university sheep specialist, and also secretary of the Indiana Sheep Breeders' and Feeders' association, who has issued a statement to the effect that the farmer receives only $5.85 for enough wool to make a suit for a man weighing 175 pounds.

County Clerk W. R. Rogers' eye is improving and he hopes to be able to return home in a week or so. It will be some time before he can do any work in his office, but that is being looked after in a very satisfactory manner by his efficient deputy, his sister, Miss Lizzie Rogers and his niece Mrs. Menter Martin.

John Smith, of Bellevue, spent last Monday afternoon in Burlington, having come out with his wife and Mrs. James Smith, who visited the dentist. Being asked about the coming tobacco crop he replied there would be plenty of the weed planted as always has been the case.

The B. H. S. Class in Expression, taught by Miss Mattie Kiechlich, will give a recital at Library Hall, May 28th, 1920, at 8 o'clock p. m. Admission, children under 12 years, 15 cents; Adults, 25 cents; Reserved seats 35 cents. Tickets on sale at Dudley Blythe's store May 28th.

William Walton's auto was badly damaged last Saturday afternoon in Covington when it was struck by a street car. It is said by those who saw the accident that it was purely the fault of the street car.

Supt. J. C. Gordon enjoyed the K. E. A. at Louisville last week, but came home very hoarse, owing, probably to the several big speeches he delivered during the session.

William Aylor, of McVie neighborhood, is said to be very sick. His brother James, of Big Bone neighborhood, passed thru Burlington, Tuesday, enroute to visit him.

Sol Long, who is onto the jitney business between Florence and the car line all the time, was a business visitor to Burlington, Tuesday, and made the Recorder a call.

Hear that M. L. Riddell, who closed out his store in Burlington some time since, is traveling for the Globe Soap Co., his territory being Northern Indiana.

Jailer Fowler gave the court house yard its first 1920 clipping last Tuesday afternoon. He went up against the lawn mower with considerable win.

The Sixth Annual Commencement of Bellevue High School will be held on the 7th inst., when an interesting program will be rendered.

Hubert Bachelor, who resides two or three miles south of Burlington, is very ill of pneumonia.

Cave Clorn, of Bullittsville, has gone to Cold Springs, Campbell county, to engage in business.

P. J. Allen, of Point Pleasant neighborhood, made the Recorder a brief call last Tuesday.

Warren Garnett, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kirkpatrick, is quite sick.

NOTICE, BOYS AND GIRLS.

The American Jersey Cattle Club has set aside $2500 for the purpose of fostering boys and girls calf clubs throughout the country, this money to be divided among the first 33 clubs to be organized, the money to be used as the club thinks best.

The conditions are, that the club shall consist of at least 20 members each to comprise a registered Jersey calf. In order that the boys and girls of Boone County avail themselves of this opportunity to organize and participate in this prize money, the Boone County Jersey Cattle Club has called a meeting at Burlington, on Monday, May 3rd, to complete the organization of a calf club. Commenced by Mr. W. D. Sutton, our county agent.

It is desired that every boy and girl who has already joined as well as those who have not, and are interested, together with their parents to be present at this meeting. O. C. HAFER.

Cassius N. Cropper Dead.

Cassius N. Cropper, 73, a native of this county and a son of the late P. W. Cropper, died suddenly in the office of his doctor in Louisville last Friday. Mr. Cropper had been in feeble health for several years. His wife has been dead many years and he was making his home with his only child, Mrs. Callie Green. Mr. Cropper had been a citizen of Louisville for forty years or more, and was one of the city's prominent business men until his health failed him. He was a most companionable gentleman and had a large circle of friends both in this county and in Louisville. He was a member of the Masonic order, having been made a Mason in Burlington lodge about 40 years ago and at the time of his death he had been a member of the Louisville lodge for 30 years. The remains were interred in Cave Hill cemetery.

Mr. Cropper was one of a family of six children, two of whom, Hubert Cropper, of Bullittsville, this county, and Mrs. Laura Gaines of Richmond, Madison county, survive.

Smaller Cars-and the World's Most Popular Tires

No tires bearing the Goodyear name, not even the famous Goodyear Cords which equip the world's highest-priced cars, embody a higher relative value than do Goodyear Tires in the 30x3-, 30x3½-, and 31x4-inch sizes.

In these tires owners of Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell and other cars taking the above sizes are afforded a measure of performance and service such as only the world's largest tire factory devoted to these sizes can supply.

All that this company's experience and methods have accomplished in these tires is available to you now at the nearest Goodyear Service Station.

Go to this Service Station Dealer for these tires, and for Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes. He has them.

30 x 3½ Goodyear Double-Cure Fabric, All-Weather Tread. $23.50
30 x 3½ Goodyear Single-Cure Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread. $21.50

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are thick, strong tubes that reinforce casings properly. Why risk a good casing with a cheap tube? Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost little more than tubes of less merit. 30x3½ size in water-proof bag $4.50

SILENT TEAS FOR WOMEN.

A dispatch from England announces that the experiment of silent teas for women is being tried under the auspices of the wife of a distinguished church official in that country. At these teas, it appears, there is no conversation, but sacred music is played. The results are understood to have been thus far indifferent.

What is a tea party for if not to afford the opportunity for cheerful loquacity? According to one epigram maker, this far-famed afternoon function is sufficient to describe by the four words, "giggles, gabble and gits." That is not quite fair; the tea drinking itself is an important part of the ceremony; but it is safe to say that silent teas will not become generally popular-even if pieced out with sacred music or any other kind.

LOWER PRICED SHOES.

Boston, April 25.-As time goes by it is more and more evident that buyers are concentrating on medium grade shoes for next fall. Many manufacturers have realized right along that the demand for the highest grade, or rather for the highest priced shoe, would not last forever and that sooner or later the public would insist upon a substantial and stylish article to be had at a moderate price.

Consequently the firms who made preparations for the showing of men's and women's shoes to retail up to $12 a pair are receiving satisfactory business for next fall, while those whose shoes are to be rebated at higher figures complain about the volume of orders. The larger demand for men's work shoes is also an illustration of how the public changes its mind and goes from free spending to economy.

The Herald asked a well known stockman what was the cause of the death of milk cows in Mercer county. He said such was not only the case locally, but it was the situation throughout the country due to the shipping of calves a few weeks old to the city to be butchered for veal. He said it would be hard to find a 7-week-old calf in Mercer, and added that he has seen some of the prettiest Jersey calves shipped to market that he ever saw with red eyes on.-Harrisburg Herald.

Tobacco plants will be ready for setting before the farmers have the ground ready to transplant them.

THE FINE BELGIAN DRAFT STALLION

Season 1920

Season 1920

Don DeGozee

The Belgian Draft Stallion, foaled in 1908, will make the present season at my stable one-half mile from Big Bone Baptist church, Boone county, Ky., at $10 to insure a colt, money due when the fact is known, the mare is parted with or leaves the county.

DESCRIPTION AND PEDIGREE:

DON DEGOZEE, despite his great size and weight, is well balanced throughout, perfectly proportioned and symmetrically built. He has as light action as a stallion of much smaller type, and his disposition is much better than is usually found in horses of blood strains. He is a beautiful dark brown, 17 hands high, weighs 1800 pounds, has a broad foot, heavy bone, fine style and action. This great breed of draft horses is especially known for better action than any other draft horse, heavy, good bone, good hoofs and as kind, gentle workers.

DON DEGOZEE'S dam, Della Wire, brown mare, the great draft show mare of Campbell county, Kentucky, sired by Bayard DeGozee 2188, whose Belgium Stud Book number is 21670, bred by Mr. Bailleux E. of Gooze, sired by Morton (312), by Brilliant (709), out of Coatte (703), dam of Catharine DeGozee (21085), she by Lion (766) out of Marie (2421).

Great care will be taken to prevent accidents but I will not be responsible should any occur.

THE LARGE BONE SURE-BREEDING JACK,

MIKE

Will make the season at the same time and place and on the same terms.

MIKE is 15½ hands high, 7 years old next August, is black with white points, is from the famous Bodie Jack, and is the best Mule getter in Kentucky, his colts having sold as high as $120.00 at weaning time.

Card of Thanks—We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to our many friends, relatives and neighbors for their kindness and words of sympathy extended to us during the sickness and death of our dear husband and father, Wm. E. Garnett. Also we thank Bro. Royer, the choir and Mr. Tallaferr, for the efficient manner in which the funeral was conducted.

The bereaved wife and Son.

Andy Muntz, of the North Bend neighborhood, was a caller at this office last Saturday afternoon. A very large area of Mr. Muntz's farm was submerged by the river in April and, as a result, his farm work has been greatly delayed and he was very anxious to dispose of his plowing without further delay.

A pretty good sized crowd of lively bidders attended the sale of Jerry Underhill last Saturday afternoon and remarkably good prices prevailed. Old bacon sold at 45 cents and honey 55 cents a pound, a cow said to be 13 years old brought $110.

Mrs. B. F. Bedinger, May Ella Bedinger and Geo. Gaines Bedinger, of Walton, have returned home from Jensen, Florida, where they visited Mrs. Bedinger's father, Mr. Geo. Gaines, formerly of Boone county.

Edgar C. Riley, of Petersburg precinct, reports he has seven acres of potatoes coming up nicely. He began breaking corn land last Monday, starting a tractor and a three horse plow.

Judge Gaines has been designated by Gov. Morrow as a Special Judge to take a term of circuit court at Pikeville, Bell county, next week, to which place he will go next Sunday.

The game of ball at Hebron, last Saturday afternoon, was won by Petersburg, the score being Petersburg 15 hits, 15 runs, 15 errors; Hebron, 3 hits, 4 runs, 37 errors. A very exciting contest.

Miss Kathryn Sullivan, nurse at Deaconess hospital, Cincinnati, was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Woodie Sullivan, of Com mission neighborhood, last Saturday night and Sunday.

Miss Sarah Crisler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Crisler, nurse at Deaconess hospital, Cincinnati, has been visiting her parents several days, during which she had measles.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Espenach, of Covington, were guests of Mrs. Espenach's grandmother and uncle, Mrs. W. P. Sullivan and son, Bert, last Saturday night and Sunday.

Wayne Phillips, of Dearborn, Indiana, came over last week to spend a few days with his Kentucky relatives and friends. He is well pleased with his new home.

El Cox, of Petersburg, precinct, had several acres of corn planted last week. He cultivates sandy land and never allows the season to get ahead of him.

John Cloud and Ed. Ernst, of Hebron, old time fans, are full of base ball pep yet, as demonstrated by the game at Hebron, last Saturday afternoon.

W. W. Grimsley, W. F. Moore and Nicholas Sanning, of Walton, came over last Saturday afternoon to attend the county Democratic convention.

Joe Huey has a new one ton Chevrolet truck equipped with pneumatic tires. He bought it of Lawrence Chambers, agent, Petersburg.

J. H. Huey and family, of North Bend neighborhood, and Woodie Sullivan and family, were Sunday guests at A. C. Porters.

Several members of Burlington Masonic Lodge attended the Masonic lodge meeting at McVie, last Saturday night.

Some farmers have their tobacco ground broken this year, before they had turned a furrow for corn.

Dr. S. B. Nunnally, of Bullittsville, made several professional calls in Burlington last week.

Ten of Charles Rirkles family had measles, nine of them being down at same time with it.

Hubert White has a new Ford touring car. It is equipped with stinger and lights.

Elmer Kirkpatrick's little son, Warren, was quite ill several days the past week.

Wool in Bourbon county has been selling from 55 to 60 cents a pound.

Judge Gaines arrived home from Carrollton last Saturday afternoon.

Arthur Potts, 44, of Constance, died suddenly last Saturday morning.

The package contained hat pins, assorted buttons, hair pins, and a rubber. The evening was spent very pleasantly, and at a late hour all left, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Snyder many years of happy life together.

'RAH! 'RAH! 'RAH!

The local H. School had things its own way in the contests indulged in here last Friday afternoon. The spelling contest, the singing contest in which Burlington and Petersburg took part, the Belleview and Hebron schools failing to send representatives. Burlington won 1 to 0, the only victory. Burlington missed being "benefited" in the contest for the spelling contest, the spelling contest being held at Verona May 7th. Verona is now the possessor of the banner.

The spelling contest was followed by a game of base ball, between the local H. School team and the Lawrenceburg H. School team. Hogan was in the box for the local team and pitched some splendid ball and the visitors down without trouble for five innings when they began to find him and assisted by several errors on the part of Burlington, made a close game. The score, in the 7th inning 6 to 1 in favor of Burlington.

Friday week the Burlington team visited Lawrenceburg where the game was broken up by rain at the close of the fourth inning the score being 4 to 4. After the nine inning game was completed the tie game was played off last Friday, with the Burlington team being the home team, winning the game 7 to 6.

The Lawrenceburg team is composed of very gentlemanly young men and a pretty good manager, the Burlington agent, who is according to the defeat of Hughes because of a personal slight—real or imagined—in 1918.

Johnson is one of the worst losers in the history of American politics. If he is nominated at Chicago everything will be serene. If he is beaten, it will have been according to the maxim—the piratical and dishonest convention since the establishment of our Government.—Times-Star

JOHNSON A BAD LOOSER.

Johnson defeated Wood in the Michigan, Nebraska and Montana primaries. Wood and his managers took their medicine.

Wood defeated Johnson in New Jersey and Johnson was once again a howl of robbery and fraud. It is a new trick for Johnson. He charged dishonesty and crookedness every time anything went against him in 1912. He charged the defeat of Hughes because of a personal slight—real or imagined—in 1918.

HUBERT BACHELOR DEAD.

Hubert Bachelor, farmer, aged 40 years, 11 months and 12 days, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bachelor, who reside out on the Florence pike, died of pneumonia last Friday morning at his home three miles south of Burlington. He was taken violently ill the Sunday morning preceding and at no time was his condition improved. His wife, who was Miss Ada Seebree, and a little boy, survive him.

The funeral services were conducted at the residence last Sunday morning by Rev. Potts, of Union, the deceased being a member of Gunpowder Baptist church. He was also a member of the Grand Hall Lodge of Modern Woodmen, and Fowler Lodge of Odd-Fellows, of Union, each of which orders performed a burial ceremony over the remains of the deceased brother.

The remains, in charge of Undertaker Philip Tallaferr, of Erlanger, were brought to the Odd-Fellows cemetery at Burlington, where they were interred in the presence of a very large crowd of the neighbors and friends who had assembled to pay their last tribute of respect to the departed.

Mr. Bachelor was a most excellent neighbor, a kind husband and a devoted father. He was greatly missed in the community where he had spent the most of his life. The bereaved wife and children are to be commiserated and father have the sympathy of all.

FRED PFALZGRAF.

Fred Pfalzgraf, of Idlewild, died last Thursday afternoon of a kidney trouble. He was in his 74th year, was born in France, and came to this country with his parents at the age of 5 years. The family resided in Cincinnati for a time and then moved to Lawrenceburg, Ind., where it became an important factor in the life of the town. Mr. Pfalzgraf became a citizen of Idlewild, this county, 41 years ago, where he owned a brick smith shop and a farm so long as his health would permit of his doing that kind of work. He was a very self-reliant man in the community and a man of high character. He was thoroughly honest and upright in all his dealings with his fellowman and his word he regarded as his bond. He was a member of the Baptist church, having joined during a revival at Billitsburg conducted by Rev. James A. Kirtley. The funeral services were held at the residence last Saturday morning, after which the remains were taken to Lawrenceburg, Indiana, where they were interred in the family lot in Greendale cemetery. Mr. Pfalzgraf is survived by his wife, one brother, Henry, and two sons, George and Albert, who have the sympathy of a very large circle of acquaintances.

MRS. YELTON'S FUNERAL.

The remains of Mrs. M. A. Yelton, who died at the home of her son, Christ hospital, Cincinnati, on Wednesday morning of last week, were brought to her home here that afternoon. The funeral services were conducted at the local Baptist church, of which she was a member, Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. R. F. DeMoisy, of Erlanger, was conveyed to a family burying ground in Bracken county, where it was interred. Mrs. Yelton was the widow of Mr. Yelton's father, Mr. Dowd, and her two sisters, Mesdames Dowd and their husbands and her brother, Mr. Dowd, were present at the funeral. Dr. Yelton and his two little children have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

John F. Scott Dead.

John F. Scott, of Florence, died April 28th, after a lingering illness. Services were held Saturday May 1st, at St. Paul's church by Rev. Father Callahan. The funeral was held at St. Mary's cemetery. He was the son of Joseph Scott, and he is survived by his parents, three brothers and four sisters. The pall-bearers were L. E. O'Hara, Scott, Wm. Morris, Charles O'Hara.

Card of Thanks—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Scott and family wish to thank their friends and neighbors for their kindness in their sad hour.

Put in a New Boat.

Captain Geo. W. Terrill of Rock Hill, Ky., has purchased a new boat and placed it in the ferry traffic for passengers between this city and Hartmanns Landing. A larger boat for the transportation of wagons and automobiles will soon be placed in service—Lawrenceburg Press.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

Delegates to Louisville Instructed for Gov. James M. Cox. --- Congressman Rouse Endorsed.

The county Democratic convention held at the court house last Saturday afternoon, was attended by about 50 Democrats.

The convention was called to order by G. W. Tolin, county chairman, and Owen S. Watts, waselet chairman of the convention, and W. D. Cropper, secretary.

The following were appointed delegates to attend the State Democratic convention at Louisville, May 4th and instructed to vote for Cox delegates to the San Francisco convention:

R. B. Alphin, A. R. Johnson, Robt. Colman, O. K. Whitson, Hugh Voss, B. Respass, Clint Blankenship, R. W. Riley, Joe A. Huey, Wm. Wilson, C. L. Pinner, W. W. Grimsley, Joe Walton, C. G. Riddell, W. B. Arnold, John Maurer, B. H. Berkshire, M. F. Wingo, Wm. Stephens, S. H. Nunnally, E. J. Aylor, John Hogan, A. F. Milner, A. B. Rouse, Benj. H. Riley, B. B. Hume, F. H. Rouse.

The convention endorsed O. W. Wolf as delegate to the Central Committee, W. N. Hind, as member of the State Executive Committee, and S. B. Rouse, as delegate to the State Convention at Warren.

The following resolutions were adopted by the convention: We, the Democrats of Boone county, Kentucky, in convention assembled, most heartily endorse the national Democratic administration and believe the course taken by our President to be patriotic and wise.

This, the sixth Congressional District has been and is now faithfully represented by the Hon. A. B. Rouse, and we the Democrats of the county of his residence, are deeply interested in his health and at all times had the interest of this district at heart and has let nothing swerve him from his duty to his constituents.

DIXIE HIGHWAY MAY BE BUILT BY GOVERNMENT.

There is a general feeling among those who are in a position to know about the matter, that the Dixie Highway is to be constructed by the U. S. Government at no distant date. Provisions for the construction of this and similar national highways are made in the annual appropriations. Under the act providing for such construction the counties through which such highways pass would not be required to expend any money, but the State would be expected to join hands with the government. It has been demonstrated that the Dixie Highway will be a great benefit to the country through which it passes, even with state aid, but if the state and government combine forces, we may expect to see a concrete road which will be a source of pride as well as convenience. The government and state aid plan would also connect the highway with incorporated towns of this class.

The news that the U. S. Government will join the State in building the Dixie Highway is welcome news if true. It has been pretty well demonstrated that the counties through which the highway traverses are in the strongest financial position to bear their part of the burden of constructing it.

The national government takes a hand in the matter the road will be constructed as it should be and will be a benefit to the country. The matter, the general belief is that the national government is going to assist the State in doing the work. However, the Fiscal Court of this county has decided to make an appropriation of $20,000 with which to build things going. This was decided on before it was learned that the national government would take a hand.

Notwithstanding the fact that most of the highway between Cincinnati and Lexington is in a very poor condition, there is no let up in the amount of travel. Hundreds of touring cars, heavily loaded trucks and motor cars of all descriptions pass over the road daily. For many years a part of them are cars in transit and traveling to distant parts.

The highway is used by more people than by those who live inside it. Specialized drive foot McCormick mowing machine this week. The L. Kirkpatrick, Burlington. Other pieces of farm machinery accordingly.

Can't See Anything Startling.

We cannot see anything startling in the capabilities of the several presidential candidates. But one thing we do know that is the favorite sons on both sides are being well presented. We receive an arm-load of their propaganda on every mail. The "copy" is all gotten up in good shape to use the vocabulary of the printshop. But what a poverty of material is displayed in the timber that has so far sprouted in the campaign! Propaganda, the mighty weapon that won the war, is being perverted in parading the vanities of men who have "axes to grind." All that is necessary when a man decides to run for president these days is to employ a press agent, establish a bureau, and prepare the public to be shocked. The Outlook has issued an iron-clad bust order on all forms of propaganda, from presidential candidates on down. W. S. R. the presidential race is the negro did when the showman wanted him to capture the escaped tiger—"It's a wonder I had chance for some one!"—Pendleton.

FARM BUREAU

A Sound and Conservative Organization Along Right Lines.

The Farm Bureau is thoroughly sound in principle and is being organized along conservative lines for right purposes. An organization of this character is calculated to live and exist in a permanent good. The great farming population of this country has never been organized sufficiently to protect their interests and many efforts with this end in view have failed because the founders of such organizations have undertaken too many things.

The Farm Bureau is genuinely American and has no room for red radicalism, force or anarchy. It matters not about a man's race, color or religion, but his ability to contribute to the welfare of the American and the United States first. The organization is strictly non-partisan and welcomes every unselfish and patriotic man and woman, sincerely interested in agriculture, to join its ranks, and help the farmers of the country in their righteous fight for justice and fair play.

The purposes of the Farm Bureau are to improve farming conditions and to bring prosperity to the farmer by a constructive and active and convenient living to rural communities; to encourage industry and thrift; to weed out profiteering; to maintain the present general level of prices for farm products by judicious marketing and thru community selling; to prohibit unjust and fair laws the buying and selling of farm products by unjust gain and profiteering; and where it is necessary to protect against profiteering, to engage in community buying, but in no event to attempt to finance or operate a store or other business; to cooperate with other organizations similarly striving towards the betterment of the farmer and his family.

The Farm Bureau cannot fail to accomplish great good and will amply justify the kindred interests and weld them into a powerful organization against the wrong doer and for the perfect success of the farmer and his family. Bardonia, Ky., Standard.

CONGRESS TO BLAME FOR SUGAR SHORTAGE

Washington. — Failure of the Government to buy the Cuban sugar crop last year at a low price was due to the "ignoring" by Congress of President Wilson's request for extension of the wartime legislation for controlling its distribution. Atty. General Palmer declared before the House Sugar Investigating Committee.

Appearing to defend his own action in permitting Louisiana growers to sell their sugar at a low price, a point of view, Palmer said he had "no regret or apology" for the attitude of the Department of Justice, which he asserted was "entirely correct" and based on what would have been charged for Louisiana sugar.

Farm in Family 115 Years.

The farm which Jerry Underhill sold to James W. Ryle, recently, had been in the Underhill family 115 years. Jerry's father, Rev. John Underhill, being the purchaser, after whom R. U. Underhill became its owner, and at the time he gave the property to his brother Jerry Underhill.

FARM LABOR SCARCE

Prices to Rise, Declares Federal Reserve Board.

Washington, April 29. — Reports from federal reserve agents throughout the country showed a marked tendency of prices to resume their upward movement, the Federal Reserve Board reported tonight in its summary of business conditions for April. But the board noted the hopeful sign, from the consumer's viewpoint of "anxiety concerning the overstrained situation resulting from excessively high prices and wages," which it believed forecast a slowing down in the skyrocketing of prices.

"While prices of necessities were obviously chargeable to increased production and to a large degree the board affirmed the belief that the already high costs of production were aggravated by the added expense of obtaining capital."

"While the agricultural outlook is less satisfactory than it was a month ago," the summary said, "and while the month has been a period of serious labor disturbances, especially in the transportation field, the activity of business has continued at a high level, and for products strong and with prices tending upward rather than downward."

"The export trade holds up in an unexpected degree and bank credit, although not materially larger in volume than at the opening of April, have had to follow the lead of the export trade in demand so that expansion at various points has taken the place of reductions effected at others."

The board viewed with some alarm the question of obtaining adequate labor for the farms. This question was considered the most difficult element of the whole labor situation. Farmers have been unable to obtain but half of the labor they need, Southern districts reported.

Unprecedented activity, with textile makers leading in capacity operation. In the shoe and leather field, however, a "mix of activity" exists, with some cases has resulted in a semi-stagnation, according to the reports.

Are Sugar Profiteers Immune?

As if in defiance of Government agents that have undertaken to investigate the sugar situation as it bears on the steady advance of prices, the American Sugar Refining Co. announces that another large refinery, 100,000 bags of raw sugar from Cuba, a total of approximately 25,000,000 pounds.

Announcement of the advance of price was accompanied by explanation that it was necessary because of the scarcity of raw sugar and the sharp competition of buyers for the export trade. And yet, the same day arrived at docks at New Orleans, where the American Company has large refineries, 100,000 bags of raw sugar from Cuba, a total of approximately 25,000,000 pounds.

With millions of pounds warehoused in New York and at other points, has the sugar situation become so desperate that the latest receipts from Cuba, and in the face of record imports in this year, there should be some hoarding of products by the sugar refiners? The Government can place a fulcrum to pry it out, so that consumers can have the use of it at more reasonable prices, than prevail. Latest available Department of Commerce statistics show that this year imports of sugar into the country will be close to 1,250,000,000 lbs., more than ever has before been imported in any other year. Still prices to the consumer are higher than ever known under like conditions of supplies.

Are the sugar profiteers immune? Is the distribution of these enormous supplies to be denied the people of the United States, even at exorbitant prices, to fatten the pockets of speculators and profiteers? Are these supplies to remain locked up by interested parties? The American people, who are the consumers, are the people to be blamed if they lose patience while a slow moving Government holds secret conferences with refiners, some of whom, at least, are in league with the speculators and profiteers? What amount of sacrifice and patience is required of the American people, while seemingly indulgent consideration is shown the promoters of this "corner" in one of the necessities of life?—Inquirer

Wool Committee Appointed.

The wool pooling committee met in Burlington, last Monday, and appointed the following persons as members of the committee: L. T. Clark, J. H. Stevenson, C. E. Belinger and J. H. Stevens.

Present indications are that the price for which the wool will sell this year will not be so large as that of 1919. Some have suggested that the pooled crop will be sold for a price higher than the price may be better later on.

Asked to Build Bridges.

A delegation of citizens from the Ellison precinct was here Monday appealing to the Fiscal Court for the construction of a bridge over Ten Mile Creek above Ellison. They assert that a bridge at that point would be a great convenience as the road is a much traveled one and two mail routes cross the creek at that point. Another delegation from near Crittenden submitted a proposition for the construction of a bridge across Bullcock Pen Creek on the Crittenden & Verona pike. One-half of the cost of the proposed bridge would be paid by Boone county. Both projects were held up for further consideration.

THE GREATEST BARGAIN.

The greatest bargain in history was called the Louisiana Purchase and was negotiated in the administration of President Jefferson and in the reign of the first Napoleon.

The purchase more than doubled the area of the U. S. but nevertheless, there were a considerable number of Americans who suspected Napoleon of profiteering and denounced Jefferson as an easy mark. In fact, there was instituted among the New England states a definite movement of secession in protest against the purchase. Jefferson himself was not without misgivings, for $15,000,000 was a large amount of money in those days and the territory included in the purchase was then a vast wilderness with a population of but 40,000. The land had been ceded by Spain to Napoleon who planned to erect a great colonial empire, but he found himself obliged to sell out when pressed for ready money to carry on his wars with England and her allies. Some historians say that, besides the Revolution and the Civil War, the Louisiana Purchase is the greatest fact in American history. But there can be no doubt that it is the most profitable investment ever made by any nation, for the taxable wealth of the territory included in the purchase now is about 600 times the $15,000,000 the United States paid for the land.

Cynthiana, May 1.—Whisky valued at $6,000 was stolen from a warehouse of the Wigglesworth Brothers Co., Pointexter, 5 miles north of here, it was reported to the authorities.

Paducah, May 1.—L. D. Bacon, father of 11-year old Lulu Lee Bacon, expelled from school when she was 10 years old, to allow Miss Pansy Jenkins, health nurse, to examine her eyes for trachoma, has brought suit to enjoin school officials from interfering with her attendance upon Paducah Junior High School.

Louisville, May 2.—Leaders of churches and women's clubs and social workers here are engaged in a city-wide drive to induce residents of Louisville to join in a campaign to cut down the cost of living by curtailing reckless buying at high prices. Thousands have already joined and it is hoped eventually to enlist 200,000 persons.

Had Narrow Escape.

Morris Tucker, a well known farmer residing on the Milan pike, was seriously injured one evening last week. During the rain and lightning storm his barn caught fire and Mr. Tucker ran to the burning building to release his live stock. While attempting to drive one of his horses from the burning building the animal turned and kicked him in the stomach, rendering him helpless. Mrs. Tucker discovered her husband and dragged him out into the barnyard. The horse that kicked him ran out, and then rushed back into the fire, and was burned to death. The building and all of its contents was a total loss. —Lawrenceburg Press.

CHANDLER SIX

Famous For Its Marvelous Motor

See How Chandler Checks With High-Priced Cars

THE Chandler Six throughout its seven years of production has been distinguished for its many distinctively superior features of design and equipment which are used also on the highest priced American cars, and not used in any considerable degree by cars now priced hundreds of dollars higher than the Chandler. See, then, how the Chandler checks with ten of the best-known high-priced cars in these features selected as being characteristic of high-grade design and most efficient service.

Superior Chandler Features and the High-Priced Cars that use Them

ONE PIECE ALUMINUM MOTOR BASE, which ties the frame of the car together at four points, thus providing a stiffer frame as well as a more rigid motor mounting. Also used by Packard, Locomobile (Bronze), Mercer, Winton, Flat, Brewster, Stutz, Pierce-Arrow.

SILENT CHAIN DRIVE for Motor Shafts. Also used by Winton, Packard, Cadillac, Brewster, Flat, Mercer.

TORQUE ARM OR TUBE. Also used by Pierce-Arrow, Locomobile, Brewster, Winton, Cadillac, Packard, Stutz.

ANNULAR BALL-BEARING TRANSMISSION. Also used by Winton, Stutz, Pierce-Arrow, Brewster, Cadillac, Flat, Locomobile, Packard, Marmon.

ANNULAR BALL-BEARING DIFFERENTIAL. Also used by Marmon, Stutz, Pierce-Arrow, Flat, Brewster, Packard, Locomobile.

ANNULAR BALL-BEARING REAR WHEELS. Also used by Packard, Stutz, Locomobile, Marmon, Pierce-Arrow, Flat, Mercer.

HIGH TENSION MAGNETO IGNITION. Also used by Locomobile, Mercer, Flat, Brewster, Winton.

THEN, see how these seven cars—sixes which may be considered competitive to the Chandler—do NOT check

One car, listing at $2975, checks with Chandler in only one feature	One car, listing at $2195, checks with Chandler in only two features
One car, listing at $2685, checks with Chandler in only three features	One car, listing at $2045, checks with Chandler in only two features
One car, listing at $2400, checks with Chandler in only one feature	One car, listing at $1945, checks with Chandler in only one feature
One car, listing at $2250, does not check with Chandler in any feature

Not a single one of the seven makes of medium-priced Sixes referred to offers you High Tension Magneto Ignition. The Chandler offers you Bosch, recognized the world over as the best ignition system. Only one of them offers you the silent chain drive, although another one of them in its higher-priced model ($3450), incorporates this feature.

These Statements are Facts and they Give You a Few of the Reasons for Chandler Leadership
 The specification data quoted is substantiated, in every instance, by the manufacturers of the cars referred to.

Ten miles used to be a long way

WHAT a difference in these motor-car days, when every point in the county is hardly more than "just around the corner."

People's ideas are changing, too.

They're beginning to figure out how much it is costing them to keep a car. And the man who is doing the greatest amount of figuring is the man with the moderate-price car.

II

There still seems to be a notion in some quarters that any tire is good enough for a small car.

That's not what the man who owns it thinks.

In recommending and selling U. S. Tires we are trying to see his side of the proposition—finding out what he wants in a tire and giving him that.

III

Large or small, U. S. Tires are built to only one standard of quality—the standard that produced the first straight side automobile tire, the first pneumatic truck tire.

Every tire that bears the name "U. S." is built the best way its makers know how. It isn't the car, but the man who owns the car, that counts with the oldest and largest rubber concern in the world.

IV

As representatives of U. S. Tires in this town, we offer you the benefit of our experience and advice in settling your tire problem.

Select your tires according to the roads they have to travel:

In sandy or hilly country, wherever the going is apt to be heavy—The U. S. Nobby.

For ordinary country roads—The U. S. Chain or Usco.

For front wheels—The U. S. Plain.

For best results—everywhere—U. S. Royal Cords.

MONEY SITUATION TIGHTER.

The money situation in Scott county has "tightened" considerably since March 1, according to a local bank official, who declares that the proceeds of Scott tobacco crops have been almost entirely absorbed by land purchases and the high cost of living. The announcement by the Federal Reserve Board to call in a large amount of currency will "tighten" the money situation here even more.

Because tobacco is practically the only crop raised in the county enormous amounts of money are expended annually by Scott farmers for feed, and the largest portion of the receipts from feed sold here goes to wholesalers and commission merchants in other cities, the banker said. Even potatoes have been shipped and sold here in enormous quantities, merchants say, and a great deal of money has left the county from this source.

There was plenty of money in the county during the months of December, January and February, but bankers say that the largest part of this money has been expended by purchasers of land. Most of the Scott people who sold their farms bought other land at higher prices, Georgetown Times.

LERMAN'S Quit Business Sale

Only a few more days then--Curtains.

We've still about $4,000.00 worth of good seasonable merchandise to sell and will surely do it if cutting the prices to the bone can bring it about. All thought of profit has been put aside in this determined effort to close out completely. You can make big savings on Shoes, Shirts, Underwear, Sweater Coats, Men's Suits, Women's House Dresses, and Children's Dresses; also Piece Goods, Notions, Hosiery and especially on broken lots of many lines.

DON'T WAIT--ACTION IS NECESSARY.

as the sale will soon come to a close.
